Dissolve one-quarter of a box of gelatine powder in a quarter of a cupful of cold water. Chill and whip one pint of heavy cream to a stiff froth. Set the bowl of cream in ice-water. Sift over the cream a quarter of a cupful of powdered sugar, and add a teaspoonful of vanilla flavoring and a teaspoonful of pineapple juice. Add a quarter cupful of boiling water to the gelatine, and when melted, strain it into the cream and beat rapidly. When the cream is quite stiff, turn it into a mold and set away to cool. The mold should have been lined on the sides with lady fingers, pulled apart, lightly smeared with some light-colored jelly to hold them in position. This is an old colonial recipe.

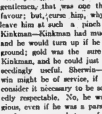
SHORT STORIES FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

"A Good Turn Daily"

"C'mon, Doug, let's go do a good turn for some one. You know your boy scout pledge says we must do one every day. We might as well make a business of it."

"All right," Douglas agreed. "Let's do half a dozen nice things to-day, and then we won't have to worry about doing them the rest of the week."

"Where are you boys going?" their mother called as they went out the door. "You know I won't have you crack those hickory nuts for the cake."



"We can't now," the twins called back. "We've got to go and do something nice for some one."

"Where'll we go?" asked Douglas, as the twosome's feet had barely entered Donald. "We could take 'em flowers."

"But where'll we get the flowers?"

Here Donald's list of brilliant ideas gave out. "I don't know," he said lamely. "If it was summer we could easily swipe some of Miss Susan's. Say! You know she has oodles and oodles of those flowers, that grow out of bulbs in her sun porch on the side of her house. Maybe she'd give up one of those if we'd ask her."

The twins noisily trudged up on Miss Susan's immaculate porch. "Say—say," Donald stuttered, as the cross-looking spinster opened the door. "We thought maybe you'd like us to take some of your pretty flowers to the hospital." Without a word Miss Susan slammed the door in his face. The boys sat down on the porch dazedly. At last they sat there Miss Susan slammed the door in his face. The she paused then with never so much a glance in their direction.

"Say," said Donald, "look at all those lots and lots of little bulbs she has in that tray of pebbles. If I were Ck I'd rather have one of those that I could watch grow and bloom than a dozen of those withered just die."

"Oh, boy" Douglas almost shout ed. "I've got an idea!" Like a shot he tore across the street to their house and Donald watched him tumble in a the cellar window. He was back in a few minutes, pockets all bulging.

"What you got?" Don asked, as eyes answered by a shrug' what a shame," said his brother hurried past him. The outer door of the sun porch was not latched. In dashed Doug, and Don watched him quickly pulling up Miss Susan's lily bulbs and planting big fat onions in their places.

A little later the twins' mother had knocked at the hospital and presented a lily bulb to every patient. "Boy," said Donald, "this is going to be a done enough kind deeds to last a month."

"Yeh, we can take things easy now," aagreed his brother. "Let's go home and crack those hickory nuts for mother!"

LINKED LIVES

D. Kinmount Roy

Baldt it was impossible to have pati- ence with such men! Still, he had been a pleasant, fellow enough when they were young together, and he was a gentleman, that was one thing in his favour; but, curse him, why did he leave him at such a pass as that? Kinkman—Kinkman had much to gain, and he would turn up if he was above ground; and he was sure to have left Kinkman, and he could just now be exceedingly useful. Sherwin—yes, Sherwin was of service, if he did not consider it necessary to be so confoundedly respectable. No, he was not reliable, even if he was a parson! Hardcastle was somewhat comforted when he remembered Sherwin's easy way of looking at life. Of all things, religion was hateful to the Squire; the mention of it made him gnash his teeth in a way of dumb fury. It appeared to be lurking in explanation, for any large success; it imposed obligations, and fettered a man's liberty in dealing with his property or his employees in an absurd and intolerable manner.

It was this mood that Hardcastle started for Fosseway. In his rector there were no tender recollections which touched him; it was his property, not his home; he was the master, but he had little or no friend, and he expected in fitful gusts by the autumn winds, and the Hall came plainly into view three miles or more away.

Here and there a woodpecker drummed upon a tree, full of business and importance. The squirrels were busy in fitful gusts by the autumn winds, and the Hall came plainly into view three miles or more away.

He felt now, in some sort, of way, but hardly with regret. It was a fact to be recognized, not bewailed.

It was almost sundown when the carriage turned into the drive. The leaves had fallen from the elms and beeches in fitful gusts by the autumn winds, and the Hall came plainly into view three miles or more away.

Here and there a woodpecker drummed upon a tree, full of business and importance. The squirrels were busy in short flight. But the Squire was too much occupied with his own affairs to take interest in the chairs of birds and beasts. He was impatient to reach the Hall, and leaning out of the carriage he gave them instructions how to shorten the way by about a mile. The short cut led them across the Long Walk, and at the spot where the unfortunate woman was murdered so many years ago.

Did the master of Fosseway forget when he gave orders to drive that way, or did he do it in bravado, throwing down the gauntlet to Fate after the manner of the old-time Eric Hardcastle? If the latter, Fate seemed to take him at his word, for as he crossed the walk MacAlpin, the young Glen-

"Dr. Chase's Ointment has completely relieved me of eczema and also. I have used this Ointment for my baby, who broke out in eczema. A few applications were all that was necessary in her case. Dr. Chase's Ointment has been worth a hundred dollars to me—before using it I had spent a great deal more than that in unsuccessful treatment from doctors. First Steps in Acting

Building Furniture For Your Play

(Mr. George Brown, for many years with the Orpheum vaudeville circuit, and stage manager of the Majestic Theatre in Chicago, tells here in a few simple and inexpensive ways to make stage furniture.

All the furniture, the stumps of trees, the telephones, and other articles used on the stage during your play are called "properties." It is very important that you have all properties to fit in with the play. It would not do to have a pen holder and pen, which are really modern inventions, in an historical play of the 18th century. Quill pens and sand would be the correct properties for a play of this kind.

So it is important that some one be selected to take care of and supply all the properties as you are rehearsing your play. Suppose you are in need of a table or chair. It is easy to make. Fasten two small vinegar barrels together, and cover them with green burlap that will take the place of moss and bark, or with gray burlap and gray lichens. The next trip you make to the woods, select the white spots on trees that are on! lichens You can peel them off and fasten them to the burlap with glue. And the best part of your fallen tree is that it can be used again and again.

Take a white cardboard shoe box, cut it down a little, and cover it with black tissue paper. Next remove it with a knife a narrow strip on each side. Over each of these paste a strip of yellow tissue paper. Behold a lantern for a Minute Man, or Paul Revere, or any one else who wants to

There are so many things a handy boy can do and that is why it is important that you pick a boy for your property map who is clever with tools.

SCOTLAND YARD OFFICIAL TALKS AT TORONTO

Sir Basil Thompson Says Crime Exists in the States—Too Much Leniency

Review of Conditions

European Situation Discussed—His Opinion of Prohibition—Ku Klux Klan and Irish Trouble

Sir Basil Thompson, one of the world's noted criminologists, is on his first visit to Toronto. He strikes the observer as a man who means business. For the past 25 years he has been in almost constant contact with the criminal classes, during which time he has made an interesting study of many of crime's phases.

As director of the Criminal Investigation Branch of Scotland Yard, he knows much of the inwardness of State affairs and has intimate knowledge of the trend of world affairs not only in Great Britain, but throughout the world. He was governor of Dartmoor prison for five years, governor of Wormwood Scrubs, in London, for two years, and secretary of the Prison Commission for five years. Sir Basil is also a member of the international Penitentiary Commission, representing Great Britain, and it has been due to his recommendations that penal institutions have been brought to their present state of efficiency, under a more humane and scientific system.

Sir Basil talks of places in France and Germany, Italy, India and the United States with a familiarity becoming the student of crime, when he says: "I was in Woolstock the other day, and met so-and-so." He was in Geneva for a week, that is to meet a certain official, or in France and met a certain gentleman there. He is a linguist of note and his conversation, even in ordinary channels, is of a highly entertaining character.

Why He Resigned.

At the King Edward, while talking of the different official positions he had filled, Sir Basil mentioned being Chief Intelligence Officer to the Cabinet in England. A broad smile came over his face when the reporter referred to the debate in the House of Commons.

"Why," he said, "there was a debate."

Was that the reason for your resignation as Chief of the Special Branch of Scotland Yard?" he was asked.

"No, not altogether. The real reason was that I did not see eye to eye with Lloyd George, who wanted to recognize Russia."

This, he explained could not be done at any nation on earth, and from his knowledge as a Secret Service agent of the Government, he knew that the Government of Russia did not, does not and will not represent the Russian people, as it existed then and now. The condition, he says, is the result of leaving the middle class in Russia, and the illiteracy of the peasantry.

How About Germany?

Speaking of the present visit to Berlin and other German centres, Sir Basil said that the advance of the French army was followed with a great deal of favor. The Germany of today and the Germany of the days before the war are two different peoples. Coal, he said, could not be taken into the city of Berlin from England and the people were looked for a real famine in the German capital within a few days. This would be attended, he thought, with anything but welcome conditions.

"The gullible class in Germany," he said, "are really the people who are suffering the most, and the people on fixed salaries. The workman is much better off. Under recent legislation the dismissal of workmen is forbidden. The rise and fall of the mark does not mean anything to the German workman. There are 50,000 men employed at Essen, who cannot be dismissed. When the mark goes down, wages go up."

These Responsible.

The present condition of Germany was the result of three groups of the populace. The extreme right—junkers, the majority Socialists and the Communists. The last thing that could happen Germany would be to keep the present government in power for as long as possible, as any event the possibility of a conflict between the elements, some of which were "Red", became noncardinal and some socialistic.

The restoration of Belgium was taking place at a greater pace than in France, and many of the historic places destroyed by the Germans were to be put up in exactly the same manner to the outrages of Germany upon her Christian neighbors.

"How would you classify the criminality inclined?" he was asked. "Are Canadians worse than others?"

"No," he said, "I would say that among English-speaking criminals Australians are the worst, the most desperate and the cruel.

"The increase in crime is in the United states the result of the use of the long gun possibly, a weapon which

DIVINITY OF CHRIST DENIED BY N.Y. PASTOR

Consecration of Churches is Survival of Age of Witchcraft and Magic

New York, Jan. 15.—In a sermon before his congregation in the Church of the Ascension, Fifth avenue and Tenth street, today, Dr. Percy Stickney Grant, outspokenly declared that few clergymen educated in the science accepted the idea that Jesus had the power of God, that the consecration of churches was a survival of the "age of witchcraft, magic and taboo", and is opposed to the emancipation of the mind.

The sacredness of marriage and the other sacraments, Dr. Grant told his congregation, came not from the priests, "who have no power to make marriage more than it is," but from its essential characteristics which have to do with the lives of the people involved and cannot be preserved as something independent of their feeling, will and behaviour."

The educated classes do not accept the possession of "ridiculous consecration because they do not accept the powers of the priesthood, while the clergy, he said, largely recruited from the uninstellectual, "who are credulous of the miraculous character of the mission."

"Shall we consecrate churches?" Dr. Grant asked.

"No."

"First, the idea is inherited from the age of witchcraft, magic and taboo. What we are after today is mental emancipation. If our minds are facing with certain directions as those which call for the consecration of a church, we lose just so much mental power for devotion to the realities of today.

"Second, consecration limits the usefulness of the church to the community. It is a great economic waste. According to reliable statistics the waste in the United States is $150,000,000 a year. To limit the usefulness of the church is to add to this inestimable waste.

"This sermon is not an attack upon anyone or anything. It is a straightforward talk in the interest of economy and social welfare.

"There are 234,000 churches, synagogues, etc., in the United States. They represent three billion dollars in tax-exempt property.

"In return for such a remission of taxes on three billion dollars worth of property the 234,000 churches are expected to be of as much use as possible to the community. In many villages the church is the only public building or meeting place. In many places there is no town hall, no movie theatre, no firemen's hall."

UNITED STATES SENATORS WAIL ABOUT BRITAIN

Fears John Bull Will Settle Debt Too Soon

Immense Toll From Rubber May be Able to Square Accounts in Eight Years

Washington, Jan. 15.—By reason of its crude rubber resources Great Britain will be enabled to pay the $1,800,000,000 war debt to the United States in a decade at the expense of American automobile owners and other rubber consumers, according to Senator Medill McCormick (Republican, Illinois).

The senator submitted to the senate a commerce department ruling declaring the new British export duties on crude rubber given in the Malaysian states. The duties, it stated, rise from 8 cents a pound on exports between 60 and 65 per cent. of the 1920 volume of production to 34 cents on exports in excess of 100 per cent.

SQUARE IN EIGHT YEARS.

The cost of crude rubber already has nearly doubled as a result of the British export duties, and the price of automobile tires has advanced about 50 by within the last month. Tires and other rubber articles are going to cost United States consumers, Senator McCormick estimated, from $300,000,000 to $600,000,000 a year more than hitherto. As the latter figure is British and the senator, would take a toll from United States consumers alone sufficient to discharge their debt in about eight years.

TO DISCUSS PLANS.

Specific plans for the refunding of the British debt will be discussed at the meeting of the British and United States commissions today. The plan eventually agreed upon by the two governments will constitute a model for the treaty extended to France, Italy and other debtors.

When the agreement is reached President Harding will go before congress and ask legislation liberalizing the debt-refunding law sufficiently to legalize the plan. If no great opposition develops it may be possible to obtain the legislation at this session, otherwise action will be postponed until the next congress meets.

FRUIT TAKEN FROM EGYPTIAN TOMBS

Visitors Saw Many Interesting Objects Removed by Explorers

London, Egypt, Jan. 15.—The numerous visitors had the advantage of a beautiful morning at Luxor to visit the Valley of the Kings, and watch Howard Carter remove several interesting objects from the tomb of Tutankhamen.

A number of stools of different designs were taken out, including one lovely ebony stool inlaid with ivory, which brought a vision of ancient hunting and fighting scenes. Two wooden boxes were then brought out and two alabaster, decidedly Tutankhamen was musically inclined, as it is unlikely they would be placed among his furniture if he did not have an affection for them.

An exquisite alabaster vase followed, and then came perhaps the most interesting objects of all. On one stretcher Mr. Carter brought out a curious basket containing fruit and a white box shaped like a huge easter egg containing a hunch of venison, game, fish, the sustenance of the king in the next world.

Finally came those exquisite bouquets of flowers, which were wonderfully preserved in the hermetically sealed atmosphere of the tomb that traces of the greenery remain among the lifeless stems after 3,500 years.

MOTHER! MOVE CHILD'S BOWELS

"California Fig Syrup" is Child's Best Laxative

Tongue Shows If Bilious, Constipated

Hurry mothers! Even a cross, sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup" and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful to-day may prevent a sick child tomorrow. If constipated, bilious, feverish, fretful, has cold, colic, or if stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good cleansing of the little bowels is often all that is necessary.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 16.—The movement against the so-called "jazz" effect, to men's suits will be launched by the semi-annual convention of the International Association of clothing designers which opens here tomorrow.

The movement will be directed particularly against "toreador" trousers, coats with waistlines cut nearly to the armpits, coats resembling attire of the London coster with their profusion of buttons and coats with flaring skirts.

WOLVES THREATEN TO INVADE STATES

Hunger-Mad Packs Have Suddenly Presented a Serious Menace

New York, Jan 16.—North sections of the United States are threatened with invasion by packs of hungry mad wolves from Canada and untold damage is likely as a result of attacks on sheep and cattle, director W. T. Hornaday, of the New York declared today, after an intensive study of the alarming increase of gray timber wolves within the last few years.

The rapid increase in the number of grey, or timber, wolves, according to Director Hornaday, is due to present low raw fur prices. Two years ago, he said, wolf skins brought from $30 to $50 in New York, while today prices range from $5 to $15.

"Cuts in fur prices have checked the activity of trappers and Indian hunters in 'wiping out the packs,' he said.

Director Hornaday declared there had been many instances when hunters and trappers were attacked and in occasional instances, killed by marauding packs.

"Unless Government agencies combined efforts with cattle and sheep owners, and game wardens it various states to check the incoming hordes of wolves, serious losses will ensue," he concluded. "Lives are being endangered as well, as having been undisturbed for several years the packs have become more numer ous and more ferocious. It is time for action."

THE COLD WEATHER

Fifteen Out of 25 Days Have Been Snowy

More snow is predicted by the Weatherman, who seems to think January will keep up her record in that line. Since Dec. 31, the official beginning of winter, snow has been recorded on 15 days out of the month—26, but no records have been beaten.

Reaction to the mild weather Belleville has been enjoying is expected to-night, while tomorrow is forecasted to be decidedly cold. Warming, tied with the haughty White River Monday night, registering 30 degrees below, and all Manitoba is much colder.

Pressure is low over the Maritime Provinces and British Columbia, and a cold wave is centered in Manitoba. Snow has been general in Quebec and snow and rain in the Maritime Provinces. In the west the weather has been fair and in Manitoba much colder.

The morning in the city Mr. Fahrenheit said it was twelve below. The frost is causing considerable trouble with the telephone wires. Bell officials state that they have been called upon to attend to the country during the past day or two, to repair wires which have been snapped by the frost.

CITIES BORROW IN RECKLESS MANNER

Debts Out of Proportion to Population—Should Plan Budget Ahead — Limit Borrowing Powers

Ottawa, Jan. 17.—"Rigid economy will become good policies when a sufficient number of the people think it worth while to make it good politics."

This was the keynote of an address delivered Monday night at the annual meeting of the Ottawa board of trade, by Horace L. Brittain, director of the Citizens' Research Institute of Canada. His subject was Municipal Taxation Matters, and while he dealt also with the general question of all levies imposed by the various governing bodies, federal, provincial and municipal, he paid particular attention to municipal financial problems.

"The tendency of cities to borrow "in an unlimited way, without thought of where their reckless career of spending was leading," came in for sharp criticism by the speaker, who gave many instances where civic debts had piled up in the last few years out of all proportion to their increase in population.

He suggested limiting the authority of a municipality to borrow to a certain amount per capita of population, and also the planning of all capital outlay at the time the civic budget was drawn up. The civic estimates, he urged, should be drawn up in the latter part of the year, so that several months of the new year would not be without any control of expenditure by estimates.

MASQUERADE CARNIVAL AT STATION STREET SKATING RINK

Large Attendance of City Folk in Variegated Costumes — Prizes Awarded in the Competition

Last evening a carnival was held at Simpson's Station street rink. It is roughly estimated that about sixty were present in costume, as well as one hundred in civilian attire. One special feature of the event was the presence of seven little girls in crepe paper costumes representing queens. There was a large attendance of non-skaters also. The rink was beautifully decorated with flags, bunting and lights which added to the attractiveness of the festive scene. The judges, who were Major Chas. Hanna, Ald. Harry Thompson and Mr. Edward Brown, had no easy task in awarding the prizes, but after some deliberation considered the following to be the winners:

Ladies' Costumes
Daisy Simpson—Fairy.
Ennis Kelly—Old Fashioned Man.
C. Flagler—Dutchman.
Vera Shoebridge—Dutch Girl.
E. Finnegan—Old Fashioned Gentleman.

Gentlemen's Costumes.
D. McGrath—Indian.

LIONS CLUB HOLD REGULAR LUNCHEON

Met To-day Noon in Chamber of Commerce Building—Club O'Flynn Supplied Delicious Duck

Today at the Chamber of Commerce Building the Lions' Club held their weekly luncheon and nearly every member was there to do ample justice to the splendid spread catered by the New Queen's Hotel, under the direction of Prince Hunt Co. Powers. The duck furnished was supplied by Club "Ed." O'Flynn, who was present to help do honor with it, but was detained at the last minute and not stoned. During the meal some excellent music was supplied by Al. Wilson and one of his satellites. After everything had been devoured from the club's short table Club Pres. Club (Dr. Norm) Neilson called for order. He quoted instances of institutions, and factories where there was practically no sickness, and upon investigation of their diet it was found that they lived mainly on milk, cream, fresh fruit, vegetables and wheat foods. He said those who ate heavy meals three times a day with a lot of sweets were encouraging old age diseases such as heart trouble, arterial sorosis and other diseases from which they were forty years old. In conclusion the Doctor advised everyone to eat lots of fresh fruit, vegetables, eggs, milk, and whole wheat. He also informed the members that white bread was found not to be as perfect a food as some people considered it. A hearty vote of thanks was moved to Club Neilson by Club Steve Lucas and seconded by Raymond Harris. On motion of Club Charlie Hanna, seconded by Club "Cal" O'Flynn, the city council will be petitioned to open up the same streets as used last year for the children, for skiing. A vote of thanks was also tendered to Club O'Flynn for the duck supplied. Ed. in responding said that the Lions were welcome to the fowl as he would not have donated same if he had not so desired.

DEBT COMMISSION REACHES THE CLIMAX

(Canadian Press Despatch.)
Washington, Jan. 17.—The British and American debt commission have reached a point in their negotiations where it virtually is agreed that no further progress can be made until the British Commissioners have returned to London and conferred with their Government.

COAL OPERATORS IN RUHR ARE FIRM IN RESOLVE REGARDING DELIVERIES

TO REQUISITION GERMAN LABOR FOR MINES

Mine Owners Defiant and Refuse to Take Orders From French—Will be Penalized For This Attitude—Berlin Orders Predominate

INDUSTRIAL LEADERS UNDER ARREST

Teutonic Government Will Expel French Civilians—Economic Conditions Aggravated This Plan—France Will Endeavor to Operate Mines

Duesseldorf, Jan. 17.—It was officially announced by General Degoutte this afternoon that military operations in the Ruhr occupation are now completely finished.

The French occupational authorities announced this afternoon that they will begin operating the mines of the Ruhr district tomorrow, requisitioning German labor if necessary. The Ruhr coal and industrial magnates who refused to co-operate with the French will be prosecuted before court-martial.

COAL MAGNATES OBEY BERLIN

Duesseldorf, Jan. 17.—Representatives of German magnates failed to appear this morning before the Control Commission, sending word that they had decided to obey instructions of the Berlin Government instead of the French orders as to coal deliveries, thus placing the next move squarely up to the French occupying authorities. It is not expected that any action will be taken by the French until four o'clock this afternoon when the ultimatum delivered to the Germans yesterday expires.

GERMANS WILLING TO BE JAILED

Duesseldorf, Jan. 17.—The Ruhr Valley Coal Operators had before them to-day the ultimatum of the French that if the coal deliveries were not resumed this morning by the military authorities would take such measures as were deemed necessary.

The attitude of the magnates seemed to be epitomized in a remark made by Herr Thomas, the representative of the Stinnes' interests. He said "We are perfectly willing to go to jail, but under no conditions shall we resume deliveries."

LEADERS UNDER ARREST

London, Jan. 17.—The Berlin Government has decided to expel all French civilians from Germany and establish practically a state of war against France, aside from fighting, according to a despatch to The Daily Express from the German Capital.

The Times' Duesseldorf correspondent says that from an economic point the situation in the Ruhr is decidedly worse. German determination is hardening, and the irritation of the population is increasing. Officials state food prices have risen fifty per cent. since the occupation, and the requisitioning of hay, straw and gasoline is causing great hardship.

The Times' correspondent interviewed some of the industrial leaders who attended to-day's meeting with the French, and they were emphatic in declaring that nothing would induce them to change their attitude or consider resumption of reparations deliveries while the Franco-Belgian troops were in the Ruhr.

French Are Ready.

It was affirmed in official circles tonight that the French Government has an instant counter-move ready, for any move the Reich may make. All arrangements have been made to reply by appropriate measure to German menaces, whether they concern questions of labor, fuel supplies or transportation. For instance, General Payot, director of communications, has given signs to defeat the German plan to deprive the Ruhr basin of rolling stock, which the Germans have just begun to put into operation.

The commission of control has discovered that the rolling stock has not been collected for the past three months, enabling German industry to carry on almost entirely as under the world prices and measures have been taken to stop this.

Situation Critical.

Essen, Jan. 17.—The deadlock involving the complete breakdown of all negotiations in the economic field between the French occupying authorities and the German magnates in the Ruhr is creating a critical situation, which the French will meet tomorrow with penalties, military, economic and financial. The exact nature of the penalties the French general staff refuses to disclose, saying that instructions from Paris are being waited. In the meantime the military occupation of Bochum and Gelsenkirchen has been completed according to plan.

Essen, Jan. 18.—The refusal of German operators of routine sending coal to France, under any conditions probably precedes industrial violence.

DEMENTED MAN'S PLAN FOILED BY SON'S ALERTNESS

Hackwood's Wife and Children Escape From Burning—Father Died To-day From Self Inflicted Wounds

Welland, Jan. 16.—James Hackwood, a farmer living two miles from Fonthill, attempted suicide under dramatic circumstances early this morning. Hackwood set fire in a critical condition in the hospital here with his throat gashed and slashes across his arms.

Hackwood, a returned soldier, 50 years of age, set fire to his barn and home, both of which were completely destroyed. His family of a wife and six children were upstairs in the house but managed to escape. The oldest son, suspecting his father, jumped from an upper storey window and made his way to a neighbor's home for help over the barn was already a sheet of flame, but the house was not sufficiently alight to prevent access of the family.

Hackwood was found lying near the garage, bleeding profusely and unconscious. It was thought that he was dead and he was taken to the undertakers at Fonthill. A spark of life remained and a doctor was first sent for. He was rushed to Welland hospital, where an operation was performed, but his recovery is very doubtful.

From what could be learned it appears that Hackwood, who had been acting strangely, quarrelled with his son last night. He had frequent family quarrels. Apparently last night he had thrown all around the barn and it was found that he had been working in the kitchen with his razor after he left the barn, when the son awoke and, suspecting mischief, fled to give the alarm. The self-inflicting early probably averted a gruesome tragedy.

Welland, Jan. 17.—James Hackwood, the Fonthill farmer who carved out his throat with a razor yesterday morning after setting fire to his house and barn while his family were in bed died early this morning at the County Hospital

$10,000 Worth of Hooch Safely Tucked Away—Electrical Liquor at Hamilton.

Lieuas Inspector James Bleakley, of Hamilton, received a sleuth shock yesterday afternoon when he opened four packing cases ostensibly labelled "Electrical goods." The cases contained nice Scotch whiskey.

The haul was one of the largest yet made by the department, and several hundred bottles were seized.

About 2.30 yesterday afternoon the inspector, accompanied by Provincial Constable Robert Jones, paid a visit to the Grand Trunk freight sheds on Ferguson avenue north.

Two large packing cases marked "Electrical goods," first attracted the inspector's attention. Prying the lid of one of the heavy boxes open he found rows and rows of whiskey bottles packed as neatly as sardines. The whiskey was of the very highest quality, bearing such familiar labels as "Black and White," King George" and "Sandy McDonald". The bottles were carefully packed in cardboard cartons.

The four cases were billed to a Hamilton storage plant from Montreal and all charges were prepaid.

The weight of the shipment was about 1,500 pounds, and required the services of eight husky freight handlers to move them.

The shipment is valued at nearly $10,000, and is now safely under lock and key at the local dispensary.

TRENTON NEWS

Interesting Items From This Busy Town

Mr. Geo. Parry of the local staff of the Railway Mail Clerks and ex-member of the C.E.F., is in Ottawa today for examination before the Pension Board.

A good percentage of Rotarians were present at their regular weekly luncheon. In fact a few who have not been very regular in attendance were present and several items of business were attended to. A committee was named at the speaker for two weeks hence, when the luncheon will be held into the evening, and all friends will be specially welcomed. The question of providing out skating rink a peak of free skating for the kiddies was raised by Rotarian Tom Flewett and referred to the Council for action, which, we believe will be carried out. A committee was appointed to make all arrangements for the "Go to Toronto" convention in connection with the district meeting which will be held about the second week in March.

Mr. R. A. Rea with some of his colleagues are in town again this week in connection with the Dominion Combing Mills. We understand on good authority that the mills will be operating on a small scale at least in about two weeks time.

Gross church Sunday school held a skating party at the rink last night.

Trenton Horticultural Society held their annual meeting last night at the Town Hall when all reports for the year just ended were given and showed a balance of over $300.00 with which to start the new year's work. A large and representative attendance was on hand and the meeting was very enthusiastic for a good year. All last year's officers were re-elected.

A very interesting meeting was held at King Street church last night when the Young People's League gave the program, in which Mr. C. R. Wright of the Canadian Pyro, Ltd., featured with a very instructive address on the subject of "Coal Dust to Dyes" or when by told byes dye stuff is produced from the by-products of coal tar. Mr. Wright is an expert in this line, having been connected during the war with some of the largest chemical companies on the American continent. In his laboratory in connection with the Canadian Pyro, Mr. Wright has produced certain dyes for which, for fast colors, there is no equal either in Canada or the States. Mr. Wright will attend to the chemistry students of some of our universities, and also writes articles for some of the leading chemical journals in this country and United States. Canadian Pyro, Ltd., possess a very complete laboratory for the manufacturing of their products.

We learn with a great deal of interest that Mr. Wright will give an address before the Rotary Club next Monday on a subject with which he is familiar.

"We plan to make America once more the home of the man and the land of the free," the labor leader declared, following an all-day conference with the board members, who represent every section of the United States and Canada.

TRESSES OF ANCIENT QUEEN SEE LIGHT

Were in Alabaster Box Removed From Egyptian Tomb Now Grey with Age

BIG CROWDS AT LUXOR

Chariot Wheel and Ebony Box Removed From the Royal Burial Place—Studded With precious Stones

Luxor, Egypt, January 15.—If Howard Carter had prepared for years he would have been unable to preach a more eloquent or moving sermon on the impermanency of the individual than he did unconsciously in the Valley of the Kings this morning.

It was a glorious day, warm and translucently clear. There was no abnormally large crowd near Tutankhamen's tomb, composed of visitors from the Luxor hotels and passengers from the steamers and private dahabeahs stopping at Luxor.

Soon after 11 o'clock they were rewarded by the sight of the priests of the Tutankhamen dynasty. The fact that even the wheels were studded with the finest gems known to the Egyptian goldsmiths interested the Americans; but many of them were out spoken on the subject of Pharaoh's selfishness in piling a fortune on the hub of his chariot wheels while hundreds of thousands of his subjects were dying of starvation and the flogging of his overseers' whips.

The next object brought out was an ebony chest richly inlaid with ivory. As the experts have not examined it closely yet, it is difficult to say what was its exact purpose. It is a piece of superb workmanship, but less impressive than Tutankhamen's throne, which was removed yesterday. It is possible that the chair was used in Pharaoh's private apartments, or perhaps it was a state chair for a child, or, again, possibly it was used to seat visiting royalty near Tutankhamen at state functions.

The message of the chariot wheels and the chair was plain; they showed that Tutankhamen loved amid bounteous wealth and splendor.

Then came another message which affected the crowd most deeply. Soon after noon Mr. Carter brought out a stretcher containing two articles hashed flat. It was a small casket, evidently a model. The other was a superb alabaster box bearing what seemed to be hieroglyphics of Tutankhamen and his queen. There was a general rush to view it in detail. Then the crowd fell back amazed and shocked. It was full of human hair, the tresses thick and rich, but pathetically grey—gray to darkness and depression. Coming as soon after the other objects, which had conjured up in the minds of the onlookers those ancient scenes of royal splendor, this hair seemed to say that all else was of no consequence. It is probable that the hair belonged to Tutankhamen's queen, and that as he died first, her hair was buried with him as a keepsake for him until she should rejoin him in the Elysian fields.

It was a poignant scene, which at one stroke blasted the tense curiosity which had inspired the crowd during the previous hours, and shocked the rush of superlatives and sent the crowd to tramp silently reflective.

MOTOR BUSSES COMPETITORS TO TROLLEY LINES

Hamilton, Jan. 17.—The Dominion Power and Transmission Company has notified the town of Dundas that the service on the Hamilton and Dundas Railway will be discontinued at midnight January 31. The announcement has caused consternation in the town.

The company gives as the reason for discontinuing the service that the line is bankrupt and has been carried on at a loss for several years. It says it will tear up the tracks.

The company claims that the line has not paid because of the competition from bus lines and because the company must use two bad bridges, one with the town under which fares for workingmen were placed too low and another with the T.H. & B. railway underwhichthatrailwaytowitchway under which that railway put switching privileges at too low a figure.

Your Rheumatism —its origin

You would not have rheumatism if your kidneys performed their proper work of expelling uric acid from your system. Then, and then only, rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica and blood-poisoning disappear. What you need is a kidney tonic. They act directly on the kidneys, the source of all the trouble. They increase the uric acid, relieve the congestion and cause the kidneys to resume their work. Those uric acids have found their way everywhere; relief from them is obtained by using GIN PILLS.

MUSIC and DRAMA

DOUBLE FEATURE PROGRAM AT REGENT TONIGHT

A double feature program is being exhibited at the Regent tonight, consisting of Enid Williams in a five-act adventure story, "It Can Be Done," a Perfect Village comedy with Sunshine comedy, Marjorie Daw and Bert Grassby in Earl Derr Biggers's Saturday Evening Post mystery story "Fifty Candles," Buster Keaton in a highly amusing comedy entitled "The Paleface," and Carmel Myers and Wallace Macdonald in "Breaking Through."

Owing to the length of the double feature bill the program will start at 7.30 tonight.

IRVING BACHELLER'S "THE LIGHT IN THE CLEARING" AT REGENT TOMORROW

T. Hayes Hunter, whose big picture "The Light in the Clearing," featuring George Richardstone, the little mite player in Sir James M. Barrie's "The Little Minister," and beautiful Clara Horton, is to be exhibited at the Regent tomorrow to Saturday, matinee daily, was for three years connected with the famous stage producer David Belasco, which no doubt accounts in a great measure for his highly developed direction and dramatic ability.

PRISCILLA DEAN IS AT HER BEST IN OUIDA'S "UNDER TWO FLAGS"

The tearing, clawing, battling Priscilla Dean of the screen, who has long since proved in "The Wildcat of Paris" and "The Virgin of Stamboul," is coming to Griffin's tomorrow to Saturday, with a matinee Friday and Saturday, in the greatest triumph of her career—a gripping screen version of Ouida's "Under Two Flags."

As Cigarette, daughter of the regiment, she gives a characterization to the screen that is truly described as "a masterpiece." The passion, selfishness, jealousy, love and hatred that marked the life of Ouida's famous character of the desert is portrayed by the inimitable Priscilla in a series of realistic scenes that makes one forget he is watching a picture. You love and hate with her, and at the end you leave marvelling at the ability of this favorite of the screen, the film you through real merit.

No one ever doubted for Priscilla Dean, no one could. In all her big scenes she is so close to the camera that every expression of her face is plainly discernible. An excellent cast supports Miss Dean.

"Stolen Glory", a two-reel Campbell comedy-drama, a chapter of the "Buffalo Bill" serial, and a travelogue are being exhibited on the prime program.

That Body of Yours
By James W. Barton, M.D.

HAVE YOU A RED NOSE?

In the distant past when people drank liquor, red noses were not uncommon. In fact we expected to see them. Why then do we still red nosed people?

Simply because people carrying them have not a poor circulation.

Our extremities, nose, hands and feet, all receive their blood supply from the heart which keeps pumping away unceasingly twenty-four hours in the day. If the muscle in the heart is weak and flabby as any of our muscles may be (wether under the control of the will or not) then the power it exerts is weak, and the return flow of blood from our extremities is sluggish.

We usually find these hearts healthy rapidly, and with the first or pumping beat, we ask in power.

This is so well known to insurance examiners that they would really almost scorn to take a chance on a heart with an organic lesion or murmur, if the heart muscle is strong, than with a sound heart that was weak muscled.

And yet the wonderful thing about it, all is that although the heart is not under the control of the will, nevertheless it can be strengthened up in a few months, by the simplest form of exercise rhythmical exercise taken for about three minutes twice a day.

I have had patients refused by insurance companies because of rapid, weak muscular hearts, secure their insurance three to six months later without difficulty. These hearts would run 102 to 110 upon the first examination, and would be down to 84 to 86 after the course of exercise. The said exercise consisting of jogging in the one spot 150 to 200 steps twice a day.

CAMPBELLFORD JUNIOR TEAM WIN GAME 3-1

Match Lacking in Combination Play—Poor Shooting—Hubbard and Kerr Good

Belleville's Junior O. H. A. Hockey team journeyed to Campbellford last night and played the team of that town a scheduled game which resulted in a win for the homesters by a score of 3-1.

Belleville resorted to individual play which proved to be very effective owing to the close checking of the winners forwards. In fact very little combination was used by both teams and when it was Campbellford's forwards continually broke away. The visitors had numerous chances to score but by over cautiousness and poor shooting only three were made. Dixon Hubbard was right through but put the puck in the rafters for what seemed like a mile.

Belleville's only goal came on the prettiest play of the night when Arnott came down the centre boards and passed to Hibbard who was left unchecked in front of the net.

Belleville's defence played a fair game with Hibbard being the pick of the lot. On the defence Kerr put up a good game but failed to get going which resulted in the loss of several goals.

Hunter is good bet as off night and appeared under a handicap owing to the poor lighting system of the Camp bellford Arena.

For the homesters Copperwaite was easily the best he rushed on every night and gained the puck unaffrighted. Archer and Brady were also good.

The visitors were packed in the dressing room after the game.

FIRST PERIOD

Play started off with Belleville having the play. Campbellford, not tender being called on it's own what followed the same game. Belleville displayed Campbellford by 2 wide margin in this period but failed to score through lack of combination. 0—0—0.

SECOND PERIOD

Campbellford started off strong and seemed to be an improved team in this period. White and Archer made some dangerous rushes and just before the period closed the latter was rewarded by scoring the Homesters first goal. This goal was scored before the time the gong sounded and the referee rang his bell.

THIRD PERIOD

This period saw the visitors eager to score things up and it just took them 1 minute to find one combination play Arnott to Hibbard.

The both teams went at it for all they were worth until two minutes before time, when Woods broke the tie on an easy rolles which Hunter should have stopped and a minute later White went through for Campbellford's final goal. The line-up:—

Referee—Percy Bond, Peterboro.

BELLEVILLE INTERMEDIATES BETTER TEAM

Kingston Report of Monday's Game Give Local Team Credit—Fast Work and Good Back-Checkers

Belleville intermediate hockey team took the measure of Queen's intermediate sextette in the O.H.A. fixture at the Harry Avens last night to the tune of four to one, and the score just about relates the relative merits of the two teams. The clash had been awaited for a long time by the fans and they were out in numbers to see the fun, and they saw it. The game was replete with all kinds of hockey, from the very best to the very poorest, and in this game both teams at times figured. Both showed spasms of brilliant work, and then again both fell away into fits. It must be said that Queen's failed offence and at the more critical junctures. Their system is not such as will win games, especially from teams with such fast skaters and cool and consistent back-checkers as is Belleville. The speedy dash in through must be backed up by something else. Time after time Queen's went down and shot from the defence, and then left the puck to the tender mercies of the defence, with the inevitable close following-in scores might have resulted. On the other hand it may be argued that their only score resulted from a shot from well out, but that was an exceptional goal and no one was more surprised at that than the man who shot it.

It was a tying finish and both teams gave all that was to be given and when victory finally perched on Belleville's colors every hockey fan admitted that it was rightly. All through they played sterling hockey, they showed better judgment in their passing, were faster in their rushes, and their back-checking was of the cool, calculating kind which bothers opponents to the limit. No matter how dangerous their opponents were they did not "go up" and in the matter of penalties they broke about even with the Collegians. Perhaps their best man was Crooks, for cool, but the honors were not all his. To Mallon goes a large share, he being one of the most effective player on the ice. His stick work was beautiful and his shooting dangerous. Every time he got the puck from a face-off near centre, skated past the defence and landed it past Quinn before almost anyone knew what was happening. He got a great hand from the crowd then, and deserved it.

The Holways were good, and Hagerman, Frechette and Weir were thorns in the paradise of the Tricolor players all night. Goyer was used occasionally, and filled in nicely but he is not as good as the regulars. They seem to have a well-thought-out and effective attack and defence, and it was enough to beat Queen's last night.

It might well be said that every member of the attack and defence found the lumps handed out by the visitors pretty hard. A summing up of the play shows, however, that Queen's must improve very much, both in attack and defence, before they will be as good as the team which defeated them last night.—Kingston Standard.

Question once was whether would you rather be, Babe Ruth or President of the U.S.A. But now a lot of Yankee bids are deciding to be golf champions.

BILLIARDS

Willie Hoppe and Jake Schaefer are to meet again. They will meet in New York City on March 19, 13 and 14 in a 1,500-point match for the world's professional 18.2 balkline billiard championship. Schaefer earned this opportunity to regain the title he lost to the International tournament last November by defeating Roger Conti, champion of France, in Chicago last week. It will be the second time that these rivals have met in a challenge match. It will be the second time they have played over a distance. No billiard contest that could be arranged could create greater interest than a meeting between this pair, and the attention of enthusiasts everywhere will be centred in it.

The last time Hoppe and Schaefer met in a challenge match was in Chicago a year ago. That match was productive of some of the best billiards that has ever been witnessed in a titular contest on the green cloth. Schaefer won by a score of 1,500 to 1,486—a margin of 32 points. Both players averaged a fraction better than 46.

SPORT COMMENT

Those Scotch curlers lost another test match yesterday. By the time they reach Ontario they'll have nothing left to lose but their accents and their appetites.

• • • •

The Carpentier-Gib bout having been declared "on the level" it appears to be about time some of the fair-minded and fair-weather fighters started drawing the color line.

• • • •

Gene Sarazen, the golf champion, worries because he is not going to get a crack at the British title. He only gets $10,000 a year to stay home and the heart of the great golfing public goes out to him.

Some of the critics are rising to remark that the senior O.H.A. teams are not playing the hockey they did a year ago and that hey will be lucky to retain their supremacy when the cracks from the West happen along toward the spring.

O.B.A.A. MAY ASK QUESTIONS

When Meeting is Held, Ball Players May be Asked To Give Reason for Shifting Around

The amateur baseball season is still some months away but January 1, the restless date passed recently by the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association has gone, and it is now seen that there has been considerable shifting around of players in the outside baseball centres. In the Central Ontario League there have been various shifts of players and it is said that the O.B.A.A. executive may ask some of the players pertinent questions before granting certificates. Peterborough, so it is said, have practically a new team, with their good pitcher, Heckman, still available. There are those in the east who say Heckman is a better pitcher than the Indian, Williams of this city. It is said the balance of the Peterborough team last season was not up to strength.

Of course there are many rumors and many, perhaps are true, but to prove them is another question. Last season in the Central Ontario League last season started with a balance of $1,000 to the good and during the season, but still quit a loser on the season by a considerable amount. There can hardly be too much legitimate expense to running an amateur club. It does seem that the O.B.A.A. will look into the same, some perhaps in deeper than others. But a general clean-up of the entire baseball mud that has at times gone for a lot of other leagues, and Toronto is not to be overlooked either. Least year the Toronto Amateur Baseball Association granted the Leaside team of the Central Ontario League permission to use players from Toronto. This permission was withdrawn for this season. It was wondered how Leaside could live up to the Central Ontario League residence rule which calls for players to be residents of Leaside by January 1. However, this was overcom by Leaside acquiring the old Lansdowne school and the same boat

THE CHOICE OF THE DUKE OF YORK.

It is indeed a rare occurrence that a reigning monarch of England should give royal assent to the marriage of his son to a commoner not of royal blood. When the late Queen Victoria was on the throne she consented to the marriage of Princess Louise and the Marquis of Lorne and this was considered a remarkable act of royal condescension. But if we mistake not, the last marriage of a prince of the English royal family with an English lady not of royal blood was 262 years ago, when James Stuart, another Duke of York, married Anne Hyde, daughter of Lord Clarendon. Of Henry VIII.'s six wives only two were of royal blood, so it will be noted that King George V. is breaking no established precedent in his present attitude.

In these democratic days alliances between members of two reigning houses do not necessarily mean alliances between nations, but they are sometimes very useful in times of trouble.

This has been recently illustrated in the dominating influence of the Queen of Greece over the late King Constantine—as a sister of the German Emperor, she espoused the Teutonic cause in the great war, and succeeded in defeating her husband from the Allied principles.

Now that supreme power is more or less in the hands of the representatives of the people, royal matrimonial alliances would not appear to have material effect upon national policies. [illegible]

In the selection of Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, a beautiful and vivacious type of English womanhood, the Duke of York will endear himself to all British subjects and the announcement is astonishing the match, made by King George from Sandringham is accepted with much gratification throughout the land.

HON. MR. KING'S ACCOMPLISHMENTS IN GOVERNMENT

Premier King has reviewed the work of his government during the past year. It would appear to be a marvellous concoction of insignificant and incomplete business, without reference to any domestic problems, but simply as an attempt to justify the exorbitant fees of his Ministers, costly to the country and without substantial returns.

Mr. Fielding has made a treaty with France, and as far as is known at present, this contains the great privilege on Canada of securing cheaper wines for Quebec and on Canada's unemployed the opportunity to purchase French silks, perfumes and laces at a small tariff discount.

Mr. Robb will complete his world's tour in February. He is bringing home from Australia a record of platitudes exchanged between himself and a defunct government.

Premier King has threatened to destroy the wonderful monument of effective peace—The Rush-Bagot Treaty, and he has also further delayed the settlement with Magnate Barbus on the Lake of the Woods international waters.

Brewsterism claims to have secured the removal of the cattle embargo, but nobody is anxious to accept the credit of the conditions imposed on its removal.

Such is the substance of the Government's work for a year as narrated by Premier King, and it does seem to be a record which would appear rather trivial.

In addition to these many obvious duties of government, it should be announced, that the Premier has appointed a new president of the Executive for the Canadian National System. He, of course, lauds the new president but to date has not referred particularly to the new executive.

Nothing has been done toward immigration, no efforts have been made to check emigration, no wheat board, nothing to relieve unemployment, nothing particular for the benefit of soldiers, farmers, artisians or manufacturers.

Surely when the House opens, there will be at least some effort to remedy this evasive policy of administration and legislation will be enacted to deal with these important matters. It may be that the narrowness of parliamentary majority has been worrying Hon. Mr. King and he has hesitated prior to introducing any remedial legislation, but now his confidence may be strengthened by the reversion to his party of those two political lumps-of-sugar from the Progressive ranks. The public will await events with considerable interest.

PASSING COMMENT

If no other purpose is served by the receipts of $12,000 each by the two justices who conducted the Ontario timber probe, it will at least serve as a text for fiery denunciation on the part of Hon. Mr. Ferguson.

Promotion of Sir Allen Aylesworth to the Senate will not provoke surprise. Politically, he was ever a whale among minnows, and the preferment was likely his for the asking from any Liberal administration.

Prevaricators

They, who say, "I always carry all of the ashes out every morning!"

The man who says, "Just so it is fine overhead I don't care how it is under foot."

The woman who says: "I love my husband and I were just talking about you folks and wondering when you would come over."

One often hears of the "codfish aristocracy." Are those the ones who give the codfish balls?

Some women spend half their lives figuring how to catch a man, and the other half trying to figure what they will have for dinner.

HERE AND THERE

BIG BILL HAYWOOD'S ADVENTURES

"Big Bill" Haywood, the former chief of the Industrial Workers of the World, may thank his stars that the practice of killing men because they have annoyed the powers that be or "just because", has died down in Russia. Two years ago he fled from the United States to that country to become the Czar of an autonomous industrial colony in Siberia. It was called the Kuzbas, and was to be conducted as an experiment in I.W.W. ideals. It has failed and "Big Bill" has quit the job, yet still lives. The trouble with "Big Bill" appears to be that he was better at talking and conspiring than he was the professor of a correspondence school. He made the discovery that the conduct of a state or of an industry requires energy and mental concentration and not physical and ingellectual make-up was able to provide neither.

And now, where is "Big Bill" to go? When he left the United States he was under conviction for having conspired against the welfare of the nation, but was out on bail under heavy bonds pending appeal. He forfeited his bail and his friends had to raise many thousands of dollars to cover the cost of this betrayal of their confidence. During his absence the court decided against him, so that if he returns t othe United States he must face a term of imprisonment and also the reproaches of the friends who were mulcted by his flight. The Soviet authorities have taken over his industrial colony and are running it as a business on capitalistic lines, so glad to learn that no place is provided for the Socialeman of his ideas. No other country wants him. "Big Bill's" resignation also makes it hard for a large number of blatherskites and loafers who established themselves as members of his Utopia; they will probably be compelled to work.

AMPUTATION IN THE STREET

Many are in samazing feats of modern surgery, but not often is it necessary to perform an amputation in the open street. Yet this amazing performance was carried out in Upper Norwood (London) a few weeks ago. A 10-year-old boy, Frederick Grant, the son of the bandmaster of the Upper Norwood prize band was crossing the road on one of the hills between Anerley and the Crystal Palace, when, in passing behind a tramcar, he was knocked down by a taxi-cab. Although the driver pulled up at once the boy's legs became inextricably mixed up in the machinery, and being fearful that as Grant's foot was so badly crushed an operation must be performed there and then. The road was cleared through the people on each side by police, and the work of th esurgeons, and a screen of rugs and blankets was hastily erected by ambulance men around the injured boy. Chloroform was put upon a pad by Dr. Wesley Candy, of Cavendish Square, who lives in Upper Norwood, administered an anaesthetic, and the foot was amputated by Dr. Dr. The whole operation took three-quarters of an hour, and Grant was then taken to the Norwood Cottage Hospital. The plucky lad went through the trying ordeal without a murmur, and only at the moment of administering the anaesthetic did he give the slightest trouble.

DAY BY DAY UNDER DRURY
WE GET WORSE AND WORSE

(A Rhyme With Reason.)

Expert says Ontario's butter is getting worse.—News Item.

In the days that are gone our cattle and swine
Were the best that the world had to show;
Our eggs were a treat and our butter was fine,
Our cheese had a rich, mellow glow;
Our goods were the toast of the marketing host,
Our flag met acclaim when unfurled,
And the housewives all cheered when our products appeared,
For we were the class of the world.

Those days have gone by, and a tear dims our eye
As we brood on the glory now flown,
Our farmers are yelling, their goods are not selling
We sit here a-weeping and groan;
Since Drury and Doherty captured Queen's Park,
"Prohibition" we have long known,
People try our stuff, then they say, "that's enough"
How long can we stand this—how long?

Several Thousand Canadian Families Have Tried Vicks

MONTREAL

Mrs. J. H. Troughton; 446 Clermont Ave., Westmount, Montreal, writes: "I tried a jar of Vapoiub when my little girl had bronchitis and found it a great relief to her breathing. My husband uses it every night up his nose to clear the passages for hawking. I also inhaled Vapoiub Rub when I had a very bad cold and cough and would say life to be without it in the house."

LONDON

Mrs. Ida Waghorn, of 126 Elliott St., London, Ont., says: "My daughter had a terrible cold and sore throat. I rubbed Vicks on her forehead and her head was aching, and got her to bed. Next morning she was nearly well. I divided a jar with two of my neighbors, whose children had croup. It quieted them quicker than anything they had yet tried."

HAMILTON

Mr. D. S. Shepard, of 340 Barton St., East Hamilton, Ont., writes: "I get a cold in the head every winter and it usually lasts me between one and two months. I used Vick's twice and my cold disappeared."

If you have little ones at home, you certainly should take advantage of this brief opportunity to try Vicks VapoRub without expense—the external, vaporizing treatment for all cold troubles. There are a few of the free test packages left at the drug stores. You may get one by using the coupon below, but be sure to present it quickly.

Mothers will like Vicks for croup and children's colds because it is applied externally and does away with the inward dosing that so often upsets their little stomachs. It is just as good for skin hurts and itchings, too.

Vicks is a simple but ingenious combination in salve form of the old-fashioned, time-tried remedies—Camphor, Menthol, Eucalyptus, Thyme, Wintergreen and Turpentine.

When rubbed on it is absorbed through and stimulates the skin. In addition, the ingredients are released as vapors by the body heat and inhaled with each breath, going directly into the nose, throat and lungs. Thus colds are often broken up over night—croup relieved in fifteen minutes.

Vicks is a family stand-by in the States, where over 17 million jars are used yearly.

QUEBEC

Mrs. C. Pritchard, of 36 Stuart St., Quebec City, writes: "I have used your wonderful remedy, Vicks VapoRub, with splendid results, and have had occasion to recommend it to one of my neighbors, who used it in a case of pneumonia with the most results I have had from it. I am glad to recommend it to my friends and neighbors."

OTTAWA

Mrs. M. Stefano, of 643 Somerset St., Ottawa, writes: "I first heard of Vicks VapoRub I had been bothered with catarrh for over a year. I spoiled a bottle of it one night for nights and on the fourth day my cold was better, in consequence the catarrh was all gone, and I haven't had a cold this winter, and the catarrh has not returned. Every time I get a bad cold I use it and find it seems to settle on my chest. I highly recommend Vicks VapoRub."

TORONTO

Mr. Charles Hall, of 70 Lindsay Ave., Toronto writes: "I was troubled with catarrh for some time until a friend recommended Vicks VapoRub. I rubbed a small portion of Vicks on my nostrils and for about four nights, and I have not been troubled since."

NEED FOR REFORM

(Brockville Recorder & Times)

Hon. Charles Marcil has inaugurated early reforms in the Immigration Department of Canada. As Postmaster-General he has done much in the past year to bring about improvements. There is an item that the R. and T. would call attention and it is the penalty imposed on senders of letters by mistake of the senders of the same. Where an envelope contains the name and address of the sender, and postage has been received, the position at point of mailing should by regulation be compelled to return the communication to the sender. Take a case in point. A well known firm in Montreal, with its name printed on the envelope, sends a communication to Brockville and the receiver here is doubly penalized for the neglect of the firm in not putting on postage. There is need for action to remove this anomaly.

ANOTHER COAL STRIKE

(Hamilton Herald)

The Chicago Tribune is quite sure there will be another big coal strike in the spring, and it cites this strange reason: "It must be so: There are now about 200,000 more men in the miners' unions than are needed to get coal in normal circumstances. How the situation for the miners can be improved by making all of them idle it is hard to understand.

OUR INSANE CIVILIZATION

(Kitchener News Record)

If there had been no war, Russia would have today 250,000 more people than is actually the case. Some will say that it is just as well for Bolshevism would not become stronger. But Bolshevism is not in accordance with the will of most of the Russian people. In any case, even if it survives, it must divest itself of the barbarities which resulted in atrocities in the history of the world.

Russia had 2,500,000 of her best men killed in the war. The civil war following accounted for an additional million. The epidemics incident to the war carried off 2,500,000, a majority of them being women and helpless children. Emigration took 2,000,000, while a normal prospective natural increase of some 12,000,000 was also lost.

These figures are for Russia alone, and must be multiplied several times to cover the losses sustained by the world as a result of the war. Try to visualize the horrors and imagine the sufferings to which hundreds of millions of humanity were subjected, try to grasp, if you can, the colossal destruction of 6½ billions dollars of property and you will begin to appreciate the enormity and magnitude of the crime of war. And now Europe shows signs of settling to the insanity of war once more.

What a civilization! And what a failure of Christianity. In a world whose essential principals are peace and charity and love of one's fellowman. Well may the heathen Chinaman man. Well may the heathen Chinaman like your Christianity."

"I Was Terribly Weak After Baby Was Born"

Mrs. H. McClure, Norwood, Ont., writes:

"After my baby was born, I was terribly weak and run down, with pains across my back. I had heard so much of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food that I decided to try it. Three boxes proved enough to make me quite strong and well again. I also used Dr. Chase's Ointment for a rash which broke out on the baby, and the rash disappeared completely in a short time."

THE LADIES' AID

The old church bell had long been crushed,
Its call was but a groan;
It seemed to sound a (tuneral knell
With every broken tone.
"We need a bell," the brethren said;
"But, taxes must be paid;
We have no money we can spare
Just ask the Ladies' Aid."

The shingles of the roof are old;
The rain came down in rills;
The brethren slowly shook their heads
And talked of "monthly bills."
The chairman of the board arose,
And said, "I am afraid
That we shall have to lay the case
Before the Ladies' Aid."

The carpet has been patched and patched,
Till quite beyond repair,
And then the sidewalk and the steps
The boards showed hard and bare.
"It is too bad," the brethren said;
"And effort must be made
To raise an interest on the part
Of members of the Aid."

The preacher's salary was behind;
The poor man blushed to meet
The grocer and the butcher and
They passed him on the street;
But nobly spoke the brethren then;
"Pastor, you shall be paid;
We'll call upon the treasurer
Of our good Ladies' Aid."

"Ah," said the man, "the way is heaven
Is long and hard and steep;
With clogs of care on either side,
The path is hard to keep.
We cannot climb the heights alone;
Our hearts are sore dismayed;
We never shall get to heaven at all
Without the Ladies' Aid!"

THE FASHIONS

PERFUME FLASKS.

Small enameled or jeweled flasks exactly the shape of the ones men carry in their hip pockets are now made for carrying perfume in milady's handbag.

LONG TASSELS.

Very long tassels are a feature of this winter's styles. Many have gone further than a yard in length and reach from waist to hem.

BROCADES

Brocades are destined for an at most unprecedented vogue and a new silk which has just appeared has an especially lovely design in rich and brilliant colors and woven across its surface tiny lines of gold.

KNITTED COSTUMES.

Knitted jouiumes are shown not only for sports wear at winter resorts, but for the general utility. They vary in weight, some being very light and others of a very heavy quality of wool or silk, but nearly all follow the general style of separate skirt and slip-over blouse.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

HOME-MADE SHERBET

When making sherbets or ices, try adding the stiffly beaten white of an egg to each quart of mixture used. It is a very little added expense, but will result in lovely smooth ice.

HOUSEWIVES BEWARE

The old-fashioned feather duster is useful for mussing the dust from one article of furniture to an ther, but for no other purpose. A hemmed square of cheesecloth is the most satisfactory duster, as it gathers the dust and holds it and yet it is easily washed.

FOR OLD STOCKINGS

Do not throw away old stockings when the feet are too worn for further use. Cut off the stocking feet and keep the legs to draw over the children's shoes when they go out in cold or snow. Stockings legs can also be used for floor cloths if ripped pen and doubled or nice soft dusters may be made from them.

THE HOLE IN THE TOE

The days to Christmas are not many!
When with your sock you go
To hang it, see there isn't any
Hole in the toe!

The poor, you notice, ne'er amass a
Fortune as they go,
Because their stocking always has a
Hole in the toe.

Many's the time Grim Death doth whistle
Some one to the soul,
Because he had a helpless little
Toe in the Hole.

Jack Frost he comes along—and sees
Situation droll,
And then and there proceeds to freeze
the
Toe in the Hole.

There is not in this world so sad a
Sight from pole to pole,
As this poor stricken wretch who had a
Toe in the Hole.

Grim Death most every day he seizes
Men who wail with woe,
But I think the most awful disease is
Hole in the Toe.

Beware the dread death-dealing stocking,
Wherewoever you go,
You'll know it by its mocking-shocking
Hole in the Toe.

Cold as frost—as hot as lava,
Combined ice and coal,
If in winter time you have a
Toe in the Hole!

Here's a man on crutches; what a
Sight to sad the soul!
What's the matter with him? He's got a
Toe in the Hole!

When Adam fell he got some shocks,
Received some woes,
The worst it was a pair of socks
With holes in the toes!

'IT'S WORTH FETCHING'

LINKED LIVES

By D. Kinmount Roy

By the time he reached the Hall the storm had passed; his face was still as white as Sandy had seen it, but a decent veil had fallen over every manifestation of his worst self. Was he not, in spite of everything, Squire Hardcastle of Fosseway Hall? And Squire Hardcastle of Fosseway Hall he would remain in spite of Heaven or Hell.

Sherwin was delighted to see his friend back again. He had been an whole weeks in solitary possession of the Hall, all the guests having left, and was heartily weary of his own company. The society of grooms and keepers did not suffice for spice and interest; and even a call from the Reverend Hector Fordice added little to the pleasures of life. The minister was a man of serious deportment and views; he called, not knowing that the Squire was absent, and was so full of his plans that he opened his quite freely to Sherwin. There were cottages on the estate not fit for cattlesheds; and the sanitation in the miserable hovels must certainly perish in extreme wretchedness unless some were made before the winter set in.

Sherwin was greatly impressed with the need of better poor cottages, and the minister's sincerity.

"I really believe," he said to the Squire afterwards, "that he would be glad in the library, 'that he takes his duty quite seriously.'

Hardcastle smiled in spite of himself at the naivete of the remark.

"Yes, I really do believe he means it!" Sherwin affirmed eagerly, "and after all the Church, you know, is not a bad place for a man who can really do that.'

"I daresay," the Squire said drily, dipping his wine thoughtfully, and watching Sherwin with some touch of wonder, as if you have to be made that way to begin with, and have very small ambitions and no gentlemanly tastes." He hesitated after a pause. "You could not pay that role, Sherwin.'

"I don't know," Sherwin said doubtfully, his courage vanishing under the Squire's scrutiny; 'I really do see how and yet I have been thinking a good deal since you left. Do you know how long you have been away?'

"Yes, of course I do," Hardcastle said; "a little over six weeks; I have not lost my memory!'

"Oh, of course not,' Sherwin remarked quite earnestly, 'but I wish I could lose mine sometimes and find it again, free from some things that cling to it!'

'What do you mean?' Hardcastle answered, looking up sharply.

'Oh, I mean—that I have been an ass, and missed splendid chances! That fellow Fordice makes one feel uncomfortable; why, he believes in God so thoroughly that he actually maintains that the Deity is behind the conscience of men who have even no knowledge of Him, and that there are "events of the soul" or what not which change all a man's life!'

'Oh bosh!' the Squire answered impatiently, and taking a turn about the room; 'he is an "event" which most men may well dispense with. You are not fit to go alone yet, Sherwin!'

'Well, he really is a fine fellow—you ought to know him, Eric!'

'I know him!' Hardcastle answered with scorn; 'I have no desire to know such human trash!'

'But he thinks and says some quite fine things, and there may be something in it after all. He declares that many of the events in human action are inspired by trust—trust, remember —and that men who dare not cry loud for God are only under their breath for help and deliverance. Do you know, I think I believe that.'

'Deliverance from what?' Hardcastle said, turning round quickly—and facing Sherwin.

'From—from—oh, from—I suppose from bad things generally,' he answered falteringly.

Hardcastle smiled bitterly. 'I had thought better of you, Sherwin; you have the head and have taken to romancing again. Fordice must have been more impressive than I have ever known him to be if he has filled you with such rubbish as this! Deliverance indeed! A man has only to face the music and he is safe! Give in a case for you—I am threatened with an action the sin of which is to sweep this estate out of my hands and out of the reach of my son.'

'How dreadful!' Sherwin said with quick sympathy and alarm, everything else retreating to the backward. 'And you will take all your wealth?' he asked eagerly.

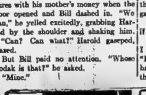
The Squire smiled at the question. 'Oh, he can afford to be answered with comfortable assurance; I can take care that his investments are beyond the reach of confiscation, but that is not this fine fellow Fordice would no doubt consider my defeat and ruin, could he see it accomplished, quite legitimate, and a Heaven-sent punishment for God knows what! That is the kind of man he is!'

Sherwin was aghast with horror, and looked absolutely appalled, as though the harmless minister was a messenger of Satan. 'Really, really,' he said in perplexity, 'you amaze me. I considered him not only respectable, but—but positively interesting! and of course judged that he had a due regard for the rights of property—which, of course, is the foundation of everything.'

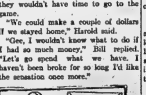
Both men sipped their wine in silence for a time, busy with their own thoughts. 'Life is a strange game, after all,' Sherwin was saying to himself, 'and the rich man is little better equipped to play it than the poor man, in the last resort—very little better! Who would have thought it?'

'Well, we'll take pictures then and sell them.'

Harold looked doubtful. "Nobody wants his picture taken," he said.



"We'll make 'em want it then You've seen those pictures of people sitting on the moon. That's the kind we'll make. Come on up to our house and we'll rig up a studio in the barn. All we need is a sheet and some black paint and mother will let us have both."



"Gee, do you suppose we could?" Harold forgot for once to be pessimistic.

By noon the boys had their studio all fixed up. A large white muan gleamed on the black sheet. They hung the sheet where the light was good and fixed a chair behind it on a level with the crescent of the moon. After a hole was cut over the moon Bill climbed up, sat down, and dangled his legs over the moon while Harold took his picture. As soon as the other boys saw him sitting on the moon they all wanted their pictures taken the same way. Bill and Harold were so busy they began to fear they wouldn't have time to go to the game.

"We could make a couple of dollars if we stayed home," Harold said.

"Gee, I wouldn't know what to do if I had so much money," Bill replied. "Let's go speed what we have. I haven't been broke for so long I'd like the sensation once more."

Pictures on The Moon

"Clean broke," muttered Bill with a groan.

Said Harold, "You're not broke alone."

Then the two put together
Their heads to see whether They could make a few dimes on their own.

"I'm broke," groaned Bill for the sixth time in the last half-hour, "clean broke!" He pulled out his pockets and dangled them to leave no doubt about the matter.

"Well, you needn't be so proud of the fact," snapped Harold. "I guess I am, too. I haven't had a cent for the last week, and all the good movies on, too."

"Where are we going to get enough money in so to the game? That's the question." Bill said it as if it had just occured to him and he had not been pondering that question for days.

"If you ask me, we're not," Harold snapped back. "Well, so long. I have to step in here and get some picture."

Harold was just paying for his pictures with his mother's money when the door opened and Bill dashed in. "We can," he yelled excitedly, grabbing Harold by the shoulder and shaking him. "Can? Can what?" Harold peeped, dazed.

But Bill paid no attention. "Whose kodak is that?" he asked.

"Mine."

Choose only the tenderest of veal for cutlets. Cut meat from the leg (steak) and shape in uniform pieces or in one large cutlet. Cover veals with 4 tablespoons of olive oil mixed with 1 tablespoon of lemon juice. (This is called a marinade). Let stand one or two hours. Drain; cover with boiling water, cover and simmer until meat is tender, having sufficient water in pan to prevent cutlets from burning. Drain from liquor in pan, cool; sprinkle with salt, pepper and dredge with flour; dip in egg, then roll in fine bread crumbs (be sure that each cutlet is well coated with crumbs). Saute in melt pork fat or fry in deep hot fat. Serve on a hot platter; surround with tomato or mushroom sauce.

SHORT STORIES FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

OTHER WORLDS

COULD FOLKS LIVE ON MARS? (This is the fifth of twelve stories about the mysteries of the skies by Dr. H. W. Hurt, National Field Commander of the Boy Scouts, and writer of two of their handbooks. Dr. Hurt has studied the stars for many years, and at one time was in charge of the Yerkes Observatory in Williams Bay, Wisconsin, where the largest telescope in the world is located.)

Mars is our nearest neighbor away from the sun and gets as close to us as thirty-five million miles—which is pretty close for two planets to be. As we whirl around the sun 185 miles per second we pass Mars in its 15 mile per second journey in the same direction.

For nearly a hundred years we have been studying Mars, wondering about its strange markings. We can see the white polar caps which form on the frigid side away from the sun and which disappear when the sun shines on it, and we can see long lines which look like canals that some creatures living on Mars have built across the desert.

Mars Is Older Planet

Mars is an older planet than we are and is a great deal colder. It also has less air and less water than we have, so living on it wouldn't be as comfortable as on our own earth. The water melting of its polar caps and its flow toward the equator.

The diameter of Mars is 4332 miles which is hardly twice that of our own moon. Its day is forty minutes longer than ours and its year twice as great. Its seasons are similar to ours, but twice as long. It has two moons, which move very rapidly, one making its circuit in 7½ hours and the other in 30 hours.

Try to Signal Mars.

It is possible that we could exist on Mars, so far many years scientists have been trying to signal it. One has tried to use wireless, believing that as Mars, is an older planet, the people there, must know something about wireless. Another suggested making a great factory of mirrors covering several square miles on the plains of Texas, and "so" flash electric signals from them when that part of the earth is toward Mars and in the darkness.

Some time, perhaps, we may be able to get messages to and from Mars, and can find out what sort of life is there. If you or I could land there, the curious thing we would find is that, due to its smaller mass, we would weigh half as much as we do here. Think how small we would feel!

BOOTLEGGERS DANGEROUS TO NAVIGATION

Ships Crowd Ocean Lanes and Steamers Pick Way Through — Rum-Running Fleet—Prices Down in New York

New York, Jan. 16.—Prohibition officials have announced more severe treatment for bootleggers. Chief Enforcement Officer Yellowley called a conference of New Jersey and New York prohibition directors to consider the situation. Following the conference he said:

"There will be no necessity for handling rum-runners with kid gloves from now on. The prohibition navy boats will use their guns on liquor craft and make them walk the chalk line."

Liquor prices have been smashed since Thursday when the first rum ships outside the three-mile limit entered a price-cutting campaign. Rye went as low as twenty-five dollars a case, and Scotch for forty.

Picked His Way.

Captain Berry, attached to coastguard headquarters in New York said that he had received no orders from Washington to proceed against the rum fleet as a matter of jurisdiction, explaining that the authority of the United States over navigation did not extend beyond the three-mile limit.

Experienced observers reported sighting 14 vessels south of Ambrose lightship. The squadron consisted of a tank steamer, a smaller steamer resembling a trawler, one three-masted schooner, and 11 two-masted schooners.

No bcrers were observed putting off from shore, where everything was quiet, indicating that maritime bootleggers were adhering to their resolution to lie low after the heavy rum running last Thursday night.

FRANCE WILL NOT SELL HER PRECIOUS ISLANDS

St. Pierre and Miquelon to be Retained — French Minister Declares French Law is Supreme There—Not U.S. Legislation

Halifax, Jan. 17.—Hon. Albert Sarraut, French minister of colonies, who arrived here yesterday, reiterated his denial of reports in the American press that France might be willing to sell the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon, off the coast of Newfoundland.

"Never, never, never," quickly declared the minister, in denying that France would dispose of any part of her one-time great western empire.

"It has also been suggested that you will look into the matter of the export of liquor from St. Pierre?" the minister was asked.

"I have nothing to do with such a matter. That is not under my department, but St. Pierre comes within the French law—it is the law of France that must be obeyed there; not the law of the United States!"

The immediate object of Mr. Sarraut's visit to St. Pierre is to look into ways and means of developing St. Pierre harbor.

PONTIFF PAINED

Rome, Jan. 17.—News of the action of President Obregon of Mexico, in ordering the expulsion of Monsignor Filippi, the apostolic delegate, produced a deep and painful impression at the Vatican.

Pope Pius yesterday asked Cardinal Gasparri to acquaint the envoy with details of the incident, but the papal secretary of state said thus far he was in possession of none of the circumstances. The pontiff thereupon ordered him to await reliable information before taking any action.

Here and There

Liverpool.—Atlantic liners are finding room in a new in the ship's library. Over 4,000 books are distributed among the Canadian Pacific liners alone, and reading on board has become so popular that, in addition, bookstalls with all the latest magazines have been installed on all the Canadian Pacific passenger steamers.

London, Ont.—John Andersen, well-known C. P. R. conductor, has retired on pension. Mr. Anderson entered the service of the Canadian Pacific as a brakeman on the London division on May 14, 1881, was promoted to a freight conductor in addition, bookstalls with all the latest 1886, and to passenger conductor on June 1, 1887, which position he has since held.

Toronto.—Remarkably quick time was made by a special train travelling between Montreal and Toronto recently. Carrying a large number of students from Edmonton and other Gill Universities the train left Windsor Station at 10.27 a.m. and arrived in Toronto at 5.55 p.m., thus covering the distance, 335 miles in 7 hours, and 88 minutes. A storm was raging during the trip.

Banff.—Probably more world famous men have played on the golf courses at Banff Springs, Alberta, Canada, in the Canadian Rockies, than on any other single golf course in the whole world.

The picturesque course at Banff, situated as it is among the finest high up among the peaks of the Canadian Rockies, excites all rivalry for scenic beauty and has been called the "Golf Course in the Clouds." Any traveler from any part of the world may be certain that he sees the Canadian Rockies before continuing his journey to the European Continent, and if he plays golf at all he is bound to combine his scenic viewing with a round or two of golf on the famous links in the Highlands. To tell off a list of the world famous men who have played at Banff would be to read a list of "Who's Who" in world affairs.

The Canadian National Park Branch of the Department of the Interior reports that 5,000 persons are having played over the golf course in Banff National Park during the season recently closed, and many prominent visitors from nearly every corner of the globe went over the links. Those who golfed at Banff during the latter part of the season included His Excellency Baron Byng, Governor-General of Canada; Mr. Calvin Coolidge, Vice-President of the United States; Sir Lionel Goldsmith, Governor of the Straits Settlements; Baron Sanberg, of Holland, Premier Rutherford, of Alberta, and Rodney C. Wood, Chief Boy Scout Representative of England.

Cranbrook, B.C.—Children, unaccompanied children of any age, should be warned to keep clear of railway tracks, particularly at this season of the year when the snow is deep and a slip of the foot may result in a fatal accident. Cranbrook parents should offer some advice to their offspring about their proximity to the Canadian Pacific Railway tracks. A serious accident recently happened at Vernon to a child playing along the railway tracks there. The Vernon News had the following editorial comment:

"The accident on the railway track last week is a sad one indeed for the boy who have watched with much concern the school children this year walking single file along the edge of the tracks. The little victim, however, was not to blame, and it was quite perhaps his first visit to the railways, for youngsters who live near the tracks are much too careless when near the tracks. Parents and teachers should continually impress upon the youngsters the danger of playing near the trains. Time after time the train-men have had to apply the brakes at the right of way but back they come again and again, and the best thing to do is the best policy and parents and teachers should be continually on the warning the boys and girls. There is only room for one train, so be safe from danger and that is to keep away from it."

Liverpool. — Wm. John Sergeth, the superintendent engineer of the Canadian Pacific Steamships, Ltd., received from the hands of Lord Derby after a sea-going career of 54 years, the medal of merit which was awarded with Liverpool companies. With the object of drawing attention to the service in which he is held by all those who have been privileged to sail with him on Liverpool ships, the Canadian Pacific Steamships Ltd., have issued some very handsome presents. They consisted of a beautifully solid oak gramophone and bookcase, and a specially fitted-up gentleman's dressing wardrobe. The latter present was presented with a choice gold bar brooch set with diamonds. These are the gifts of the sea-going and shore staffs of the Empress of Asia and the C. P. R. Co., and were presented through the medium of Captain J. V. Forster, Liverpool manager of the C. P. R. S.S. Line, in the presence of all the chief officials, personal friends, numerous colleagues, officials of the Board of Trade, and of the shipping registration societies.

N. Y. STOCK EXCHANGE JUDGMENT OF THE RUHR MOVEMENT

The composite, one may even say the cheerfulness, with which the financial markets responded to the news of the actual advance of France into the Ruhr, may give the lie direct to a plea in the history of finance, illustrative of the capacity of markets to pass judgment in advance on a pending international crisis. Is there any significance of last week's recovery on the stock market and in foreign exchange was that it should have occurred at the moment when popular discussion, even the intimations free from official circles, were pointing to the disastrous possibilities of the ne French policy But this flat contradiction of the general run of public opinion is no novelty in the market history.

The present situation was regarded at the close of the perplexing week of Wall Street from three different viewpoints, each with its own explanatio

WILD NIGHT IN DUBLIN, IRELAND

Attacks by Irregulars, Main Assault Against City Hall Where People Fled From Hail of Bullets

Dublin, Jan. 16.—Dublin today was recovering from the effects of the most intense fighting that has occurred within the city since the days of the Four Courts. Irregular forces launched a sudden attack on several strategic points last night and although driven off by the Free State troops, they continued intermittent firing until early this morning.

The suddenness with which the fighting broke out threw the city in to a state of excitement bordering on hysteria, and for a short time the citizens caught on the streets fled in all directions seeking refuge from the hail of bullets. Motormen abandoned their trams and passengers lay on the floors to avoid being hit.

The heaviest onslaught of the irregulars was against the City Hall, upon which they concentrated a heavy fire from all sides. One of the sentries was wounded by the machine gun fire, and the windows of a passing tram car were shattered.

Almost simultaneously firing broke out in other parts of the city, and for a half hour the night was made hideous by the tattoo of machine gun and rifle firing and the louder explosions of bombs. The Free Staters replied vigorously and in no case did the regulars succeed in capturing their objectives.

The points attacked, besides the city hall, included the Broadstone railway terminus, the telephone exchange, Portobello barracks, Dublin barracks, Mountjoy prison, King's Inns, Thompson's Garage and the offices of the Freeman's Journal, which was thrown into the newspaper plant, but failed to explode.

Early this morning a number of the irregulars were discovered while leaving the city. They were hidden in a lorry where they lay covered with blankets and upon their discovery by Free State troops, they opened fire with revolvers. They were shot at the same time accelerated his speed and the party succeeded in breaking through the cordon of troops to safety.

FAMILY BUDGET IS UP

Canadian Gazette Published Figures for December, Increase Caused by High-er Prices of Dairy Products.

Ottawa, Jan., 16.—(Canadian Press) —In retail prices the average cost of a weekly family budget of 29 staple foods in terms of the average prices in sixty cities was $10.39 at the beginning of December last, as compared with $10.36 at the beginning of the previous month; $11.06 for December 1921; $13.52 for June 1920, the higher point reached and $7.96 for December 1914, according to the Labor Gazette.

The total of the combined budget of food, fuel and rent was $20.62 at the beginning of December last as compared with $20.59 at the beginning of the previous month; $21.61 for December 1921; $26.92 for June 1920; the highest point reached and $14.35 for December 1914.

Fresh cuts accounted for much of the increase, says the Gazette, though the generally gruesome fowl began to appear. The chief declines were in the meats, except mess pork, and in evaporated apples and potatoes. Bread, flour and rolled oats were unchanged. Fuel was slightly lower. Rentals were steady.

COAL OPERATORS

ration of the Ruhr.

The organization of the coal barons throughout the occupied area, who remain firm in their allegiance to the Berlin Government, continues, and they are consistently obeying instructions from the Capital not to produce another ton for France.

In defying France, the German conferees face imprisonment and the confiscation of property, but they are content in the belief that the efforts of foreigners to operate the German mines will collapse, and instead of coal the French will find only chaos.

When they challenged the French the owners were aware that infantry behind the line was being completed in preparation of the Ruhr coal belt. In the Bochum district, the coal centre, as everywhere in the area, the workers are solidly opposed to working for the "detested French."

Some of their strained spirit has spread to the workmen, who are inclined to think more of the Fatherland and fear of Communism and Internationalism.

The German experts are confident that the French will not succeed in getting the 2,000,000 tons monthly which they are after. The Ruhr production has been averaging 1,000,000 tons monthly and a large operator has estimated that the production will shrink to 20 per cent. of the total. If the French took all, they would be getting only what they demand, leaving none for Germany.

Anticipating arrest, a number of the coal operators have left the district, but the technical staffs remain and they seem willing to continue at their tasks, but only with the object of showing to the pit heads as little coal as possible.

It is reported that the French will attempt to combat the passive resistance by installing piecework and the bonus system.

THE LIFE OF A HOME

A healthy, happy, contented wife is the life and joy of the home and the greatest inspiration a man can have, yet how many homes in America are blighted by the ill-health and sufferings of the wife and mother. It may be backache, headaches, the torture of a displacement or some other ailment peculiar to her sex, which makes her irritable, despondent, and her whole life a burden. Every woman in this condition should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made from roots and herbs to restore her to health and happiness, for statistics prove that it benefits 96 out of every 100 women who try it.

URGES FRENCH TO DROP LIQUORS AND DRINK GOOD WINES

Paris, Jan. 16.—Henri Charon, Minister of Agriculture, has undertaken to teach people of France to drink wine instead of liquors of high alcoholic content.

The Minister has issued a circular to his staff throughout the country to encourage the people "to drink a glass of good French wine," asserting that the Government laboratory tests show that wine contains vitamines necessary to health, and that wine not only does not develope alcoholism but it has been established that alcoholism is prevalent where too little wine is used."

M. Charon particularly encourages wine drinking because the yield this year is double that of last year, and also because vintage is good. The Ministry is preparing a label that will guarantee wines as being French wine.

IF THESE MEN DIE

Court House, Bastrop, La., Jan. 16. Charges, providing capital punishment in cases of conviction, will be lodged against Captain J. K. Skipwith, exalted cyclops of the Ku Klux Klan, and other members of visiting parties, as a result of the investigation of the Morehouse parish reign of terror, state officials declared today.

"The plan is to bring a charge of housebreaking at night against men who entered the home of Lon Brooks and seized him on a charge of bootlegging, without a warrant," Attorney General A. V. Coco declared today. The charge carries the death penalty in this state. Charges against others on similar grounds may be expected, Coco said.

DANISH PRINCE FORCED TO GO TO WORK

Must Earn His Own Living Living and Joins the French Army in Africa

Copenhagen, Jan. 18.—Prince Aage, of Denmark, whose fortune was wiped out in a recent bank failure, has gone to Morocco to earn a living as a major in the French colonial forces. Just before he departed, during the Christmas holidays, he said he was genuinely sorry that he could not take up an active business career in his own country. He had never enjoyed anything more, he added, than the job he once held for several months in a foreign branch of a well-known American firm, neither his employers nor the other employees knowing his real identity.

In Denmark Prince Aage was called the American prince. His habits and tastes were similar to those characterizing the citizen of the United States. Most of his intimate friends were Americans, and their mode of life was his. Soon after the war the Prince visited the United States, planned his society, and adopted many American ways.

Recently it was thought desirable to use the Prince in an ambassadorial capacity, but, with his fortune gone, he was unable to accept a post paying only a small income. So he has entered military life, having the reputation of being one of the finest soldiers in Denmark. The Princess Aage and their five year old son have gone to live in Italy at the home of the Princess's father.

MADAGASCAR HAS RADIUM DEPOSITS

London, Jan. 16.—Madagascar has large uraniferous deposits which are capable of producing in the near future 40 to 60 grains of radium bromide a year, according to Professor Lacroix, secretary of the French Academy of Science. This production would be equal to about half of the world's present annual supply.

Ten tons of "betafite", the mineral given by Professor Lacroix to deposits found in the Betafo district of Madagascar, furnish 15 grains of radium bromide. He adds that the crystals from which the radium bromide is obtained are found conveniently in red earth, and may be extracted by washing as is done in the case of gold-bearing deposits.

SPLENDID PRESENTATION OF COMEDY DRAMA

High School Literary Society Score Tremendous Success

She Stoops to Conquer

Capacity House at Griffin's Last Night to Witness Interpretation of Goldsmith's Play

At Griffin's Opera House last evening the Literary Society of the Belleville High School presented "She Stoops to Conquer", in a five act comedy with eight scenes, by Oliver Goldsmith.

The theatre was filled to capacity, the pian having been sold out on the second day after the opening. During one of the intermissions Mr. P. C. McLaurin, B.A., Principal of the school thanked the audience for such a large turnout, which was encouraging to the staff and the school. He said that the teachers in one respect were like the parents, they thought the pupil could make no mistake. The speaker gave a brief outline of the dramatic history of the butterfly that school having that they had started modestly with a play in their own little Assembly Hall at the school, then they staged one in the City Hall and at last had capped the pinnacle by presenting a production in the Opera House. Harold "Bo" Woodley, on behalf of the Student Council, also thanked the audience for the large attendance and asked the support of the public until the much needed Collegiate Institute was obtained.

The different characters were all played with perfect naturalness which showed that each member of the cast were well drilled in their different parts, reflecting great credit upon Miss Madeline Young who has spared neither time nor effort since taking the High School staff to further the dramatic department of the Institution.

Perhaps the casts most worthy of special mention were Cecil Fraser who as the scrupulous son of the Hardcastles, kept the audience in a continuous mood of laughter. Austin Walters as the audacious young man to whom he lost and then he why youth is the daughter of the house displayed great skill in the interpretation of these two contradictory roles.

Wilfred North and Rosalie Holmes as Mr. and Mrs. Hardcastle were each splendid in their stodge parts and gave evidence of natural stage ability. Evelyn McLaurin and Helen Potter as the two marriageable young ladies who departed from traditional spotless in the modern drama were both excellent in their characters and each made charming appearance on the stage.

Albert Adams interpreted the character of Mr. Hastings, young Marlowe's friend to the life.

A Most Enjoyable Affair at City Armouries When Argyll Chapter I.O.D.E. Were at Home to Their Members and Friends

One of the most outstanding and enjoyable affairs which has taken place in the city for many a moon was held last evening at the Armouries when the ladies of Argyll Chapter, Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire were at home to the members and friends. There was a splendid attendance of invited guests, which included the ladies and members of the Regiment.

Music for the dancing was provided by the Argyll Light Infantry Orchestra which included: Lieut. Hinsley, Al. Wilson, B. Hayzes and Mr. Rudolph. The selections were all that could be desired and the dancers were indeed appreciative of such excellent music.

At the interval, dainty refreshments were served in the officers mess, where a supper table had been in charge of the luncheon arrangements.

At the conclusion of the High School play several came in from the Opera House. Bridge tables were thoughtfully provided for those who did not care to dance.

The seasonable gowns worn by the ladies added greatly to the brilliancy and dignity of the affair. Dancing continued until a late hour and everyone is eagerly looking forward to the next dance to be conducted by these hospitable hosts.

Statements Issued by Premier King and Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Relative to His Demise

Naples, Florida, Jan. 18.—Hon. W. C. Kennedy, Minister of Railway and Canals for Canada, who came here recently to recuperate after an operation in Montreal, died suddenly last night from heart failure.

Ottawa, Jan. 18.—News of the death of Hon. Mr. Kennedy came as a great shock to his friends and Cabinet associates here, for there were few men in public life as popular as the late Minister of Railways. Recent advices from the South, where Mr. Kennedy had gone to recuperate after his two serious operations, had been of a reassuring nature, and it was believed to be only a matter of a few months until he would be able again to take up his duties as head of the department. Men in all spheres of political and public life joined in expressions of their regret at the passing of a man who had given his best in the service of his country, and had labored in the administration of a difficult department at a time when the considerations of his own health forced his friends to urge upon him that he submit to an operation which had been declared necessary if his life was to be saved.

Mr. Kennedy went to the Royal Victoria Hospital last summer to undergo an operation. He was in comparatively good health at the time, and was quite hopeful of the outcome. The operation, however, was not the success anticipated, and he returned to Ottawa ordered on the surgeon's table was found necessary. For days he hovered between life and death. He was mainly his own physician, and was ably assisted by British preferential tariff, free intermediate and general tariff, five per cent. ad valorem. At present pulp board does not appear in the customs tariff as a specific item, but, if classified under pulp of wood or straw, is liable to import duties of fifteen per cent. perferential and twenty-five per cent. intermediate and general.

COUE HAS AMERICAN OPPOSITION

J. A. Chaloner Goes 50–50 With the French Chemist "Says Self Confidence" Is King But Not a Queen

New York, Jan. 15.—John Armstrong Chaloner last night fetched forth his own subconscious and did proved to be the ridiculous and unconscionable spindle-shanked up to traps and tricks and ever on the alert to trip up Mr. Chaloner. He also demonstrated that self is "subconscious" with fourteen ridiculous habits but the subconscious, even with the chest of the stars, moons and planets, wasn't up to snuff.

Professor Coue or Mr. Chaloner obligingly explained to the reporters in the assembly rooms of Christ Church, Broadway and Seventy-first Street, "can arrest the force of gravity," but really in the interests of truth and accuracy, it was not so good a test of gravity as Mr. Chaldorf Mack.

The author of that classic line, "Who's in the way now," was billed to speak on Coue, but that professorial subconscious was not to work and-let the audience talking of "Three Coue days."

Mr. Chaloner began, however, by saying that it was there to give Coue a "psychological look in every time he was one." It appeared that Mr. Chaloner had read in a Southern newspaper that Coue "walked on a tightrope and balanced on a lariat as well as a king." Mr. Chaloner said it was there to tell all tonight and now is the time to tell all above. He then went into the creed of the little druggist from Nancy, but not so far. He was going about it in his hard-working subconsciousness of his stepped right in and "blocey" went Coue. He began to get Skeptical of Coue.

One day last summer, said Mr. Chaloner, he was leaving another motion picture house, this one in Times Square, when he was struck by the extreme heat of the day. He decided to do something to get off. Then he took a bus ride at 12 noon, his subconscious now made him, and, of backward and suffer a bad ball.

After telling of a third conspiracy hatched by his unruly subconscious, Mr. Chaloner having had a very bad fall while motoring down last autumn from Newport to the city, which had prompted the subconsciousness to be so rough, inasmuch as it was probable that it hat itself every time Mr. Chaloner went down.

"Why should the subconscious hurt itself?" he asked, "when it throws me down as described it throws itself and presumably suffers as much as I, being in me.

"The subconscious is too mysterious, too hostile, too intelligent, too subwitted, and above all, too powerful to be enslaved. Therefore, Monsieur Coue is in error when he intimates that he is of opinion that 'the subconscious now is king as well as slave.'"

In a postscript to his lecture, Mr. Chaloner said his subconsciousness had weaned him off tobacco and that it had taken over his diet. He explained his diet control by saying that he ate only four meals a week.

"I Was a Fright!"

"Nothing I Could Take Made Me Any Fezter."

"Up to the time I was seventeen years old, I believe that I was the most miserable unhappy girl that ever lived. Honestly, I was a fright. I was the most ungainly looking creature you ever saw. I was as thin as a scarecrow—straight up and down. My height was all right, but miss Inches and I weighed exactly ninety-one and three quarters pounds. No matter what kind of clothes I putton I looked like a sight. I was clumsy and awkward. I used to stand before the glass and despair. I was a fright. I had a good nose, good eyes and a good mouth, but my cheeks were sunken and my face looked like a skull with a thin, tight skin stretched over it. But nothing I could do or take made me fay later. Men rarely even glanced at me. When they did, they generally gave me a casual, amused or pitying look,—as though, when I am sure means, 'why is a being like that allowed at large?' I used to lie awake at night for hours at a time wondering why there was so much for others in the world and I was so homely.

OLD ALGIERS BACKGROUND OF DEAN HIT

"Under Two Flags" Carries One Back to Quaint Spot in Old World.

The looming in the hearts of all fiction lovers everywhere heightens the popular appeal of "Under Two Flags," the great Universal dramatization of Ouida's thrilling story which comes to Griffin's tonight for a three days' engagement with a matinee Saturday. Ouida's story was interpreted for a evening to Algeria, the French province in northern Africa, where the dramatic romance unfolds. With Priscilla Dean as Cigarette, the beautiful girl of Algiers, they live the life of the Foreign Legion and have a glimpse of a chief's luxurious palace, and ride with a cavalry troop across the desert in the midst of danger and death.

Paul Browning, director of "Under Two Flags," has caught the foreign atmosphere of the story and has reproduced for this spectacular undertaking, a portion of the city of Algiers was the Universal studios, which is said to include the French barracks there. The interior of sheik's palace was built on the Universal lot, also the stages.

Miss Dean is superb in the role of the impulsive Cigarette, now tender, now savagely beautiful. It is the same type of part in which she started the theatre-going public in "The Virgin of Stamboul" two years ago. The tremendous popularity of "Under

ALBANIAN OFFICIAL ACCUSES GREEKS OF ATROCITIES

Says Hellenes Are Pressuring Thousands of His People—Cruel Treatment is Cited

LONDON, Jan. 17.— While Greece has been making pathetic cries to the world against the treatment of her subjects at the hands of the Turkish Yorks" she has been practicing the same sort of persecution and atrocity-mented brutality upon thousands of Albanians within her borders, according to Mehmed Bey Konitza, the Albanian minister to London, who has just made a vigorous protest to the British Government on this subject.

This protest was made after M. Konitza had received official reports from his government at Tirana, stating that the Albanian population of Tchamouria, an island near the province of Corfu, was in horror as a result of the atrocities committed by the Greek Civil and Military authorities. Tchamouria, although it was ceded to Greece in 1913 by the Conference of Ambassadors in London, contains more than 100,000 Albanians, constituting the great majority of the population, who have been attached to the Albanian nationality.

When Greek refugees began to pour in from Asia Minor, said M. Konitza, the great problem of finding homes for them became a perplexing one and the Greeks, it is alleged by the Albanians, began a campaign of terrible persecution in order to force the Albanian peasants to leave their ancient soil to make room for incoming refugees.

Instance after instance of cruel treatment is recited in the official reports received by M. Konitza. One of the most striking was that which took place late in September, when a Greek officer, according to the report summoned the inhabitants of Rakieki to the central square. He then ordered them off to unknown destinations, under the pretext that they were to be searched for arms. As soon as they had footed over a specially prepared not, he said:

"Mother instance recited was that of a large number of Albanian Moslems and Christians, who were seized under the influence of hasty rage. Bulgarian, placed in a stream up to their necks, forced to remain every four hours, taken out, cruelly thrashed and then exiled.

Albania, declared M. Konitza, looks to Great Britain and America to come to the aid of these unfortunate Albanians. Since these things have happened, he said, all the Albanians in Greece are living in constant terror, but the same treatment be visited up on them.

MEXICAN MONK PREDICTS END OF THE WORLD

Thirty-Two Years Hence Will See Finish of This Sphere

Mexico City, Jan. 16.—Considerable excitement is being caused in the Indian population of the village of Mixcoac near Mexico City, following the recent disappearance of Father Gonzalo Guerra, a Carmelite monk residing there, that the end of the world will come on December 12, 1954.

The monk bases his prediction on highly complex astronomical observations he has been conducting for years, and he asserts that the millenium is a certainty on the date mentioned. Research as he is in his profession as monk of the village, his assertions have caused great excitement among the credulous Indians. Local newspapers have given much prominence to the predictions.

MEXICO EXPECTS PROHIBITION BILL IN MAY

A Remote Possibility of a "Bone-Dry" Country— Pulque a Cause There

(By Canadian Press)

Mexico City, Jan. 18.—The "wets" are bewildered over certain high government officials, would attempt to have such a bill at least brought up for discussion, but other legislators intervened and a new liquor law was forgotten.

It is now considered likely that when Congress meets in regular session next May, a prohibition bill will be introduced and the various organizations in the republic dealing with the manufacture and sale of intoxicants are already making extensive anti-saloon campaign to counteract the "dry" propaganda.

A "bone-dry" Mexico is not generally considered here as even a remote possibility, but it is believed that drastic restrictions on the liquor traffic will be undertaken. These reports are frequented by the poor classes, who obtain a murderous drink known as "pulque" for a few cents a quart. "Pulque" has frequently been blamed for the spread of Mexico," and legislation to restrict its sale is regarded as necessary.

JOHNSON SHAKES UMPIRES

Chill, Walsh and Guthrie Dropped—Ormsby and Rowland on List.

New American Staff

New York Signs Catcher—An International League Player

Chicago, Jan. 18.—The shake-up in the staff of umpires of the American League became more pronounced today when it became known that President Johnson had signed Emmett Ormsby as an arbiter for the 1923 season. Recently Johnson announced that Clarence Rowland, former manager of the Chicago White Sox, had been signed as an umpire.

Ormsby has been an umpire in the Western League for the past two years, and began his baseball career as a semi-professional pitcher in Chicago.

President Johnson had definitely announced that Ollie Chill had been dropped, and it is understood that Ed. Walsh and Bill Guthrie will not be back in the official family.

New Haven, Jan. 18.—James Kernan, of Rome, N.Y., former Yale catcher, has signed a contract with the New York Giants for next season. Kernan played with Reading, of the International League, last season.

WANDERERS AGAIN SMASH RECORDS

With Biggest Score Ever Made in Belleville

For the second consecutive game the Wanderers set two new alley records at the Recreation Parlors when in the first game they rolled 116 and in the second and third games fairly went mad and knocked the pins cold with a three strings of 2826. This time it was the big Giants that tasted defeat and although they rolled a neat little score to win an average game it wasn't hardly enough to win this one. Yerex was the best performer both in the single with 207 and 603 for the three strings.

Game tonight, Quinte Battery vs. Ross Clarke. The line up:

BOOTLEGGERS INFEST U. S. SENATE

Washington, Jan. 17.—As part of the campaign to rid the Capitol of bootleggers the Senate authorities recently discharged the negro waiter of the Senate restaurant who dropped a bottle of home-made moonshine on the tiled floor.

The negro asserted that he was not bootlegging for Senators and the Senate authorities do not believe he was guilty; but they decided that no one carrying liquor, even for his own personal use, should be employed at the Capitol.

The scent of the negro's liquor after the bottle slipped out of his pocket was noticeable throughout the Senate wing of the Capitol and caused the Senate authorities to make a thorough investigation.

Novel Plan of Police Chief to Cure Drunks

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 18.—Chief of Police John B. Hammond has started a new art gallery. It is composed of photographs of the drunks who are brought to the city bootpw. The subjects are photographed while in an inebriated condition, and the following morning they are compelled to pass with cold sober eyes upon the spectacle which they presented the previous night. The police chief believes his novel plan will serve to discourage those who persist in immoderate strictures of the Volstead law.

TIGERS TRIM TORONTO ST. PATRICKS

Revenge For Goaler Forbes Over Irish Owners—Hamilton Won 5-2

Toronto fans were shown the reason why the Ottawa Senators were humiliated last Saturday night at Hamilton, when Art Ross' Bengal tribe outplayed St. Patrick's in every department last night at the Arena and beat them by 5 to 2. As Canadiens defeated Ottawa last night, the Senators are out in front with a scant one-point lead, while Canadiens and Hamilton are tied for second place, and the local irishmen are in the cellar position, just two points behind Ottawa. Seldom has the race in the pro. circuit been so close, with every team strictly in the race for the honors.

To Goaler Vern Forbes must go the major share of the honor for the victory. Around the NHL, Summit the Toronto lad has somewhere picked up the nickname of "Chesty." Last night he reduced the expanse of one whole set of chest emblazoned with the crest inscribed: "World's Champions, 1922-23." It was the day that Forbes has long looked forward to—ever since St. Patrick's winners retired to meet his fortune in the fall of 1920. As a result he remained out of the sport for a season.

Arrangements are made to handicap the older shots so that all compete on an actual equal footing.

OSHAWA GIRLS ARE VICTORIOUS OVER LOCAL TEAM 26-8

Belleville Girls Trounced at Basket Ball Match—No Casualties or Combination Play.

Belleville's All Star team, as an Oshawa bulletin had it, came home early this morning wondering just where that brilliancy came in.

The girls were taken house by their opponents and mastered something of a shock when told that the Oshawa girls were an O.B.A. group. They tried to forget that though and began the match bent on bringing home the leather medals if the fates were kind and if not to make it as neat a game as possible.

The score began to count up for Oshawa and very quickly it developed into what looked like a first rugby practice. Tackling was popular on both sides but the advantage lay with Oshawa due to weight. The defence for Belleville was done by Anne Lafferty and Valiere Wrightmyer. Checking and combination were weak; the latter lacking entirely. No casualties were registered save a few collisions with the floor and what looked for a time like a black eye.

SCOTS LOSE AGAIN

Tourists Down Fifteen Shots to Ottawa Rideaus

Ottawa, Jan. 18.—Making a fine showing here, the visiting Scottish curlers, in their match with the Ottawa and Rideau Clubs yesterday, won two games out of six, tied one and were defeated by a grand total of fifteen shots, the combined score thus giving Ottawa and Rideau rinks 72 and the Scotsmen 57.

FRENCHMEN OUTPLAY OTTAWA

Superior Play in All Departments Gives Canadiens Victory 2-1

Montreal, Jan. 17—Outplaying and outgenerslling their opponents throughout the three periods, Canadiens triumphed over Ottawa Senators by 2 to 1 in the schedule National Hockey League fixtures at the Mount Royal Arena to-night. Canadiens owe their victory to superior phanned defensive and offensive play. They adopted tactics usually used by the Ottawa players while in the lead, and in doing so defeated Ottawa at their own game. Canadiens showed more aggressiveness than they have shown in the previous games played at the Arena this season. They seldom let up in the pace, until the closing ten minutes of the final period, by which time they had the game safely tucked away. The Habitants made fewer mistakes than Ottawa and suffered less from penalties.

COUNTRY CLUB PREPARING FOR SUMMER SEASON

Directors and Officers Appointed for Coming Year —Splendid Golf Course and Adequate Accommodation for Members, Complete Club Facilities in Every Detail

The newly appointed directors of the Country Club met yesterday and appointed the following officers for the coming year: Stewart Robertson, President; J. S. McKeown, Vice-President; Jamieson Bone, Secretary Treasurer.

It is expected that the course will be formally opened about the 1st of May, and the opening will be an event of some importance in this district. Their Club house is practically finished now and is beautifully situated right on the water. The spacious verandah, with its hardwood floor and windows all round, has been specially constructed for dancing, and commands a splendid view of the Bay, from the Bay Bridge to the Trenton light house. This will no doubt be a most popular resort for city people in the warm weather.

The main part of the building contains a fine reception hall, and, like the verandah, has a large fire place built of field stone. There is kitchen and dining room accommodation, as well as shower baths and dressing rooms for both ladies and gentlemen. The golf course itself has been laid out by experts, and is said to be one of the finest in the province. The greens especially being finely well constructed. There will probably be tennis courts constructed early in the summer, and the premises will probably be headquarters for the yachting enthusiasts at the coming season on the Bay this summer.

The annual fees have been fixed on a very reasonable basis, making special provision for lady members and non-resident players.

The Directors are Jamieson Bone, G. K. Graham, W. J. Hume, J. G. Moffat, J. S. McKeown, R. D. Fox, J. Mackenzie Robertson, Stewart Robertson and C. C. Walker.

THE PARKS BOARD REQUIREMENTS

There seems to be an erroneous impression existent in the minds of many local citizens relative to the operations of the proposed Parks Commission, and doubtless many people voted favorably for the Parks By-law on election day, when they were not fully cognizant of the law in connection with the powers of a Parks Board.

The ratepayers have decided that the control of the City Parks be vested in the Commission to be appointed and the electors should be informed of the powers of that body. Without self knowledge, contentment is impossible. So many citizens live to-day haphazard, without chart and without compass, that it is no wonder discontent in civic matters is so prevalent and it is therefore necessary that all matters of civic reform should be taken seriously in order to amass a general fund of knowledge above the ordinary routine of municipal schooling.

It was understood, initially by many Bellevillians, officials and ratepayers included, that the City Council had jurisdiction to levy only one-half mill to finance the requirements of the Parks Commission. The Act formerly provided for this percentage of the tax-rate, but an amendment was passed some years ago, which vested a Parks Commission with authority to demand one mill for this purpose.

Thus the position of the Board is similar to the Board of Education, inasmuch as the City Council are compelled to grant the demand of that body for their budget requirements.

It is impossible to determine just what amount the Commission will demand, but the fact remains, that if they desire to levy one mill to cover their expenditure, the Council having no other alternative, will be obliged to meet with their request.

In the meantime, those electors who are bemoaning the fact, that they voted for the Parks By-law, because they did not know the provisions of the Act, should bear in mind that all roads to knowledge are open, but the right road is discoverable by no one but the individual himself.

It may be reasonably concluded that the members of the Board will adopt a programme of essential nature only, and the finances required will, therefore, conform to such plan. Considering and constructive economy will surely be their endeavor.

PREDICTIONS JUSTIFIED

Hon. T. A. Crerar, at a banquet to Sir Henry Thornton in the West a few nights ago, remarked that it was quite within the capacity of the Prairie provinces to produce a billion bushels of wheat annually. Forty years ago Sir Charles Tupper, in advocating the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway, forecasted a time when the West would produce 600,000,000 bushels of wheat. He was ridiculed by all the Liberal leaders of that day and placed in the same category as Ananias. Last year the West produced 400,000,000 bushels of wheat and now Mr. Crerar admits the probability of Sir Charles Tupper's estimate being greatly exceeded.

It was always thus with the Little Canadians of the Liberal party. They have never shown confidence in Canada and, invariably have been proven wrong in their contention of national and commercial inferiority of our people. They have always drawn their inspiration from Canada's rivals, to the detriment of Canadian individual and national capacity. Sir Charles Tupper has been justified; his critics are confounded.

THE HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY—A WORTHY UTILITY

It is gratifying to note that, as the years go by the laborers of the Horticultural Society appear to be finding an expansion in public interest and support.

It must be remembered that this organization had a very humble beginning and now after a comparatively few years of influence, it is no menial matter to review its many achievements.

Some idea of the ramifications of the Society's labors and its love of the beautiful may be observed during the summer season through-out the city, where the many plots and beds of flowers maintained and expertly cultured are the monuments of its efforts.

It is encouraging to note the spirit of co-operation expressed at the recent annual meeting held a few nights ago, when it was stated that the Society would work hand in hand with the Parks Commission and it is to be hoped that all citizens will zealously support and become members of this progressive civic institution which, by personal example and desire to assist, has stimulated everyone to higher and nobler endeavor relative to the beautification of our fair city.

HERE AND THERE

CHRONIC STARVATION—A DISEASE

Prolonged undernutrition is a condition that occurs in a variety of disorders. In its clinical aspects it is somewhat indirect consequence of conditions which for some reason or other interfere with adequate food intake, so that the phenomena of chronic starvation are often complicated by the effects of the concomitant disease. Dietary restriction rarely occurs in healthy persons of normal weight except for purely experimental purposes. Occasionally, however, prolonged deprivation of food is enforced by untoward circumstances such as intervene during war.

"The effects of these conditions with food scarcity have been described in connection with many campaigns," says a writer in The Journal of The American Medical Association, "and recently for the siege of Kut, lasting 148 days, by Maj.-Gen. Sir Patrick Hehir. It is estimated that toward the end of this period the daily rations yielded not more than from 1100 to 1600 calories for one man each day, an allowance far below even the basal resting requirement. The average loss of body weight varied from 1 0to 15 per cent. The muscles decreased in size, and about 80 per cent. of the usual adipose tissue disappeared. Under these conditions, the metabolism was evidently lowered, as is indicated by the decidedly slower pulse rate and the lowering of body temperature, both of which have been noted in experimental underfeeding.

"Serious intestinal conditions resembling dysentery were widespread, but Hehir is inclined to put them to a large extent into a category somewhat different from the diarrhoeas of bacterial origin. He believes that degenerative changes in digestive organs ensue in prolonged starvation, leading to failure to assimilate food properly. It is this feature, perhaps, which explains the often described inability to return at once to a normal diet after chronic undernutrition. The great caution necessary may be due to the temporary incapacity of the alimentary organs which restorative changes can only slowly repair."

And flashing glass and brass.

Like shadows from the drifting clouds
They move across the wave,
Those daring navies of the past
In towering canvas brave.
The phantom convoys of the ships
That rule the seas to-day,
For lo! their port and starboard lights
First blazed the stormy way.

A MOST IRRESPONSIBLE ADMINISTRATION

W. F. Nickle at Kingston so Describes the Drury Government—An Actual Deficit Incurred

Kingston, Ont., Jan. 18.—Addressing the annual meeting of the Kingston Conservative Association, W. F. Nickle, M.L.A., described the Drury Government as the most irresponsible Government Ontario ever had.

The Government, he said, "takes no responsibility for Legislature measures introduced into the House, the bills being sponsored by private members, an unheard-of proceeding. If they pass, it is all right, and if they do not pass it is apparently all right. In the past governments had to accept responsibility for all Government measures, which, if defeated, resulted in the Government's resignation. The Drury Government wobbles first one way and then another. In the coming election you will find the Farmer-Labor Government fighting for life and the Liberal courting public favor everywhere." Although the Government tried to show a surplus of $600,000, this was done in the book-keeping system. There was an actual deficit of $1,500,000.

ATTEMPT TO IMPROVE COMMONS' ACOUSTICS

Carpet on Floor—Curtains For Window Recesses—Building Being Renovated in Readiness for Opening

In an attempt to remedy faulty acoustics, the House of Commons chamber is this week undergoing alterations. All the desks have been moved and stages of scaffolding run around the walls. The intention is to tains across all the window recesses.

From time to time there have been suggestions that the seating should be changed completely and the Speaker's chair placed at one side rather than at the end. But such a project would involve remodelling of the chamber to a large extent, and no attempt will be made to put it into effect before the coming session.

The present changes are expected to be completed a week from next Saturday.

QUEBEC LEADS CANADA

It has been said—perhaps thoughtlessly—that the excellent financial position of Quebec is due to excessive taxation rather than economic business management. The publication of business principles to conduct in the affairs of a Province. The real reason that we stand today in a better position than we ever did before and in advance of any other Province in Canada.

The Citizens' Research Institute of Canada furnishes some interesting statistics which cannot be too widely known. The cost of Government is highest in British Columbia, $29.84 per head. In Alberta it is $14.69; Manitoba, $13.76; Ontario $8.08 and so on down until we find in Quebec it is lower than in any of the others, only $5.16 per head.

When we look at the taxation returns we find again that British Columbia heads the list with $10.22 per head. Ontario it is $3.54 and Quebec has the lowest taxation of all. $1.94 per head. Yet all other provinces have a deficit and Quebec alone has a surplus.

5% BEER OR 20% WINE
(Lindsay Post)

Premier Drury has declared himself solidly behind the Ontario Temperance Act. Those who do not agree with his views on temperance should at least respect them if he holds them if he holds them honestly and acts honestly and acts honestly and acts consistently with them.

But does he? He must be judged by his actions.

The O. T. A. limits the alcoholic content of beer to two and one-half percent. But suites when grapes are grown in Ontario, is quite legal, although its alcoholic content is three and one-half times as great as that of beer that was abolished by the O.T.A.

Is it possible that the votes of the farmers who grow grapes in the Niagara peninsula and elsewhere, have something to do with it? How about it, Mr. Drury and Mr. Raney?

NEW YORK TO STOP JAY-WALKING

Educational Effort to Improve Traffic Laws

(Canadian Press.)

New York, Jan. 17.—The New York Police Department has started a campaign against the "jay walker." Twelve police lieutenants, gifted with oratorical ability, have been assigned to address a series of meetings on the danger of cutting across the streets diagonally. They are appearing daily at the city schools and giving little lectures to the children advising them to refrain from stealing rides on trucks and hitching on behind with sleds, skates, and bicycles. They are also interviewing business men who operate fleets of trucks, urging their co-operation in the campaign. The slogan of the new movement is "Make New York a Safer Place to Walk In."

Sir Thomas White Denies Rumors to That Effect

Toronto, Jan. 17.—"There is no truth whatever in the statement," said Sir Thomas White, referring to reports that an anti-prohibition group might be formed in the Legislature, and that Sir Thomas was to be approached in the matter.

"It is absurd on the face of it." "No one has ever spoken to me upon the subject, nor do I know of any reason why I should be considered available as leader of an anti-prohibition party. I am not in politics except that I am, of course, a member and supporter of the Conservative party."

Woman's Sphere

WHY WOMEN ARE SUCH TALKERS

(By Canadian Press)

New York, Jan. 18.—Why do women talk more than men? Dr. A. A. Brill, professor of psychology at New York University, and well known psychoanalyst, told the National Association of Teachers of Speech why at their convention at the university recently.

Dr. Brill offered an explanation by the "suppressed, the declared philosophist. It was couched very scientifically, but the meat of it is that woman's vocabulary is smaller and more restablished than man's, but always on tap. She can get at it very quickly, and she so frequently walks man's illogical abilities are scattered. He cannot get at it always in time to have a comeback ready. The active, aggressive man has to struggle too hard to do much talking, the professor went on. On the other hand the women of today, like their primitive sisters, can cook and talk at the same time, and giving so much time to the child with whom she babbles and teaches to talk, she has developed her own speech.

SEWING HINTS

Rinse white woollens in cold water if kept dry. Sew a hook on one end and an eye on the other, of length to be used in trousers, blouses, etc., and remove before the garment is washed.

In turning up the hem on a new skirt, slip an old skirt over it. Ask someone to mark the skirt length around with pins as you walk to and fro from you, then turn without trouble.

After cutting the buttonhole the desired size, it take the curved eye the corner with the ordinary dress hook and eyes. I fasten this between the cloth at the outer end of the buttonhole and work in the usual way and over the eye. The eye prevents the buttonhole from tearing out as the often do.

When sewing on a chain-stitch machine, instead of finishing the thread at the end of the stitching and fast ening it with a sewing needle, sew ions by raising the foot of the machine and making five or six stitches into the last hole; then break the thread This will form a chain on the wrong side and will fasten the thread secur ely.

When washing wash waists or dresses it is a good plan to sew the hook and eyes firmly on a tape and tac k it where the fastenings are to be. Then when the blouse or dress must be washed the tap can be easily removed and there will be no crushed or broken hooks and eyes, nor any unsightly rust marks.

PIES OF A VARIETY

Pecan Pie

Scald a cupful of sweet milk with a half-cupful of sugar, thicken when boiling with a tablespoonful of flour rubbed smooth with two tablespoonfuls of water. Add gradually the well-beaten yolks of two eggs and drop in a teaspoonful of vanilla. Cool and add the juice of a lemon and cupful of chopped pecan meats. Bake in a pastry-lined pan, and finish with a meringue made of the egg whites, two tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar, and, a teaspoonful of lemon-juice. Brown slightly.

Coffee Cream Pie with Bananas

Into the top part of a double boiler put one cup of strong coffee and one cup of light cream or rich milk. Add one-half cup of sugar and 1-8 teaspoon of salt. When the mixture reaches the boiling point add one egg beaten smooth with two tablespoons of flour and enough cold milk to moisten well. Cook until the right consistency and remove from the fire. Cool and flavor with vanilla. Pour into baked crust which has been lined with ripe bananas thinly sliced. Serve with whipped cream.

LINES ON A MILLION DOLLARS

A million dollars would be nice to own,
To earn a million would be glorious sport;
Yet counting up the pleasures I have known,
I am content to fall a little short.

Not for a million, eagerly desired
Would I give up the comradeship I know;
The joy of resting when I'm worn and tired
Or playing with the lad who loves me so.

Not for a million would I scorn my friends
And bid them wait until I've reached my goal;
I would not be a slave to selfish ends
And to the beauty 'round me blind my soul.

Some of my time must go to birds and trees,
The few June roses growing near my door,
The children that are climbing to my knees,
For these bring peace of mind if nothing more.

No! for a million would I spend each day
And live in midnight at my dreary task;
That is too big a price for me to pay,
Too big a price for such a sum to ask.

Rather I'd choose to earn a little less,
To miss the money selfishness might give
Than to give up for such a cheap success
The joys enriching every day I live.

POTATOES AURORA

Cut cold, boiled potatoes in ¼ inch cubes. There should be sufficient to fill 2 cups. Re heat potatoes in 2 cups of thin white sauce. Turn into hot serving dish. Remove the shells from 4 hard-cooked eggs, cut them in halves crosswise, remove the yolks. Cut whites in rings and arrange rings around edge of potatoes; press the yolks through a ricer over potatoes. Sprinkle the rings with finely chopped parsely. Serve at once.

Home-Made Chop Suey.

1¼ pounds Hamburg.
1 small can tomatoes.
1 sweet pepper.
2 or 3 small onions.
1 large stalk celery.

Salt and pepper to taste.

Put meat on to cook with a little water. Cook slowly about twenty minutes. Fry onions in a little cooking fat until brown. Cut pepper (taking out seeds) and celery fine and cook with tomatoes until about half cooked. Add to the meat and cook about five minutes, adding the salt and Cayenne pepper to taste. This served with boiled rice instead of potatoes makes a hearty meal for five or six people and is very appetising.

Cheese Sandwiches.

Graham bread, one "cream cheese," French dressing, butter worked until soft and creamy, stuffed olives or chopped nuts.

Cut bread into thin slices and spread with butter. Wash cheese and moisten with French dressing. Spread half the bread slices with the cheese, sprinkle with olives or nuts and cover with remaining slices. Press together, remove crusts, and cut into smaller pieces, using fancy cutters if desired.

Frozen Raisin Custard.

3 tablespoons cornstarch.
½ cup sugar.
3 eggs.
¼ teaspoon salt.
½ teaspoon vanilla.
1 cup chopped Sun-Maid raisins.

Scald milk over hot water. Mix cornstarch with ½ cup sugar and add the hot milk. Stir constantly until thick and then occasionally for about half an hour. That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

ARE YOU TOO THIN?

About twenty years ago an emaciated man came into my office in Atlanta, Ga., and wished to consult me about his progressive loss of weight. A careful examination failed to reveal any organic trouble and I was really at a loss to understand his condition. He was of average height and weighed about 98 pounds.

I advised light work, plenty of rest, and more food. He secured a position as a collector, and was given his own time to make the collections. He went to bed early and got up late. In addition to his ordinary meals I had him drinking a quart of milk a day and three eggs. The milk and eggs were taken half way between the meals.

At the end of a month he returned and stated that he felt a little better, had put on a couple of pounds, but the rate of increase was just a little too slow to suit him. In fact he had decided to go to Florida to get the famous bread advertised by Dr.

In a few months he returned to Atlanta, the picture of health and weighing 130 pounds.

I said: "Well, I'll have to give the devil his due; that bread has made a new man of you. How much and often did you eat it?"

He laughed—"Why, as for the bread, guess I only ate it twice during all the time I was away."

"Well, then," I said, "how did you put on so much weight?"

"Oh, I ate eighteen to twenty raw eggs and drank six to eight quarts of milk a day."

This story is an absolute fact, and I leave you to draw your own conclusions. Milk and eggs are wonderful as food. Sometimes I have had patients beat up the eggs and fill the glass with syphon soda, where they could not tolerate milk.

SHORT STORIES FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

It Never Showers But it Pours

"Well, that it's settled," said Hattie, taking another piece of fudge.

"Yes, and we're all glad you know just what Blanche would like," chimed in Mary Potts. "Isn't it lucky you heard her say she wanted handkerchiefs for her birthday?"

"I always did think a handkerchief shower would be fun," declared Lucile Moore. "I'm going to make her one of those pongee ones like mother's."

"Well, you'd better get busy, for there isn't much time. I'm going right home and get that quilt I've been working on one for her now," Mary said.

As soon as the girls left Hattie rushed off to find her mother. "The girls want to have a handkerchief shower for Blanche to-morrow," she explained.

"Why, that will be lovely," Mrs. Blake agreed. "Blanche needs handkerchiefs badly. Jean yesterday I heard her say that if she didn't get some for her birthday she was going to have to go down town to get some. You know I bought her half a dozen. I'll save them and give them to her when you girls do." Just then Blanche came in from school, so they could talk no more about it.

Hattie was very busy the next day and she found time at noon to rush down town. "They are having a sale at Gimbel's and I bought a dozen," she whispered to her mother. "They're really very nice ones. Isn't it lucky they happened to be having a sale?"

"A dozen!" Mrs. Blake gasped.

"Well, they were so pretty," laughed Hattie, "and they were selling them by the box, a dozen in a box."

The girls were to arrive at four-thirty after school Blanche was down town so that preparations for the party could go on without her suspecting anything. "Oh, Hattie," she cried, "look what I bought."

Proudly Blanche opened her package and displayed the contents. "You know I didn't get any for my birthday and Gimbel's were having a sale so I got two dozen."

Just then the door bell rang. "You go," moaned Hattie. "I don't feel like it." But the girls didn't wait. The door burst open and in rushed the girls, each waving a box of handkerchiefs and all talking at once. "Not only one who had thought of the sale at Gimbel's.

"Never showers but it pours," laughed Blanche's mother, as she gave her daughter a half dozen more.

LINKED LIVES

By D. Kinmount Roy

Hardcastle was, for his part, owning to himself that he had a difficult problem to solve, more difficult than he had ever imagined, in fact, he had grown to consider his position absolutely secure and all his troubles almost ended. There was only the young girl, this most unnecessary young girl, and it should not have been a difficult matter to have her move on the ground of their friendship to respect the present long-established order of things and consider the interest of his son. He even thought of trying to get the girl into his own hands. It might even be possible to marry her quietly to Sherwin and send them both, sufficiently provided for, to the ends of the earth! All of he were only free to set himself and carry out reasonable plans, all would be well.

But that was just what he dare not do, and hence the situation was becoming every hour more threatening and exasperating to the old Hardcastle's temperament. Was it possible, he asked himself, that the old lord found out the truth before he died? When he heard of his persistent search he had some misgivings, and he had endeavored to temporize him to the death and secure any evidence he might have procured. Had he succeeded? Was it only a serious failure? Still the question came back: Could Glenmore have learned the truth? Could he have found out that he had played him false? And surely have cursed-his own folly, rather than if he did know that he could be more than the subtle and effective brain that had played so daringly for such high stakes and won? Still, it remained a bitter thought that Glenmore might, after all, have discovered his treachery and his guilt.

A sense of dread and horror crept into his mind; and in spite of his self-assurance and iron nerve he felt at times like a criminal under some strange compulsion obliged to look into the eyes of his victim, until in defiance of his deadly work the gaze seemed to follow every movement with a fearful, haunting intentness, when in truth there was but ever sealed to sore oblivion, like a burden-out shut!

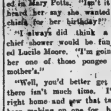
Yes, he would like to know whether Glenmore had found him out; it would make no difference, of course, but he would like to know!

He was thankful now that Reginald was out of the way; it was best so!—all things considered; he had imbibed certain odd notions about honor and such-like that were in no way to a sensible man's advantage, but on the contrary embarrassing in dealing with the every-day affairs of life.

Of course, he repeated, it made no difference—could not possibly make any difference, but it would be a satisfaction to know if Glenmore died believing in him as his friend, or had formed opinion of him, if such was the case, might even be of some material service to him now. Glenmore was a hard man to battle to fight!—he would fight it out to the end, he would like to fight it out in the open, a man like to fight where he can see his foe. The thought came to the Squire with much bitterness; he felt himself an ill-used man. It did not occur to him that through his own devilish machinations a brave and honourable men had fought to the death in the dark, leaving his son a murdered reputation and a barren heritage. But Hardcastle seemed to have no capacity left for any appreciation of the other side of things touching himself. Perhaps under the pressure of painful circumstances some seeds of human instinct might alter all seems on the surface; but that was a possibility quite out of the question at present.

His mind turned from every other consideration to the pressing question of how much Maitland knew, how much evidence he could produce, and under where had the link failed in that chain which he had forged with such skill and care? He looked across the room—to where Sherwin was turning over the leaves of a book with much interest, evidently forgetting the existence of the master of Sweeney, and quite unconscious of the unspoken fear tugging at his heart.

Could he make use of him? Hardcastle wondered; he certainly had intended doing so, but it was doubtful if he could get any service out of him.



"He is evidently a spoiled parson," the Squire said to himself with a touch of contempt. "I was by no means partial to what other use he could be put to, he had nothing of the stuff out of which I could make a tool, he would be faithful in short, Sherwin was disappointing and the Squire was inwardly cursing over the discovery. He was an unimaginative creature enough, he told himself—he had been deceived in other men's motives, vanities, and with whimsical notions about what he was pleased to call "honor." His ideas! nurtured the Squire scornfully, looking across the large room to where his visitor was absorbed in a book, his head bent and engrossed in the perusal of the volume which he had unearthed, of absolutely obvious of Hardcastle's existence as though he were in another planet.

THE BANKING SITUATION

The almost daily advance of Canadian bank stocks in the market is a striking commentary upon the soundness of the position of the leading institutions of the Dominion, the outstanding strong feature of yesterday's market was Bank of Montreal which advanced four points to the new high of 227. Molsons Bank distinguished itself by also reaching a new high price level at 172. There advances came just after Commerce and Royal had made new high records. The coming through these such years as 1920-21-22 with the showing indicated in the annual reports that have appeared this year, Canadian banks have indeed established themselves upon a basis to inspire confidence in their ability to meet and successfully cope with any situation, national or international, which may arise.

ONTARIO HOUSE SESSIONS OPEN TUESDAY NEXT

Expected to be Last Meeting Before Appeal is Made to the People

Redistribution Question

Provincial Treas. Smith Expected to Announce Substantial Surplus—Timber Issue

Toronto, Jan. 17.—What is expected to be the final session of Ontario's fifteenth Legislature opens at Queen's Park on January 23. An appeal to the people will follow during the year, some say in June, others in October, and men versed in provincial politics predict the party leaders will step warily and not risk their chances of success in the election by any rash manoeuvres in the Legislative Chamber. The coming session provides the groups which make up the Parliament with their last opportunity to draw the front windows before the appeal is made to the people.

There will not be as much legislation passed this year as in previous years, according to the old timers. During the three sessions the Parliament has been in action, it has converted 661 bills into law, so no great hardship is expected if it does not let it fails to keep up its average. While the Government's programme will not be extensive as has been, it has several measures ready to be submitted to the members of the Legislature when the House opens. The Trade Agreements Act, which is intended to curb combines, is ready after having been reported upon by the special committee of the House, as is also the Sale of Securities Act, commonly known as the "Blue Sky" law and designed to protect investors from "wildcat" stocks. The act to amalgamate the City of Toronto and the County of York registry offices and the Mechanics' and Wage Earners' Lien Act are also ready. An act to amend the land titles is planned and one to provide for county high school boards.

Redistribution Question.

Whether there will be a redistribution bill will largely depend, it is understood, on the temper of the House when it convenes. The Drury Government is said to be inclined to offer all the members an opportunity to fix in the law a bill delimiting the electoral districts, hoping to thereby reach a compromise satisfactory to all and meet the demand from the urban centers for larger representation. If the Government and the groups make-up of the opposition cannot agree, then a warm battle or no redistribution at all would be the outcome.

Last year the Government had two of a majority but that was due to the fact that there were two vacancies. These have since been filled, A. Gourlet, a Liberal, being returned from Russell; Donnelly, and Col. Alan Machrie, a Conservative, from Southeast Toronto. Thus there will be 58 Unifarm-Labor Government supporters, 26 Liberals, 26 Conservatives and three Independents. This is counting E. Lang, of Cochrane, as a Liberal, although he sits in the Independent group. However, the friends of Premier Drury and his administrative are quite as safe against meeting defeat this session as any previous year. There is little indication of a get-together spirit in the opposition groups.

To Announce Surplus.

It is generally accepted that Provincial Treasurer Peter Smith will be able to announce a surplus as substantial that the opposition will not be able to blame it on "book-keeping." The biggest source of revenue, that of succession duties, was a record breaker in the past fiscal year, it being underlined to have turned in well over $5,000,000 to the provincial treasury. Then there was $2,212,290 from the five per cent. tax on race track winnings, an entirely new source of revenue. Automobile license fees brought in more than ever and so did the other sources from which the provincial treasury gets its resources. Accordingly, while the expenditures will be so much greater, almost a million increase in school grants alone, and the Mothers' Allowances calling away by a million and a half, Old Man Ontario will likely find that he finished the year with a tidy balance.

One of the largest spending departments of the year was that of highways, and debates on that will be bound to rage long and furiously during the next few weeks. Probably the greatest clash of the session will revolve around it. While many municipalities and large centres are violently interested in hydro and hydro radials, understanding every detail of the differences in the policies advocated by the opposing groups, many others do not appreciate that such questions mean anything to them. But they have all built roads and the smallest municipality among the farmers there has concessions at once gets interested when highways are under discussion. Other departments of administration may make mistakes that no one on the outside will overlook, but a mistake in road-making is viewed by every passer-by. The farmers claim their taxes have stayed up while the prices of their products have gone down, and they are inclined to be critical as to how the money was spent. But many believe the road-building has been the greatest achievement of the Drury Government and with a vigorous fighter like Hon. T. C. Kings leading for the administration forces in such a battle, lots of action is to be expected.

Changes Not Expected.

Hydro Radials will with roads in getting into the limelight in the debates at Queen's Park. The Government is not expected to make any changes, at least none of importance, to the radial bill it passed last session. On the other hand the hydro radial bill was meant to kill radials.

If the Gregory Commission probing the interlocking directorate system brings in its report during the session, that will perhaps bring on more debate. Of course it depends on when the report says; but there is so much money invested in hydro, including the Chippawa power, and in Ontario and other systems, that it is bound to be one that will require a great deal of discussion.

There is no word as to whether the Government will introduce the bill to increase the indemnity of members. The Conservatives vow that they will fight it to the last ditch, so its introduction would likely lead to bitterness on the length of the session and the complacency of the proceedings.

Timber Issue.

The timber question has been talked about so much that many people will be surprised to see it not receive really new about it this session. However, the Timber Commission's final report was presented and the evidence rose and after it the report of Dr. Judson Clarke, the latter recommending the cancellation of the contract of Doyle rule under which the lumber companies at present pay dues to the Government. This is to be modified by the lumbermen to be only an approximation as to the amount of lumber any lot of timber contains, but they take issue with Dr. Clarke's plan to have actual measurements, claiming it is impossible to do this and it is impossible to tell how much of a piece of timber will be wasted because of rot or other defects. So any attempt to do away with the Doyle rule will be met with strong opposition by the lumbermen and maybe a repeal or of a similar nature is put in its place.

The Dairy Standards Act which was made compulsory last year does not seem to have started the trouble among the farmers that many expected eg. Even many of the farmers' supporters of the Government were not at all enthusiastic over Hon. Manning Doherty's insistence that all milk going to cheese factories must be paid for on a butter fat basis instead of by actual weight, all of which not seem to have brought about all the trouble that they feared. The Hydro Radial Enterprise is a question, from whose district most of the complaints came, were quite favorable to it. The Hydro Radial meeting and the big objection at that meeting was the way the cheese is graded, which will be remedied at present.

So the fight has been transferred to Ottawa and a number of members at Queen's Park will not be sorry.

The laws were passed last year to provide for co-operation in handling cheese, but the fairness of the embargo on cattle by the British Government may make it advisable to pass some laws at Queen's Park which will enable the Ontario farmer to take full advantage of it.

The Ontario Conservance Act will again face the members. Although there was a lot of talk before last session about cutting it up and modernizing the province again, the only changes were to make it stiffer and more difficult to enforce it. Hydro, so its attempts to make it less stringent are expected this session. Like last year, most of the criticism

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Jan., 18.—Active buying, partly on foreign account, together with war-like reports, such as that Germany had massed 40,000 troops facing the French advance, brought about decided upturn yesterday in the value of grain. Wheat closed strong, 1½c to 2½c net higher, May $1.31⅞ to $1.31⅝, and July $1.14⅞ to $1.14⅝. Corn finished ⅝c to ¾c to top, and oats ¾c to 1c.

Almost from the start wheat trading gave indications that European purchasing had broadened out and this was associated more or less with talk which was current that if the Ruhr invasion proved unproductive the French planned an attempt to occupy Berlin and two of the chief German seaports as well.

Bullish sentiment thus engendered became especially pronounced also news was circulated that Germany was mobilizing military forces on a considerable scale and that a large export business in the United States was under way. It was said Great Britain had taken 600,000 bushels and that France and other European countries were also buyers.

Assertions that the movement of the Argentine crop had met with unexpected delay tended further to strengthen the bullish position, and so, likewise, did continued adverse weather conditions in the domestic winter wheat territory. On the other hand, word that a panic existed in the Berlin money market failed to have the slightest bearish influence here and, with recent speculative sellers showing something of a disposition to cover positions, wheat market closed at the highest point reached in several weeks.

Corn and oats followed wheat upgrade. Seaboard advices told of good export demand for corn.

Future wheat closed:—

MONTREAL MOVEMENT

Trading in listed shares on the Montreal Stock Exchange yesterday was more active to the extent of more than 1,000 shares, but this increase in the turnover was at the expense of quoted values. There were few exceptions to the decline in which those stocks which have figured most prominently in speculative favorite, were included. Brazilian, which has been the price of 20 securities, yesterday's was the most substantial price move in either direction of the day, the decline having amounted to ¾3 point. There was at no time any real pressure to sell the issue and it was the lack of such that only 5,905 shares changed hands. The local situation was a reflection of the more attempt of members of the New York market, control of which passed into the hands of bearish factors after the attempt to corner wheat upon the story of German troops massed near the invading French army. There was no pressure to sell forced locally suggesting an approximately feeling, but there were no buyers of consequence to meet even considerable price concessions. There seems no disposition in any quarter of the market to permit that expensive show of "holding the bag" with the result that such stock offerings as appeared were picked up at levels which, from the standpoint of a few weeks ago at least, appeared cheap. At the low level, however, considerable brokers thought they saw something of a picking up in outside interest in the market.

ALL ENGLAND AGOG

Duke of York Going to Scotland Next Week—May Visit Canada on Honeymoon

London, Jan. 18.—Everybody in London was one hundred per cent. agog today over the announcement of the Duke of York's engagement. People talked of it everywhere, in subways, in the street cars, in the theatres and in the most gossipy of all places, the omnipotent tea room.

Every conversation, of course, once got to the point where the remarks were prefaced with, "I see by the papers"—and then plunged boldly into the topic.

Here are some of the things regarding Prince Albert's engagement to Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, daughter of the Earl of Strathmore, one saw in the papers today:

The Duke of York popped the question three times before he succeeded in getting "Yes" for an answer—the first time he proposed was in April, 1921.

Princess Mary's wedding; the second, while golfing last September, and thirdly, last Sunday, when he was the honored guest at the Hertfordshire home of the Earl.

It is said that after turning down the proffer, Lady Elizabeth received a letter from the Queen, saying she was perfectly right not to marry the duke unless she loved him. Perhaps the young duke was surprised by being accepted on Sunday, as he had not brought the engagement ring.

"So far as I know," said Lady Elizabeth's father today, "the ring has not even been purchased; the prince did not bring one in his pocket."

Asked whether the young prince betrayed the nervousness common to those seeking a daughter's hand of a parent, Lord Strathmore said:

"Oh, no, the prince was not in the least nervous; only in his usual good spirits."

On Monday, Prince Albert hurried to Sandringham to get his parents' approval and his successful accomplishment of this was announced an hour later in the court circular. Today he went to see Elizabeth and her mother lunched together at the Strathmore town house.

"I had the first news from my wife, who has been told by my daughter," the Earl of Strathmore said. "I think the queen wants them to be married very soon, maybe in six months' but I am not certain."

The common belief is that the date of the wedding will be announced in a few days, and will likely be set for May or June in Westminster Abbey.

Prince Albert first met Lady Elizabeth at a children's party given by Lady Leicester, when Lady Elizabeth was five or six years of age, and the prince was a school boy. Recently they have danced, hunted and played golf and tennis together often. Lady Elizabeth's sister, Lady Rose Constance-Grosvenor, today that Lady Elizabeth was not in the least bothered by the recent report that she was engaged to the Prince of Wales. "I do not think she paid the slightest attention to it," said Lady Rose.

The Canadian Press understands that the Duke of York, in fulfilment of the desire he expressed during his visit to make a visit to Canada, is still eager to make the journey, but no plans whatever are under way for such a project. It is impossible to say whether the happy announcement of his engagement will affect him with regard to his wished-for Canadian visit.

"I Now Feel Fine"

Mrs. P. G. Murdock, Box 433, Portage la Prairie, Man., writes:

"I was troubled for years with biliousness, constipation, kidney and liver troubles. I tried many different kinds of medicines, but nothing did me much good until I tried Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I now feel fine, but am never without these pills in the house. Dr. Chase's Ointment has relieved my husband of piles, from which he used to suffer badly."

FORMULA FOR GOOD MILK

American Expert's View—His Slogan is Feed, Weed and Breed

"Feed, weed and breed" is the chief dairy's magic formula for good milk, according to M. H. Keeney, dairy specialist of the New Jersey State Agricultural College, in a statement concerning the present market demand for cheaper milk.

"The market will not pay a big price for milk," writes Mr. Keeney, "so we dairyman must cut our production costs. The two factors controling the economical production of milk are the adaptability of the cow for giving milk judged by her conformation, and by the milk scales and the Babcock test, and the amount and kind of food labsorbed. The feed bill is the largest direct expense, and the dairyman's high road to success lies in producing a unit of clean, wholesome milk for the least possible cost.

"The first essential for good milk is good cows, the other is proper feed and care—it may be summarized briefly in three words, feed, weed and breed. Silage and alfalfa hay are the best for cheap milk, and they are the best for the economical production of milk. Every dairyman should have them and should follow these directions.

"Feed all the roughage the cow will clean up. Part of it should be a legume, such as clover or alfalfa.

"Feed a liberal grain ration.

"Give sufficient feed, such as silage or roots.

"Buy grain in accordance with milk production—for Holstein or Ayrshire, approximately one pound of grain for each three pounds of milk. A variety of grains in the mixture is desirable.

"Feed and milk regularly.

"Have plenty of fresh water at all times.

"Give access to salt daily.

"Buy grain feeds on the basis of their protein and energy, not simply by the hundredweight."

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Crests Gas, Sourness and Pain Now To Trust.

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The hydrochloric acid irritates digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed, as in such cases and many do real harm. Try laying aside all digestants and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water after each meal. This neutrals the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is then no sour stomach. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or Tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless in the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS TO VISIT ANTIPODES

J. A. Ruddick and W. A. Wilson Appointed to Investigate Grading and Systems on New Zealand.

Ottawa, Jan. 18.—J. A. Ruddick, dairy commissioner for Canada, and W. A. Wilson, manager of the Saskatchewan Co-operative Creameries and president of the Canadian Produce Dairies' Association, have been appointed by the federal Government to study the dairy industry in New Zealand and Australia. They will sail from Vancouver on January 26 and will spend four or five weeks in New Zealand and about a fortnight in Australia. Subjects outlined for study include milk production, manufacturing of both butter and cheese, and the system of grading, marketing and shipping.

In the announcement of the appointments it is said that a study of the status of Canadian dairy products on the British market "points to the need for prompt and energetic action if Canada is to make any progress on the British market between if she is to hold her own," and that "hitherto those other great British dominions would seem to be getting ahead of her."

"The system of grading dairy products in the chief countries mentioned, which has been in operation in New Zealand for some considerable time, has been for the last few years followed on our prairies, with the result that butter from those provinces will recently have obtained a reputation of rather poor repute is now of primary importance and commands a higher price on the British market than that from any other part of Canada. With the general introduction into Canada of this grading system, and the application of some of the other methods which have helped make New Zealand and Australian dairy products famous, there would seem to be no reason why this country should not regain her former ascendancy on the British market.

WEDDING BELLS

O'CONNOR—GOUGH

The marriage took place in the Holy Name of Mary Church, Marysville, (Wednesday) 10 a.m., of Miss Marguerite Mary Gough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gough, and one of Lonsdale's most prominent young men, Mr. John O'Connor. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father O'Gorman.

HINCHLIFFE—HOBBLE.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Wed. Jan. 17th, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Hobble, Jr., when their only daughter Freda Marguerite became the bride of Mr. Barton C. Hinchliffe, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Hinchliffe, Wallbridge, Rev. H. H. Mutton officiating.

Promptly at eleven-thirty to the strains of the wedding march the bride entered the parlour leaning on the arm of her father. The bride was tastefully gowned in white duchesse satin with contrasting veil and orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of white carnations. The young couple were unattended. The groom's gift to the bride was a diamond ring.

After the ceremony the guests repaired to the home and presented the bride with a miscellaneous shower. All join in wishing them a long and happy wedded life.

Blue-jay

to your druggist

The simplest way to end a corn is Blue-jay. A touch stops the pain instantly. Then the corn loosens and comes out. Made in a colorless clear liquid (one drop does it!) and in thin plasters. The action is the same.

Constipation

Believed Without the Use of Laxatives

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—it cannot gripe.

CALLED BY DEATH

ROBERT J. TAYLOR

An old time resident of Belleville died at his home in Detroit, Mich., on Jan. 8th, after a lingering illness, which kept him confined to his bed for some time.

Mr. Taylor left Belleville about 22 years ago for St. Louis Mo., in which city he resided for about 18 years. Hearing of the prosperity which struck Detroit about that time, he decided to move his family to that city where he has lived for the past 10 years, and where he made many friends and prospered. During the Old Boys' Re-union in Belleville a few years ago "Bob" was there renewing old acquaintance, motoring from Detroit with a few friends.

Mr. Taylor leaves besides his wife two sons, Richard F. and Charles W. Taylor and one daughter, Ida, one brother, Clark Taylor, and a sister, Mrs. Albert Nolan, both of Detroit, and one brother and three sisters in Belleville—Mrs. Geo. Monaco, Mrs. Annie Fitzpatrick and Mrs. Charlotte Cluff. The funeral services were held at his late residence on Sixteenth Ave., Friday, Jan. 12th. Interment in Woodmere cemetery, Detroit.

Ottawa, Jan. 18.—The Department of Customs and Excise has issued to collectors the following additional rulings in regard to stamp tax duties on receipts.

(2) A mailed form letter, which by other tax has been paid under the special War Revenue Act.

(3) A form letter, mailed in an envelope, acknowledging payment of $10 or over, requires a 2 cent stamp affixed because it bears no evidence that any other tax has been paid under the special War Revenue Act.

EUROPE SEES IMPROVEMENT IN TELEPHONE FACILITIES

International Conference is Called to Discuss the Matter of Communication

(By Canadian Press)

London, Jan. 17.—The problem of wireless Europe is the establishment of general international telephone communicating. It is said there are cases of good speech between London and Berlin. If another country intervenes, contact is possible and if the countries are contiguous.

An international conference of telephone officials has been called to consider improvements by the establishment of through trunk lines. The tentative plans include England, Spain, France, Belgium, Germany, Holland, Switzerland, Italy, Morocco, Algeria, Tunis, Tripoli and Egypt. A central point would be Paris, which already exists for the main trunk line terminal, and the international communication would be specified from there point to point.

RED MAN IS BY NO MEANS EXTINCT

Census of Indians in U. S. Shows a Slight Gain

Atlantic City, N.J., Jan. 17.—The Red Man is not dying, as many people think. On the contrary, they show this year a slight numerical increase as compared to 12 months ago, according to Dr. E. R. Higley, of Chicago, superintendent of the work among Indians of the Board of Home Missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Dr. Higley disclosed this condition in an address today at the annual meeting in this city of the Home Mission council of the church. The Indian census a year ago showed 340,638 Indians; now they number 340,917.

"There is no field of home missionary endeavor where the spirit and promise of co-operation among these denominational boards and workers is more manifested than in the field of christian work among Indians," continued Dr. Higley.

"The christian missionary work among Indians, includes a study of the missionary stations and native churches, their economic and spiritual needs, and (2) a survey of the Indian schools, both governmental and mission, their educational status, and the opportunity presented for a unified religious educational program; (3) a survey of the 147 reservations and other communities where Indians are to be found in any appreciable number.

"There are 30,000 Indian boys and girls between five and sixteen years of age who are of school age, about 20,000 are provided in government schools, and the remaining 30,000 are still without school privileges. In the Indian schools special attention is put upon agriculture and home economics. In the large non-reservation school many trade courses are provided. The manner in which the Indian Bureau for the last two years has worked for the better treatment of unschooled Indian boys and girls, is matter for favorable comment.

"In the old days the Indian centred everything around his religion, and his religion entered into every phase of his life. He cannot understand a christianity which is not in some way related to his physical well-being, to planting and his harvesting. At present health conditions in many places are deplorable. The christian order of the day is for social and community services which are an expression of the religion of Jesus that shall be sufficient for both worlds, this world and the world to come. That social religion appeals to the Indian. The present program of the rural church among Indians is needed for the young people coming from schools, and for the adult who want to return to their pagan religions; they know they are false. The Society must plan a more real program for Indian endeavor which will satisfy the religious intellect and social needs of the people as well as the aged. The church must even use the Indian dialect, but it must emphasize English speech in training native leadership.

"The church must discover and develop a trained and native christian leadership. The Indian young people should be encouraged to go further than the sixth grade usually provided by the government reservation schools. Educated Indian farmers and their wives, here, and there, are professional men and women; and a well-trained Indian missionary above all, are urgently needed."

PARSON BOOTLEGGER ADMITS GUILT

Has Made Confessions—Scotch Made from Moonshine—Borrowed Funds From Widow Which She Saved for Burial Money

Fort Huron, Mich., Jan. 17.—Admitting that he used his clerical garb to cloak bootlegging activities, even borrowing $50 from an aged widow, a former parishioner, to finance his operations, Rev. Roland Cronich, former Free Methodist pastor, was remanded to jail yesterday to await sentence. He was charged not with prohibition violation, but with carrying concealed weapons. He pleaded guilty to gun-toting and made a full confession of his rum-running activity.

Crouch said he had filled pulpits at Marine City, in Kimball Township and in the Elmwood Methodist Church here. He confessed that he bought a large quantity of moonshine from Thomas Anthony, local fruit dealer, transporting it to the Canadian side, where he colored, bottled and labeled it as Scotch, and then re-crossed the border, retailing it in Michigan.

Crouch said he needed funds last Fall and went to his former parishioners at Marine City, borrowing $150 from various ones there.

One of these benefactors, he said, was an aged widow who lent him $60 she had saved for a burial fund. All of these loans will be repaid under direction of Circuit Judge Law from proceeds of the sale of Crouch's bootlegging car.

KING ACKNOWLEDGES MESSAGE

Ottawa, Jan. 18.—The King has sent a message of thanks, in reply to one from the Governor-General conveying the congratulations of the Government and the people of Canada, on the engagement of the Duke of York to Lady Elizabeth Bowes Lyon.

Last evening at the home of Mrs. Thomas McCourt, South John St., a spelldinous shower was given to Mrs. Bunton (nee Lottie McCourt) by about twenty of her friends and neighbors. After the basket had been emptied and everyone's curiosity appeased, dancing and card playing was indulged in until an early hour this morning. Dainty refreshments were served to the guests. The bride-to-be was well remembered by her friends for their kindness to her.

This first regular terrific committee meeting of the present Council will be held this evening when matters appertaining to the city's welfare will be discussed. Many important matters, referred and accepted, will be up for discussion at the Council meeting on Wednesday next.

When His Honor Judge Wills, Police Magistrate pro tempore ascended the bench at police court this morning he was greeted by an audience which filled the court room to overflowing. Legal talent was also represented, in addition to a number of Provincial Officers whose duty it is to see that the O. T. A. as well as all other laws, is enforced. C., conducted the examination on behalf of the prosecution.

"Thus Spoke Brave Horatius"

The first case called was that of Earle Anderson who was charged with being intoxicated at Point Anne, on December 9th, 1922. To the charge he pleaded guilty and being questioned by Mr. Carnew stated that he obtained two beer bottles which contained liquor from Alko Lindo, a foreigner, whose home is at the Point. Anderson stated he paid $2 for each bottle and the bottles contained about a pint each. In this case a fine of $10 and costs was imposed.

Arthur Fuller and Orie Andrews both pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication and were each fined $10 and costs.

SOCIAL QUESTIONS ARE DISCUSSED AT JOHN STREET

Interesting Evening During Which Miss Duff Delivered Address—Tea Hour Enjoyable — Programme Given

A happy company of young women met last evening in John Street Church to spend the supper hour together and hear leading social questions of the day discussed by Miss Duff, of Toronto, who was the guest and speaker of the evening. Miss Duff is well informed. One of her points of attack was that growing evil, the cigarette. Miss Duff emphasized the need of each one doing her bit to clean up and lead the world to a brighter day.

After the abundant supper a programme was given, every number of which was excellent—vocal solos by Miss Queenie Kerr, Mrs. Keeler and Mrs. Slinger; a reading by Miss Maud Bine. The devotional was taken by Miss Morden and Miss Rowland. Miss Reeves, the president of the Y. W.C.T.U., took the chair.

DEBT REFUNDING MISSION RECALLED

Washington, Jan. 19.—The Americus and British debt funding negotiations will be closed for her today in order that the British commissioners might return to their country and report the American position on the $5,000'000,000 war debt to Premier Bonar Law.

The entire British mission will sail from New York for England Saturday.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Baldwin will outline the American position in the British cabinet upon his arrival, January 27.

The two commissioners failed to reach a definite agreement.

Subsequent negotiations will be conducted through the British embassy here.

London, Jan. 19.—The return from Washington of the Baldwin debt mission without a settlement being effected of British debt is disappointing, the Daily Express says today. "If America is so unreasonable in her demands as to make it impossible for us to liquidate our obligations without causing undeserved suffering in this country, efforts must wait until Washington is more enmeshed and the state of the world money market improves."

T. namely Edith Carroll Lodge No. 649. Past President Wm. Hall installed the Brotherhood while 2nd Vice Grand of the Grand Lodge, Sister Mrs. Cusack, installed the ladies. After the installation and each officer had been conducted to her place the toast to the Grand Lodge was proposed by Brother Hall and responded to by Sister Mary Cusack, who said how pleased the Grand President would be to hear of the large attendance of the local chapter and the good work they have accomplished since their short lodge life. She referred to the good work that could be attained by the Auxiliary Lodge; the help they were in that line; the charity they could exert and the social life they could make for themselves. The Vice Grand said she could not understand why any woman, who was eligible, would not join, also why any man would not want their wives to become members. Sister Cusack said from her observation as thought the ladies lodges were more prompt in attendance than the Brothers, as they were only seven short of the latter. She impressed upon her hearers that the Auxiliary was not only a social body, but also a business one, as they carried funeral benefits as well as an insurance. In conclusion the speaker thanked the Belleville Lodge, No. 649 for their kindness to her and wish of them all a happy and prosperous

German Sentiment

Samples of German sentiment in the occupied zone may be seen in two instances reported last night. As a German girl in Steele was leaving a moving picture theatre with a French soldiers, someone slipped behind her and bobbed her hair. At Kettwig, a crowd kept the window of a barber shop wherein were displayed postcard views of the entry of the French.

WAR BAN LIFTED IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS

Opening of Parliament Ceremonies Will be Georgeous —Accommodation Limited in Buildings

Ottawa, Jan. 19.—Requests for tickets of admission to the ceremonie attending the opening of parliamen on January 31 are pouring into Ot tawa, and many, perforce, will have to be disappointed. The seating ac commodation in the senate chamber in which the governor-general, as i customary, will read the speech from the throne, is very quite limited. Ther was the case in the old buildings, Th seating capacity of the floor of th Senate, exclusive of the seats re pied by senators, is only 210, so tha a very small proportion of those en titled to invitation can be accommo dated. Gallery accommodation in the senate chamber is likewise very lim ited. There are only 170 seats in th reserved gallery, and in the genera gallery only 117. Thus the task of allotting tickets will be no small one

The 1st Canadian Artillery brigade will supply the saluting bat tery. At the drawing-room, whic will be held on the afternoon of the day the opening, veils and feathers although optional, may be worn for the first time since the war. It is ex pected that the drawing-room will be one of the most largely attended in re cent years.

The last British troops to leave southern Ireland were given a remarkably affectionate send-off as they sailed from Dublin.

THIS MAN PLAYED DUAL ROLE

Bold Burglar by Night, Gentleman Lover by Day—Remanded for Trial

Toronto, Jan. 19.—David Campbell, alias McDonald, alias Adams, pleaded guilty in the police court yesterday to twelve charges of housebreaking stretching over a period since last May, but denied the theft of ten cases of liquor.

He stole upwards of $3,000 worth of jewelry, specializing in diamonds, and gave a considerable portion of it to the girl whom he had been deceiving. As the time of his arrest, the only charge against him was that of trespass, but as his explanation was not considered satisfactory the detective office considered finger prints, which led to the discovery of his past record. He had previous convictions against him in Lethbridge, Medicine Hat and here in Toronto, where he last served 0 days for theft in 1920. He claims to be the son of a minister residing in Michigan.

In view of what he had already admitted, it was decided to remand him another week for further investigation.

WOULD HANG DOCTORS AND LASH DRUGGISTS

Director of Quebec Hospitals For Insane Denounces Traffickers — Are laying Basis of Suicide and Crime

Montreal, Jan. 19.—Life imprisonment with the lash is not an adequate penalty for the dope trafficker; he should be hanged. I refer particularly to the man who imports into this country any $50,000 worth of drugs, and in order to make $1,000,000 profit out of it sets at work an enormous waste of vital energy which gets off into degeneracy, laying the basis for suicide, murder, violent crimes of all kinds and the degeneration of families."

This statement was made, today by Dr. A. H. Bodges, director-general of the hospitals for the insane, reformatory schools and public charities of the province, and also director of the Committee on Venereal Diseases.

LASH FOR DOCTORS.

"Doctors," he continued, "who in any way further the drug habit should be lashed unmercifully and jailed; their guilt is of a repulsive order."

Addicts who voluntarily become such should be put in jail for a term sufficiently long to break them.

"Unfortunate, who have become victims to the drug habit through sickness should be protected, but interned until cured.

"In all cases the supply of narcotics must be cut off entirely; no cure is possible otherwise."

MIDGET LEAGUE GAME THURSDAY

Boys Show Some Clever Stick Handling, But Were Inclined to Rough Play

The Canadicks defeated the Apex Trailrangers in a Midget league game at the rink last evening. The forwards on both sides did the best of the play, and have two or three boys who have the making of good hockey players. Doran played a nice game for the Frontenacs, he is a clever stick-handler, but needs training in shooting. The Canadicks were inclined to be a bit rough but promptly got the gate.

Bawden and Labarr were also effective for the winners.

Nicholson looked the best of the trail-rangers but had nobody to help him. Joey Tom, a young colonial, played good for the losers, and scored some hat cons. The final score was 3-0. The Apex boys hope to do better next time. These teams are composed of boys under fifteen years and some of them will make the Junior League team next year. Sam Curry refereed the match.

Canadicks—Holway, Labarr, Calcon, Bawden, Dorey, Gilbert.

Apex—Tom, Kinnear, Bayes, Nicholson, Greenwood, Ketcheson.

Own Tartan Man Beaten by 20-2 Score—Now Playing in Kingston

Ottawa, Jan. 18—The visiting Scotch curlers left Ottawa tonight victorious by a single point in a series of games against representatives of the Globe and Rideau curling rinks here this afternoon. The aggregate points were 69 to 68. Four games were played against the Globe curlers, the home rinks winning on their own ice by 46 to 36. The tallies were turned, however, on the Rideau ice, when the visitors won a two-game match by 34 to 32. The largest score of the day was run up by Col. Robertson Aikman, of the Scots, who defeated R. E. Richards, of the Rideau club, by 22 to 8. The greatest home victory was registered by J. K. Gordon, who defeated J. Y. Kendall by a 20 to 2 score. This evening was spent by the visitors as guests of the Rideau Curling club. The touring Scots left at 11 o'clock for Kingston.

Wednesday night's attendance at the Arena, Montreal constituted a hockey record. There were over six thousand admissions, every seat in the house having been sold out the day previously. Despite zero weather, the rush line formed early in the afternoon, and many of the enthusiastic fans, bringing sandwiches for their suppers, set in the end seats from five o'clock until the game started. There was plenty of speculation in seats, the highest price paid for a single seat so far as known, being $15 for an ice-side promenade chair. Ten dollars a pair was paid for seats well up on the sides. The game struck the crest of hockey enthusiasm in the present winter, and after the spectacular battle, and with the uncertainty of the race considered, another big crowd is expected Saturday night when the Saints play the Canadiens. The latter, smarting under recent defeats will be ready to make a desperate stand.

WITH THE TROTTERS AT MT. CLEMENS

Kate Hal Defeated and Dan Patch Has Been Beaten on Closing Day—Windsor Next Meet

Mount Clemens, Mich., Jan. 18—In one of the best races ever seen at winter meeting, Don McGregor beat his favorite, Kate Hal, here today, and put a lot of Canadian money in circulation in the States. It was "get away day" and the fashionable crowd of the week was out to see the sport. From here the horses will be shipped to Windsor, where the meeting opens on Thursday next.

The 2.00 pace was the day's feature and Kate Hal was a prospective favorite. Billy Bishop forced her to step the early pace so fast that when Don McGregor passed the last line in 1.03 he caught her near the end and won by a neck.

SLIGHT OPERATION

The Babe Had an Old Wound Lanced

New York, Jan. 19.—Deserting his "training farm" near Boston for a few hours, Babe Ruth, the great king, came back to his old haunts today and had a slight operation performed at St. Vincent's hospital. His family physician lanced an abscess on his left arm that has been bothering him for more than a year.

"It was just a slight operation and didn't hurt enough to keep him from sleeping. We're going back to the farm this afternoon," Mrs. Ruth said this morning at their Astoria apartment.

GERMAN PROPAGANDISTS AT WORK

Montreal, Jan. 19—In connection with a dispatch from Essen, Germany, to the effect that grain shipments from Canada were being cancelled because of the French occupation in the Ruhr, James Carruthers, prominent local grain merchant, declared that as far as he knew there had been no cancellations in Canada. In some quarters anpouncements in reference to cancellation of cereal contracts is regarded as anti-French propaganda.

ANTI CALLS U.S. NATION WET BY SLIM MAJORITY

Liberal Spokesman Deduces Law Would Change by 2,500,000 Votes Across Border

Washington, Jan. 17.—On the eve of the third anniversary of national prohibition in the United States, Captain W. H. Stayton, founder and executive head of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, declared this afternoon that this process of nullifying the dry law grew better and better every day in every way.

Based on election results in eight important States, Captain Stayton the claim that there was a voting majority of 2,500,000 in the country in favor of the manufacture and sale of beer and light wines. He estimated that the voting in Ohio, California, Massachusetts, Illinois, New York, Maryland, and Missouri showed an approximate wet majority of nearly 1,000,000. Captain Stayton said that there were "unmistakable evidences" of a general change in sentiment since the Jolly laws went into effect.

"After three years of unsteady reign, old King Prohibition is fast tottering to a fall," he said. "During that period the tyrant has had his twin favorites, the Anti-Saloon League and the bootleggers. To please one he has sacrificed the liberties of the people, while to the other he has turned over the revenues of the State.

BLAMES ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE

"But these years are the Anti-Saloon League succeeded in imposing its tyrannical laws upon an unsuspecting people, by which they were deprived of a part of their liberties. Since that time, they have had no compulsive chance to pass on question.

"Happily, however, there are most encouraging evidences of a changed sentiment. This has been steadily crystalizing and it will be only a matter of time until the voice of the people will be made mandatory by their vote.

"The Anti-Saloon League has contended and fought anything that savored of a referendum at the same. Where it has been forced, officials of the league have invariably returned. In a speech at the New York City last Saturday, Wayne B. Wheeler, General Counsel for that League, made the statement that in every instance where the people had fated the issue of legalizing beer and wine, the proposal had been defeated by a large majority. Nothing is further from the facts. Let us take stock.

"Despite the opposition of the League, there has been a virtual referendum in one form or another in eight States, and these themselves into two groups. In one group, the wet and dry issue was decided on Nov. 7, 1922. In the second group, it was indirectly passed upon.

"The result in the first of these groups, in which the States voted directly on the prohibition issue, are as follows: Ohio, dry majority 200,000; California, dry majority 50,000; Massachusetts, wet majority 113,000; Illinois, wet majority 520,000; net wet majority 383,000

TOO MUCH COMPLAINT

There is some complaint that the construction of hospitals is not keeping pace with the cost of production.

MAYFLOWER IS TIED UP; CREW STRIKE

Demand Pay for Time Lost While Owners Wrangled —Likely to Install Engine in Racing Craft

Boston, Mass., Jan. 19.—The fishing schooner Mayflower, debarred as a contestant for the International Fishermen's trophy, is tied up here as a result of a walkout by half her crew who want a money payment to make up for time lost from fishing operations while they tried unsuccessfully to arrange a race with the champion Bluenose of Nova Scotia last fall. J. Henry Larkin, skipper of the Mayflower, is temporarily in command of the Henry Ford, the Gloucestertman reported among other vessels of the New England fishing fleet.

Fred, Peckey, owner of the Mayflower, said today that at a meeting of the directors of the Mayflower association next week it was likely they would vote to equip the schooner with an engine to compete with other auxiliary schooners of the fishing fleet.

NEW YARK WILL SEE COBB AT TOP FORM

Detroit, Jan. 19.—Ty Cobb is certain to be a bigger drawing card than ever before in New York this year.

Cobb has always been big in the metropolis, is certain to be more in the spotlight than ever because of his disputed New York hit.

The hit was allowed by President Johnson, putting Cobb in the .400 class. The New York mark made a big issue over the matter, claiming Cobb was not entitled to it, at the same time praising Cobb and the American League president.

It's a cinch that the attitude of the New York scribes made the fans like Cobb. When the Tigers arrive in New York this summer, the memory of that disputed bingle will be fresh in Cobb's mind.

Little things like that arouse the fighting spirit in Cobb, and it is a certainty that his best work of 1923 will be in New York, if effort will produce results. Cobb will try every way possible to show up his detractors.

ABSENCE OF SMOKING IN ARENA

The absence of smoking at the hockey game at the Harty Arena last night was one of the most welcome features of the evening. It reflects great credit upon the Hockey fans of this city, show how they are willing to cooperate in any way once the matter is fairly put to them. At the end of the game last night the air was just as clear as when it commenced, instead of the heavy pall that used to hang over the ice in the old days. Not only is the fire hazard lowered but the players are given a chance to play better hockey by having plenty of fresh air in the rink.—Kingston Standard.

SHOE CLERKS WIN FROM QUINTE BATTERY

SIKI STILL INSISTS HIS FIGHT WITH CARPENTIER WAS FRAMED

Paris, Jan. 18.—Both Battling Siki and his new manager, M. Brouillhet, maintain their allegations that the fight between the Senegalese and Georges Carpentier was framed, notwithstanding the report of the Boxing Federation Committee which said it had found no evidence of a frame-up. When interviewed by L'Auto, Brouillhet asserted that he would produce full proof of his charges on Feb. 15 when a civil tribunal will hear the action brought against the Federation by Siki for depriving him of his title. The same newspaper says a report is current that Francois Descamps, manager of Carpentier, intends to prosecute Siki for slander as a result of the committee's finding.

THE BONSPIEL

It's in full swing, the grand old game
That puts others clean to shame;
You'll easy ken it by its name
"Ah stanes are birlin',
And weel deserving o' its fame,
The roarin' curlin'.

Baith fast and furious, day and night
They stoop her up wi' main and might,
Till Belleville's gien fairly gyte
Mi' Curlin' glee,
The run is sweet or gets a bite
Or make a tee.

The motto stands "We're brithers a,"
In winning, losing or a draw,
It's a' the same; we'll stand by law
O' curlin' creed;
An' countit ill tae crosse or craw
About a lead.

The country around wi' undaunted zeal,
Sends her birkies tae the 'spiel,
An' mak's things lively as a reel
O' Tullochgorum;
There's nothing like the guid auld Scotch
Tae it warm.

Sakes, hoo the stanes are birlin' noo;
While some are hogs and some gone through,
An' some rin down the ice tae tee
At skips command,
As high he's worth ane's while in view—
Man Jock its grand.

Wi' een up, last ends tae play,
The veteran skips haud to the fray;
Stanes viewed wi' pride or wi' dismay
While down and hip,
The crood their interest display,
In every shot.

Now fever host is in the sport—
A pot-lid lies in kittle sort,
For only through pure birle pour
Can danger run,
An' skip, gin ye make surely fort',
You'll make some fun.

Wi' steady nerve an' faultless eye
She's held baw tae tee or die,
For bravest man can only try
To do their best;
And Providence, their duty by,
Must do the rest.

Mark well that: breathless silence reign,
What eager looks are on the slane,
Ye inform wi' sweep the grandly gane
To dae the ill,
While wild cheers ring a lood refrain
Tae see so much skill.

Auld Scotia, be thy name enshrined
Wi' a' that's dearest to the mind;
Jassies an' wark long you're come kind,
Baith work and glee,
An' joys o' curlin' aye will find
Our hearts wi' thee.

KINGSTON DRY SPELL BROKEN BY BELLEVILLE HOCKEY FAN

Police Court Sessions Resume in That City After Long Period of Quietitude

Kingston, Jan. 19.—There was one hockey fan who came from Belleville on Monday night, who did not return with the team. And thereby hangs a tale.

Provincial Constable Roy Clark and John H. Stoner and Inspector Plumb were at the hockey match between Belleville and Queens and just before the first period was over they heard some person kicking up a great fuss. It happened to be a Belleville fan. The latter was warned to be good, but the evidence of the officers showed that he did not take the warning given him. Later on he was taken to the police station in a taxi, and after all the evidence had been given in the police court on Tuesday morning the constable imposed a fine of $10 and costs.

The accused stoutly denied the charge lodged against him—in fact he went so far as to declare that he had no liquor this year.

The witness called stated that the fan was intoxicated and that he persisted in making speeches and using bad language.

This marked the first session of the police court this year, and it remained for a Belleville man to break the spell.

BILL BRENNAN MATCHED WITH FIRPO

Buenos, Aires, Jan. 18.—Luis Angel Firpo, heavyweight boxing champion of South America, has accepted an offer made by Tex Rickard, New York promoter, for a bout with Bill Brennan in Madison Square Garden on March 18, he announced today. Firpo plans to sail for the United States on Feb. 1.

Tex Rickard last Saturday cabled Firpo an offer for a match with either Brennan or Floyd Johnson, to be held about the middle of March, with the further understanding that if he emerged victor in this contest Firpo would be matched with Jack Dempsey within six months.

AMATEUR THEATRICALS MARRED

Realism Injected Into Movie Scenes at Hamilton

Hamilton, Jan. 19.—Realism was injected into the shooting of the amateur movie picture at a local theatre this week. The scenes which took place include two "crooks" and two "detectives." In the midst of the "shooting" of the picture and a few days before a large audience, in walked Detectives Speakman and Beckett and arrested one of the amateur actors, William E. Borrows, 20 Strathcona avenue, on a charge of forgery and uttering."

TYLER BAKES HIS ARM

New York Jan. 19.—George (Lefty) Tyler, who helped pitch the Boston Braves to a pennant and world's championship in 1914, and later starred for the pennant-winning Chicago Cubs in 1918, is on the road to a come back.

Tyler was declared by experts last spring to be "through" as a major leaguer when he was released after a brief tryout with the Boston Nationals. Today, as a result of weekly treatment of his arm with an electric baker and a strenuous training program, Tyler is confident the 1923 season will see him back in the big leagues harness.

There is no doubt that the crisis abroad has assumed a more grave aspect, at least the market, on this side of course is. The fact that the Germans have again declined to deliver coal will add to the French and their further penetration into the interior of the Ruhr Valley has taken place has led to the belief that the possibility of an open break between the two countries is one which cannot be overlooked.

MINING COMMENT

The weakness in Dome, is due solely to the weakness in the New York market. Operations at the mine are reported to be exceeding all the high level mark on very satisfactory ore and from viewpoint of earnings, it is said the company was never in a better position than it is today. It is to be noted that despite the decline very little stock appears to have come on any market.

The mining market appears to be holding well, all things considered, but the predicted advance shows little signs of materializing at the moment. Much is down to low ebb, and it is safe to say there until the producers see the way again. This may not be likely before, for both McIntyre and Hollinger are likely to have something of importance to say very soon, while other shareholders will expect pronouncements at bonus at the March directors' meeting.

GOLD PRODUCTION

CANADA STANDS ALONE.

It is interesting to note that outside of Canada every important gold producing country in the world made a new low record for many years in 1922. Both eastern and western Canada shone brilliantly, with the greatest gold production on record for Cobalt, greater even than when the glorious Klondike was in its prime. Hollinger, Dome and McIntyre at Porcupine, and the smaller Kirkland Lake producers together with producers in the far west, notably the Premier, swelled the output last year by about ten millions to near $30,000,000.

HOLLINGER HAS HONOR.

The honor of the world's foremost gold producer fell to Hollinger in 1922. It produced about $12,750,000 from approximately 21,5000,000 tons of ore previously mined, or $5.60 a ton. The honor was due to the fact that the Rand Mines in South Africa were closed down during the first part of the year due to strikes. The latter were surpassing the Hollinger in tonnage and output by the end of 1922.

MINES

President J. P. Bickell, of the McIntyre, remarked this morning that the mine had an additional mill unit all ready to be in operation the moment additional power was available. This unit of 250 tons capacity will bring the Hollinger mill up to 1,000 tons per day. For the past quarter an average of around 750 tons has been handled with the aid of the mine's steam auxiliary plant.

GRAIN EXPORTS VIA ST. JOHN.

An increase in grain export from St. John for the 1922 calendar report, amounting to 4,844,943 bushels over the 1921 calendar year, is recorded from figures recently compiled. The total for 1922 is 15,573,043, as compared with 10,428,100 bushels for 1921.

PROPOSALS OF UNION IN IRELAND

London, Jan. 19.—Lord Glenavy, chairman of the Irish Free State Senate, formerly Sir James Campbell, one of Lord Carson's principal lieutenants in his fight against self government for Ireland, has approached the Northern Ireland Government with the view of effecting union between the north and south, says the Belfast despatch to the Central News. The correspondent declares that leading Ulster citizens have received letters from prominent members of the Free State Government urging the north to "come in" in hope that the strife between the two factions might be ended.

Sir Robert Horne (left), former British Chancellor of the exchequer, and Viscount Burnham (right), proprietor of the London Daily Telegraph, arrived in New York on the Olympic and will visit Canada.

HEATED ARGUMENTS IN U.S. CONGRESS

N. Y. Representative Tells Congress the Law is Unenforceable

Fanaticism Gone Mad

Dry Leader Hits Back—American Arguments on Much Discussed Measure

Washington, Jan. 19.—Representative W. Bourke Cockran of New York, in a speech in the House yesterday, said that prohibition had failed because it did not have public sentiment behind it. He predicted the law's complete failure within a few years, and said that the position taken by Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York for beer and light wines, without the restoration of saloons, would be the accepted attitude of the people.

Mr. Cockran spoke for forty minutes. With characteristic philosophical eloquence he traced the inability of Governments to enforce moral laws. His speech was prompted by the third anniversary of the country going dry and the recent speeches made by Representative Upshaw, whose utterances, he said, were "rhyme without reason" and contained "more poetry than truth." He alluded to the Mer Rouge murder of an alleged bootlegger as one example of "fanaticism and regulation gone mad."

If prohibition were a success it would not need such a defender as Mr. Upshaw, Mr. Cockran continued. In truth, he asserted, it was a failure, and it had been followed by a wave of crime, bootleggers and death. It had failed to prohibit because the law did not have the respect of the people, and without respect there was no obedience to law.

Can't Be Enforced, He Says.

"It is my opinion that it cannot be enforced by all the force the Federal and State Governments can employ," he added. "The very idea of prohibition is repugnant to the essence of democracy. It is an attempt to make men good. Governments cannot improve men. It is the task of men to improve Governments. Every attempt to improve morality has increased violence of disorder and worse."

Mr. Cockran said the bootlegger was considered by most people a source of amusement. "I think we have here one of the gravest conditions that ever confronted the American people," he said. "Utter disregard of the law by persons not habitually law-breakers, who belong to the class from which law-breakers are recruited but to the best elements of society, is a calamity so grave that unless it is redressed or removed, the very stability of our Government is threatened."

He said until respect for the law was restored obedience to the law was impossible.

"And for that reason in certain localities of this country the prohibition amendment cannot be enforced by all the resources which this Government can employ. Whether this is morally right or wrong, whether it be politically desirable or undesirable, it is a fact, I repeat, capable of demonstration, and as such it must be faced by the law makers into whose hands in large degree the task of providing for the safety of the country is committed. I doubt if any gentleman here in his heart believes that this law can be enforced," the speaker went on, adding that history recorded not one instance where a law has been successfully enforced in a locality against the opposition of its inhabitants, but that, on the other hand, it teemed with instances of the futility of attempting to enforce law against public opinion and public conscience.

"The President has announced his intention of enforcing this law by all the power at his command," said Mr. Cockran. "I am glad of it; I am glad the attempt will be made because I believe the result will be another demonstration of the utter futility of attempting the control of the customs of men by enactments placed upon the statute books."

After some academic discussion, Mr. Cockran took up the speech of Representative Upshaw of Georgia, who said that no man can ride into the White House on a barrel of beer," referring to Governor Smith of New York.

Representative Crampton, recognized leader of the dry forces, said that the outburst against prohibition came always from those who had unsatisfactory and because Mr. Upshaw was trying to induce members of the House to uphold their oath of office.

He read several interviews accredited, in one Mr. Hill said: "I had no more keeping liquor in my office because so many of the prohibition Congress came to the use that I had and said that the position taken by Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York for beer and light wines, without the restoration of saloons, would be the accepted attitude of the people.

Mr. Cockran spoke for forty minutes. With characteristic philosophical eloquence he traced the inability of Governments to enforce moral laws. His speech was prompted by the third anniversary of the country going dry and the recent speeches made by Representative Upshaw, whose utterances, he said, were "rhyme without reason" and contained "more poetry than truth." He alluded to the Mer Rouge murder of an alleged bootlegger as one example of "fanaticism and regulation gone mad."

If prohibition were a success it would not need such a defender as Mr. Upshaw, Mr. Cockran continued. In truth, he asserted, it was a failure, and it had been followed by a wave of crime, bootleggers and death. It had failed to prohibit because the law did not have the respect of the people, and without respect there was no obedience to law.

"How did we enforce the draft in time of war? Did we say to those conscientious objectors at the time of the draft, you send your boys to the war? No! We passed a law affecting every community. We can require in time of peace that there be loyalty to the Constitution."

Mr. Crampton declared that Mr. Cockran lent his eloquence against enforcement because he wanted prohibition to fail and that Colonel Hill took a similar position.

"The issue is clear before the country," he said. "On one hand there are those who are friends of the Eighteenth Amendment and of law enforcement, who will help for their State laws, and on the other are those who want disorder, anarchy and nullification."

INFLUENZA EPIDEMIC REACHES RHINE U. S. TROOPS

Coblenz, Jan. 19.—A mild influenza epidemic has broken out among the American troops and the civilian population here. The officials including Captain Frank Brown, the chief sanitary officer, who has been obliged to go to a hospital at a time when every vice lines with paris are being disconnected.

The value of the radio plants here is estimated at $6,000,000 and several attempts have been made to break into the Imperial Barracks, where the sets are stored.

Many the girl first, then ask the commanding officer's approval, seems to be the policy of the American soldiers as the time for their separation from the Rhineland approaches.

The usual method of procedure involves three ceremonies, the civil and religious rites taking place in Coblenz, followed by another here before the army chaplain in the romant of the superior officer is obtained.

EITHER LOW OR MALCOLM POINTED FOR VACANT SEAT

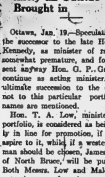
Speculation Concerning Kennedy's Successor—Likely an Outside Will be Brought in

Ottawa, Jan. 19.—Speculations as to the successor to the late Hon. W. C. Kennedy, as minister of railways, is somewhat premature, and for the present anyhow Hon. G. P. Graham will continue as acting minister. For the ultimate succession to the cabinet, if not to his particular portfolio, two names are mentioned.

Hon. T. A. Low, minister without portfolio, is mentioned as being logically in line for promotion, if he should aspire to it, while if a western Ontario man should be chosen, James Malcolm, of North Bruce, will be put forward. Both Messrs. Low and Malcolm head extensive manufacturing concerns.

MAY BE DELAYED.

There is, of course, the possibility that the premier may go outside parliament and bring in some one, though in that event the difficulty of finding a seat would be encountered. It has been intended that Mr. Graham should continue as acting minister of railways during most of the session, and this plan may be considered, and the filling of the post be delayed. It is doubted if the new minister will go to the railway department directly. Rather a shift may occur, and one of the present ministers may be assigned as this branch. In view of Mr. Graham's experience in the department, he may be in line. There will be no decision for some days at least, and the imminence of the session may suggest a tentative arrangement.



NOT A VETERAN

The flag floats at half-mast today from the tower of parliament, out of respect to the departed minister whose death occasioned the greater shock by reason of reports that he was gradually recovering from his acute illness. Mr. Kennedy was not a parliamentary veteran. He made his appearance on the stage at Ottawa only in 1917.

WAS WEALTHY.

He entered the government a year ago, handled himself well during the session and afterwards for some weeks devoted his energies to a search for a head of the national railway board. The quest had not finished when he underwent a hemorrhage operation, from the effects of which he has just succumbed. The late Mr. Kennedy enjoyed a large personal acquaintance on all sides of the house. He was not a great speaker, nor was he bend frequently, but his utterances were generally to the point, and the delivery fairly forcible. He was rated as one of the wealthiest men in public life. The premier, and most of the cabinet will attend the funeral at Windsor.

Toronto, Jan. 19.—Dr. Alfred Latell, chief officer of the Ontario Board of Parole, presenting his annual report, said that during the year ending October 31st, 1922, investigations were conducted into the cases of over one thousand inmates of the reformatories and industrial farms of the province at Guelph, Burwash, Mimico and Bowmanville. Board personally visited these institutions and interviewed the inmates after sentences had been given and granted paroles. Of that number less than twenty failed to behave. There was thus a ninety-five per cent. success in the year's operations This is the highest percentage the board has ever had, though the number paroled this year is twice as high as any previous year.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Mary Lindo pleaded not guilty to a charge of having liquor on December 3rd, 1922.

Mr. Marshall in his evidence stated that he procured in the house and took a bottle of liquor for another party, saying Mrs. Lindo told him to.

Mrs. Lindo denied that she had any liquor in her house. Mr. Marshall in his evidence stated that he went to a doctor, a big man, came to her house and procured a bottle of liquor by a prescription for a quart, a bottle of liquor. This was some three months ago. He gave her the bottle and sent it to Kingston with $2.50 and received a bottle.

Sergt. Sidney Bayer in a glass jar with produced by Provincial Officer Nichols who testified he had received it at Lindo's house.

Roger Willis—Have it analyzed and let it this case be followed up to the limit. If the ladies persist who may not be telling the truth in the matter.

Mrs. Hopkyn has a Pandemic

Mary Hopkyn was the interpreter for Mrs. Lindo, and the latter denied the charge. She stated it was true she obtained a prescription from a doctor and sent to Kingston for a quart of liquor. This was 3 months before the 23rd of December. She sent the prescription and letter from Mrs. Lindo and the liquor came to the Telegram station from Kingston. The package, the sealed prescription and letter of Mr. Hall, she had added water, corn and the to it. She only got one prescription from the doctor.

Guy McDonald was asked to stand up in court and in answer to a question from the interpreter Mrs. Lindo said she did not know him.

Judge Willis—We will have the liquor analyzed and the case will be adjourned until the 27th inst.

the citizens in these matters. Perry Fleming and Bert Irvin warned their fellow citizens not to say or spread their candid opinions on the ladies and girls of the present age.

Then Mrs. Hall settled back to enjoy the feature speech of the evening by Mr. F. J. Pearce closed in favor of the Queen's Hotel related his trip around the world with the Kitties' band of Belleville. Many delightful incidents were visited and the bandsmen received a royal welcome at every conducting visited. The tour of the Kitties band was the greatest advertisement that the city of Belleville ever received. Mr. Pearce closed his speech by congratulating the boys on their excellent work. He said if the band had received such initial efforts in managing municipal affairs than our cities and towns would be under more capable management. Mr. W. C. Mikel outlined the possibilities of our fair city. The new assembly line running between Kingston and Toronto will no doubt prove a great asset.

Harry Harris presented Mr. Mikel with a handsome pipe. The latter thanked the boys for the present and wished them success in all their undertakings. The gathering dispersed with the singing of the National Anthem.

NEW YORK PASTOR MAY FACE CHARGE OF HERESY

Utterances of Rev. Dr. Grant in Last Sunday's Sermon Cause Much Hostile Comment

New York, Jan. 19.—The possibility that the Rev. Dr. Percy Stickney Grant may be brought to book on charges of heresy for his utterances in his sermon, "How to consecrate the church," was one of the topics which clergymen considered after reading reports of what Dr. Grant said from the pulpit, of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Ascension, Fifth Avenue and 10th street.

Among the minister's references in the sermon was one that the idea of church consecration was an inheritance from "witchcraft, magic and taboo."

It was pointed out that this utterance, Dr. Grant's denial that the Lord is co-equal with God, and that sacraments are without any elemental or fundamental efficiency might be considered heretical statements from a minister.

As for charges of heresy, these may be made by any presbyter. They would be made to Bishop Manning, and in such case the bishop would be compelled by canon either to deny the charged heresy or to appoint a board to hear and pass upon the charges. Such a board would be composed of Dr. Grant's peers, the presidents of the body probably being a suffragan bishop.

Bishop Manning refused to discuss Dr. Grant's utterance. It was indicated however, that the bishop would not permit to pass unnoticed the rector's statement.

CALLED BY DEATH

MRS. JOHN BURKE

It was with a deep feeling of regret and surprise that the many friends of Mrs. John Burke received the news of her death which occured at her late residence, Coleman St. at 3.00 o'clock on Thursday night after an illness of two days duration. Until a few hours before her death her illness was not thought to be of a serious nature. The late Mrs. Burke was well known in Belleville having resided here all her life being born in Belleville in 1850.

Her kind disposition indeared her to all with whom she came in contact and her death came as a great shock to her friends.

Left to bear the loss of a devoted wife and mother are her husband, four daughters and two sons, the daughters are Mrs. J. E. Carr, Troy, Mrs. C. F. Robinson, Misses Maude and August; the sons Robert and Lawrence at home.

TOO DANGEROUS

Old Pete Hiles, while he kept up a very respectable front, was nevertheless tricky in a business deal. He was a second-hand car, fixed it up a bit, and sent for the insurance man. He bought as big a policy as he could on fire and theft, and then the agent asked him about liability and collision.

"No," said Pete, in a moment of absent-mindedness, "I ain't going to hit anybody, and a collision is too dangerous."

OFFICIAL ADMITS THEFT OF FAMOUS GIN BOTTLE

License Inspector Says He Had no Right to Take it Afterwards of Oshawa Mix-up—Cabin Fined $400.

Oshawa, Jan. 19—Yesterday in Police Court the famous Nipissing Kubenski bottle of gin made its reappearance. Testifying as to how he had procured the bottle, Mr. Connors, of the Board of License Commissioners, who produced it, under the cross-examination of Col. J. F. Grierson, admitted that he had no authority to seize and made a further admission to the lawyer that he had stolen it.

This evidence was brought out when Basil Scibin, local foreigner, was being tried on a B.O.T.A. charge. At the time the bailiff seized this bottle, Scibin was in court acting as one of Kubenski's agents, and the bailiff turned the bottle over to Scibin. Receiving information that Scibin had liquor illegally in his possession, the provincial officers visited his home and found several bottles of high proof liquor there. They were about to depart, they stumbled on the bottle for which they had been searching for.

Did you have any authority to take anything but liquor from this man's house?" asked Col. Grierson.

Mr. Connors—"No, I did not."

The lawyer—"Then you stole the bottle."

"Yes, I did steal it," replied Connors defiantly.

Mr. Prosecutor D. A. J. Swanson, acting for the Crown, objected to Col. Grierson's mode of cross-examination. The latter contended that Col. Grierson had no right to question Mr. Connors relative to the gin bottle. Magistrate Hind ruled that the lawyer had no right to do so. Col. Grierson then deemed his surrecat and started to question Mr. Connors relative to disgust. The magistrate reconsidered his decision and Col. Grierson resumed his cross-examination. A piece of evidence was then introduced, showing that Scibin had pleaded guilty to a charge of having liquor in his possession. He was fined $400 and costs on default, four months in jail.

Scibin, the defendant, then took the witness stand and admitted that he had pleaded guilty to the charge. He stated that he had been arrested and had been fined $400 and costs. He had paid the fine and costs and had received a receipt for the money. He had also received a receipt for the bottle of gin. He had given the receipt for the bottle to Mr. Connors.

Mr. Connors was then recalled to the witness stand and admitted that he had received the receipt for the bottle of gin from Scibin. He had also given a receipt for the money.

Mr. Connors was then asked by Col. Grierson if he had any authority to take the bottle of gin from Scibin. He replied that he had not.

Col. Grierson—"Then you stole the bottle."

Mr. Connors—"Yes, I did steal it."

Mr. Swanson, the prosecutor, then addressed the court. He said that Scibin had pleaded guilty to the charge and had been fined $400 and costs. He had paid the fine and costs and had received a receipt for the money. He had also received a receipt for the bottle of gin. He had given the receipt for the bottle to Mr. Connors

WOULD APPEAR LIKE FLOGGING DEAD HORSE

London, Jan. 10.—The Yorkshire Post's London correspondent says he understands that nothing has arisen to warrant the suggestion that the Irish parliament is likely to make very definite representations to the Imperial parliament with regard to the famous appeal of September 10, last to Canada to join with the other dominions in a demonstration calculated to impress Turkey more than ever was Great Britain and that country seemed imminent. "There has been a feeling in the British government," the Yorkshire Post's correspondent says, "and to raise a stir over something in which Canada happily was not called upon to take any definite action would appear like flogging a dead horse."

"Oh, so dear," replied the brute, "it wasn't all taken, you know!"

FARM WOMEN URGED TO ADOPT DR. COUE'S PLAN

Told to Concentrate on Few Blue Streaks at Calgary Meeting

Calgary, Jan. 10.—Urging the women of the farms to adopt Dr. Coue's plan of auto-suggestion, Hon. Irene Parlby, minister without portfolio in the Alberta government told delegates at the annual convention of the United Farm Women's Association yesterday that instead of becoming depressed over the conditions they should concentrate on the few streaks of blue that were beginning to show a long the horizon. She outlined the plan of the government to encourage poultry raising and the improvement of the dairy industry stating that if the bad times had done nothing more for the farmers of Alberta it had opened their eyes at last to the necessity of the practice of mixed farming and more thrifty methods.

Mrs. Fred Durand, who for the past three weeks has been visiting her mother and sister, Mrs. B. J. Black, 172 Church street, has returned to her home in Chicago.

CANADA'S PARKS ATTRACT THOUSANDS

Source of Revenue From Tourists—Vindicates Sir John A. Macdonald's Prediction

Ottawa, Jan. 10.—"Sir John A. Macdonald's prediction at the time of the establishment of the Canadian national parks, that 'they will recuperate the people and recoup the people's treasury' is now coming true," said J. B. Harkin, minister of the Dominion parks branch of the department of the interior, at a lecture on the subject here.

How true was Sir John A. Macdonald's prediction that the parks would recuperate the people and recoup the people's treasury was shown, said Mr. Harkin, by the figures for the year just past. The parks, with a total capital expenditure of about $300,000, had brought into the country over $12,500,000 in foreign money from tourists who visited Canada with the sole purpose of seeing these great works of nature. This was a dividend to the people of Canada of over 2,000 per cent.

Mr. Harkin pointed out that exploited scenery in this way by selling it to tourists was capable of being developed into one of the country's most important sources of revenue.

FACES THEFT CHARGE

George S. Armstrong, postmaster and former mayor of Edmonton, arrested in that city on a charge of stealing $50,000 from the mails in 1919.

ALBERTA WOMAN GUILTY OF MURDER

Sentenced to the Hanged for Killing Husband—Another Woman to be Executed Feb. 21.

Edmonton, Jan. 19.—Mrs. Irene May Christensen was on Wednesday found guilty of wilful murder of her husband, Frederick, at Dappa, Alta., on September 22 last, and sentenced to be hanged at Fort Saskatchewan on April 4 of this year.

Mrs. Christensen collapsed when the foreman of the jury announced the decision.

Defence Attorney James A. McCaffrey immediately asked for a stated case and the right to appeal from the finding and formal application in writing will be made for the same on Thursday morning.

Mrs. Christensen shot the shooting, according to the story told by Christensen to an Edmonton detective before he died, Mrs. Christensen picked a quarrel with her husband and shot him in the right cheek. He staggered outside and was shot once more. He died on a train while being conveyed to an Edmonton hospital. Mrs. Christensen evaded capture for a month, meanwhile working as a cook in an Edmonton home, where she was arrested and charged with the crime. The sentence of Mrs. Christensen concludes the third murder trial in the Dappa district within two months, in which women have been involved. Mrs. Florence Lassandra is at present under sentence of death with Emilio Piccarillo, after being convicted of murdering Provincial Police Constable S. G. Lawson, M.M., at Coleman, on September 21 last. The hanging has been set for February 21 next.

Mrs. Elizabeth Rae Dean was tried recently for the murder of her husband, William, at Brantford, and found guilty of manslaughter. She was sentenced Monday at Calgary to three years' penal servitude.

VATICAN PUZZLED.

Does Not Know Reason for Filippi's Expulsion

Rome, Jan. 19.—The vatican is not yet able to understand the real reason for the expulsion of Monsignor Filippi, the apostolic delegate, from Mexico, it was declared in vatican circles yesterday. It was added that indirect information received by the vatican regarding the incident in Mexico leading to the expulsion order had given reason for hope that there was yet a chance that the measures adopted against Monsignor Filippi might not be carried out.

Cardinal Gasparri, the papal secretary of state, since receiving word of the Mexican action, has gone through all the reports received from the papal delegate since he took up his duties in Mexico a year ago. It was learned, it was said, that Monsignor Filippi had been animated by the best intentions to avoid any incident with the Mexican government, in his reports he had often referred to the ameliorated conditions for the church in Mexico.

As to the charge against the prelate, it was observed that the present constitution of Mexico forbids outdoor religious ceremonies but that in particular instances mentioned Monsignor Filippi attended the laying of a cornerstone of a new church, which, by its very nature, was bound to be an outdoor ceremony. The hope was expressed that President Obregon, on learning all the facts in the case, would reach a decision that the papal delegate had no intention of violating the Mexican constitution.

Woman's Sphere

IF THOSE LIPS COULD ONLY SPEAK.

He stood in a beautiful mansion,
Surrounded by riches untold;
He gazed at a beautiful picture,
That hung in a frame of gold.
'Twas the picture of a lady,
So beautiful, young and fair,
So those beautiful, lifelike features
He surmised to be daughter.

If those lips could only speak,
If those eyes could only see,
If those beautiful golden tresses
Were there in reality,
Could I only take your hand
As I did when you took my name?
But it's only a beautiful picture
In a beautiful golden frame.

He left there and gazed at the painting,
Then slumbered, forgetting all care
And there, in that mansion, in fancy
He stood by his side again,
And his lips they softly murmured
The name of his once sweet bride
With his eyes fixed upon that picture
Her picture by his side.

He woke from his dream and cried:

If those lips could only speak,
If those eyes could only see,
If those beautiful golden tresses
Were there in reality
Could I only take your hand
As I did when you took my name?
But it's only a golden picture
In a beautiful golden frame.

TREND OF FASHION

Nowadays one finds fashion inspiration everywhere. One of the earliest and most delightful ways of acquiring first hand knowledge of what the fashionable world is wearing is by noticing the clothes a smart theatre audiences. Surprising, as it may seem, different plays bring out different types of audiences. It is difficult to explain just why a certain play draws a greater percentage of smart dressers in its opening than another but the fact remains that it does.

The stage itself furnishes many ideas, for producers give much thought to the costumes worn by feminine members of their casts. Especially is this true if the production is what is known as a society play. Every frock, every suit, every spray, corsage or wrap must be right, not only in the general effect, but in every little detail. These stage clothes have the distinction of being shown against the proper background.

In one of the most successful plays the New York theatrical season an entirely new model of evening dress is worn. The upper part of the frock is made of satin and of very full cut. The overskirt, of an exceedingly clever cut, falls in points and is open in the back. This is of silver lace and crepe lined with metal cloth. There is a four-inch skirt of chiffon. A wide sprinkled girdle and a sprinkled belt complete a most attractive dance frock.

Hair-lines of a new type are also in vogue. Very long and graceful, they are made of enamel in different colors and to a certain extent resemble the colors and designs of Pekingese mosiacs.

CORNMEAL PUDDING

Mix one-quarter cup cornmeal, one-quarter cup minute tapioca, one quart milk, add one cup maple syrup, one teaspoon salt. Cook over fire until thick. Then pour in buttered baking pans.

A MILK TEST

Dip a knitting needle into the milk which you may suspect of having been watered. If there are no particles of fat adhering to it when you take it out you may be certain that the milk is watered.

SHORT STORIES FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

ROVER AND THE LOST FUR.

Gone! It was gone! Pauline leaned against the car and tried to swallow her heart. Why, what's the matter? You look as though you had lost your last friend."

"Oh, Daddy. It's worse than that. What shall I ever do? I've lost mother's new sable fur."

"Where?" plaintied Mr. Black, looking serious. "That is bad. When, where, and how?"

Pauline told him all that she knew about it. Mr. Black jumped into the car. He decided they better go back and look for it. "Where's Rover?" he asked as they tore along the road. "Why, I don't know," Pauline answered. "He did go to town with me, didn't he? I don't remember when I saw him last. He just won't stay with me. He always is straying off."

"Look! There he is now!" cried her father, pointing ahead of them to a dark spot in the road. "What ever is he doing to him, man?"

They watched the dog, a mere speck in the road which rapidly grew larger. He seemed to be guarding something from the man. "Oh, what an awful looking tramp!" cried Pauline.

As the car drew up to them the tramp slunk away to the side of the road, Rover snapping at his heels. "What are you doing?" cried Mr. Black.

The tramp pointed at a black object up the road. "The dog won't let me get that fur me wife lost," he whined.

"Fur!" In a second Pauline was hugging her mother's sable fur in one arm and dear old Rover in the other. "And to think I could become jealous of you, you dog!

In the above I have endeavored to give you a general list of books which would include something of interest to all, and which can be had in any libraries as well. The list is somewhat varied. Take your pick; some you will find at our local library. I will give you another list when the spring catalogues are published; they are in the process of making yet.

"THE MAKING OF A PREMIER"

by Owen E. McGillicuddy. Published by the Musson Book Co., Toronto, 1923—$1.25.

I have had the pleasure of perusing quite carefully this little treatise on the Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, C.M.G. A preface is written by the same author who wrote "The Life of George Brown" and in a few words outlines admirably the work and life of our present Premier.

The book is—and I was quite disappointed in this—not a personal character sketch of Mr. King and his home life but deals more with his public work and his duties in connection with the Department of Labor at Ottawa, and the Rockefeller Institute in America. His work as an arbitrator and conciliator of many labour disputes between the working men in coal pits and mines as unions and capital is admirably shown and vividly portrays the arresting personality of the man, predominating, in all his work. A tireless worker and ever ready to give counsel to anyone who considered himself wronged, Mr. King during his very distinguished career both in Canada and the United States, as well as in England, France and Italy as a student of economic problems and labor questions has unconsciously endeared himself to all with whom he came in contact. Picked by the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier to be his successor as office as leader of the Liberal party, he was aptly described as possessing "the best brains in Canada."

If Mr. McGillicuddy had given us a little more knowledge of the subject of his admirable sketch as regards his personal habits and so on we would have perhaps appreciated it a little more. People like to detect the very thoughts of the men they place in positions as that is where Mr. King finds himself and revel with avidity anything pertaining to this part of his life.

The book is, however, remarkably well written and as it is practically the first piece of information we have of the man who so recently became the leader of our fair Dominion we can look forward with pleasure to receiving others which will most surely be written about him if he remains in his present position long.

"THE MIRACLE MAN OF MONTREAL", by George H. Ham. Published by the Musson Book Co., Toronto, Ontario—$1.00.

Many comments have been made recently in the press and elsewhere of the wonderful miracles being performed at a little place called "Notre Dame de Neiges" in Quebec. There have been many glowing tributes made by well known critics and writers of literary fame, among whom is S. Morgan-Powell, that well known Canadian book and play reviewer, of a certain Brother Andre, a Roman Catholic clergyman of the famous teaching order of that church, the Congregation of the Holy Cross. The Miracle Man of Montreal whose christian name is Alfred Bliette, was a poor French Canadian boy of little learning and very humble parents, who has risen from a position of fame, and world wide repute, the envy of many famous men; his name is known and is dazzling the world in these days—he is now seventy-eight years of age—but he prefers to spend his time and talents to visiting the poor unfortunate cripples who seek his aid. His mission are poor, distressed humanity of both Roman Catholic and Protestants alike. The subject of the book describes in detail many of the most prominent miracles effected by this Miracle Man and vouches for them as being absolutely true. Many well known families throughout the Dominion of Canada and America with his doctrine or philosophy of cures we hear of this other Man of Men and he seems to stay in his own little place, humble and quite willing to carry on his work without any fuss or bother.

When he was a poor boy, a porter in a college, performing odd jobs, as sweeping floors, running errands, cleaning floors, etc., and other menial tasks, he began to inspire his immediate associates with a fervent devotion to religious work. Gradually his fame spread. His intercessions to his patron saint, St. Joseph, began to be apparent in his work. At this time however, he had many conflicting and misunderstandings to contend with. Principal of the College at which he stayed, who forbid him to carry on his work during his early duties. Despite these obstacles as the college thought the whole thing might end in bringing discredit to the school, it did not. He, however, continued his work unmolested and sincere in his own belief. He has helped innumerable sick and great numbers that his followers now number in the thousands and a basilica is soon to be built out of the generous donations which he has received from those he helped, both Roman Catholic and Protestant alike, which will cost nearly one million dollars and when completed will be the most magnificent structure edifice of its kind in the world. It will be in the shape of a cross and the basement has just been finished, which is a complete church in itself.

"BOOKS AND CHARACTERS" by

Lytton Strachey: Published by F. D. Goodchild Co., Toronto, 1922. $4.00.

I received this book some time time ago and after making a few comments on it then I put it aside so that I might be able to give the book a more thorough reading which it most certainly deserves. Following the authors other books on Queen Victoria and Queen Victoria it is written in that same easy care-free style that makes the book so easy and delightfully interesting to read. "Quia custodiet ipsos custodies" might apply here. It think it does. The book is just what Sir Hills says it is. It deals with eminent and world famed writers of several periods and treats in detail many of the salient features of each individual writer and his books. It will not gratify rather as to the manner in which the book was written nor as regards the general literary value of the work. I have too high a conception and respect of Mr. Strachey's ability. It will merely reiterate some of the statements of the author and pick a few here and there in the context as we pass lightly over. The book being essentially a collection of theses written at certain periods has no real connected thought as the reader passing from one chapter to another will readily see. The personality of the author predominates throughout. His remarks are forceful and amusing, sometimes critical but never mingled with continuity, but always with a seemingly concealed sarcasm and ignorance or misunderstandings of his immediate subject. This is the chief characteristic of Mr. Strachey's writings.

Sir John Simon is said to be regarded as the hope of the Liberal party in Britain.

Commencing with Racine the author outlines somewhat elaborately the merits and faults of the controversy which took place between the brilliant and learned critic M. Lemaitre and Mr. John Bailey a critic of equal rank in literary fame over the respective incompetencies of Racine's poems. The remarks given are interesting to say the least and anyone who knows the rank of the critics will realize that no ordinance was rendered in. Raillery usually doesn't find a place in M. Lemaitre's writings.

Sir Thomas Braine is dealt with, showing his many sided virtues. His writings are analyzed and the judicious use of humiliate is amusingly shown. This gave to Bronte the wealth of psychological elaboration found sparingly in many works of authors of greater repute."

Chapter Four: Period is dealt with in a sweeping and brilliant treatise. His life is appropriately depicted in a sketch written by Professor Dipping who after commenting on his general life sums up the whole by saying "Writing of Shakespeare is a storm beaten and storm-tossed but yet entering harbour with sails full set to anchor in peace." Shakespeare had a stormy youth, as most great men have, and after passing through a gloomy middle age he later in life was found by friends deserted him, his children left him and his treacherous and unfaithful followers abandoned him when he retired to his home in Stratford to die in peace and happiness the eternal reward for his immortal labours.

Voltaire is received—his life and his work. How he forsook his own family and name to become on equal terms with certain wealthy people of great importance in Court circles and who was later hated and despised as no other man in Europe, on account of his ostentation and display of his cash out of France, an exile is vividly told.

As Mr. Strachey continues through the book in the brilliant style that in all his own he gives the reader an exhilarating pleasure—a feeling that seems to say "Oh! I've got it right now" and so well—he seems to be talking right to me"—this is the feeling we always have when any of his books seem to be in the very room telling us all about the wonderful things he is writing. Some wonderful characters and the people—so vividly described that we can picture them in our mind as being real live human beings once more acting before us—We hear them . . . we see them.

To read the book intelligently a knowledge of French is essential. Numerous quotations and insertions are given in French which make up a complete and charming book all the more so. The books end with a short chapter devoted to Thomas Crievey of whom we have heard very little but who nevertheless must have led a very interesting life as Mr. Strachey gives numerous instances of his jovial nature."

When I consider the amount of fiction I am obliged to read and review that is absolutely worthless and about which I might safely say "It would have been better if it were never written" and then have the pleasure of reading a book like Mr. Strachey's second one, I can still think that there is always something refreshing, stimulating and constructive to look forward to. As Mr. Strachey says—"The great final luminaries of the firmament of letters shine his optic glare" . . . such as only too true. When reading mediocre works as often and then getting something so splendid we are apt to be dazzled for a moment—but it soon resigns itself to its fate inevitably.

1000 ENRAGED CITIZENS HANG MAN ON BRIDGE

Take Law Into Own Hands to End Railway Sabotage

STRIKERS FLOGGED

Two Hundred Others Were Chased From Small Town in Arkansas

Little Rock, Ark., Jan. 18.—Arkansas national guardsmen are in readiness here tonight to move to Harrison and other points along the Missouri and North Arkansas Railroad, where a mob of citizens, enraged by acts of sabotage on railroad property, took the law into their own hands last night, hanged one railroad striker and publicly whipped the proprietor of a hotel who is known to have been active on behalf of the strikers.

The orders had been given for the troops to remain for points where the reign of terror had broken out, but Governor McRae countermanded them on the advice of the sheriff of Boone county that the civil authorities had the situation under control.

Several of the strikers are now under arrest charged with the destruction of railway property, the last few weeks almost a dozen bridges on the line have been fired and several others have been completely destroyed. Dynamite has been exploded at a number of places along the right of way and trestles and tracks have been damaged. In several instances, locomotives failed and it was during one of that errors that had been applied in such a way as to put the engineer out of service.

The last instance of sabotage was the destruction of a bridge by fire Friday night, causing a suspension of train service for several hours. Three men were arrested on suspicion and one of them is said to have confessed to having fired the railroad property.

This latest outrage was followed by a huge mass meeting of patrons of the line at Harrisburg yesterday, at which a "citizens committee," composed of one representative of every county served by the line, was appointed to "put an end to the outrages by driving the strikers out of the country."

SACRED RELIC IS PRESENTED TO U.S. PRESIDENT

Washington, Jan. 18.—A piece of the cloth of wood said to have been a part of the cross on which Jesus Christ was crucified, was presented to President Harding recently by Archbishop Panteleimon of the Orthodox Greek Church of Hyapolis in Palestine. At the same time the President was made a Knight of the Order of the Holy Sepulchre by the Archbishop. The splinter presented to the President was imbedded in soft wax and enclosed in a gold box set with diamonds. The Archbishop acted in the ceremony as the representative of the Patriarch of the Greek Church at Jerusalem.

PROTEST BY ANTAGONISTS OF CHURCH UNION

Executive of "Anti's" Convened at Montreal—Object to Present Action

Clergy and Laity Meet

Violation of Spirit of Assembly's Instructions, Declared Opponents Regarding Draft Legislation

Opposition, strongly determined and unequivocal, is said to be the stand taken by the antagonists of church union, according to a resolution passed by the federal executive of the Presbyterian Church Association at its meeting held yesterday in the Mount Royal Hotel, Montreal.

The executive declared flatly that they regarded the determination of pro-unionist leaders to proceed at once to the consummation of organic union "at the cost of unity of our own Church," also the "present highly organized propaganda for union-under the leadership of the convener and other members of the Assembly's representative committee on union or co-operation" as contrary to the instructions of the General Assembly of Deliberation of the Presbyterian Synod-committees with the legal consel of the joint committee in drawing up the proposed bills of incorporation of the United Church was a violation of the spirit of the Assembly's instructions to make an independent declaration of the legal and legislative issues involved.

The meeting, which was called for the express purpose of instituting a fresh line of attack, more especially with a view to presenting the nonconcurrent case before the forthcoming General Assembly, was attended by some twenty-five men prominent in the ranks of the Presbyterian Church. Several were from Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, and in addition to Quebec and Ontario, the western provinces were also represented.

To aid in their work of investigation and co-ordination, the committee, before adjourning last evening, decided to appoint a permanent travelling secretary for Canada and a local secretary for the Montreal branch of the association.

PLUG ALCOHOL BUNGHOLE BASE OF BOOTLEG BOOZE

U. S. Prohibition Authorities Say Denatured Alcohol Was Chief Source of Xmas Beverages

Washington, Jan. 18.—Drastic curtailment of dealings in denatured and industrial alcohol has been decided upon by the U.S. Federal prohibition authorities as the next step in their campaign to combat the illicit liquor traffic.

Orders have been issued for the revocation of scores of dealers' permits, among those being that issued to one of the largest alcohol producing plants in the country. It is understood investigation into the sources of Christmas beverages had much to do with the order.

Much of the alcohol was declared to have been re-rectified from stocks supposedly denatured in accordance with Government regulations.

Alcohol used in the bootleg trade is believed by prohibition officials to come largely from stocks denatured by the addition of quinine sufficient to make the solution nauseating as a drink. It has been found that by the use of a simple and easily procured re-agent, the quinine can be precipitated and the clarified alcohol then syphoned off for any use the owner desires.

BLOOD OF A SEA COW

Dr. Henderson Says One Would be Lucky to Meet One — Nephritis More Common Than Diabetes

Toronto, Jan. 18.—According to Dr. Stevenson, M.P.P., for London, in a lecture at the recent Biological Conference showed that the blood of a sea cow, found to contain identically the same proteins as that found in a nephritic human being, did not in the former case indicate nephritis.

Nephritis is a kidney disease, called in certain of the developments Bright's Disease. It was stated that symptoms of nephritis in the sea cow were evidence where the disease itself was not present.

Inasmuch as treatment for nephritis has been permitted on the assumption that the blood contents in human beings have caused the disease. Dr. Stevenson suggests that the whole treatment for this type of disease will have to be reversed, and approached from a new angle.

It was enquired if any new research would be instituted at the University laboratories in view of these developments, nephritis being a more common disease than diabetes.

Dr. W. E. Henderson, at the head of the Pharmocological Department at Toronto University confessed that he was not aware of such a lecture at the recent conference.

"I have heard of investigations being made with sea lions on the Pacific Coast as their subjects," he said, "but I am not aware of their existence. I am not aware of the sea cow having been used for pathological purposes. Indeed I believe one would be lucky to meet a sea cow, as they are nearly extinct. I am sure I don't know how to make any statement upon the facts as presented to me; they seem very far from clear."

MUSIC and DRAMA

UNDER TWO FLAGS" GREAT

PLAY AND GREATER FILM

Striking success on a stage production is no criterion that it will be also a success on the screen. The other extreme; often be fact that the stage production was founded on a best seller novel, is taken to mean the producers' task becomes even more difficult. In the face of these odds, it is a pleasure that exceeds the excellence of the play is a real triumph, and Universal is entitled to claim the honor, because its forced production, "Under Two Flags," is a very entertaining photodrama.

Despite the strength of the story two other things were vital to its success, the star and the director. In Priscilla Dean and Tod Browning, Universal found an easy solution of both these problems. Miss Dean is easily the best type actress to play the role of Cigarette. She brings to the character interpretation all the energy and fire, the vivacity and flashing smile that made each and every one of her previous stand out as masterpieces of their element.

The story of Ouida's great work is so well known that it is hardly necessary to recount the plot in detail. Sufficient to say that it deals with the adventures of an English nobleman who leaves his own country in disgrace and enlists in the French army force that polices Morocco. "Cigarette," daughter of the regiment, falls madly in love with him. Her affection is requited and she kills Victor even while she loves him. The latter hears that the other woman in his life really is not his sister, and, also that she was a party to assisting in the disgrace. From this point on the story creeps forward to a powerful climax that holds one spellbound.

Priscilla Dean is supported by excellent cast. Handling the leading male role of Corporal Victor is Wallace Kirkwood, star in his own right.

"Stolen Glory," an amusing comedy introducing some clever trained dogs and Monkey, a Bray Pictograph, and the "Buffalo Bill" serial were included during the evening.

IRVING BACHELLER'S LIGHT

"THAT HAD NO CHANCE"

AT REGENT TONIGHT

"The Light that had no Chance," a picturization of Irving Bacheller's great popular novel, is the feature attraction at the Regent tonight and Saturday, matinee daily.

The cast includes Jane Novak, Wyndham Standing, Miss Wright, Bart Bayne and the Grimshawks, and you will see them on the screen. If you have not yet read the book you have a genuine treat in store. "Irving Bacheller" classed as one of America's foremost literary lights, and his humor, although of a different sort, is on a par with that of the famous Mark Twain.

All the characters of the book are in the picture, and some of the loud-comedies and pathos has been lost through the story's transition to the screen.

"Hickerville's Romeo," a two-reel Century comedy featuring Lee Moran, Grace Valcoli Myrie, Fatha News, and a Kinogram are also being exhibited.

Speaks Highly of This Home Made Cough Mixture

Says It Acts With Unusual Speed—Loosens the Mucus — Relieves Irritation and stops the Cough

COST NEXT TO NOTHING—FOR A BIG SUPPLY

Whenever anyone in my family catches cold and begins to cough and sneeze, and hawk and breathe heavy, it doesn't take me many minutes to fix up a remedy that will drive away all such troubles in double quick time.

It's no secret—anyone can make a half pint of the finest cough medicine in the world for a trifling sum.

Get from any druggist six ounces of Parmint (double strength)—to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make one half pint—that's all there is to it.

But now you've got a real medicine because the first spoonful you take sets directly on the membrane of the throat and nose, the tickling ceases, almost instantly—the inflammation begins to disappear—up comes the stubborn mucus and often in 24 hours every trace of a cough that frightens all you is gone.

Its really remarkable how this home made remedy acts on the mucus membrane and that is one reason it is so helpful to thousands of Catarrh sufferers.

MOVIE STAR IS ACQUITTED OF DRUG CHARGE

Detective Said He Found Juanita Hansen With Needle

Cocaine Also Confiscated

Star Denied That She Was Drug Addict

New York, Jan. 18.—Juanita Hansen, film star, was released in West Side court after a hearing on a charge of possessing narcotics.

The young woman was booked as Jane Hansen, and did not admit at any time that she Juanita, but several persons present said there was no doubt about her identity.

She had to sit in police court three hours waiting for her case to come up. During that period she kept her head bowed, and at times seemed to be dozing. She was simply attired in black with a black veil.

Detective Patrick Cotter was the principal witness for the prosecution. He testified that he broke into the apartment of a Mrs. Barnett and there found Miss Hansen in possession of a box of cocaine and a hypodermic needle.

Needle in Hand.

"She had the needle in her right hand, and when I came in she grabbed the box of cocaine with her left, to destroy it," Cotter said.

"What are you doing with that stuff?" I asked her.

"She replied, 'My God, give me a chance.' Do you know what this means to my career? Haven't you anyone you love? I'm supporting my family."

Cotter said he then took her to the police station, and she was locked up.

On cross-examination, Defense Counsel Joseph A. Rosenbaum asked the detective if he did not try to have Miss Hansen hooked as "Juanita Hansen." He denied it.

Miss Hansen sat leaning forward with her head and taking a brief part in everything that was said. She was accompanied by two men.

Case Dismissed.

After the police testimony was concluded, Attorney Rosenbaum made a motion that the case be dismissed, on the ground that the detective had violated the privacy of the defendant's home. Judge Koch of the afternoon Judge McQuade took the matter under advisement.

Miss Hansen remained standing and smiled happily and left the room with her lawyer and the two men.

Rosenbaum then made the statement to the effect that Miss Hansen was not a cocaine fiend and that the charges against her were a frame.

A typical police court crowd heard the evidence. Rosenbaum wanted the case held in private, to avoid what he termed "pitiless publicity," but the judge refused.

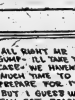
U. S. DEPT. OF HIGHWAYS SPENDS LOTS OF MONEY TOO

Appropriation of Thirty-two Million Brought Down for Roads and Trails—Other Expenditures Detailed

(By Canadian Press)



Washington, Jan. 17.—An appropriation of $32,200,000 for construction of forest roads and trails and rural post roads in the U.S., as authorized under the Federal Highway Act, was recommended in the agricultural supply bill for this fiscal year, reported recently to the House.

The bill's total is $60,261,640, or $2,000,000 more than last year, and $300,000 less than the budget estimate. The increase is divided as follows: Rural road aid, providing which last year $10,000,000 was appropriated, $12,000,000; forest roads and trails, $20,200,000.

The budget bureau had asked for a total item of $300,000 for farm seed distribution by Senators and Representatives, and it was this placed in the bill by the Appropriation Committee. Some of the items in the treasure are:

For fruit warning service, $15,000; eradicating bird blockers, $181,500; pink escorbice in fighting forest insects, $380,000; preventing spread of moths, $331,000; preventing the spread of European corn borer, $200,000; checking the spread of Mexican bean beetle, $35,000; studying food habits of birds and animals, $502,940; market inspection of perishable foods, $275,000; extermination of potato wart, $5,000; and eradication of the pink boll worm of cotton, $411,800.

The committee also recommended expenditure of $450,000 for acquisition of additional lands as headwaters of navigable streams, and $46,500 for experiments and demonstrations in live stock production in cane sugar and cotton districts.

ORGANIZER OF PICNICS

Will Supervise the Distribution of Pink Lemonade and Election Chat

Toronto, Jan. 18.—The U.F.O. has broadened out. It has created a Department of Elections, constructed along new and novel lines. The plan is eminently simple. The yokelry is to be entertained into voting for Drury candidates, and support for the party is to be engendered by spreading the insidious pink lemonade habit.

The official title of the head of the new department is "Peter, the Apostle of Pep." His baptismal name is Peter Porter.

Porter until recently has been president of the Brant County U.F.O. Club, and is a most personal friend of Premier Drury, and Hon. H. C. Nixon. During the U.F.O. regime he has had ample opportunity to study the appetites and private predilections of rural constituents.

ORGANIZER OF PICNICS.

In brief, the Apostle Peter is to organize U.F.O. picnics all over the province, drum up audiences for U.F.O. speakers during the coming campaign, push the pink ice cream and strawberry ice cream is delivered promptly, have all the toy balloons inflated and ready for taking up the collections.

The budding Young People Society of the U.F.O. is to be promised under Peter's guidance. Through them will be spread the doctrines of Henry Ford and the social principles of Peter Smith. Those societies will also be invincible and convertible, so that if the Orange Lodges threaten a boycott they will be pressed and pressed the orders the U.F.O. has become an amateur choral society, all tied up to sing a practical

U. S. Congressmen Want to be Known as Drinking Men

Washington, Jan. 18.—Returning to the House after his conference with prohibition officials on the subject of liquor drinking by members of Congress and high government officials, Representative Upshaw, Democrat, of Georgia, ran into some unexpected anti-prohibition sentiment.

Half a dozen members who voted against the Volstead law and who took a drink in the old days if they felt like it, surrounded the Georgian. "Put us on the list of drinking men, for it will mean our re-election," they urged.

THE CLOSING OF ST. AGNES

It is a matter of deep regret and much concern to the City of Belleville, that circumstances have arisen which have necessitated the closing of one our most respected and nationally known educational institutions, St. Agnes School for Girls.

It is significant that the retiring Principal, Miss Carroll, has lovingly labored there, within these halls, for the whole period of twenty-one years since the school was opened and many young ladies, now comprising some of Canada's best womanhood can claim their present status to be consistent with the traditions of St. Agnes in their alma mater.

While it is a fact that St. Agnes was not particularly active in extension or in extra mural courses—that was not the primary intention of its mentors—it has been amply demonstrated that the desire of the founders was for the higher education and for something that would be unmistakably useful and even when something beyond the utilitarian was looked forward to, it was toward credit for an academic training and the practical that was directed at all times given recognition and the success of the Principal and teachers have indeed since exceeded beyond the college walls. It is to be hoped that satisfactory arrangements will be completed in some quarter to enable this institution to keep but in part its activities, nothing would seem more appropriate to a tribute to Miss Carroll's fruitful stewardship than the words of Frederic Harrison, that eminent Professor of Jurisprudence and International Law: "Many a man has done more than he could have done and said all that I ever could have done and said. There is nothing more."

HALF CENTURIES OF RAILWAY SERVICE

Of particular interest to railwaymen many of whom reside in this city, is the recent press despatch from Stratford, Ontario, chronicling the fifty years' continuous service fitment from the Grand Trunk service, of Walter Box locmotive engineer. This event closes a continuous performance of duty of over half a century and he leaves the employ of the railway, with the unique distinction of never having been in an accident which cost the life of, or even caused the injury of a passenger entrusted to his care, or a fellow workman—truly a unique record of service.

As an engineer he now reported from Buffalo, that James W. Varley has made his last run at the throttle of the premier train of the New York Central, the Empire State express, and has retired automatically on pension on the same day after fifty years of service as a driver.

Doubtless these two men could spin many interesting tales of early railroading on this continent. However much the passing of time has dimmed the importance of such events to the new generation, the fact remains that there is something inspiring for everyone in these records of faithful service, which has brought the participants, unscathed and still vigorous, to the allotted span of life after over fifty years of one of the most arduous, nerve-wracking and dangerous of occupations.

Possibly the introduction to this short valedictorial should have been preceded by those lines from that immortal ballad of "Casey Jones".

"Come all you rounders if you want to hear, the story told of a brave engineer."

GOVERNMENT HOUSE

Much was said from U.F.O. platforms in the 1919 provincial election about alleged extravagance on the part of the then Government, and no special item received more acrimonious discussion than Government House, which was commonly described as a "white elephant." Whether due to the excellent use which Col. Harry Cockshutt, as Lieutenant-Governor, has made of it or whether it is merely that "circumstances alter cases," the attack has died out. Indeed, the institution is now commended by no less a personage than Hon. W. E. Raney, Attorney-General in the Drury Government.

Addressing a recent luncheon at Government House, when officials of Haldimand, Wellington and Waterloo were guests, Mr. Raney declared that one thing Canadians particularly needed was opportunity for social intercourse of all classes, and that so long as Government House continued to be used as it had during the past couple of years it would justify its existence and the expenditure involved.

PASSING COMMENT

Manitoba's wheat crop for the year 1922 was second only to its divorce crop.

And now the next big event, for which due preparations must be made, will be the payment of the federal income-tax.

Either in winter or summer, it is utterly impossible to make the-bay safe for those whose foolishness is their biggest asset.

Lessened consumption of beer in Great Britain is attributed to high taxation, low wages and unemployment. It must, at least, be counted in the consumers' favor that they have the sense to recognize these facts by restraining their appetite.

An authority on the fuel situation declares that we must "learn to eke out by burning oil, gas, electricity and what not." We are glad he mentioned the whatnot.

And bachelors are as hard to understand as widows are easy.

It would be interesting to learn where cargoes of liquor cleared for ports at Toronto and Belleville by vessel go. A motor launch or small lake steamer clearing with liquor for the West Indies is a grim sort of joke.

But the man worth while

HERE AND THERE

A DEEP SEA MARVEL

The life history of the salmon has long been counted one of the most interesting facts in biology. Now a Danish zoologist, Dr. Schmidt, is now completing researches into the life history of the eel, which is the climax thus far. Some considerable one is making more engrossing addition to our knowledge. His achievement, as recorded this month in the English scientific journal, "Nature," is considerable one in many respects, because the life history of the mysterious eel has been anybody's guess and nobody's knowledge since the time St. Augustine.

The story of the eel, with elements of uncommon interest added, is that of the salmon reversed. The salmon leaves the sea and fights its way up the rivers to spawn. Its young, after a year or two spent in fresh water, go down to the sea and then return inland to repeat the life cycle. Some of the latter, whom experience has taught nothing, make the long journey several times.

Until Dr. Schmidt made his discovery it was not definitely known where the eel spawned. We now know that the eels of Europe leave the lakes and ponds and rivers when they reach maturity and head across the Atlantic to a small area in the ocean about 2,000 miles southwest from the English Channel. There they spawn and from there the young eels begin a journey to the inland waters of Europe that takes them three years to accomplish. To the same breeding ground comes a variety of American eel whose young makes their way to the inland waters of the United States. In the ocean the eels also lay eggs, which hatch and grow into young eels, known as leptocephali. The story of the eel, with elements of uncommon interest added, is that of the salmon reversed. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO. SATURDAY, JANUARY 20, 1923

FRENCH FORCES STRIPPING GERMAN NATION

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED FOR AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY

Considerable Dispute Relative to Holding Fair—New Grounds Discussed

Chas. Hanna—President

Midway Not Favored by Secretary—Wants Race-Track for Revenue—To Change Dates

After the adopting of the Secretary's report at the annual meeting of the Belleville Agricultural Society, held in this city yesterday afternoon, a rather lengthy discussion took place relative to the holding of a fair this year, owing to the condition of the buildings at the agricultural park.

Mr. W. A. Woolley asked if the Treasurer and Secretary had been paid their salaries for the past year.

Mr. G. F. Reid—"They have been paid, and it is shown in the report."

No action was taken in reference to a spring cattle show and the field crop competition.

Fair Grounds.

Mr. W. A. Woolley said he was sorry to state that there did not appear to be interest in the Belleville fair that there should be. In visiting other fairs he saw a midway and other attractions, and if we were going to have a fair we must have attractions to induce people to attend. We gave good prizes and had good races, and the display of horses and cattle was good. The date of the fair should be changed. If we all pull together we can have a good fair. If the city would fix up the present ground and buildings we could continue to hold a fair.

Ex-Mayor Hanna: "We can only have the present grounds for three years at the most."

Mr. H. B. Stock referred to the Maple fair last year. One month before the fair was held it was decided not to hold a fair, but $6,000 was raised, property was bought, buildings were put up and a track made. Some $7,000 was now available by the Society to pay for the grounds, etc. This shows what can be done by co-operation. There is no reason why Belleville should not have a successful fair. The midway proposition has virtually become disgraceful. It was get our citizens interested we can have a fair. The midway proposition may be done away with at fairs. He was hopeful something would be done by the Central Ontario Fair Association in regard to doing away with the midway feature. He would not be in favor of holding a fair upon the present grounds.

Mayor Bennett: "We may possibly have the present grounds for four or five years longer."

Mr. W. C. Reid said it was regrettable that the citizens of Belleville did not take more interest in the fair. If we held a fair, do not hold it on a location outside the Toronto Exhibition was in progress. We have no place for merchants or manufacturers to have an exhibit. He did not feel like going on or taking part in a fair under the present conditions and with the grounds as they now are.

President Hanna: "If we get new grounds and new buildings we can have a fair. It is either a case of dropping the fair or go into the matter with a thrust. Let us co-operate with the Parks Commission."

Mr. George Jarrett spoke of successful fairs held in other places, and we cannot have a successful fair if we had proper grounds.

Mr. W. A. Woolley referred to the Picton fair and how the association secured its grounds and buildings. Other societies were interested in the grounds and buildings.

Mr. H. B. Stock: "If we had a horse race track we could have two meets a year and it would be some source of revenue."

Ald. Greenleaf stated he had examined various properties relative to securing same for the holding of a fair. He spoke of the Coleman farm property, and the necessity there would be of expending considerable money in placing the grounds in proper shape. All societies could unite in the prop-

Labor Objects to Immigration Policy

Ottawa, Jan. 20.—Denouncing the immigration policies of the Federal and Ontario Governments on the ground that immigrants were being deluded as to the possibilities of securing work in Canada, the Ottawa Trades and Labor Council last night recommended a better supervision of immigration, control of booking offices in Britain, exclusion of Orientals, abolition of grants to agencies and better information as to the possibilities of finding work here.

A MODERN FAGIN RUNS CRIME SCHOOL

Pittsburg, Jan. 20.—A correspondence school for training safe blowers has been brought to light here, the police say.

They arrested William T. Ribaldaffer, 25 years old, of the Wallace Building, South Highland and Centre Avenues, last night. In his home the police found a complete set of safe-blowing tools and instruction books showing how to open twenty-seven different makes of safes.

The police refused to give out the titles of the books seized. Neither would they give the names of the publishers, saying that they had communicated with the police in the city where the books were printed with a view to having legal action taken against the publishers.

Will be Sent on Cruise of the British Dominions to Display Certain Lines of German Goods

London, Jan. 20.—The "Hohenzollern," once the palatial pleasure yacht of the former German Emperor, is being fitted out as a trade ship by the German Government, and will be sent on a cruise to the British dominions.

News that the Germans were attempting to get a share of the dominion trade has caused British merchants to fit out two ships for a similar voyage.

The first vessel will be ready to sail by February 1. Soon after another ship will start around the world in the opposite direction in an effort to beat the German boat to its goal.

The beautiful rose-pink furnishings and elegantly appointed cabins of the "Hohenzollern" have been torn out to make room for stands that will display German goods.

ELECTION NEXT FALL PREDICTED BY LEADER

Hon. H. Ferguson Says "Misfits" in Control Temporarily

Railway Policy Reviewed by Meighen

Ottawa, Jan. 20.—A Conservative Business Men's club was launched Thursday night at a dinner, at which the principal speakers were Right. Hon. Arthur Meighen and Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, leader of the Conservative party in Ontario, both of whom attacked the present administrations in the federal and provincial houses.

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson predicted an election in Ontario by next fall. He characterized members of the Drury government as "misfits, temporarily in charge. Under the group system he claims he at present in power there was undoubtedly instability of government and uncertainty of government action. Mineral and pulp mines were stagnating as a consequence. He charged the government with lack of initiative and want of leadership.

After reviewing the history of railway policy of the Conservative government and contrasting with that of Liberal governments and declaring that when the Conservatives returned to power they had found the country tied with "projects of fantastical development." Right Hon. Arthur Meighen attacked the government's dealing with the late Turkish crisis and the appeal of the British government to know Canada's attitude.

The speaker declared that the present government had gone over in "violation of the free law of the land" during the past year than was supposed to have been done through the whole period of the war. Today the government was "committing the country to millions of expenditure without the slightest authority from the commons or Canada," he said.

GERMAN FUNDS TO FINANCE FRENCH OCCUPATION

Have Seized Banks, Autos, Forests, Mines and Taxes in Rhineland—All Goods Taxed

TEUTONS PLANNING GENERAL STRIKE

General Foch Arrives in Ruhr—German Owners Arrested —People Singing "Deutschland Uber Allies."

FOCH ON THE SPOT

Essen, Jan. 20.—It was reported this morning that Marshall Foch, French Generalissimo, would arrive in the Ruhr Valley during the day.

COAL BARONS ARRESTED

Essen, Jan. 20.—Fritz Thyssen and five other leading mine operators were arrested here this morning. The prisoners were transferred to Duesseldorf.

RAILWAYMEN REFUSE TO WORK

Elberfeld, Jan. 20.—Railroad workers in this zone decided to-day to no longer transport outside the Ruhr the coal requisitioned by the French. This decision was reached after an all night session here in which many of the delegates favored continuance of work.

FRENCH SEIZE BANKS

Duesseldorf, Jan. 20.—The French to-day seized a Deutsche-bank automobile which was transferring 150,000,000 marks from a Reichbank branch. The latter building was padlocked and patrolled. After the seizure all banks in Duesseldorf were closed.

Reichbank directors throughout the occupied zone attempted to carry off deposit books, as word of France's intention to seize all banks and credit houses spread. Troops surrounded motor trucks here just as they pulled away from the local branch and prevented departure.

At Dortmund, guards were placed about the Reichbank branch to prevent escape of officials or removal of papers.

At Mayence, troops seized the Reichbank's deposit books, just as officials were about to flee with them.

HUNNISH ARROGANCY

Duesseldorf, Jan. 20.—A point blank refusal from the directors of the Reichsbank branch here to re-open the bank's doors was delivered to-day to General Degoutte, French Commander in the Ruhr. In declining to obey orders that the bank resume activities immediately the directors declared, "that the bank will remain closed so long as there is a single French soldier in or around the premises.

DELAYS COMMUNICATIONS

Essen, Jan. 20.—The postmaster of Essen whose office handles all telegraphic messages filed here was arrested to-day on a charge of "wilfully delaying telegrams destined for Paris."

MORE ARRESTS OF DEFIANT OFFICIALS

Essen, Jan. 20.—The personnel of the postal, telephone and telegraphic services held a conference at noon on the question of whether to quit work as a result of the postmaster's arrest. The directors of post office construction, Herr Zehme, also was arrested on the ground that he had refused to serve occupying forces. The director in taking over the services advised the French that he intended to abide by the orders of the Federal Government.

Can Use Mines and Army

Duesseldorf, Jan. 20.— Trouble in a serious form began here with the refusal of the banks to exchange marks against foreign currency when the cash box of the Reichbank was seized. The public utilities service refused to operate because they could not get legal tender, and the entire supply of marks entirely disappeared.

The French announced this forenoon that they would open an exchange bureau today where foreign money would be accepted and the marks handed out until the new Ruhr-Rhineland fiscal system had been organized.

The money seized, it is estimated, would be sufficient to effect the payment of the Ruhr workers tomorrow and provide for the needs of the occupation forces of 100,000 men for a week. The supply of marks will probably last for ten days when other measures will have to be taken.

Essen, Jan. 20.— France and Germany pitted against each other in one of the most bitter economic struggles in history, have embarked on a policy of attrition.

With the France-German Ruhr embroglio at a deadlock, each nation is trying to wear down the resistance of the other so as to gain her end. According to the German viewpoint, if the French can be prevented from taking any real money out of Ruhr, the cost of the army of occupation will burden the taxpayers who are already laboring under the strain of supporting an enormous budget—that public opinion will demand the withdrawal of the invaders.

In case French occupation fails to produce cash, it will not take long, according to prominent inhabitants of the Ruhr, for the cost of maintaining an army of 100,000 troops in Germany to empty France's purse.

Economically, France has already dealt Germany which was in the throes of a catastrophic condition before the invasion of the Ruhr, a hard blow. The deeper the French armies bore into the Ruhr the greater is the collapse of the mark and hence the higher the cost of the living. This one fact, many point out may so weaken the former enemy nation that she will have to say: "Kamerad."

New York, Jan. 20.—Following a rally of the Ku Klux Klan here last night, members of the organization were forced to walk slowly between two lines of detectives, who scrutinized their faces closely. As a result the detectives claim they have secured knowledge of the identity of a number of the prominent leaders of the movement in New York. The visit of the detectives to the meeting place was quite unexpected, but no attempt was made to interfere with the proceedings.

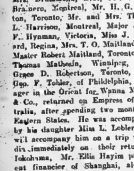
ORIENTAL LINER DEPARTS FROM PORT

Empress of Australia Carries Distinguished Passenger List—Representatives of Religious Orders Depart for the East



Vancouver, B. C., Jan. 10.—Two parties who attracted considerable attention during the sailing hour on board the Empress of Australia today were two groups of religious sisters and franciscan monks. In the former party were Sisters Mary David Lingard, Catherine Finn and Anita Cornell, recently of St. Louis, Missouri, who, as sisters of St. Vincent and St. Paul, were bound for Shanghai to foster Catholic mission fields. They were accompanied from the south by Rev. Father A. L. Sullivan, director of the province of Normandy, St. St. Louis, Sister Superior Eugenia of St. Louis and Sister Helena, Supt. of the Roman Catholic Orphanage at Point of San Francisco, who will return with this evening. The dress worn by the sisters was a striking contrast to the flowing black veil usually associated with sisters of charity.

Seven Franciscan monks, five of whom were the monastery garb, dedicated Father Cosmas Stern, of Strasburg, Alsace, France, and recently of San Francisco, returning to the French Oriental mission in Shantung, China, where he has already spent sixteen years. The other members of the party which included the French-Canadian monks, included Father Faminus LaChapelle, of Montreal, remote, to Quemas, Japan.

"I Avoided an Operation with Appendicitis Disappeared"

Mrs. James Wells, Udora, Ont., writes:—

"I took a severe pain in my right side. It was very bad at times. I tried oils and tablets without gaining any relief. The doctor said I had chronic appendicitis. I dreaded an operation and a friend advised Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I used them and not only obtained relief from pain but I believe it has completely freed me of appendicitis, as it is now over a year since I have had any of the old symptoms."

COULD HAVE BOUGHT HOOCH AT BARGAIN

But Reporters Looked Only For Stories — Chartered Tug and Visited Rum-Runners

New York, Jan. 20.—Are Canadian fishing vessels playing a prosperous liquor trade, offering bargains in choice brands, at the sea gateway to New York?

This question, which has been agitating the minds of New Yorkers for the past ten days, still remains unanswered, despite a special and apparently hazardous cruise of investigation undertaken by representatives of the New York papers yesterday afternoon.

The newspapermen, braving a high sea and zero weather in a special chartered tug, found many small vessels, among them a number from Nova Scotia ports, at anchor fifteen miles off Sandy Hook. They exaggerated requests for liquor quotations to those on board, and in many cases declare they received replies which seemed promising from the point of view of a prospective purchaser. But that was all they received. The tug, the Woodman, returned to port soaking wet with half-frozen spray, but alcoholically dry.

The object of the excursion was to obtain confirmation of stories that what the papers call a rum fleet, has operating extensively off the Sandy Hook shore. These stories have drawn emphatic denials from Chief Prohibition Commissioner Roy Haynes. The unofficial investigation disclosed that the ships are there, but failed definitely to establish that they are engaged in liquor conducted from their decks. In the case of the Canadian schooners and trawlers, it was said that their skippers have taken a notion to try their luck fishing off the Hook. The reporters also interviewed the local agents selling various casks and barrels on the docks, and made positive declaration that the vessels' cargoes are understood for the purpose of selling bananas or Bibles. Incidentally it has leaked out that the rum ships on the tug were deaf subject to their evidence may be open to question.

BANFF TO HOLD WINTER CARNIVAL

Banff, Alta., Jan. 20.—This pretty little town nestling in the rockies has definitely decided to hold a winter carnival this year, and has gone to it. It has been set to open February 24th and will last through to March 5th there will be many special events for which Banff is already famous. Champion ski jumpers will compete and a purse of $2,500. Weekly events will be held on the ice rink. Ski-joring up the river, from which a well-worn cutter is suspended. Mr. Sergeyev one piece ski jumper, has won that contest on it certainly one characteristic entirely alien to his nature.

"America has been intensely interested in your victory," said the correspondent, grasping the large, rough hand of the Scandinavian.

"No I hear," he replied in an unmistakable Scotch accent.

"On what basis do you predict a dry victory in the next general election?" asked the correspondent.

"Well, in the first place," he answered, "since my election I have received every day a stack in letters that high"—and he measured with his hands held up to his waist—"congratulating me on my victory. The writers, or virtually all those, say they are going to bring pressure to bear on the members from their several constituencies to enact the bill I intend to introduce. If that does not work the people of this country at the next election taking a lesson from Dundee, are going to nominate several prohibitionists, and my prediction is that there will be enough elected to force a prohibition bill through Commons.

NO OPERATION FOR HER

She Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Escaped the Operation Doctor Advised

Louisville, Ky.—"I wish to thank you for what your medicine has done for me. I was in bad health for about nine years every month and the greatest of pain. The doctor said my only relief was an operation. I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines and tried the Vegetable Compound and the Sanative Wash, and they surely did wonders for me. I feel fine all the time now, also am picking up in weight. I will tell any one that your medicines are wonderful, and you may publish my letter if you wish."—Mrs. Ida Bonnaker, 1150 Ash St., Louisville, Ky.

Backache, nervousness, painful times, irregularity, tired and nervous feelings are symptoms of female troubles. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be taken whenever there is reason to fear such troubles. It contains nothing that can injure, and tends to tone up and strengthen the organs concerned, so that they may work in a healthy, normal manner. Let it help you as it has thousands of others. It is now selling almost all over the world.

DECLARES PROHIBITION WILL SWEEP ENGLAND

Edwin Scrymgeour Makes Prediction will be Enough Members Elected in Five Years to Force the Bill Through

London, Jan. 12.—(By Associated Press).—Great Britain's one Prohibitionist member of parliament, Edwin Scrymgeour, now universally known as "the man who beat Churchill," today predicted that in the next general election, assuming it will be five years hence, the cause which he represents will sweep the country.

This sanguine prophecy was made by Dundee's newly-elected dry champion soon after his maiden speech in the House of Commons, not in the tense, of a dreamer flushed with his first burst of victory, but in the cool, deliberate manner of a man who thoroughly believes he knows the workings of practical politics.

Mr. Scrymgeour made his statement to a representative of The Associated Press. He is a Scotsman, a Scotchman, slightly bald, and apparently about fifty-five years of age. His rather long mustache is trimmed to slip beneath his kind manner, although there is a definite suggestion of firmness in the bulldog drooping gray mustache which covers his upper lip. Earnest unpretentiousness is perhaps the outstanding impression of his general appearance. Clad in an ordinary inexpensive Scotch tweed lounge suit, with a large white handkerchief across his breast, from which a well-worn eyeglass is suspended, Mr. Scrymgeour one piece ski jumper, is not that outcast of certainly one characteristic entirely alien to his nature.

"America has been intensely interested in your victory," said the correspondent, grasping the large, rough hand of the Scotchman.

"No I hear," he replied in an unmistakable Scotch accent.

"On what basis do you predict a dry victory in the next general election?" asked the correspondent.

"Well, in the first place," he answered, "since my election I have received every day a stack in letters that high"—and he measured with his hands held up to his waist—"congratulating me on my victory. LIQUOR SEIZURE VALID

Decision of Nova Scotia Supreme Court Upholds Province of the Doherty Act

Sydney, N. S., Jan. 20.—After keeping the matter before the courts for nearly two years, the city of Sydney has scored a victory in regard to the enforcement of the prohibition laws according to information received from Halifax by city Solicitor Finlay MacDonald, K.C. The full bench of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia has decided that seizures made under the provisions of the Doherty Act upon the premises of the Canadian National Railways are quite legal, and that jurisdiction lies with the magistrate at whatever point the actual seizure may be made, and not exclusively at the point of destination as claimed by the city's opponents.

The case is the one of the campaign carried on here in 1921, when George B. Ridsout, of Moncton, was liquor inspector.

At that time inspector Ridsout seized in the local Canadian National Railways yard a carload of liquor for one Petrie, a Sydney man, billed to Glace Bay. Petrie's lawyers claimed that the seizure was invalid because the car had not reached its destination, when seizure was made and also that the Doherty Act had been superseded in Nova Scotia by part four of the Canada Temperance Act.

It may amaze those who have never tried Vicks VapoRub for cold to know that in the States over 17 million jars of this external vapor-inising treatment are used yearly.

Last winter in order to prove to Canada mothers how quickly and effectively this treatment acts, about 15,000 free packages were given to responsible people to be tested in their homes, on condition that they gladly reported results. If at the end of 30 days you are not delighted with the results, mail the top of the carton to Vicks Chemical Co., 2 Notre Dame St., W., Montreal, P. Q., and the price paid will be freely refund

We are sure the following statements will convince you that Vick VapoRub is the remedy which the manufacturers show their own faith in their preparation by backing it with a straightforward statement.

THREE OF THESE REPORTS.

Mrs. D. Barclay, of 36 Scollard St Toronto, Ont., writes: "My two children had severe colds and one had bronchitis very badly. I got Vick VapoRub and rubbed it on their chests and it cured them. I think it is a grand remedy for colds and have used it to a lot of people."

Mr. Bernard Deneers, of 426 Mount Royal St., East Montreal, says: "Last January I had a sore throat and chest cold and was forced to stop work. My mother asked me: "Did you ever try Vicks VapoRub?" I had not, so that night she put some on my throat and chest. I was very happy the next morning to find that I was feeling much better."

Mrs. H. Parker, of 33 Renfrew Ave., Ottawa, Ont., says: "I noted am pleased with Vicks VapoRub. My two little boys had whooping cough last winter and I used Vicks all the time, rubbing their backs and chests with it night and morning and often through the day. They got over whooping cough just fine and no bad after-effects. I can't say enough for it."

JUNIORS HAD REVENGE IN LAST NIGHT'S GAME

Administered a Trouncing to the Canal Town Boys in Clean, Fast, Hard-Checking Match

Kerr Played Star Game on Defence—Rest of Team Show Benefit of Good Coaching—Batsone of Queen's, Referee

Hockey is a funny thing, two or three nights ago Belleville juniors went to Campbellford and were administered a trimming to the tune of 3 to 1. But last night down at our ice palace the "Bear Cubs" were handed a real beating. The score was 9-2 and just about represents the merits of the two teams on the nights play. The kids from the town of locks and canals could not do anything right while the kids from home went at their work with a will and always had a man in the right place. Belleville showed a well balanced team in combination and condition and through these two playing times scored at will. Every man played his position and was always there to give a pass or take one. The results all of the goals were scored from close in. To young Kerr on the defence goes the honours of the evening. He was easily the best man out there. His two goals in the last period were beautiful he having handled and side stepped his way right in on top of the goal tender not giving him an earthly chance to save. His blocking was good and he had them admonishing outside all night. Strachan who did not have a certificate but who received permission to play through W. J. Hewitt, sec. of the O.H.A., was a valuable man and teamed nicely with Kerr. His combination was responsible for goals by Hubbard and Cummings. Hubbard in centre is very fast and tricky but lets the puck get away. He lost several goals this way.Scott and Cummings on the wings were good and did a lot of useful hustling work. The result was that the "Bear Cats" were bottled up nearly all evening. Arnott shines and looks much in action like his famous brother "Gunner" and is a real comer with a little coaching.Bukhard was not used much but tried while he was out. Hunter in goal had a real easy night made some nice save and let an easy one sneak by him in the second period and it never left the ice.

For Campbellford Copperthwaite and White were the outstanding stars. In the defence Copperthwaite bore the brunt of the attack and the less can not be attributed to him. His rushing was good but invariably he was skated in the corner. He tried hard and was a rising stone. Little Danny White was the thorn in the side. He checked them all and his rushing and shooting was well timed and accurate. Stewart in goal appeared weak. He stopped a lot but was not there in the pinch. Brady was a good rusher on the defence but marred his work by being inclined to be dirty. He served three penalties. Archer and Wood on the wings work like beavers but were checked too closely to be of much assistance.

In trimming to the tune of 3 to 1. But and referee Batstone had a very easy time. He allowed them a little latitude and in that way the game did not last.

Hibbard scored 3 goals, Cummings, Strachan and Kerr 2 each, and for Campbellford Brady and Smith one each.

Campbellford—Goal, Stewart; defence, Copperthwaite and Brady; centre, Smith; wings, Wood and Archer; subs, White and Bennett; subgoaler, Sanders.

Belleville—Goal, Hunter, defence, Kerr and Strachan; centre, Hibbard; wings, Scott and Cummings; subs, Arnott and Bukhardt; sub. goaler, Lloyd Referee—Harry Batstone, Kingston.

THE GUNNER SHOWS THEM HOW

Galt, Jan. 20.—The Terriers had a good workout last night defeating Stan Burgoyne's Preston crew in an intermediate O.H.A. fixture 10 to 1, without exerting themselves.

Preston came down minus their regular defence, Schlegel being sick and Skelly on the casualty list. Two juniors were used and while the team tried hard they were hopelessly outclassed. The score by periods was: 5-1, 0-1 and 10-1.

Arnott was easily the star for the visitors, while the Galt defence turned in a beautiful game offensively and defensively.There was a lot of comedy to the match which pleased the audience of 1,500.

TO PREVENT PUBLICATION

"That is quite correct," was Hon. W. E. Raney's brief comment, when asked if a statement in Montreal was true that the Government intended to bring in legislation this year to prohibit the publication of race track odds and race selections.

Some time ago Premier Drury, in a public address, intimated that the Government had such a measure under consideration.

Mr. Raney is unable to go into the details of the measure as the bill has not been finally drafted to fit the opinion that newspapers will be prohibited from publishing such information, as well as "form sheets" and other racing papers. The bill as being drafted is also aimed at the importation of such sheets into the province from the United States, it is said.

The Attorney-General will go ahead with his measure in the hope that Ottawa will validate the bill by concurrent legislation.

Dainty little Mona Goodwin in "The Girl in Red" will be played in a dainty little way by Marjorie Bird.

ARTILLERYMEN DEFEATED KINGSTON IRISHMEN

Finkle Scores Three Counters in Overtime Match and Locals Win 8-5.

The 38th Battery team of this city defeated the young Irishmen of Kingston in an overtime fixture at Napanee last evening . The Limestone City boys led for two periods but Belleville tied it up and full time score stood 5-5. In the ten minute overtime period Bill Finkle by good shooting netted three for Belleville. The Kingston boys were forced to play their games in Napanee owing to the fact that Jack Hurley could not be taken up nearly every evening with O.H.A., Intercollegiate or City League games. Terry Hilton starred for the Irish. Angove turned in a nice game on the defence. Bill Finkle scored five goals and turned in a beautiful combination. Canning, Symons and Anderson tallied the three remaining counters. Blute also was an aspirant for the ice. Intermediates subbed with Applebee, Ted Whalen could not go down and was replaced by Canning at centre. Tiger Anne are still leading the league but both the young Irishmen and Napanee promise to make it a merry finish. Mr. Casterton, of Kingston, refereed the game.

Score by periods.
First period—3—2 Kingston.
Second period—4—3 Kingston.
Full time—5—5.
Overtime—8—5 Belleville.

Belleville—Goal, Hibbard; defence, Finkle and Guyer; centre Canning; wings, D. Whalen and Symons; subs, Armstrong and Blute.

Irishmen—Goal, McCarthy; defence, R. Angove and Donovan; centre, J. Milan; wings, T. Milan and Angove; sub, Devlin.

WILLARD—DEMPSEY BOUT UP TO PUBLIC

Amazing thing about this fellow Jess Willard. Four years ago he was booted out of action when Jess was the best bum. Now he gets a thunderous reception everywhere he goes, and the fans are only clamoring for a return bout between the big fellow and his conqueror. In the fighting game the fans may and pay and never get any wise. The man who can satisfy their clamoring is Tex Rickard, and he is said to be ready to tie up Dempsey and Willard at three months' notice. If the public want it they can have a Dempsey-Willard fight. There is no accounting for tastes. Perhaps fandom in general seem to think they were too heavy in condemning Willard for he paid in the last affair. Anyone who saw the moving pictures of the fight or the action itself could hardly call the big fellow a quitter into question. Then there is, of course, the story that Dempsey's handlers were connected on that historic occasion.

Everyone in Belleville likes Doris Rowe. You will love her as May Davis in "The Girl in Red."

Deseronto High Lose On Home Ice To Belleville Boys

Play Developed Into "Shinny Match"—Rink Inadequate For Good Hockey

Winning Goal Disputed but Allowed—High School Principal Accompanied Team—Are Developing Into Consistent Players

Belleville High School minus three of their regulars were able to defeat the Deseronto High School boys in the latter town last evening in a score of 3-2. The Belleville boys should have won by a larger score but for the good goalkeeping of Bowerman. The latter appeared to have a string of rabbits' feet hanging about his neck, as many occasions B.H.S. had the puck right through only to have the goalie come out and save. The Deseronto boys made a rather crude affair with a very poor system of lighting, consequently it was rather difficult for the goaltenders to watch the long shots. The spectators were perched on the snow banks and naturally they were not very pleased at the result. Also the game they gathered at the dressing room into said many uncomplimentary remarks about the Belleville players, and in fact everything that didn't please them. The Deseronto supporters claimed the winning goal was scored on an off-side, but the referee maintained otherwise and his word is law. Probably he may have off-side, and again probably it wasn't, but at any rate the play was allowed to stand and Belleville were declared winners. The winning goal was notched two minutes before time and the Belleville supporters who were there in force had it all their own way for a few minutes. Referee Marzolo did not seem very well versed in the rules, for one side suffered as well as the other. He allowed tripping, slashing and cross-checking to go almost at will, penalties being penalized. Deseronto scored the second goal on a pass which was at least three feet ahead. The Belleville team found it hard to get away on the limited surface and for the first few minutes they were completely at sea, but they developed into a "shinny match" at times, with everybody endeavouring to get a crack at the puck. The Deseronto boys although dropped were a greatly improved aggregation from the one that was played here last Wednesday. Probably they were more at home in their own back yard than in the local arena. They

UNABLE TO ASCERTAIN THE CAUSE OF DEATH
Twins Die in Nova Scotia—Autopsist Perplexed—Open Verdict by Jury

Sydney, N.S., January 20.—The cause of the death of the Williamson twins, aged four months, who died suddenly here about eight weeks ago, will probably remain a sealed mystery, Coroner J. W. Townsend's jury decided after an inquest here tonight. The jury also ordered the week to week awaiting a report from Dr. A. G. Nicholls, provincial pathologist at Halifax, to whom samples of the milk drunk by the boys, and parts of their intestines had been sent for analysis. This report was expected tonight and states there was nothing found in the intestines to show the cause of death and that the milk was all right. There were no signs about the bodies of the children to indicate the cause of their death. The jurors decided that if the experts could not tell what had killed the children, they had better return an open verdict, and acted accordingly.

The Williamson family came here from St. John about a year ago. A short time before their deaths the children had taken first prize at a baby show held at the Salvation Army Maternity Hospital.

The visitors got their only goal in the first period, while Bowmanville scored two, and two more in the second period. Howes saved his team from a much heavier defeat by his playing in goal. BOWLING
At the Y. M. C. A.

There was a double header at the Y Bowling Alleys last night. The first game was exceptionally interesting from the time the first ball was rolled until the last pin was knocked down. In the first game the Excelsiors won out by a fair margin but by the time the second was concluded the Bowlers had returned to form and rolled the very best game of the season. They continued their championship form all through the last game this time running close to the 1000 mark. Wally Walsh on the last game started off with two strikes and a spare, the fifth frame being 184. Had not hard luck camped on his trail for the next two frames his score would have almost reached the 300 mark. Turner's 238 in the second game was high single for the night and Cook of the same team knocked them down for the high three string of 588. The Bowlers total of 2632 just about puts them in the millionaire class.

BOWLERS:

The second contest of the evening saw the Bowlers in action again and although they did not run up such total score quite as high as in the initial contest, they made a very creditable showing. The G. T. R. Five bowled a steady game and were able to prevent their opponents from taking three straight. The leading Bowlers in this contest were Walshe for the Bowlers and Harvey of the Trunks.

At the Recreation Parlors

There were two very exciting games at the Recreation Parlors last night. In one game the Merchants won from the C.I.A. the former rolling over 1000 mark. Barlow and Munroe being the high men. In the second game the fight was more even and although the G. T. R. baseball team won two games out of three they could not overcome the lead that the Knights piled up in the first game and lost out by 33 pins. Tom Bassett and Vernon Weir leading for their respective teams. Game tonight G.W.V.A. vs Springers.

LADIES BOWLING BECOMING MORE POPULAR EVERY WEEK.

Judging by the number of ladies that are bowling every Tuesday and Friday it looks as if the gentlemen will have to clear out or else two inable to make room for the female aggregation. Last night saw the greatest number of any night and the scores showed a wonderful improvement.

Valiere Wriehtmeyer will sing the solo part in the opening chorus. She will be assisted by one hundred and thirty-five children.

ceilion and accomplish what we have in view. There was no reason why the various organizations cannot unite with the Park Commission in regard to this matter.

President Hanna: "The society could work with the Park Board and a fair could be held on the Coleman flats proposition if all worked in co-operation. We'll go ahead all must co-operate."

Ald. Treverton: "The Coleman flats are central, like the grounds now. How is the money to be raised to put the grounds in shape for a fair?

Mr. R. J. Gardiner: "If the city owns the grounds the Agricultural Society would get no concessions from the Department."

Mayor Bennett: "We had a successful exhibition in Belleville last fall at the Armouries, because it was a good building. We cannot expect merchants or manufacturers to exhibit in the present building. We have a good track on the present property."

His Worship was against dropping this fair this year as it would mean a difficult task to revive it.

Ald. Greenleaf: "Every individual society will have to cooperate if we are going to put the proposed idea of new grounds into shape."

Ald. Ketcheson: "It would be better to stay with the present grounds for a year or so until new grounds are secured."

Ald. Greenleaf moved, seconded by Mr. Reid, that the organization proceed for this year.

The resolution was adopted.

THE WOODS OF BRENT

When I was with my lover;
Beside the woods of Brent,
It never seemed to matter
If shadows came or went.
There was Jinny for the milking,
There was Daisy for the stall,
There were Babes down, t' river
And sunshine over all.

When I was with my lover,
A-listening to his pipe,
It never seemed to matter
If rut was green or ripe.
There were berries on the hawthorns,
There were stormwracks overhead,
There were ripples on the river
Where the leaves were dropping dead.

When I was with my lover
Beside the woods of Brent,
It never seemed to matter
If shadows came or went.

CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING ENTERPRISE OPERATING

Large Quantity of Cheese Contracted for to Date Throughout Ontario To Organize Hastings

Dairy Officials Conducting Campaign to Persuade Farmers to Market Own Cheese

A million and a quarter pounds o cheese, representing the annual out put of three cheese factories in Perth county was signed up by the Ontario Co-operative Dairy Products Limited over the week-end. Among the factories which pledged to set their out put through the new co-operative company was the Zion Cheese and Butter Company of Atwood, which operates one of the finest cheese factories in Canada. Its output is approximately 385 tons per year. The other factories represented in the sign-up are those located at Brunner, Dorcas at Wallace, all in the Listowel district. The decision of the Elma Cheese and Butter Company to link up with the co-operative enterprise has special significance, because of the fact the several other factories in the county have signified their intention to base their decision on the action by the Elma factory at Atwood. As each of the four factory meetings, the resolution to join the co-operative company was carried by a great majority.

The campaign in Oxford county under the direction of B. G. Jeavry, prominent dairy buyer of the county continues to meet with gratifying success. Mr. Jeavry signed up thirteen of the first fourteen factories solicited. These factories include some of the largest and best cheese factories in Canada. One of them is reported to be the largest in the Dominion. As soon as the Oxford campaign is completed the campaign will be opened in Middlesex county where a series of preliminary meetings has already been held.

In Leeds county in eastern Ontario the sign-up is proceeding in good shape. President Beatty, who has the county campaign in hand, reports that to date, eighteen factories have signed up out of twenty-five solicited. This works out at 72 per cent, so far as the campaign has been conducted. Leeds is one of the largest cheese factory counties in Ontario with seventy-seven factories in operation and it will take a considerable time to cover the county. A good start, however, has been made and the outlook is promising for securing the membership of the majority of the factories.

Preliminary meetings have been held in Lanark and the factory meetings at which the actual signing up will be done, are scheduled to begin next week. The campaign in Lanark in charge of M. B. Cochrane, a prominent young farmer f Almonte, who has the county campaign well in hand.

Two weeks ago a series of five public meetings was held in Glengarry and Stormont counties by Prof. Leitch of the Ontario Agricultural College, who is leading assistance. This week the meetings are being continued in Glengarry and Dundas counties. Prof. Leitch's plan is to hold one or more meetings in each township in these three counties at which representatives of neighboring factories will be present to hear the co-operative plan explained. He has already enlisted the support of several prominent local dairy farmers, who will take charge of the factory meetings in their respective townships.

At strong committee has recently been organized in Prescott and Russell county, Secretary E. H. Stansbo-ough, ill have charge of the campaign in he French speaking sections of Ontario. During the past week Mr. Stonehouse has addressed meetings at nine different points in these two counties.

By the end of January it is planned o have the organization work started in all of the eighteen cheese factory counties of Ontario. In Frontenac Lennox and Addington strong county committees are at work arranging the campaign and the county committees of Hastings, Prince Edward, North umberland, and Peterboro' will be called together for organization with in the next two or three weeks.

PHAROAH HAD RATIONS FOR LONG JOURNEY

Luxor, Egypt, Jan. 19.—What are believed to be the oldest specimens of canned beef in the world were discovered yesterday by excavators in the tomb of King Tutenkhamun. While it was not wholly palatable, being 3,350 years old, the meat is in an excellent state of preservation.

The meat had been contained and was contained in elliptical receptacles resembling huge Easter eggs, four of which were found in one of the trussed ducks and joints of game. There were packed in wooden boxes, shaped according to the nature of the contents. Noticeable among this discovery was a giant duck.

The excavators also removed four bronze candlesticks of great beauty. One of them contained a perfectly preserved candle.

AN ECHO OF THE PAST

Accomplice of Becker, N.Y. Murderer Now to Die

New York, Jan. 20.—Reuben Nickin, garage keeper, who confessed being an accomplice of Abraham Beckerin the murder of the latter's wife, was convicted of first-degree murder by a Bronx county jury and is to be sentenced to death Monday.

Nirkin's admissions that he acted as lookout while Becker shopped Mrs. Becker and buried her while she was still alive in a lime pit near the Nirkin garage resulted in conviction and death penalty for the husband. The prosecution alleged Becker killed the woman to be free to marry another.

Mrs. Nirkin collapsed and pleaded with court attendants that she be killed also when the verdict was announced.

PRESBYTERIAN WOMEN JOINED IN UNION CONTROVERSY

Ministers' and Laymen's Protest Against Church Union Was Endorsed

War League Revived

Charge of Commercializing Religion Made by Hon. Hugh Dunbar—East and West Conflict

Desiring to lend their active support in the resolution passed at the Montreal meeting, the anti-union cause as champion by the federal executive of the Presbyterian Church Association, approximately almost without exception, termed the proposed bill "an iniquitous piece of legislation." Many declared that the women the opportunity that was theirs in arresting a large body of opinion that would not support the union in the battle being waged to preserve the entity of the Presbyterian Church. In this connection it was decided to revive the Women's League, an organization called into being during the war period, and to form of a similar crisis, "for the preservation of the Presbyterian Church in Canada." In the name of that organization, the following resolution was passed:

"We, the members of the Presbyterian Women's League, meeting at Montreal, strongly protest against the protest against the proposed action of the General Assembly regarding church union. We regard this action as tending to deprive the Presbyterian Church of its rights and status among the great churches of the world. We affirm our determination to stand by the church as in our power the action of the Presbyterian Church Association for the preservation of their Church."

COERCION CHARGED.

Col. Wm. Hendrie, of Hamilton, Ont., in addressing the gathering, said, "I believe there is a great part of the Presbyterian Church are being bludgeoned into joining a church against their inclinations, have found there is a great deal of ignorance as to what church union really means; many people are unaware that when this legislation becomes law the Presbyterian Church, of Canada goes out of existence. True, it provides that a congregation may vote itself out, but if you did vote yourself out, where would you go? Your church would be gone. The bill that has been prepared for submission before the Dominion and provincial governments is an iniquitous piece of legislation. As to statements made with reference to the success of church union in the West, I disagree with much that has been said. The united churches in the West are not as united as is sometimes made out. Signs beginning to realize what this organic union really means, there has been a decided change on the part of many of our people. The first cry for the unionists was "economy." Not to mince matters they had come to the point of commercializing religion. Now they have a new cry 'there is no turning back because the West must have union. Have to do so to retain the Presbyterian church in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime provinces to suit the needs of the West. The other day I have laid down their platform openly. They believe that when the legislation goes through the remnants of the Presbyterian church will be so small they won't think it worth while to vote themselves out."

Thomas MacMillan, of Toronto, dealt further with the proposed legislation, emphasizing the deleterious effects being felt throughout the church today as a direct result of discussion and agitation. We have in almost every congregation of our church today divisions," he declared. "Our mission work is being hampered, and we are faced with a deficit of $350,000, while our treasurer tell us there is likely to be a greater deficit next year. Because of the popularity of affairs our people are losing interest. Our church is needed to-day of fads. We must organize as strongly as possible in readiness for the next Assembly meeting."

MAN-MADE SCHEME.

"It is not a matter of prejudice, but my sincere conviction that the highest interests of the Kingdom of God will be better served by maintaining the Presbyterian Church and the other churches than this united body," declared Rev. Dr. A. J. MacGillivray, of Guelph. "If the united churches in the West were promising, it would go a great deal towards changing my view, but I am convinced that these so-called union churches are very largely a failure and that we do not know the true facts. I would describe the present union movement as a half-baked, man-made, manbaked scheme with no economic basis." Make no mistake about it, what is being proposed is an iniquitous piece of legislation. Between 100,000 and 110,000 members of the Presbyterian Church at the present time have had no opportunity of recording their vote in the matter.

Rev. Robt. Johnson, of New Clarmont, N. B., Dr. John Stewart, of Halifax, and Rev. Dr. E. Scott, of Montreal, also spoke.

Mr. Ralph Morden, Boys' Secretary of the local Y.M.C.A. accompanied by Rusk Woodley left for Toronto to attend a conference of Boys' Work Secretaries to be held at Central Y.M.C.A. on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday of the coming week.

SENTENCED FOR AUTO STEALING

Young Man Taken to Cobourg Jail by Bowmanville Police

Harry Titterson, a young man of 20 years of age, whose parents reside near Bethesda, was taken down to the Counties jail from Bowmanville on Monday to serve a 12 months' sentence on a charge of stealing an automobile in that town, the property of Leonard Smith of Oshawa. The car was stolen from in front of the Bowmanville rink on Friday night when the Oshawa-Bowmanville hockey match was on. Titterson took the car as far as Newtonville where it ran out of gasoline, and was stuck in a snowdrift. Titterson was arrested by Chief Jarvis of Bowmanville, the following morning. Coming up before the magistrate he pleaded guilty to the charge of theft and was given the minimum sentence, one year. Titterson was recently released from Whitby jail where he was tried on a similar charge, but was allowed to go on making restitution. He is also wanted in Cobourg on a charge of beating a board bill of $45.

BUFFALO HARBOR BULGING WITH WESTERN GRAIN

Millions of Dollars' Worth of Golden Grain at Breakwater — Will Remain in Storage Until Spring

Buffalo, Jan. 20—Struck along side by the imposing array under the lee of the outer breakwater, and tucked away in corners of the inner harbor here, are nearly one hundred of the largest freight liners on the Great Lakes loaded to capacity with grain but vested in the Canadian and American northwest last fall. The vessels with their cargoes, which comprise nearly 29,000,000 bushels of grain, wheat, rye, oats, barley and flax, are worth at present market prices about $50,000,000.

Much of the grain will remain in storage in the holds of the vessels till spring when it will be elevated, loaded into canal barges, and moved to tidewater. Other vessels have been so placed in the harbor that they can be moved up to the elevator long about time during the winter when the movement by rail will have relievers of a part of their burdens.

The movement of grain from bont to elevator and from elevator to box cars never ceases from the time the golden stream starts down the Great Lakes, but the final rush is so great that these facilities never are unequal of nearly a small portion of the fleet. Nor could the tidewater facilities handle the crop if it were possible for them to it there as rapidly as the freighters bring it down the lakes. So the big fleets have been numbered for the winter, and they are as desirable for that purpose as the elevators.

The Buffalo harbor season is stormy this season is in the hold of the Wm. C. Atmew. Oats is her bins would fill 200 box cars—one of the largest grain cargoes on record. The Shoommkee rates next, with 445,000 bushels of grain.

The Agnew was among the last of the grain carriers to battle through the storm-swept lakes to the close of navigation.

Grain receipts at the Port of Buffalo this season broke all previous records. The total of all grains and flour figured on a wheat-basis basis, was 295,536,560 bushels. This is more than double any total since 1916. The previous high mark was 25 years ago, when a bumper crop brought the total to 257,393, 434 bushels.

AUSTRIAN CURRENCY BECOMING STABILIZED

All Bills of Lower Denomination to Eliminated

(Associated Press)

Vienna, Jan. 19—That the Austrian crown will remain indefinitely about the present exchange value of seventy thousand to the dollar is the opinion of Austrian financiers.

The League of Nations plan for restoring Austrian finances provides that there be no further increase in the quantity of paper money in circulation, but it makes no provision for reduction. The quantity of paper issued is regarded as absolutely necessary for the normal working of business, since its purchasing value is something like 14,000 times less than before the war.

Eventually all bills of denominations lower than a hundred will be withdrawn. Even a hundred crown note is of little use; it is scorned even as a tip.

Austria's business is in such a sensitive condition that any sudden rise in the exchange of the brown would be a disaster almost equal to a sudden fall. Interior affairs, as well as foreign business relations, have gradually been adjusted to the lowered value of the crown to other money and it is considered best that it remain undisturbed for the present.

As there is nothing left in Austria so insignificant as to be reckoned in single crowns, tens or crowns, or hundreds, bills of those denominations will gradually disappear to be replaced by five hundreds and those aside.

Austria has omitted no paper money since November 15, and the crown has remained stable since last August. The cost of living has begun to fall, and saving bank deposits are on the increase.

All these are regarded as most favorable symptoms. The regime which the doctors imposed upon Austria has been complied with, and the new bank of issue which is to control the emission of paper money, putting a certain end to the printing of uncovered bank notes, is almost ready to function.

The above chart shows in graphic form a summary of raids on "dope resorts" in Montreal in 1921 and indicates the result of the court proceedings.

EARTH SHOCKS AT HAWAII

Honolulu, Jan. 20.—A howling 85 mile gale, the stiffest ever recorded in the islands, accompanied by two earthquake shocks, swept east York of Hawaii on Sunday and Monday, causing at least one death. Miyaki Marula, a Japanese maid, was killed by a falling tree. Reports of the damage still are being awaited from the other islands.

Following the wind and rain of Sunday that crippled all the public services, uncroofed houses and flooded others, two sharp tremors were felt at 1.30 o'clock Monday morning, but from these no damage has been reported thus far.

MUSIC and DRAMA

"UNDER TWO FLAGS" COMBINES EXOTIC CHARM AND ACTION

A pattern of exotic charm has been woven into the fabric of the Universal Jewel production, "Under Two Flags" in which Priscilla Dean dances across the cinematic heavens bigger and brighter than ever before. The photoplay from Ouida's immortal romance of Algeria, is the most colorful thing in which Miss Dean has yet appeared. It is now at Griffin's.

The French barracks in Algiers were accurately reproduced at Universal City for "Under Two Flags." Thousands of persons were engaged for the street scenes. The splendor of a native palace was accurately caught by the camera; a battle in waged on the desert; there are scenes which make spectators gasp at their magnitude and marvel at their artistry. Through it all runs one of the most dramatic of romances.

"Stolen Glory", an amusing Campbell animal comedy, a Bray Pictograph, and a new chapter of the "Buffalo Bill" serial are also being exhibited.

ZANE GREY'S "THE MAN OF THE FOREST" HERE MONDAY

Proof that the motion pictures have made strides toward becoming a really universal entertainment will be given at Griffin's this Monday and Tuesday when Benjamin B. Hampton's great photodramatization of Zane Grey's book, "The Man of the Forest", is presented, facing this splendid play will convince the most skeptical that motion pictures have at last demonstrated their power to entertain every class, taste and station of mankind at one time.

To put it in other words, "The Man of the Forest" is a photoplay that will please the admirer of the classic drama just as much as it will thrill the seeker after pure motion picture entertainment.

The story is one of love and adventure with the locale in modern Arizona of prohibition days, still a wonderland of romance as it is interpreted by the colorful pen of Zane Grey and the producer's rare art. A splendid cast of the screen's most talented players enacts the characters of the story. The three leading players in Zane Grey's "The Mysterious Rider," recently exhibited here, appear in the leading roles of this photoplay. They are Carl Gantvoort, former matinee idol of the light opera stage, who takes the title role. Beautiful Claire Adams plays opposite him, and Robert McKim.

"Home Sweet Home," a two-reel Larry Semon comedy, "The Devil's Foot", is the title of the second of the Sherlock Holmes series, each story complete, and which are exhibited at Griffin's every Monday to Wednesday, and a beautiful travelogue will also be exhibited on the same program.

AMITA STEWART IN "THE WOMAN WHO MARRIED"

"The Woman He Married", one of the most successful plays on the legitimate stage, has been transformed into a motion picture, which will be shown at the Regent Theatre, starting Monday for run on Monday, with a matinee daily.

Anita Stewart is the star of this Yale National attraction and Fred Niblo, the creator of "The Three Musketeers" directed it.

The cast which enacted the cinema version of the play includes Darrel Foss, Donald MacDonald, William Conklin, Shannon Day, Charlotte Pierce and Charles Belcher.

The story relates the difficulties and pitfalls assailed a beautiful young artist's model when she married the son of a millionaire idol magnate, and it is considered to be the best production in which Miss Stewart has ever appeared on the screen.

Darrel Foss, comedy comedy, Carmel Myers and Wallace MacDonald in the second chapter of the adventure play "Breaking Through," and Fox News will also be exhibited.

HO, HUM!

Brown: "Here's an item that says after roasting 100 pounds of beef only weighs 47 pounds."

Jones: "That's nothing to the way I often shrink after my wife has been roasting me."

THOUGHTFUL.

John came to his mother the other day, crying and complaining that his sister had been teasing him.

"Mamma," he said between sobs "I wish you would punish Eliza beth."

"Now John," his mother replied "you would not want to see your little sister punished, would you?"

"No, ma'am! But you can take her upstairs where I can't see you."—The Echo, Hume-Fol H. S., Nashville, Tenn.

MOTHER! MOVE CHILD'S BOWELS

"California Fig Syrup" is Child's Best Laxative

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little stomach is upset, tongue coated, or if your child is cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, a teaspoonful will never fail to open the bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste from the tender, little bowels and gives you a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

NERVOUSEXHAUSTION

The Only Sure Relief is to Enrich and Build Up the Blood.

Nervous exhaustion is the cause of headaches and dizziness, and it is due, almost always, to condition, of impoverished blood. Tablets and powders for headaches should never be taken; they cannot possibly reach the root of the trouble, and are often most harmful. All that is needed to bring relief is a tonic that will enrich and purify the blood, and the very best tonic for this purpose is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills have a direct action on the blood, and in this way the headaches, dizziness and other nervous symptoms rapidly disappear. Mr. Mark F. Taylor, Granby, Que., tells that this medicine did for him. He says—"I had severe backaches which would be accompanied by vomiting spells. These would last for two or three days at a time. I would take one of these spells every three or four weeks, and it is almost impossible to describe the misery they caused me. I tried a number of medicines without getting relief, until one day my mother brought me six boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. When they were used I was feeling much better, and I got a further supply, and under the continued treatment every symptom of the trouble disappeared. I cannot speak too highly of this medicine for it certainly has done wonders for me."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GRAND TRUNK INSTALLS BLOCK SIGNALS

With this object in protecting the movement of trains at Lyn station, automatic block signals installed by the Grand Trunk Railway went into operation this week at that point. The automatic signals are installed near the home-over switches and operate for a distance of one mile in each direction. Their establishment is the aftermath of the junction made at this point a year ago between the Grand Trunk and the Canadian National Railroads whereby C. N. R. trains from Westport are operated over Grand Trunk steel into the Lyn station, a distance of five miles. The installation of the signals was carried out by employees of the Grand Trunk and will provide a maximum of safety at Lyn Junction.

The motor car which formerly operated through Belleville is now being used in the Brockville-Westport branch line.

THE GUMPS—THE DOGS OF WAR

Woman's Sphere

THE END.

From "A Soliloquy of Acadyne," a recently discovered Browning manuscript.)

Let it be.
It has ebbed from me—I am on dry ground—
The sounds of life I held so thunderous sweet
Die off to silence—left, the perfect shape
Of perception and men's images
Which thronged against the outer rim of earth
And hung with lasting face-over it
Their film and dimness—all the motions drawn
From Beauty in—action which spun reality
My brain round in—a rapture, have grown still.
Here's a gap Twixt me and the life once mine,
How others and not mine, which now is mine—
A gradual deliquescence—till at last
I hear it in the distance droning round me like a bee at sunset. Aye, and the bee's hum
The buzzing fly and mouthing of the grave
Dropped slowly near me by some stray-ing sheep
Or savage, to me with life—and Separate from me.
The outside of me being, I myself Am in the silence, fasten to the chain
Inseparate nature, sky and rocks,
When, dying down into impersonal dust I will pass on into their unity

SATINS GOOD SELLERS

Satins which have not been observed in a conspicuous degree in other lines for this season are said to be among the best selling numbers at present. For evening the charmeuse satins, georgette and velvet are chosen. Panels, plaitings and metallic effects are favored for trims on the high-priced models, georgette frocks. Slightly-fitted basque effects and full skirts are noted on the more beefiant taffeta modes. Velvets for afternoon dress wear for the flapper and little girl are in dark shades for the most part, with embroidery in brighter tones as decoration. Gaycolored leather is employed with heavy embroidered stitches in a smart frock of black velvet. Poiret twills are in demand for school wear and some flannels, the tricotine woolen. Braids and bands and additions of contrasting colored crepe de chine are means of trimming the poiret twills for practical wear. Velvets are reported to be added in greater proportion in the line, in order to anticipate a demand that is already being felt. The party dress is of increasing interest to the buyer as the season goes, it is said, the numbers being in good demand now.

The new color card of the Textile Color Card association announces the colors for late winter and early spring. Not a baby blue or a perkinkie among the lot. Somber tones prevail for fabrics; the bright color of the costume is to be in the trim and the headgear.

The new color card leads with amber, a slate gray shade; fog, a blue gray; mutiny, a dark gray; granite, a mottled gray; and ork, a dull brown. Raspberry and maroon brighten the color card and raise the spirit that is overshadowed by his preponderance of gray.

FASHIONS FOR STOUT WOMEN

Why is it there are, or seem to be, so many fat women these days? It is probably not because they are not given every consideration by designers and their shops earnest give them an assortment of well-cut garments which will minimize rather than draw attention to their bulk. One hears of dicta every where, and the only conclusion to come to is that the fattening-up process, is more or less universal.

A tasteful method of combining the best features of the mode with suitability for the large figure is fortunately displayed in two and three piece suits. A careful election has been made of those lines, colors and trims which will either convey or aid in conveying slenderness, while not appearing severe nor however smart, which would tend to give or exaggerate the impression of stoutness is carefully avoided. For example, the flat-back and the flat-front effect is not used to any considerable extent. The models usually show a slight fullness over the hip, which is stitched down under a garnow hip belt inserted in the manner of a yoke or yoke effect in the usual fashion. One-sided effects are particularly favored on conspicuous models, and the double-sided ornament is also an oft repeated feature.

A slight drape is permissible, although the accepted plan is to cut the fabric so that it will fall in straight lines and give the impression of a drape. Longer side panels are used frequently, either inserted into the body of the garment or hanging loosely over an underskirt.—Washington Post.

SOME HINTS

You have, of course, a favorite fudge recipe, but here's a hint: If you find it too hard after beating it, do not cook it over again; add creamed butter and knead until it is the proper consistency.

For currant cheese sandwiches place together one thin slice of buttered brown bread made by mixing cream cheese and currant jelly.

In the bottoms of your aluminum pans become bulged, beat them slowly and they can be hammered to their original shape.

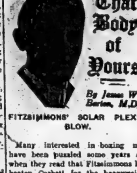
Dishes that have contained eggs should always be rinsed in cold water before washing.

Creamed Salt Pork.

Cut the pork in thin slices and fry brown. Remove to a hot platter and to the grease in the pan add a tablespoon of dissolved flour, a cup of milk and half a cup of water. Bring to a hard boil and, when thick, pour over the pork.

Caramelled Bananas.

Peel the required number of bananas, cut lengthwise, and sprinkle with a little salt. Place three tablespoons of butter and lard in a frying pan and add three tablespoons of molasses. Heat, lay in the slices of bananas and fry brown.



Au Gratin Potatoes.

Pare and slice thin five potatoes, place in a baking dish, and add milk to cover; season with salt and pepper. Grate over half a cup of cheese and bake tender. Then add half a cup of grated cheese and allow to melt and brown in an oven.

One-Egg Mocha Cake.

One heaping tablespoon of butter, ½ cup sugar, 1 egg, ½ cup sweet milk, 1 cup flour, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 2 squares chocolate. Cream the butter and sugar together, add yolk of egg, milk, salt, vanilla, flour and baking powder and melted chocolate. Mix well and last add the beaten white of the egg. Bake slowly.

Irene Baker and A. H. N. Snellgrove will sing the duet in The Cynical Owl specialty in "The Girl in Red." They will be supported by 18 of Belleville's most beautiful young ladies and 18 of its handsomest young men.

Many interested in boxing may have been puzzled some years ago when they read that Fitzsimmons had beaten Corbett for the heavyweight championship of the world by a "solar plexus" blow. And as Jacky Bob he was called practised what was known as the "solar plexus" blow.

Now what is the solar plexus? It is really the centre—nine—from which the nerves supplying all the organs in the abdomen arise.

Imagine then what happens when a hard blow strikes the abdomen and compresses this whole nervous centre against the backbone or spinal column. All the nerves supplying the diaphragm, the stomach, the liver, the kidneys are temporarily paralyzed and the victim lies inert, yet conscious of what has happened.

And the remarkable thing about it is that the blow as delivered by Fitzsimmons travelled not more than six or eight inches. But it was given with the jar or jolt which made the impact terrific.

Spectators state that as soon as it was delivered Fitzsimmons walked to his corner and began to take off his gloves. The blow that he had practised so faithfully had been administered exactly as to time and place and he knew what the result must be.

Had Corbett watched himself he might have stayed off defeat for until this occurred, about the fourteenth round, he was leading Fitzsimmons a good margin of points. You can withstand any hard blow in the abdomen if you tighten your abdominal muscles.

This same blow delivered with abdominal muscles relaxed would give you a knockout punch in the solar plexus.

LINKED LIVES

By

D. Kinmount Roy

Now, he thought, he knew the reason for the surveillance he had been subjected to; this wretch whom he had used as so much cat was at the bottom of it—at least, so he thought; but in this we know he was mistaken, for the thereabouts of Kirkman were at the moment as unknown to Maitland as to Hardcastle himself.

It was in reality this fact which saved the Squire from the grip of the law. Maitland had no doubt in his mind after a second time in his defence of the character of Lord Glenmore, and was in no haste to move until he had the stone in one hand and the bird in the other, or was simply playing his own game in his own way with all the ferocity of his nature.

The Squire was reminded that he had guests by the peals of laughter which came to him from the other room. He would rather have had it otherwise; but he was determined that no man should see any sign of weakness in Rite Hardcastle, come what might.

Perhaps his courage and self-control had never been put to a severer test than in facing his guests with cheerful make-believe for the remainder of that evening. But he succeeded to his own satisfaction, and no man could have imagined that his pulse beat faster nor that he was acting pleasant host with the sword of Damocles suspended over him by a single hair.

CHAPTER XVI

THE BULLY OF THE WORKS

Kinkman's recovery looked doubtful enough for a long time, and even Nola's long experience hardly prepared her for his return to health, nor did he ever regain his old vigour or body; it was quite true, as he told the Squire that the terrible experience he passed through the night of Lord Glenmore's assassination had shattered his nerves and taken support of his life.

In fact, it was only the overwhelming temptation of a large bribe, and the chance to get even in a way of revenge on the Squire and beating him at his own game, which lured him from his safe retirement to the scene of combat, the last effort to secure all he desired.

Any suspicion which lingered in his mind on this point were settled beyond doubt by the refusal of the bank to cash the draft Hardcastle had given him.

It was the last straw which broke down whatever self-control remained and sent Kinkman into a state of nervous exhaustion, threw him into a raging fever which well-night ate up his life. Nola and the doctor fever had left him, and the events which preceded the attack came back bit by bit, his character would have had a short shrift and a fearful end.

But the man's mind could never again work out long connected plans, and his body, save in spurts of insane fury, was a poor enfeebled instrument of his malicious desires.

The forester and his family were kind to the sick stranger, without questions of any sort as to who he was, or how he came to the unthankful, but Kinkman was not without a species of gratitude, and in truth they fell into his place and unconsciously served his ends.

Note in his recovery, his helpless new mood related to them; he would tell them all about it, they said among themselves, when he was stronger and better. Or, with a thoughtful he seemed as he progressed towards convalescence, and so carefully and compassionately did he conceal the real character, that he soon won their good opinion, and all the frightful surings and actions which had shocked them at the time of his delirium were forgotten or set down to the severity of the disease and not to the depravity of the man.

So soon as he could walk out into the woods, and had learned the direction of Ruthven Towers and Fosseway Hall, he grew gloomy and restless, but then that was quite natural in a forlorn creature in such a miserable plight, with nothing to occupy his mind save his own unhappy thoughts.

"We have never heard your name,' the forester's wife said one day, as she brought him some savoury mess specially prepared for him.

He looked up sharply, so sharply that the woman recoiled, startled, for an instant, with something of the old repulsion. Her look recalled him to himself, and he answered, after a moment's thought: "Dare, ma'am, Dare—Robert Dare, at your service'.

"Well, Mr. Dare,' she said with great kindness, 'be careful not to take cold, remember you are not yet out of the woods, it is pleasant spot, but exposed and often wind-swept; and my husband always says when the wind is in this quarter and he shivers in the keen air: 'The Fosseway ghost is abroad tonight!' She spoke with a half-whisper which startled Kinkman in spite of himself; he rose hastily, and looked about him.

'Oh, not here!' she said; 'no ghost ever comes here, only the biting wind which sings and soundeth your very marrow, when the poor thing wanders. It is awful,' she added.

'Awful!' he answered; 'it's more—woman—sheer nonsense!'

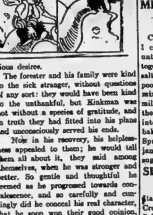
SHORT STORIES FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

FORTUNE, THE TEA CUP FAIRY

When Fortune stepped into the tea, "It's damp in these cups," muttered he.

"I don't like to shirk
A bit of my work,
But it's really in hard as can be."



"Goodness," cried Fortune, as he sat on the edge of the tea cup, "I surely do hate to splash around in tea to my knees to arrange fortunes. Besides, those crazy girls, if they would only stop to think, would know that it is bad luck to leave tea in their cups. Every drop is a tear, you know."

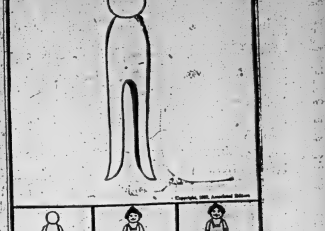
His nose in the air, Fortune jumped, galoshes first, into the tea and started vigorously pulling tea leaves around and arranging them in a fortune. "Let's see," he said, consulting his memorandum. "I have to put two letters and a journey in this cup. I'd like to make them happy letters, but with all the tears they have in this work! It's a shame, but it just goes to show how much people care about helping us my work."

"Oh, Clara, come on and tell our fortunes cried one of the girls, picking up her cup and gazing in it with a frown that she nearly spilled the little fairy right out on the table-cloth.

"Well, drink up all your tea," Clara replied.

My but Fortune was excited! At last they were really going to take him seriously. Quickly he jumped from one tea cup to another and dragged tea leaves almost as big as he was up the sides of the cups. He made all kinds of pretty pictures in the girls' cups, making many trips back to look at his memaranda.

"I, At last, tired out, but with the last fortune arranged, he perched himself on the spout of the teapot to rest. Clara was just telling the second girl's fortune. "You are going to have lots of trouble," she said. "See all those tears."



"Rah! Rah!" applauded Fortune. He was glad Clara had told her that. Maybe it would teach her to drink all her tea.

The girl only laughed merrily. "What nonsense!," she cried. "You really don't believe such foolishness, do you?"

"Of course not," the girls hastened to say.

This was too much for poor Fortune. With a queer little noise that sounded something like a snort and something like a groan, he turned and dived right down into the spout of the teapot. But alas for Fortune! His galoshes were unbuckled, and so he was caught in the spout by his new fashion. That was the end of Fortune.

Is off her brow
The June bride's in
The kitchen now.

The shell is full
Of grocery stuff;
At cooking she Makes one nice bluff.

And when she dusts
Or cleans, or cooks,
She does not care
Just how she looks.

Her finger—no
Ones pink and new,
She forgets to draw
Silk ribbon through.

Her wedding gown,
Now, we suppose,
She's cutting up
For baby clothes.

"A Terrible Experience"

"I Recall My Experiences with the Burglar with Feelings of Horror!"

"How would you feel if you wakened in the middle of the night with a flashlight shining in your eyes and the gruff voice of a man threatening you? Then, when you protested, would tell you 'I'll shoot'." That was my experience the end of last March when my home band was away in the woods and I was alone with my little children. Everything I think of this experience a shudder passes over me and I feel as if I will remember it. At the time I really thought I would die. It's a wonder my heart did not stop beating. I was so weak that even if I had my desire to move, I could not. I was bathed in a cold, clammy perspiration. Even to recall the shocking details now makes me shudder. It was a result of this shock that I contracted a high fever and for hours at a time I was delirious. I got so bad that the doctor finally gave up hope of my ever recovering, but by careful nursing, I was finally pronounced out of danger. The shock had left me so weak, that, for no reason whatever, I would suddenly burst into tears. All the life seemed to have been taken out of me. I kept getting weaker and weaker, so much so that my husband and children were constantly worrying about me. Doctors prescribed for me but while I would get relief under their medicine, only very few of them did me any good, but unfortunately the good was not lasting. My family asked me if I would try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I was willing to try anything, but felt that it would not do me any good. Four bottles of Carnot taken regularly, completely restored to me my health and strength and, while I occasionally recall my experience with the burglar with feelings of horror, I am otherwise as well and strong as I have ever been. Carnot is the most wonderful preparation. I have ever used for building and restoring health and strength. It has done wonders for several of my friends to whom I have recommended it." Mrs. McC. Dow.

Carnot is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money.

CITY STATISTICS—BIRTHRATE AND COMMUNICABLE DISEASES.

Judging from the recent statement issued by the City Clerk today covering the lists of vital statistics and communicable diseases prevalent in the municipality during the past year, Belleville is not too badly situated relative to these matters. Births, marriages and deaths all show a decrease in comparison with 1921, with the record of a birth decrease predominating. While possibly the fable of the tortoise and the hare would be far too literal an application in this instance, it would appear to be an outstanding feature in the report and worthy of investigation, inasmuch as practically all nations are discussing birth control at the present time. Japan and France are tremendously worried in this connection, and remedial movements of various nature are being promulgated in these countries.

The fetters of tradition regarding large families with which our forefathers and fellow-countrymen were blessed in earlier days, seem to have been more or less superseded by the modern democracy of today. Doubtless many plausible economic reasons could be advanced to cover the existing deficiency in the birth rate, but would it not be better, civically, nationally and morally, if citizens would discuss such conditions familiarly, without dropping their walking-sticks in nervousness and engaging in privacy? The spirit of a departed age resists banishment in this all important matter.

In the report, it is most gratifying to note, the comparative freedom which we enjoy from infectious and communicable diseases, with the possible exception of the scarlet fever statistics. Out of ninety-eight cases of this terrible scourge only one death occurred, which would appear to constitute a triumph for municipal sanitation, Board of Health activities, and medical science. Tuberculosis has again taken its toll, but not to the extent of former years, which exemplifies indeed that the consistent efforts to combat this disease are meeting with a goodly measure of success.

All in all, the report demonstrates that the local Board of Health administration has been carefully based upon studious consideration and they will have the comforting sense of having done their best and discharged their own responsibilities as officials.

Remedial steps relative to the pollution of the Moira are already being considered and if success is achieved in this connection, the next annual report may be even more satisfactory. We are in a position to correct this nuisance, and it is just such conditions elsewhere, which make life in a city like Belleville worth living. Most people are indifferent to the subject of municipal health, yet it is of the most vital importance. Without a protest we allow raw milk to be sold and given to our children, in face of the fact that the government insists that whey to be fed to hogs must be pasteurized.

The hogs must be saved from infection, of course, but why leave the children without the same safeguard?

That is one example of the peculiar carelessness about health protection and the prevention of disease which seems to distinguish the average Canadian municipality. But the onus of the condition should be placed where it properly belongs—upon the people. The happy consummation of progressiveness toward the acme of public health can only be reached by cooperative and co-ordinated effort.

Governments or municipal bodies are not prone to move in advance of public opinion along these lines, and the citizens should become interested intensely in these matters of public welfare pertaining to our City.

IMMIGRATION TO SUPPLANT EMIGRATION.

Under a recent plan outlined by the Agent General of the Province of Ontario, it is proposed, under a sort of Provincial immigration policy, to bring two thousand single men and a limited number of married men to Ontario this year, from the British Isles.

One feature to be considered relative to these settlement policies, just at this juncture, is the large numbers of our manhood leaving their home towns and emigrating to the United States. These Canadians are familiar with local conditions and need no re-adjustment of their views, yet nothing is being done to divert them from their travels and stop the leakage. The Republic to the south of us is making a heavy drain on our young manhood and something must be done at once to discontinue this movement of work-era.

The fact that a few thousand men are being brought here from England will not alleviate the situation to any great extent; in fact, it would remind one of baling out a leaking boat with a thimble.

Immigration cannot be the thimble, but strenuous efforts must be extended by governments, Chambers of Commerce, manufacturers, municipalities and individuals to interest the youth in his present environments and make same so interesting and profitable for him that he will not deign to leave.

Our modern system of national and community life must be differently interpreted and exercised so that it will not affect adversely the interests of the whole people, in this striking circumstance of emigration of our manhood to the United States.

PASSING COMMENT

Rouge and powder may be classified as bare necessities.

A rolling stone doesn't gather anything, but you can't say that about rolling bones.

In a village, a prominent citizen is anybody who wears a watch and chain draped across his front elevation.

The bootlegger has one good point. He doesn't claim, as the old-timer did, that there isn't a headache in a barrel of it.

The reason cultured city people talk about public men is because they don't know the next-door neighbors.

Evidence accumulates daily that the French, by their invasion of Germany, may have, vulgarly speaking, bitten off more than they can chew.

Two Kitchener youths admitting the theft of five autos seems to verify the old lady's remark: "That's it! Train up a child and away he do go!"

Cuno, the German chancellor, is horrified at the action of France in "using might against a defenceless people." But France can cite the German precedent of 1914, when the German chancellor pleaded that the invasion of Belgium was justified by "military necessity". Economic necessity may be as impelling as military necessity.

HERE AND THERE

CHRISTMAS IN MOSCOW

The Soviet Government recently decreed that Christmas should not be celebrated in Russia.

'Twas Christmas with the Communists, the fam'ly all was there,
The breakfast-board was index wits its Communistic fare;
The Communistic popper, in his kind, paternal way,
Thus told his little children of the joys of Christmas Day:

"Be merry, little Communists, let Christmas glee arise,
Be mirthful at the absence, dears, of presents and of pies.
For obsolete St. Nicholas sound forth a requiem,
And fill your throats with chuckles at the Star of Bethlehem.

"For Santa Claus is out of date, the angels are the bunk
The holly and the mistletoe, without a trace are sunk;
That symbol of mythology, the twinkling Christmas tree,
Is gone, praise Marx and Engels, and the childrens' minds are free!

"Instead, be merry, children, in the loundest tones you can
About the funny failure of the talk-fest of Lausanne,
Laugh loudly at the idiots who for this nonsense fall,
And anybody who, to-day, has any fun at all!"

'Twas Christmas with the Communists, with joy and holy mirth
The Christmas carols sounded o'er the merry-making earth,
But the Communistic popper cried, "Get wise! I'm here to tell
Of the foolishness of Christmas!" And the children answered "H—l!"

TEACHING YOUR CHILDREN SELF-POSSESSION

There is a great difference between forwardness and self-possession in a child, and because parents fear to encourage the former, they utterly neglect to cultivate the latter art of unobtrusive "unshy" manners.

The little girl who is kept in the background until it is time for her to leave the schoolroom suffers from a tremendous handicap in life. The brightest years of her life are overshadowed by a self that she is too shy to make the best of herself, and that every act is so self-conscious as to appear awkward and stupid.

All children should be taught to take their place in the world according to their ages. In boarding-schools this is taught to a certain extent, but the real training ground is at home, when the restrictions and discipline of school—time are relaxed, and each child has to stand alone, as it were, in a social world of her own.

Many mothers fear to make their children too old, but if the matter is carefully handled there should be no danger of self-possession running riot and becoming merely objectionable manner. Children should be treated with respect by grown-ups, and their conversation and expression of ideas gently encouraged.

PRESS OPINIONS

MISS McPHAIL IS LEARNING

(Kitchener News Record)

Agnes McPhail, M.P., is learning. After one session at Ottawa, and previous to another, she calls a meeting of her constituents to give an account of her stewardship and, wonderful to relate, to ask what course she should take in the future.

She is reported as being not so cocksure as she was before, politically, as of old, and ready to admit that the righting of wrongs and the betterment of a nation of composite races and varied interests is not child's play.

She probably realizes that government, like all other human relationships, is a matter of compromise,—of doing the best thinkable possible under all the circumstances; not a compromise of vital principles but an earnest endeavor on the part of earnest and sincere men to get together for the good of all.

Miss McPhail asked for advice if a war issue arose in parliament. She believed that it is the money interests that cause war and gave it as her opinion that the quarrel with Turkey is on account of the oil fields.

So Miss McPhail is learning: is getting a wider view of the responsibilities of her position and is becoming more charitable in her judgments and less dogmatic in her opinions. If she carries that new spirit into her future parliamentary activities she will wield much greater influence than has been the case hitherto and be of real service to her people and a credit to her sex.

WHAT MORE IS NEEDED?

(Woodstock Baptist Review)

A. R. McMaster, M. P., is said to be preparing for something more of independence in the national status of Canada. He does not seek separation, merely complete nationhood. It does not appear for the moment just what Mr. McMaster wants or what gain there would be. The Dominions of the British commonwealth, including Canada, stand beside Great Britain as equal partners, except that, as a prominent British jurist has put it, the government of Great Britain represents the rest; some times and in "gracefully permitted" in consequence, to undertake and pay for maritime defence, is it proposed that Canada assert the full privileges of nationhood by assuming her full responsibility in this respect?

RATEPAYERS VOTED BLINDLY

(Lindsay Daily Post)

Down in Belleville the city fathers are facing a peculiar situation in connection with the Park Commission. The question of the control of the city parks by a Commission was submitted to the people and they voted in favor of the proposition. It was generally understood at the city hall and also by the ratepayers that a half mill only could be levied by the council to finance the Commission. This was the law in the olden days, but it has suddenly been discovered that an amendment to the statute gives a commission power to demand from the council a sum equivalent to a mill on the total assessment of the municipality.

This information naturally caused quite a furore. Had the ratepayers been familiar with the law prior to voting, a great many, it is claimed, would have voted against the proposition. Some of the members of the Belleville council are determined that a half mill only will be levied for commission purposes. They seem to forget that the commission can demand the full mill levy, and the council will have to grant it, according to the act.

The trouble appears to have been that the ratepayers voted blindly on the proposition, and that the city officials neglected to inform them regarding the powers of a commission of this nature.

Saskatchewan Failure

Old-Time Resident of Western Town, Head of Corporation — Small Depositors Will Lose

Saskatchewan, Jan. 22.—Approximately 300 depositors are affected as a result of the closing of the Outlook and Clemside, Sask., branches of the Universal Securities Corporation, private bankers.

The business of the corporation is reported to be considerably involved, and their closing has been forced by the refusal of the Dominion Bank to extend credit.

J. J. Kennedy, manager, an old-time resident of Outlook district, has been at the head of the Universal Securities Corporation for a number of years. He declares the failure of the concern to be due to business generally and the elimination of credit by the bank. Most of the sufferers are small depositors. Kennedy's reputation in his home town is good and no charges are impending against him. Most of the stock is held in the United States.

THRIFT WEEK THIS WEEK

Appropriate Slogans as Public Reminders for Achievement

This week is known as Thrift week throughout Canada and United States, and in this connection, much timely literature has been circulated, relative to thrift in its various phases.

Such slogans as "Pay your bills," "Own your own home," "Start a bank account, "Take out insurance, "Protect your property," "Make your will," are used as reminders to the public. After all, it is pointed out that it is necessary to show thrift with others, as thrift is not miserliness.

ROTARIANS HEAR BUSINESS TALK

Principal I. L. Moore, of the Ontario Business College Was Speaker

Mr. I. L. Moore, Principal of the Ontario Business College, this city was the speaker at the regular weekly Rotarian luncheon held to-day. His subject was "Some Tendencies in Business."

In opening, Mr. Moore explained that a "school house was the bulwark of civilization." Although the talk was not on the subject of Education, yet business men educated one another each day in their various methods of doing business, the speaker felt old ideas must give way to the newer methods, as a popular commodity 25 years ago would be inadequate to day.

Today for instance, goods are being sold over the long distance telephone and even by radio, a fact which would be unbelievable some years ago.

Business men have also come to realize the great value of newspaper and magazine advertising.

Mr. Moore gave some interesting information regarding the operation of large financial houses, two of the greatest of the world of which are Canadian. Watered stock, bonus stock or "jaquar" stock as it is often designated, was criticised by the speaker.

The joint stock system of financing was lauded for stimulative powers which this system has installed into the financial world.

The value of life insurance among partners in business, in favour of one another respectively, was highly recommended by Mr. Moore, and group insurance was also designated as having "come to stay." Character insurance for employees in a position of trust was also lauded, where a man may be his personal bondsmen, by paying a personal premium on character insurance.

Mr. Moore also strongly advocated team and thrift as advocated by the heads of the various banks in their recent annual reports. These factors will bring conditions back to normal more rapidly.

The restrictions and handicaps imposed by the Government in their taxation methods were criticised, and characterized as a detriment to business progress. Their ingenuity in framing their taxation methods, has bred much embarrassment among those taxed.

Irksome and trifling restrictions in business now established, was the speaker's description of Attorney General Raney's proposed, blue sky law, which was also described as being unable yet to save "fools from their folly."

A thorough system of double entry book keeping in any business from a peanut stand establishment up was advocated strongly to business men.

Canadian Infantry Association Asks that Law be Enforced

IT IS NOT LEGAL

Annual Meeting Held at Ottawa on Saturday

Ottawa, Jan. 22.—The matter of the unauthorised wearing of military uniforms came up for considerable discussion at the afternoon session Saturday of the Canadian Infantry Association.

It was finally decided to ask the Government to instruct the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and civil police that the law regarding the unauthorised wearing of uniforms was to be strictly enforced.

General Sir H. M. Pellatt is again president of the Canadian Infantry Association.

It was pointed out that in 1920 the Criminal Code was so amended that it became a crime to wear any part of a military uniform unless authorized to do so. Members present felt that the time was now passed when C.E.F. veterans had need for wearing their service uniforms.

TRENTON BOYS HOLD DINNER

Former Trentonians in Toronto Have an Enjoyable Function

Members of the Trenton Old Boys' Association to the number of some 350 gathered on Friday evening in the assembly rooms at the corner of College Street and Euclid Avenue, Toronto, for the holding of their annual dinner. The event, which went off with a swing and liveliness for which a clever program was responsible, showed unmistakably the interest which former Trentonians retain in their native town, and in keeping for them. Particular interest was evidenced by a telegram of 16, which was the first message from Hamilton in order to be present at the function. Hrs. T. C. Scott was the convener of the committee which was responsible for much of the evening's success.

GAS TANK CAR BLOWS UP

Spectacular Fire at Shannonville C.P.R. Station at Midnight on Saturday Last

Gasoline went up in Shannonville at 12 o'clock midnight on Saturday, not, in price however, but in flames. Standing on the siding at the Shannonville C.P.R. station along with other railway cars, was one tank car loaded with gasoline. Whether there was a leak in the car or not is not definitely known, but it is thought that there was. At all events, the car went afire, and exploded, making a real wild fire for a time. The leaping of the flames was quite plainly visible from the village.

Men, who were on the scene shortly after the fire started, managed to separate the car from the others, and save them, but the tank car was a total wreck. So intense was the heat of the fire, that four lengths of the track were doubled up, and the snow in the adjoining field was melted. The car was in transit. This station is some three and a half miles from the village of Shannonville.

THE BALANCE SHEET

- Cost of war to France—Seven departments; 94 per cent. of her wool production; 70 per cent. of her sugar production; 55 per cent. of her electric energy; 33 per cent. of her coal production; 400 kilometres of railroads.
- And France in three years has added to pay $7,500,000,000 to its public debt.
- The war did not cost Germany one inch of soil ruined; one factory damaged; one coal mine destroyed; one sugar-beet pulled up; one electric cable broken; one rail stolen.
- And Germany has paid in three years $1,250,000,000, at the expense of "investors" in marks.

SEA CAPTAIN NEAR DEATH ON LAST VOYAGE

Suffered Stroke on Bridge of Olympic—Saved by Doctor

Passage Was Stormy

Viscount Burnham Says Bonar Law Is Well Established in People's Confidence—Chancellor a Passenger

New York, January 22.—The White Star liner Olympic, arrived here from Southampton after a stormy passage, with her commander, Captain R. S. Hambleton, confined to his room, all but helpless, from the effects of a stroke he suffered while on the bridge of the vessel last Thursday afternoon. Captain Hambleton was taken from the ship to a hospital and it will be time or six weeks before he can return to his home in England.

This was to have been the captain's last voyage as a commander, as he has reached the retirement age of sixty years. Making the trip with him was Captain E. David, formerly of the Adriatic, who was to take over the Olympic on her next trip westward. Because of the sudden illness of Captain Hambelton, the Olympic will be taken back by Captain David. Assistant Commander R. H. White brought the vessel into New York.

Captain Hambleton's life was saved by the officers said, by the skill and devotion of Dr. Milsey Price, the ship's surgeon. The captain suffered a second stroke Friday night. Dr. Price remained at his side for forty-six hours without rest or sleep.

Bonham's Statement.

The hope that America and England would settle their debt problem was expressed today by Viscount Burnham, managing director of the London Daily Telegraph, who arrived on the Olympic. Viscount Burnham said that England would stand by her debts.

"We have got to get this whole debt question surveyed and out of the way," he said. "I am not particularly interested—just now, what, per cent. the funding commissioners decide to be correct. The problem is now to get England and the United States shoulder to shoulder. That is the troubled situation that menaces the whole world. Those two nations can get together quickly after financial matters are straightened out between them."

A fellow-passenger with Viscount Burnham was Sir Robert Horne, Chancellor of the Exchequer under Lloyd George. Sir Robert said his visit to America was on private business. He will return to England on February 16.

Rubber Delegation.

"I do not care to talk for publication right now," he said, when asked for an opinion on the debt question. "You see, I may, very well, be in a position as chancellor and my successor is just now engaged in very delicate negotiations. I expect to speak at a luncheon of the English-speaking Union on Saturday, and at that time, if I think I can be properly done, I may express some of my personal views."

The Olympic also carried a delegation representing the British rubber industry, who have come to discuss prices with United States manufacturers.

The delegation included Sir Stanley Bois, F. J. Burgess and H. P. Miller. They declared that in recent years the British rubber industry had been losing money fast because of low prices and the rubber producing colonies were feeling the effect.

It was decided, they explained, that conference should be held with United States manufacturers regarding U. S. demands, so that proper prices might be fixed.

MOVIE STAR'S TAX

Los Angeles, Jan. 22.—Of the $500,000 which Jackie Coogan, child film actor, is said to have received as a bonus for signing a contract with Metro Pictures Corporation, $260,726 will go to the Government in the form of income tax, according to figures made public by Roy B. Gooch, Collector of Internal Revenue.

The collector explained that his estimate did not include the tax on Jackie's reported salary of $1,250 a week, that of his father at $1,000 a week, or Jackie's 50 per cent. share in the net profits of films in which he is to be starred.

MOSQUITOES WERE MIGHTY SCARCE

There were no mosquitoes at Hillsboro last Wednesday morning. This northern village always gives White River a close call for the coldest place on earth and last Wednesday the mercury dropped 3 degrees below zero.

PHARAOH'S ROYAL ROBES RECOVERED IN LUXOR TOMB

In Excellent State of Preservation—Needed Chemical Treatment

GOLD INLAID THRONE

Wicker Baskets Brought to Light Exactly Same as Modern Product

Luxor, Egypt, Jan. 22.—Howard Carter moved things to-day in all directions. He is faced with the necessity of hard, unceasing work if the ante-chamber of Tutankamen's tomb is to be cleared by February 1st.

The first things were brought from the tomb soon after ten o'clock. There was an additional egg-shaped boxes of meat, game, fowl, and venison, some having been moved yesterday. On top of these boxes were a heap of rushes with sharp ends. An American convulsed the crowd by remarking that they were probably toothpicks placed in the tomb for Tutankhamen.

After these boxes came a large oblong box, four feet long by two feet high and broad, containing further specimens of Tutankhamen's underwear. The box aroused considerable comment. It was made of ebony, covered with white alabaster and richly ornamented with gold. On top were hieroglyphs, evidently detailing its contents, and also the king's cartouche, while on the front of the box were the king's and queen's cartouches, all in gold.

Visitors who just arrived were impressed with the display of magnificence and freely commented that Tutankhamen must have lived afflid conspicuous splendor if he were able to heap gold on such mundane objects as a linen box.

The next thing brought out was a magnificent chair, or throne. It was about the same as an ordinary dining chair, but the back is curved comfortably. On the front of the back were two figures of the hawk-headed Horus, and with two-winged sun discs above them and emblems of eternity below and at the sides. On the rear of the back were hieroglyphs. All of these images and hieroglyphs were in solid gold, while the seat was attached to the chair by thin bands of gold.

Beside this throne was an exquisite foot-stool richly inlaid with golden figures of Asiatic and African captives, upon which the king and queen placed their feet every time they sat on the throne.

It was discovered that this chair was the queen's throne, though it is uncertain, pending a more detailed examination.

About noon four stretchers made a procession from the tomb. On them were three plaited straw, oval-shaped baskets, which excited tremendous interest as they were exactly similar to baskets familiar in every home to-day. They were filled with heavy contents, but the stretcher bearers stated that the reports did not touch them pending preservative treatment.

On the next stretcher were magnificent collaretles, necklaces and insignia of the king which had fallen from the robes of the king.

The official robes of Pharaoh were on the third stretcher. They were in a wonderful condition. It is understood the experts will be able to preserve them sufficiently to show the collarettes and insignia to be replaced, and thus the world will have for the first time in thousands of years an opportunity to see the royal robes of Pharaoh. The robes were made of cartonnel linen.

It is faded but it is possible to treat the fibre.

On the fourth stretcher were more linen and an exquisite walking stick remarkable for its finish and the gold filigree work ornamenting the han dle. There were a hundred minia ture gold bells on every square inch of the handle, which gives some idea of the delicacy of the work.

It was rivalled half an hour later,

Perhaps because you have followed Radio for the last eighteen months or two years, you think you're a pioneer fan, Mr. Reader. But above is shown Samuel Butler, of Toronto, who exhibited the first amateur radio set in Canada back in 1900, when most of us field strongly to the theory that "there hain't no sich animile."

MUSIC and DRAMA

ZANE GREY'S "KAN OF THE FOREST" AT GRIFFIN'S

Do you wish to take out for a day artist's is seen not only in the privolden path of adventure—utterly forgetting the world and its cares, in the thrills, the romance, the pathos, and humor and breath of the wide spaces and strange lands from Zane Grey's wonder book, in a magnificent First National photoplay? Then visit Griffin' tonight or Tuesday night, and see "The Man of the Forest," the latest photoplay of a Zane Grey novel, and it brings to light on the screen one of the author's latest and best selling books.

A powerful cast of the screen's best artists is seen not only inteh principal roles, but in every role, no matter how small, so that each of the author's story characters get the benifit of a splendid interpretation.

The three leading characters of the last Zane Grey novel screened here, "The Mysterious Rider," appear in the leading roles of this picture. Carl Gantvoort has the leading role, "Milt Dale," Clare Adams, Robert McKim, Jean Herscholt and Eugene Gilbert also have word-rfid roles, while Frederick Starr, Charlotte Forest, Frank Hayes, Harry Lorraine and Charlotte Murphy contribute a great work in the most important secondary characterizations. Larry Semon in a highly amusing 2-reel comedy "Home Sweet Home," a new 2-reel Educational Weber-Detective Story, the second of the series, each story complete, and a travelogue are being exhibited on the same program.

ENID CENNETT AT REGENT

The Motion Picture News speaks in the following terms on Irving Bachelor, who is the Regent comic who sang Enid Bennett, which is being exhibited at the Regent today and Wednesday, matinee daily.

All it needed to be worth while for entertainment was a capable cast and a director able to give it the correct small-town atmosphere. These two essential elements have been present and as a result we consider it to be suitable for, and able to please any audience. Few pictures carry the basis of thought and pathos and comedy, or the mixture of serious thought with entertaining incident to this one. No praise is too great for Otis Harlan as the father.

It is a remarkable piece of effective, yet unaggerated character acting. Enid Bennett in "Lizzie" and is peculiarly suited to the role. "Dogcone Tooley" an amusing Sewell Ford comedy featuring Johnny Hines, Fox News Weekly and the second chapter of the adventure play "Breaking Through, are being exhibited on the same program.

however, by two other walking sticks which were brought out with a few miscellaneous pieces picked up on the floor. One walking stick was embroidered with gold and ivory of astounding delicacy, while the other was notable for the exquisite figure of an Asiatic captive. The significance of this was that Pharoah had on Asiatic in the hollow of his hand whenever he grasped this stick.

SAYS ENERGY FADES ON EVEREST CLIMB

Party Went Up 27,235 Feet Visitor Will Lecture in States to Help Finance Another Attempt to Reach Summit

New York, Jan. 22.—George Leigh Mallory, a noted English mountain climber, arrived yesterday on the White Star liner Olympic from London to give a series of lectures on the Mount Everest expedition, of which he was one of the leaders. Mr. Mallory, who is about 30, gained his experience in the Swiss Alps. He was selected to make a preliminary trip to the Himalayas in 1921, and this largely to Mr. Mallory, it was said the expedition went out to India last year attained an altitude of 27,235 feet, the highest point known to have been reached and in sight of the sum mit.

Asked whether Mount Everest which is 29,002 high, would ever be scaled, he replied:

"It is a possibility, of course. At the present rate of climbing, however hours would have brought us to the summit from the last camping place but conditions were against us. Time was coming on and our strength was giving out. The great trouble is that all your energy seems to evaporate. The mind is also affected."

"Did you take any alcoholic stim ulant?"

"The medical advice was against it but we did take a little brandy in the beforehand with good results. It seemed to give a mental stimulus and had no detrimental effect physically. The same is true of smoking. I never inhale, but smoking ordinary cigarettes in the usual way had no bad effect. Youth plays an important part in climbing to the high altitudes, and an older man would have been unable to get on without oxygen. Anything that tells most against the older men is a lower degree of resistance in the arteries.

"It has been said that the Tibetans and other people living at high altitudes have more red corpuscles in their blood than those living at a lower level. The red corpuscles supply the oxygen that is needed."

Mr. Mallory is a graduate of Magdalene College, Cambridge University, and is a Professor at the Charterhouse School near London when he is not pursuing his hobby. He says that another attempt may be made next year to reach the top of Mount Everest and that the proceeds of his lecture tour will go toward financing an expedition.

PROHIBITIONISTS ORGANIZE IN ENGLAND

London, Jan. 22.—The members of the House of Commons who favor prohibition held a meeting recently and organized themselves into the "Parliamentary Temperance Group."

Viscount Wolmington was appointed to act as chairman of the group; Edward Shortt, Sir Edward Grigg and Isaac Foot as secretaries, and Isaac Foot as secretary. They have not adopted a program for the present session of Parliament, but it is understood that they will do so for the next session.

THE PIG COLONY HOUSE

Efficient Shelter for Swine at Low Building Cost.

Pig Palaces a Blunder Both Physically and Financially—Sanitation is an Important Factor—Mineral Feeds Prevent Breakdown In Swine.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

High efficiency as a very low labor or building equipment cost is more easily obtained in swine rearing by the use of the Colony house system than by any other method.

Expensive Piggeries a Blunder Physically.

On farms where but one or two brood sows are kept and these have to trustle around the barnyard and hunt part of their food and arrange their own sleeping quarters much the straw stack, one seldom sees diseased, unthrifty or crippled pigs. In contrast to the "little accommodation" that the farm yard affords, we have the pig palaces or expensive piggeries. The best of the expensive structures do no better for us than the barnyard when only one or two brood sows and their families are considered. Many of these structures have advantages, to be much too heavy a charge to carry, in that the results were frequently unsatisfactory and that they were responsible for interest charge against the investment.

Sanitation as Important as Feeding.

Sanitation is a very important factor in swine rearing, in fact just as much so as feeding. During the summer period when swine are given the freedom of fields or wood lot—natural conditions — the question of sanitation has been well considered, but just as soon as the pig is confined, kept under conditions that are getting away from nature the question of sanitation begins to become apparent, and if neglected rouble follows. The pigs are basting on the ground on the fresh soil, and the farther we get them away from such sanitation the more likely we are to have trouble. The importance of this has been noted by many farmers and breeders with success, but in no case can be entailed to every farm where pigs are kept. In the Colony house system the temperatures are not below zero for very long periods the colony house can be successfully used during the entire year to the complete exclusion of the expensive permanently situated large piggery.

Expensive Buildings a Mistake Financially.

Swine are kept by the majority of farmers with the object that they may fit shall result from the undertaking. The method of making a profit is influenced by a number of factors, one of which is the cost of equipment or permanent charge against the operation. If a farmer has a $2,000 piggery and finds that he can only realize from swine sales each year enough to pay for labor, feed and interest on investment. If the same number of animals could be reared in buildings costing but $100 then the amount that would have to be taken from the yearly swine sales to pay overhead or interest on building equipment would be only $10. The greater the building equipment per animal unit, the greater the portion of sales necessary to pay for interest on the building equipment. The barnyard reared pig will have but little charge, if any, against it for building equipment, but the barnyard capacity for rearing pigs is limited. Either on the family of one sow. Many farmers desire to keep more than one sow, hence the necessity for building accommodations of some sort specially for the use of the swine. Piggeries having accommodation for the litters of four to six sows will require an outlay for equipment that will be a fixed charge against the pig crop. The accommodation costing if fairly well constructed not less than $1,400, and at the rate of $200 per pen. An equal amount of money would build five colony houses and a feeding floor and storage cement floor and hurdles for the pens. Such a plant is very essential and labor and a correspondingly saving farm of profits in rearing the colony house will be a fixed charge against the litter of it has been in the past. If you are thinking of building sheds or other shelter for swine write to the Department of Agriculture at Toronto, Ont., Stevenson, Publicity.

Mineral Feeds Prevent Breakdown In Swine.

Through the feeding of mineral supplements to swine it was soon found possible to prevent much of the loss among young pigs and sows in hogs before or when they are sent to market.

Hogs that are given skimmilk, tankage or lumpy vegetables commonly possess strength of bone sufficient for heavy forcing, but need additional mineral supplements, however, increases the strength of bone.

Bonesmeal flavored with about ten per cent. of sulphate of iron at the rate of one pound per day for each 100 pounds of weight furnish the necessary mineral requirements.

The need for feeding mineral supplements comes under artificial conditions, as when hogs are confined in dry lot, or where they cannot get the legumonious roughage, and for pure-bred breeding animals.

When selecting potatoes for seed see that the potatoes are thoroughly ripened, and exercise the greatest care to avoid any injury to the tuber.

Victor Rudolph, a pupil of Leopold Litchenberg, of Leipzig, and Senor Arbos, Royal Academy, London, Eng., will be a fig feature in the orchestra during the performance of "The Girl in Red."

Holway Brothers Will Start on Defence—Crooks in Goal With Regular Line-up—Stage is Ready

The Belleville Intermediate play Queen's University to-night at the arena. All great deal depends on the outcome of tonight's battle, Queen's need it badly in order to remain in the running for group honors with the other hand should Belleville lose, Cornwall will gain the upper hand. The locals have received their new sweaters, which are of the striped variety. Red and white, stripes with a white "B" adorning the front. It is something new in hockey uniforms around this district. Jack Marks has the boys rounded and primed and it will be a big surprise to Belleville supporters if the tricolour emerge victors.

Queen's are concentrating their greatest efforts in the Intercollegiate race but at the same time have a mean aggregation that represents the University in the O.H.A. Ritchie and Smith are lockeyists of renown, Dr. Quinn, in goal, is an experienced by at the game.

"Lee" Crooks will be back on the job with "Tools" and Bouncer in front of him. Ray Mallen has been going great guns in practice and the doctor has given a good performance "Bunny" Frechette, Hagerman, Weir, and the remaining members of the squad can be ably depended upon.

Coach Marks reports the following line-up for to-night:

Goal—Crooks, L. & R. Defence—Holway Brothers, Forwards to be picked from—Weir, Mallen, Goyer, Swayze, Frechette, and Hagerman.

It is reported that the Queen's squad arrived in the City this morning and will start with the same line-up used at the Intercollegiate game at Toronto on Saturday afternoon.

Jack Marks states that the boys are ready for the fray, and he expects them to take the long end of the score.

Queen's Force Blue to Limit to Gain Decision—Score 4-3

Queen's University seniors, lacking in publicity, but strong in ability, gave the University of Toronto team a real scare on Saturday afternoon, when they were defeated in the opening game of the intercollegiate Union series, by 4 to 3, after 63 minutes' play. The teams were tied at 3 to 3 after the regulation periods ended, and it was decided that the first goal would decide it. Twenty-two minutes later Bissett secured from a scrambie, and gave the locals second consecutive victory, both secured in overtime.

The Queen's management resented the loss of the game in that they claimed the goal which tied the score at the third period, and the winning counter were secured illegally, the scorers being offside in each case.

University of Toronto were not at full strength, Bill Carson being an absentee owing to an injured back, but Reynolds, one of the regular defense men, was unable to play for the Presbyterians, and the visitors had a good excuse in defeat. They believe that, with Reynolds in the line-up, they can defeat any team in the series.

O'DOWD KNOCKED OUT BY TEDDY JOYCE

Toronto Boy Ends Bout in Fourth Round by Giving Columbus Phantom the K.O. Clout

Teddy Joyce had just one chance to beat Phil. O'Dowd, the Columbus shadow, at the Varsity Theatre Saturday night and took it. It was to cover up, bore in and rely on the K. O. He did that very thing and put the Ohio youth out in the fourth after making him take a count of nine once before in that round.

O'Dowd with a big advantage in reach, jabbed his left at will to the Toronto boy's head, and he had a right with no little sting in it to whip in as an added attraction.

Joyce kept crowding him, waiting for that opening, trying to get inside. He succeeded in doing little in the first three minutes but the crowding. O'Dowd not only had that long jabbing left and stinging right, but he was wonderfully shifty on his feet, blocked beautifully and generally gave much and secured little or nothing.

Joyce with his eight-point ringside advantage in weight, his strength and sturdier build, followed the cleverer Phil all over the ring, but could not corner him nor get his hand on him.

And then it came—one of those right swings that has ended many a battle. O'Dowd went down like a shot, stretched at full length, but managed to get up and weather the storm, until another swing in the few for another nine count and then the third and last.

O'Dowd is an extremely shifty, clever boxer.

Joyce weighing in at 2 o'clock 154 pounds over 12?, the specified weight, forfeited his $50 weigh deposit. O'Dowd weighed in at 115½ and boxed at 119.

LINDSAY DOWNS PETERBORO

Lindsay, Jan. 20.—Playing a brand of hockey that brought the fans to their feet with a yell, the Lindsay Intermediates defeated the Peterboro Intermediates last night in the Lindsay ice palace, by a score of 3 to 2. To the big crowd of Lindsay fans, the win was one of the sweetest things that could have come to them on the earth. To take the Peterboro team in their hands and beat them was a joy indeed and when the win was a clean one in the fastest game seen here for a long time, it was doubly joyous.

HIGH SCHOOL FORM LADS STAGE FAST CONTESTS

Good Exhibition on Saturday Afternoon When Teams Played to a Tie 2-2—No Overtime Allowed

The Arena was the scene of a hard fought battle last Saturday afternoon when Forms II A and II B met the combined forces of V and Commercial forms. The game went to a sixty-minute tie, each team having scored twice. Both teams demonstrated that they are capable of playing fast hockey. Many chances to score were lost through lack of combination.

Matthews put up a star game for the Fifth formers. He is a pretty skater and stick-handler and knows the puck whenever he notes an opportunity of a score. The Jeffrey boys were also very much in the limelight. These three players did the bulk of the work for the Commercial students. Both opponents were a much heavier team and had a decided advantage in this department. Thrasher and Hurley both big boys had a hard job keeping their lighter opponents from penetrating. Colling was also busy and turned aside some hard ones. Gorman and Sinfield played, the wing positions and were always there. No overtime was allowed and the game ended 2 all. The line-up.

II A and II B—Goal, Colling; point, Hurley and Thrasher; Centre Rose; wings, Gorman and Sinfield; sub, V. Waplin.

V and Commercial—Goal, Reid, defence, Matthews and J. Jeffery, centre, T. Jeffery; wings, Welsh and Hagerman.

FANS SHOULD NOT LEAN OVER BOARDS

Several Spectators Badly Injured This Season—One Fatally

Allen German, well-known hockey payer and son of W. M. German was killed recently in Belleville while watching an intermediate game between Port Colborne and Welland. He was leaning over the boards when one of the hockey players fell, his skate making a deep gash under Mr. German's right eye. At the junior game at Port Hope the other night one of the players is falling, threw his stick back and it struck Mr. Scuthorpe, one of the timekeepers in the penalty box with full force across the back of the head. In the penalty box you have no choice but alongside of the rink the spectators should not lean over. We know in the excitement of the game everybody is anxious to see it all, but the practice is a dangerous one as has been shown by the accidents this year.

Recently too, a man was fatally injured in a like manner in Western Ontario, when his jugular vein was severed by the skate of one of the players, who fell near the boards.

Local fans might also be careful in this respect, as some near accidents have been witnessed on the ice arena during a scramble near the boards.

SPRINGERS ROLL OVER 2705; DEFEAT THE G.W.V.A.

The Springer Lock boys defeated the G.W.V.A. at the Recreation Parlors on Saturday night by a nine pin little margin. The Lock boys were considerably strengthened by George Gilbert, who rolled over the 600 mark. This is the first league game the Great War Vets. have rolled on these alleys and, considering that they did not have their regular line-up, rolled a nice game. The G.W.V.A. have taken the Bankers' place in the race for the Brunswick trophy in the league.

IRISHMEN SUFFER ANOTHER REVERSE

Flying Frenchmen Administer a Trouncing in a Tidy Battle—Score 3-1

Montreal, Jan. 22.—Canadiens are still one point behind Ottawa, in the race for the National Hockey League honors, the Habitants keeping pace with the league leaders at the expense of the Toronto St. Patrick's, when they defeated here Saturday night by 3 to 1. The speedy Canadian forwards outclassed their opponents practically throughout the game, and their more impressive play was the decisive.

It was a stubborn battle during the first two periods, Canadiens netting their only goal of the first 20 minutes of play. Billy Boucher gave the local players the lead after over 14 minutes of fast hockey, beating Roach after an exciting combination bout with Odie Cleghorn, who engineered the brilliancy that resulted in the goal. The margin held by Canadiens was merited, as their two and three-man attacks proved much more effective than St. Patrick's style of one and two-man rushes that marked the first period.

JUNIOR CITY LEAGUE MATCH PROVIDE GOOD HOCKEY

O.S.D. and Albert Battle to a Tie 3-3—Both Teams of Championship Calibre

The Ontario School for the Deaf met the Albert College boys in a Junior City League game at the arena on Saturday evening. The game resulted in a dead-lock, each team having scored three times. The O.S.D. kept the play in their opponents end, but deadly shooting by Neville kept the Albert Colleges in the hunt. The deaf boys have a better all-round team, their combination play is better and they checked like fiends. The Albert boys were lost in shooting ability. Neville possesses a beautiful shot which kept Laporte hopping about watching it go. Only from the Trent road were leading on a 3-3 score within a few minutes of play, but by long range shooting, Albert was enabled to tally the equaliser. The goal was disputed but Albert maintained rights and both Barnett counted. In the first half the forward line and Patterson on Defence played good hockey for O.S.D., while Neville's good work was the bright light on the Albert team. Bus set and Terryberry also played good hockey. Guthrie, who was a member of last year's team showed up well. From all appearances these two teams will be championship contenders. No other teams of the Junior League have trotted out such a formidable aggregations to date. Both teams are provided with open-air rinks on which to do their practising. These advantages are not available to the other teams of the league.

The O.S.D. were well represented by both boy and girl supporters, although they could not outvarsity show their joy. One could note by their actions that they appreciated their teams' work.

Owing to the limited space of time for the game no overtime was allowed "Stub" Barrett handled the ball.

THRILLING DUEL SATURDAY NIGHT GRANITES AND AURA LEE

Champions Held Scoreless For Fifty-Five Minutes—Winners a Young Team—Showing Condition

Toronto, Jan. 22.—For fifty-five minutes on Saturday night the Granites and Aura Lee senior teams fought a scoreless duel, and then like a flash a Watson-McCarthy combination attack gave the Allan Cup holders a counter, and it was the only one of the game. Aura Lee had kept their word. They battled the champions every inch of the way and on the play should have won. Lack of punch to their attack, plus the uncanny goalkeeping of Jack Cameron, decided the issue and yet the Red and White out of the running for the title. It was Aura Lee's fifth defeat and Granites' fifth win in six starts.

The Great Jay Way and Doc. Osler's Theory

Some fifteen thousand cash customers at Madison Square Garden, New York, the other night, rose up on their hind legs and gave a terrific ovation to big Jess Willard, average Jess Willard, the biggest knock to the pacifistic game, who ever held the heavyweight crown.

Fortunately, loud cheering doesn't mean a match, and is certainly doesn't make a good one. How any promoter ever expects to get by with a Dempsey-Dempsey return bout is beyond us.

Willard never was a first-class fighter. More than that, he must be a very over the forty-year limit, and all athletic history teaches that a man of 40 or thereabouts cannot learn any new physical tricks to tune him back to championship class.

Jim Jeffries, who at his best was a greater fighter than Willard ever dreamed of being, couldn't accomplish this miracle so how on earth can Willard expect to do it, especially when the record book shows—

That Jeffries knocked out even a third-rate fighter by a clean punch.

That some light-heavyweights have whipped him.

That he jumped out of the ring after five rounds with a dub by the name of Joe Choynski.

That he looked like a Swiss cheese beside Dempsey in every respect except wearing the hand in the corner before the fight.

That he won his reputation when a middle-aged negro, nearly 40 years old and 30 pounds overweight, laid down on the floor and held his hand up to shade his eyes from the glaring Cuban sun, while the referee went through the formality of counting him out.

A sweet record, this, to step into the ring against Dempsey. If you're allowed to fight the children, Doc Osler had better go out and shoot himself.

SCOTCH CURLERS BEAT LINDSAY

Peterboro, Jan. 20.—In the opening games with the Scotch curlers, Dr. Robertson-Aikman led six of his rinks to victory today over the representatives of the clubs from this district at the Peterboro rink 72-66, although he himself lost to J. D. Flavelle, of Lindsay, by 14-7, the nestor of Canadian curling skipping his rink, but did not play a stone, following the rigid advice of his doctor, and by the courtesy of the captain of the Scots.

The scores were:

Col. Aikman (Scotland), 7; L. D. Flavelle (Lindsay), 14.

N. K. Jackson (Lanarkshire), 9; J. W. Sayles (Millbrook), 11.

J. Y. Kennie (Renfrewshire), 9; J. V. Cowne (Lindsay), 8.

How Hardware sales are increased

Some quotations from recent reports:

"The telephone and truck are my two best savers. I sell by Long Distance to points as much as 200 miles away and never see the customers."

"We advertise in our House Organ that we will accept charges on L. D. calls from customers."

"50% of our orders are secured from a territory of 100 miles around by Long Distance."

"Our travellers regularly use L. D. to sell and to send in rush orders."

"We now use L. D. instead of the telegraph to order goods."

MISCONSTRUED PATRIOTISM

The Army Council of the Irish Free State has drawn up a code of stringent regulations for the punishment of those who combine to make war against the army and the State. It is worthy of note that it is specially provided, that the regulations shall apply to men and women alike. It is said that some of the most troublesome and irreconcilable of the Republicans are women, chiefly young women, suffering from some sort of emotional disorder which they dignify with the name of patriotism.

ENGLAND WILL PAY AT PAR

Reports emanate from Washington, that President Harding does not look favorably on the proposal for the surrender of French or British Islands in the vicinity of the United States in payment of war debts owed by these countries. There should not be much worry occasioned relative to this proposal so-far as Great Britain is concerned. John Bull has always enjoyed the highest commercial rating in the affairs of Nations and will pay his debts one hundred cents on the dollar and will pay in cash.

BRITISH PREFERENCE AND TARIFF JUGGLING

Although certain reductions were made in items under the British Preferential tariff to Canada in 1922, which should favorably affect imports from the United Kingdom of a number of commodities, the increase in the Sales Tax has the effect of practically neutralizing the reductions in the Customs Tariff. The British manufacturer has to compete in practically all of the items on which a reduction in the Preferential Tariff has been made, both with the United States and the local manufacturer.

The Hon. Mr. Fielding in his last budget is apparently guilty of tariff juggling. This procedure is not so easily accomplished in these democratic days and the people are looking forward to some comprehensive and necessary corrections in his coming budget.

Many of his followers on the Liberal benches in the Commons are so extremely confident of the veteran's capabilities in formulating tariff measures, that they sit there in quietitude and resignation with the feeling:

"Life's a pleasant institution,
Let us take it as it comes."

The pace of this country, however, are not so easily satisfied and are growing impatient. Patience was assured the hectic aesthetics of the 1870's but in this more advanced age of sound commercial and business principles, we require something more than juggling of tariffs, which was ostensibly done to accommodate a clamoring, turbulent West against the more stolid Protectionist East.

MR. FIELDING AND THE PREFERENCE

Cable despatches forecast an increase in the British Preference by Hon. W. S. Fielding in his next budget. The official Liberal policy, previous to accepting office, called for an increase in the British Preference from 33 1-3 per cent. to 50 per cent. Like all other planks in this discarded platform, it was forgotten by its authors when the time for redemption arrived.

In his last budget Mr. Fielding sought to camouflage his apostasy by making a slight increase in the British Preference on certain articles. Among these were agricultural implements which we export to Britain, not imported from that country, and boots and shoes which are only imported in small quantities, and these for the classes, not the masses, of Canada. In subsequent years so apparent that even his supporters were ashamed. At the rate Mr. Fielding increased the British Preference last session it would take one thousand years to redeem the Liberal pledge on this subject, made in the National Convention in 1919.

The trade treaties with France and Italy may relatively decrease the British Preference in competition with these countries, and Mr. Fielding may be forced to make some concessions.

PASSING COMMENT

Those passengers who danced on Atlantic liners while the waves were in their angriest mood, almost certainly were animated more with the desire to keep their courage up than with coolness for "tripping the light, fantastic toe."

Wonder what Germany would do to France if the reparations boot were on the other leg. Remember what lots of time she didn't give her to pay up after 1870?

Sometimes a wrinkle is a dimple that has seen better days.

The revenue of Canada is increasing—the receipt tax will incease it still more. What the country wants to see is the expenditure decreased.

HERE AND THERE

AN UNFORGOTTEN SINGER

At nearly every convention of educational or literary authorities, held in a Canadian city, the question of our native writers comes up for discussion, and there is a grave deliberation on the subject of whether the Dominion possesses a literature. The conclusion frequently reached is that the most original production brought, forth in Canada is the work of our poets.

Among our native singers, there is one, at least, whose place seems secure with the passing generations and that poet, whose memory is held in honor in his own country is Archibald Lampman. Dying at a comparatively early age, this poet has left chums that contain many lines which deserve to live in any collection of Canadian verse. It is significant of his influence that, although it is more than a decade since he passed away, there have recently appeared in our periodicals three or four articles apreciative of his work. If we seek for a reason for this turning to Lampman in these days of troubled peace, may we not find it in the real and lyric quality of his writing? He is the "still, small voice" which has power to quiet the restless pulse of care." After the tumult and stress of the years through which we have passed, since the fateful August of 1914, "Among the Millet" "Heat," and the sonnets star-scattered through Lampman's work make welcome music.

There is consolation to be found in sky and fields and stream, and this poet, who lived, in the later years of his life, in our beautiful Capital on the Ottawa, had a vision of Earth's peace and loveliness, which now gives us many a comforting glimpse. "Not to be conquered by these headlong days," is his earnest call to those whom he would fain solace with the quiet comradeship of the things that are morp excellent.

COMPOSER OF RULE BRITANNIA REMEMBERED

Although twelve years have passed since the bicentenary to the birth of Thomas Arne, the composer of "Rule Britannia," that event has just been celebrated in London, England, by the unveiling of a memorial tablet in St. Paul's Covent Garden, of which church Arne was for some time a parishioner. Sir Frederick Bridge, who probably knows as much about Arne's music as any man living, presided at the ceremony and performed some of his compositions. Miss Carol Hemming, Lady Maud Warrender and Mr. Topplins Green, who assisted vocally, while Mr. Harry E. Wall was at the organ.

No more appropriate spot could have been chosen for this Arne memorial, seeing how closely linked with Covent Garden and the neighborhood was the composer of "Where the Bee Sucks" and other charming and characteristic Shakespearean settings. It was in King Street that Arne's father carried on his upholsterer's business, and at Lincoln's Inn Theatre, not far afield, Arne's first opera saw the light, while at Drury Lane, in 1738, Arne's musical adoption of Dalnon's "Comus" was first heard. It was in 1740 that Arne composed his immortal "Rule Britannia".

GOLD MINING IN THE YUKON

A considerable proportion of the placer gold that comes from the Yukon Territory is mined by means of dredges, some of which are among the largest in the world, capable of excavating and treating 15,000 cubic yards of gravel per day. These dredges are operated by electric power and have been found to be most satisfactory. The period of operations is not confined to the short summer season prevalent in that district, as they can operate long after winter has set in. On one occasion a dredge operating on the Klondyke river was maintained in operation all winter. There are six dredges used for this purpose in the Yukon Territory. These are located at the present time on the creeks of the Klondyke river, on Hunker creek, Gold Run creek, Dominion creek and Highet creek. In order to mine the submerged beds of the river and lakes in the Yukon Territory, the Department of the Interior, Canada, introduced dredging regulations, under which dredging leases for such areas are issued. There is about nine such now in force covering river stretches in the Yukon Territory, and the total revenue derived from this source to the 31st of March, 1922, amounted to $201,387.12.

BOYS' WORK IN AGRICULTURE

The Junior Farmer is Much to Be Desired for the Future To-day.

Badly Handled in the Past — Too Much Book and Not Enough Boy —He is a Born Crank like General

School Fairs and Boys' Clubs Are Making Active Young Patriots.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

In agriculture the boy has arrived. He is a real live thing now-a-days. His way has been as tortuous as a wild grapevine, and at times his reluctant feet lagged behind indeed.

He Did Not Get a Fair Show at First.

To bring the boy into general prominence and activity, until a number of efforts had been made. He was bullied and bribed, cuffed and coaxed, plumbed and patted, whipped and wheedled; yet scarcely a foot had he voluntary gone forward until very recently.

The Old Castor Oil Policy.

In those times, figuratively speaking, he was held by the nose while nauseous doses from text-books of forbidding terminology were poured down his unwilling throat, in order to give him a taste and enthusiasm for Agriculture.

But to-day we have the boy genuinely interested in agriculture; operated, open-minded, book-filled, Open-eyed, for he is looking at farming from a practical point; open-minded, because he is now regarding agricultural instruction with a groundwork understanding; open-handed, for he is ready and willing to work; open-hoe-handle and wield it as proudly as if it were a field marshal's baton.

Too Much Book and Not Enough Boy.

Early methods to bring agricultural knowledge and the boy together failed because they lacked that most important thing in teaching known as "point of contact." There was too much book and not enough boy in the minds of the pedagogues. The tad gagged and choked mentally at it too early, assimilation of knowledge had (to him) mesmerizing phrases. He was given, with the best intentions, reverse action, starting with the deductive method, with the boy. Whereas in this case the nuts were usually too hard for the youngster to crack.

The Boy Is a Gangster—a Club Man.

Boys are gregarious; they flock. The Boy Loves to Live in Gangs. Nature the country is by nature a gang-ster. The boy, then a sulky, driven by Arnott, came along and there was a collision. The Sheriff is being sued by the latter because it alleged damages to the sulky, harness, etc. The defence, we understand, will take the ground that it was a sporting event, the ring at all, but horse racing, which is not allowed on a fair ground and, according to the provincial regulations. The case will be decidedly interesting."

REDUCE INTEREST RATES

Montreal Stock Exchange interest rates will be reduced to seven per cent., effective Monday, January 22nd according to announcement made there today.

"PRESS" OPINIONS

"SHORTER HOURS."

(Ottawa Journal)

In current discussion of the unemployment question, an idea is appearing in some quarters that short hours of labor would help to banish unemployment. The remark for instance was made in a rule to work six or seven hours a day instead of eight or nine, more men would be needed to work.

Another point of view had better be considered.

Short hours, at the same rate of pay per day as longer ones, increased cost of production means higher prices; higher sale prices cause less buying, namely less demand for goods, causes a reduction in production, also less employment.

U. F. O. POLICIES

(Woodstock Sentinel Review)

The Farmers' Sun commends to its readers the address given by the directors of the United Farmers of Manitoba to the members at the annual convention. This warning was given against too great concentration of attention on political activities. The members were reminded that the basic task was "to vitalize the rural communities, to develop efficient labor and to build up an intelligent, effective, rural citizenship." The Sun thinks the time has come to emphasize the real mission of the U. F. O. Politics, it admits, is an absorbing game, but just because it is so absorbing, there is danger that the educational re-occupation the "vital objects of the organization may be set aside."

HORSE RACING, OR SPEEDING-IN-THE-RING

(Acton Free Press).

The following incident, reported by the Milton Champion, will interest many readers; "Like other citizens Sheriff Jermyn attended the Fall Fair last week. He was there with his car. He was crossing over the race track when a speeding or racing event was on. He stopped, then a sulky, driven by Arnott, came along and there was a collision. The Sheriff is being sued by the latter because it alleged damages to the sulky, harness, etc. The defence, we understand, will take the ground that it was a sporting event, the ring at all, but horse racing, which is not allowed on a fair ground and, according to the provincial regulations. The case will be decidedly interesting."

GIRL FOUND DEAD IN HOME, TWO MEN UNCONSCIOUS

(By Canadian Press)

New Glasgow, N.S., Jan. 22—Her face showing traces of agony, and with blood from a superficial cut which she evidently sustained in her writhings, Margaret MacDonald, a pretty twenty-five-year-old girl, was found dead in her room and bedclothes street this evening, and beside her were the unconscious bodies of her brother, Duncan D. MacDonald, and a companion, Chippie Reid, who had apparently been stricken with the same mysterious malady which caused her death. Reid cannot live, it was said at the Aberdeen Hospital tonight, but MacDonald had a slight chance of recovery. The girl had evidently been dead some hours when found.

Contents of the stomachs of the men were examined tonight, but no trace of poison was found.

The men and the girl had evidently partaken of an evening meal on Thursday, but what was found in the oven this evening, a pot of baked beans was on top of the stove.

Alcohol will be stock Thursday evening, Miss MacDonald's sister, Miss Annie MacDonald's part of the flat he got some other water, about half of it gone, was found below the particular forms tonight and they evidently tried to relieve their sufferings with it. It is thought probable that the effects of their malady were beginning to be felt at eight o'clock, causing the girl to go for the water.

So exacting and rigid are the standards applied to these inspections that the slightest variation, either in workmanship or material, is sufficient cause for immediate rejection.

THE HILLS

Please be not far below the skies;
The air of Heaven enfolds the hills,
And Love and hope and life distills,
And vision satisfies.

Surging and singing in the wind,
The upland pines call constantly;
I long to lie and watch the sea
Of blowing boughs, and be entwined.

Or gaze across a misty, dark plain
Of purple pools and wavy below
The forest's sweeping ebb and flow
To meadows on the mountain's lane;

And lower still, to clustered fields
All prinkly checked in varying tints
Of yellow where the grain's bright sheen
Gleams warmly like burnished shields.

Lowlands are too remote from Heaven.
They hath the eyes' far, perfect sight
That plunges from the hills' sweet height,
Where understanding peace is given!

SOME LABOR SAVING HINTS

How many stew pumpkin in the old way of cooking by peeling and cutting raw? I have solved the problem by cutting up in pieces small enough to be laid in the kettle and nearly covered with water. Put on a cover and let cook until tender. Drain, cool, and peel off the skin. Mash with potato masher and pumpkin is ready for use.

For lamp chimneys I take a damp cloth and dip it into coarse brown window cleaner and smear chimneys inside and out. Lathe in the day when I find time. I polish with a dry cloth and only a quarter of the time needed to dry a wet chimney.

Pulled floops and small rugs are a lot of hard work and backache. I use an old, worn-out broom, put on the mop stick and occasionly sprinkle it with furniture oil to keep all the lint and dust down, which is so hard to clean from rugs and carpets.

The handiest and most labor and time saver is a built-in board. It is held pee-pared of a cord of wood and can be filled from the back room or outside. It closes with a door and be made being a time and labor saver, it saves my temper considerably because it keeps the dirt and litter out of the kitchen floor. My matches, oil and old paper are kept in a box beside the woodbox. I can start a fire in short order, and I made this woodbox all myself.—Mrs. H. B.

Now that the snappy days are here they require an ample supply of heavy socks for the men and boys. I eliminate all darning by buying dark coating and making fast, having the heels and toes well covered. Those I sew over the most feel and when worn can be ripped off and replaced by new. By doing this the socks wear for several winters.—Mrs. M. M.

When polishing my kitchen range I can get a much better glow and shig it will stay on longer by using five or six drops of vinegar in the blacking.

When any stove needs cleaning I place it in potato water while I go about with some other task. I am always very pleased with both of those labor savers.—Mrs. R. P. C.

If you wish to break the shell of boiled eggs easily, break the shell a little with the edge of a spoon as soon as the eggs are out of the boiling water Then cover with cold water and let rest a short time before shelling. The save time and labor and also leaves the eggs smooth.—Mrs. R. H. C.

Dried vegetables should simmer slowly to cook the stand.

Pour boiling water on the berry stains before using soap.

If you like a fine, smooth gravy use cornstarch instead of flour.

A pinch of soda in the boiling water will give the green vegetables a fresh color.

BOILED LEG O' MUTTON

Select a six-pound leg of young mutton. Give it several gentle bats on both sides with a cleaver. Wipe, place on a trivet in a kettle; cover with cold water. Add 3 small sliced carrots, 1 sliced turnip, 1 sliced onion, 1 sprigs parsley, ½ small bay leaf, 1 sprig thyme, 6 cloves, ½ teaspoon peppercorns and 1 tablespoon salt. Bring to boiling point, let boil hard for five minutes; skim, then cover and simmer until tender. Allow 1 hour (about 1¾ hours). Remove to hot serving platter, surround with oyster plant fritters and garnish with parsley and cubes of current jelly. Serve with caper or current jelly sauce.

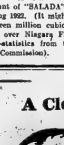
French Pancakes.

Two eggs (yolks) 1 cup of milk, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, white flour. Mix yolks, salt, sugar and pour one-third of this mixture on half a cup of flour and stir to a smooth paste; then add the remainder of the mixture and beat well for five minutes. To this add half a teaspoon of salad oil, or, if preferred, one dessertspoon of melted butter. Pour enough of the batter into a hot buttered frying-pan to cover the pan. When brown turn and brown the other side. Sprinkle with butter and jelly, roll up and sprinkle with powdered sugar. Serve while hot.

FOR A COLD NIGHT

To make tasty hot jam sandwiches, spread half the slices of bread with butter, the other half with fine chopped ham, seasoned with mustard if desired. Press the slices together in pairs. The slices should be cut very thin and freed from crust. Heat an egg, add half a cup of rich milk and soak the sandwiches in the mixture a few seconds. Heat two tablespoonfuls of butter or fat from middling bacon, in the frying pan, and in it brown the sandwiches, first on one side and then on the other.

For Spanish Chocolate take:
2 cups milk.
2 squares chocolate.
1 cup boiling water.
½ teaspoon salt.
½ cup sugar.
1 cup strong back coffee.
Cook the chocolate, sugar, salt and water for 15 minutes. Add milk and coffee; bring to a boiling point and serve.



Shrunken Blankets.

If the blankets have been washed many times and have shrunken until they are a little short for the bed, buy a strip of unbleached muslin the width of the blanket and the length according to the shortage. Stitch it securely to the end of the blanket and use this at the foot of the bed, tucking the muslin under the mattress. It will give you back just the length you need.

NIAGARA FALLS TO BE TWO MINUTES.

All the water that flows over Niagara Falls during the time that it takes to slowly count 120 (two minutes) would be necessary to infuse the amount of "BALADA" Tea consumed during 1922. (It might be noted that thirteen million cubic feet of water pass over Niagara Falls every minute—statistics from the Hydro-Electric Commission).

There are millions of tiny openings or pores in the skin and these must be kept open and clean if the beauty of the skin is to be maintained.

Because it cleanses these pores and encourages the healthful action of the skin, Dr. Chase's Ointment is most effective as a skin beautifier. Roughness, redness, pimples and all sorts of skin blemishes disappear by its use, and the skin is left clear, smooth and velvety.

COLD FEET

If I were to state that one suffers with cold feet because he did not have a good heart, you would say that I was mad because you would say that he got cold feet in the majority of cases, hearted.

And yet although you may not be aware of it, it is literally true that a poor muscular heart is the cause of cold feet in the the majority o cases.

Did you ever stop to think that that heart of yours is only a pump made of muscle. Yes, I know we think of it as the seat of the affections and all that goes with that. But put the actual truth is, that it is simply a muscular pump, forcing the blood all over the body and therefore to the feet. The feet are the farthest point from the heart; and it is an awful climb from there back to the heart.

A heart with a strong muscle will send the rich warm blood down to the feet and keep them comfortably cozy. A weak muscular heart will not do it so well, and thus we have cold feet.

Some years ago a school teacher came to me and complained that he could not sleep with cold feet almost throughout because his feet got so cold that at half time he had to go bom to get them warm.

He told me this about the end of August. I advised some simple daily exercise. Four months later I met him.

blood down to the feet, regularly & rhythmically. Before that winter set in he was a hockey player throughout, such was the improvement in his heart muscle.

You are only as strong as you beat, add a strong muscular hear may carry you through a severe attack of Pneumonia, or Typhoid, wher chances otherwise would hav been very slim.

LINKED LIVES

By D. Kinmount Roy

"Maybe," she said quite humbly, 'plain folk of the wood cannot know much, but the murder was quite real! See,' she said, pointing towards Fosserway, 'if you only mark the district round about almost note the exact place where the woman met her end, for they have cut down two fine trees that sheltered the spot to let the blessed sunshine sweeten and purify the place of death if it can. You see the gaps in the avenue, do you not?'

'I see nothing,' the man said ungraciously; 'it's nonsense—rank nonsense!'

'Maybe the ghost,' she said again, 'but you saw murder—Oh no, not the murder, for Lord Glenmore was tried for his life and only got off because they could not find out all about it to convict him. And many think he never did it after all, and was quite innocent, poor sentimental although he stood his trial like a common criminal. My father,' she added, 'was a wise man if he was without book-learning, and he always said murder could not be hidden, and that those who dived long enough would find out what done.'

'Your father's name was what?' he asked a trifle eagerly.

'Andrew Hardcastle; his daughter answered proudly; 'he was a good man, Mr. Dare, and a wise; all who ever knew him said so.'

'I make no doubt, ma'am,' he said politely as he turned away towards the woods.

When he got there he allowed himself to say quite other things, muttering to himself the while the name of David Cosgarrie, which are best left unrecorded.

'What could Cosgarrie know of the matter?' he asked, and answered his own question with absolute conclusiveness: 'Nothing,' he repeated mechanically; 'it is not the man who strikes the blow that is the murderer, but the man who has the motive and the profits by its accomplishment. He that should 'dog Eric Hardcastle,' he thought, 'is the murderer; and even to a man should fear no woman, living or dead.'

He started, with a smothered exclamation, his face drawn and livid—a fir near had been struck by lightning, a soft thud near by, and the wretched man's nerves, for all his daring, were not proof against such a trifle.

Henceforth, he avoided the hill overlooking the valley but took long walks through woods. The forester never saw him in his rambles; but he noticed how wearied and worried he looked when he returned. After morning, some time after this, as he did not appear as usual, he sent his son to the room, thinking he might be ill again. The room was empty; the bed had not been slept in; but instead a handful of money, with a word of thanks, made it clear that their mysterious guest had left as strangely as he came. He was evidently capable of gratitude of a kind which satisfied himself; his inmost nature was not wholly stunted. That is to say, he had no touch of meanness in material things. He would not accept to eat a man's bread and yet believe him of his purse if it came in the way of business, and was well worth doing, but on the other hand, he could soulless way,' and he expected Heaven give to a man in dire need, though it is to set down the one and against the other with a balance in his favour. To do otherwise was in his opinion a mean carriage of injustice against a man who was doing his best—his very best.

It was not long before he turned up at the Hall as one of his strange figures; in fact, it took very little to transform him so that few could discover him under ordinary circumstances. It was only when he became excited or forgetful of his part that he betrayed himself away. He was a born actor, and his facial contortions alone, even without the words he used, might have made his fortune upon the stage. He had been several times to Fosserway, and though told that he would be hanged, should he had reasons of his own for doubting the information; and he came again and again with a sort of cold 'cimex, hoping for better success.

At last Sherwin offered to see the old man, and listen to his story.

Mr. Hardcastle was gone abroad, and all communications for him were addressed in care of his London solicitor. Sherwin's eyes, by way of himself, that Sherwin was speaking the truth, and abundantly satisfied that Mr. Hardcastle was he had not been taken into confidence by Hardcastle.

Of the latter's absence he had was in the thought that Hardcastle was afraid —yes, afraid! The Master of Fosserway had been touched by Fate; for Kinkman, wretched and miserable as he was, had power to inflict misery equal, again at the first mention of Master of Fosserway, indeed! It was in his hands to see that Eric Hardcastle was Master of Fosserway no longer! Yes, in his hands. 'And when do you expect him back, Master?' he asked with humble politeness.

'I cannot tell—' Sherwin said, a little doubtfully as it occurred to him that he had no definite information on that point, 'perhaps in the spring.'

ANGLO-CANADIAN WAR DEBT

Matters in Dispute May be Settled by Arbitration

Ottawa, Jan. 20.—It is probable that the dispute between the British and the Canadian Governments on the question of exchange on war debts will go to arbitration. The legal phases of it are now being considered by counsel. About $25,000,000 is involved. When the war started Great Britain financed Canadian war activities overseas, while later on Canada reciprocated in respect to British purchases here and the Canadian account exceeded materially the counter British account.

Differences over exchange have been an obstacle to settlement, the British Government is holding that the account should be liquidated on the basis of the pound at par and the Canadian Government is claiming that the bank according to the prevailing rates, at whatever time money was advanced by Canada. It is argued that any money advanced by Canada to pay for exchange should be repaid. Negotiations between Mr. Fielding, and the British authorities were shortly after results.

BOY ADVENTURERS

Harrison's First Flight

William Henry Harrison, who afterwards became president of the United States, as a young boy was scientific and full, but, like Tennyson, he dreamed of deeds of valor which seemed entirely out of keeping with his life. He started to study medicine, but soon gave that up or the more active life of the army.

Before he was twenty he was an ensign assigned to accompany General St. Clair in an expedition which he undertook against the Indians, who were murdering the white settlers and destroying their homes in the Northwest Territory. The expedition met with disaster. In a desperate battle with the Indians the little band of paleface was almost wiped out. Young Harrison escaped.

COMMANDS PACK TRAIN.

The great daring and courage which he showed in this encounter led to his being placed in command of a pack train carrying supplies to the frontier posts. As a reward for his distinguished services Harrison was made a lieutenant when he was about twenty-one.

He is known in American history as the "Hero of Tippiecanoe," during which battle he routed the savages. Harrison had been known as the rebellion against the authority of the white men by Tecumseh and a brother of his known as the "Prophet," who had vision to divine inspiration and unfrom less powers.

Harrison made one unsuccessful attempt for the presidency against Van Buren. In a later election he defeated Van Buren by a large majority of electoral votes. When he was inaugurated he made his address without a hat or overcoat. He was taken with pneumonia and died a month after taking office.

SHORT STORIES FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

Arul and the Wicked Snake

It was a burning torrid day of midsummer in souther India. Arul arose early and was soon out in the street with the other herd girls of the village. The cattle and goats were eager to be off to the great tank. All the upland pastures were parched in the burning sun, and the empty bed of the tank was the only place where there was still a few dry blades of grass for the cattle.

she saw Seeta come out of her hut. Arul's dark face flushed with anger at sight of her. "I hate her as I hate the snakes of the jungle," she thought. "She is a snake, a thief!" Seeta, too, was on of the herd girls. She was jealous of Arul because Arul, came from a better family and had many advantages that Seeta had not. But the one thing that Seeta envied her most was the love of the sweet Miss Missionary. Seeta had stolen the beautiful book that the Miss Missionary had brought Arul clear from America. Of course Arul had not seen her take them, but she was just as sure as if she had seen her.

Seeta sat on one side of the basin and watched her cattle and goats while, as far away from her as she could get, Arul sat and brooded over her hate for Seeta. Her she hated her! She wanted to hurt her, to make her suffer as she had made Arul by stealing her beads. She must think up some way to get revenge. She wished that Miss Missionary were here to tell her what to do, but she was away up in the mountains. She could not have lived in such terrible heat.

Then Arul sat up and stared Something was the matted with Seeta! She was ill. The other herd girls were helping her up. Arul could scarcely believe her eyes. Seeta was being punished for being so wicked. Yes then it all must be bad.

It was almost evening, so the girls carried Seeta home. Arul followed driving her cattle and goats, but paying no attention to the sick girl. She hurried home to her supper of dark bread and black gruel. At the door her sister met her. Under her ragged dress she was something sparkle. With a loud cry she made a dive for it and jerked forth her precious beads. Arul didn't think you would need them again."

"Cast!" Arul shrieked. "You wicked girl. You shall never wear them again."

Down the street she ran to Seeta's hut. She knew that was the one dirty little room. "Seeta, Seeta," she cried, "Get well. See what I brought you." Kneeling down beside the sick girl she held out the sparkling beads around her neck.

THE MARKET LAST WEEK

New York, Jan. 22.—Some of the chief developments in last week's financial markets were the acute weakness of French and Belgian bonds, new high records in the cost of living and the check of the rise in Japan exchange, which showed an extreme depreciation of more than 50 per cent. during the week.

Stock prices showed few material changes at the close of business on Saturday night. Short interest needs two attempts to unsettle prices during their drives to coincide with unfavorable developments here and abroad. While substantial recessions were forced in the prices of a number of the leaders, the list generally was abandoned when it was found that the weakness of forced liquidation was comparatively small. The course of prices indicated that in the main the various groups of stocks was now closely held in the hands of professional interests.

Principal activity in the stock market continued to be centered in shares of companies reporting large interest earnings.

The collapse in German exchange sent the mark as low as .0043 cents, unofficially 23,500 to the dollar. U. S. dollars as against .0696 cents a week ago. Other European rates also were weakened, but all recovered some on what later in the week, the mark getting back to .0054 cents. Little usual commercial business is being transacted in marks. Except, for the accommodation of customers, most of the large banks decline to deal in new in marks in less than lots of a million or more, a small premium above the quoted price being charged for all transactions under $100.

A new high record for Indian rupee exchange probably explains the movement of approximately $1,500,000 in gold from this country to India via London, during the week.

The money market continues easy in tone, the ruling rate for funds on call being about 4 per cent. Trade of time money is available at 4½ to 4¾ for 30 days, 4¾ to 4¾ for 60 days, 4¾ to 4¾ for 90 days, 4¾ to 4¾ for four months, 4¾ to 4¾ for five months and 4¾ to 4¾ for six months.

MORNING SUMMARY OF NEW YORK MARKET

New York; selling of the speculative industrial favorites by traders who felt the time had arrived for a technical rally from them to remain on the long side over the week end, imparted a reaction to the market stocks in Saturday's brief session of the market, although a few specialties, notably the Merchandising issues which followed the announcement of a new $25,000,000 issue of 7% Preferred Stock and an increase of from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 in the "B" stock. Pan American got down below 96 for a net loss of 3¾ points and the "B" was off 1½ points on the day. The other oils also were inclined to ease off, Cal. Pete breaking to 77 when the market be picked up for a profit within the next few days of from three to four points. The Leaders, such as UnitedStates Steel, Baldwin and Studebaker, all closed fractionally lower, the railroad group representing profit-taking on the part to pick up stocks at the present levels.

St. Paul de Bouron, Montmagny, Dec. 22.—Three persons are dead and several are suffering from serious wounds as the result of an explosion which is believed to have been caused by an acetylene gas tank, in a fire which destroyed the residence of Joseph Gaudreault, a farmer who lives on the second range of this parish. Fire which followed the explosion completely destroyed the home. The dead are Mrs. Joseph Gaudreault, fifty years of age, Cesaire Gaudreault, 5, and Sylvia Gaudreault, 19 years of age.

THE SPOTTED GUTWORM

This Insect Was Mistaken for the Army Worm.

Description and Life History—Poisoned Bait Recommended — Keep Live Stock Out of the Field—Shall the Plow—Power Cattle Shipped.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

In July last reports appeared in the press of an outbreak of Army Worms in two or three counties of the Province, and in which the insects were beginning to do damage to some of the field crops. These reports were verified by representatives of the Dominion and Provincial Entomological departments, and it was discovered that the insect was not the Army Worm but a common cut-worm known as the Spotted Cut-worm.

In order that this pest may be recognized and controlled should it appear next season, the following information is given:

Life History.

The spotted cut-worm winters over in the ground as a small brown pupa, blackish larva from ¼ to about ⅝ of an inch in length. In May and early June this cut-worm attacks the crops sown in the field where it wintered. In June it is full grown and pupates in the soil. Towards the end of the month the moths appear and lay the eggs for the brood which is now causing trouble. In from three to four weeks or about the 10th of August nearly all the larvae of this brood will be full grown and will have stopped feeding. They will then pupate in the ground and the moths will emerge in September and lay their eggs throughout any weedy places. From these eggs will come the overwintering larvae referred to above.

Description.

The moths are a dull brown color with a wing expanse of about an inch and a quarter. They are active only at night or late in the evening. The full grown cut-worm or larvae, as they are about 1⅛ inches long, stout, rounded and of a brownish or often blackish color with several black spots on the back, most conspicuous towards the rear end. There is a whitish or light colored line running along each side just below the brown color of the back. (See back line).

This insect can readily be brought under control by the use of poison.

How to Control the Pest.

In the evening about sunset scatter thinly, so as not to show up, the following poison bait wherever the cut-worms are doing injury or are likely to be present:

Bran, 25 lbs.
Paris green, (or white arsenic), 1 lb.
Molasses, 1 gal.
Lemons or oranges, 2 fruits.
Water, about 2 gals.

Mix the bran and the poison very thoroughly in a tub or any large receptacle, using either the hands or a dung fork for the purpose. Pour the molasses into the water, add the lemons or oranges through a meat chopper, and then stir well. Now add the pulp into the water. Then add thoroughly to the bran poor the liquid over the poison bran and mix in thoroughly that it will be moistened the fingers readily. The above amount is sufficient for one acre.

Keep Live Stock Out of Reach.

Take precautions that no stock gets access to the poisoned bait that is applied, and even after applying it is wise to keep the stock out of the field for four or five days, though there is no much danger of their getting poisoned if the above directions are followed carefully.—L. Caesar, O. A. College, Guelph.

Salt the Floor.

The best means of controlling fleas in most dwellings is by salting the floor. Fleas usually originate in the basement of the house, or in some covered place such as verandah or porch, owing to which boys, dogs, or other such animals have access. The best way to give the basement, shed, or other breeding place a thorough cleaning, burn the litter, and then sprinkle the floor or ground in the building or shed with common salt. The salt should be spread liberally with a shovel almost to cover the ground and should then be well rubbed in. Usually it should not be wet sufficiently to cause it to dissolve. Usually there are about the place any houses, cribs or the like built on piles so that there is a dark space under the floor of them, salt should be applied there. Generally speaking, it is a good plan to determine where the fleas originate, and then to destroy them as far as can be reached by the salt treatment. It may be necessary to repeat the operation two or three times at about three-day intervals.

Power Cattle Shipped.

A total of 21,230 head of cattle were shipped from the port of Montreal during the past season, an organization, as compared with 21,217 head for the season of 1921, a decrease of 9,617 head. Of the above total shipped in 1922 there were 9,141 head from the United States, so that the total number of Canadian cattle that went forward to the British markets from this point was only 12,918 head. There was no export business done in sheep during the past season, while during the preceding year shipments amounted to 6,044 head.

It is surprising how far the table scraps and scattered grain will go to-ward maintaining the hens.

There is little excuse for any one using a grade or scrub bull when it is so easy to secure a pure-bred.

THE SUMMER FALLOW

Not So Good as Cultivation and Soil Improvement.

Good Occasionally for the Destruction of Weeds and Insect Pests—Stick to One Breed in Raising Live Stock—Pointers on Co-operation.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

There is no soil so rich that it can stand the long continued practice of summer fallowing without decline in fertility. Experiments have shown that when summer fallowing is practised, at no time more nitrogen is rendered soluble and available than is required for the crop. The occasional fallowing of land to destroy pests either insect or weed may be justified even if it does destroy considerable vegetable matter. Cultivated and soil improvement crops whereby the soil is kept in use have largely taken the place of the summer fallow on many of the best operated Ontario farms. Rotation of crops and afterharvest tillage well practised eliminate to a large extent any necessity for summer fallowing.—Prof. Shutt, Toronto.

STICK TO ONE BREED.

Fickleness of Mind In Breeding Live Stock is Fatal to Success.

As the live stockman spends part while one travels by road or rail, it is disappointing to see a different breed of horse or cattle on practically every other farm. This practice causes more loss to the live stock industry than any other, owing to its almost universal adoption over very large areas. Not only is it a great national loss, but it is also a loss to the individual farmer who adopts it, anywhere near success. Neither does it give any interest to his family or to the whole industry that is fascinating, healthy and profitable, when undertaken where pure-bred or intelligently bred herds are kept. If a person would make up his mind as to what breed of animal he desires, and then use the best sire available for that breed there would be a possibility of greatly improving the breed.

There is a fickleness of mind with many farmers, and they follow it by refusing from one breed of bull to another or head their herds. They are rarely able to give a definite reason for their actions, because, as a rule they expect from the operation. Many of the prevailing popular ideas exhibit a lack of knowledge as to where the commercial breeds will head. This lack of knowledge in all the more intelligent section is responsible for hundreds of cases in my county or section to-day that it means regression, rather than progress.

The writer visited a farm lately where a farmer tried the "in and out" game between the dairy and beef breeds. He had a herd of good useful grade dairy cows, and when the boom came in beef cattle, during the war, he used a Shorthorn bull on these dairy cows. Before he reached anything definite the price of beef cattle dropped, and what was commanding a more profitable price. He now used a poor specimen of one of a Holstein bull on the crosses the beef bull gave him, and the progeny are miserable specimens, that will profit no one neither him nor beef.

The results of tinkering with different breeds always ends in a muddle. Neither breed can be kept at a profit, and the profit at the pail or feed lot. The first generation is a cross and is prove satisfactory, but carried beyond the first generation it is probably a failure. A farmer cannot keep two pure-bred bulls profitably for the purpose of crossing, when the progeny is destined for the butcher's block.

If a man has a fancy for dairying, he should choose the breed that appeals to him and best fills the demands of the market he intends to supply, then stick to the pure-bred sire of that breed, and carefully select the females he intends to use in addition to the breeding herd. It is always found to be much more profitable to stay with one breed than to be constantly changing.

Every stockman should aim at improving his herd or flock, and to do this it is necessary to stay with one breed and to cull out the poor. Pure-bred available, carefully select the best individuals, and have a ration that will promote thriftiness and continuous development. — Maritime Farmer.

Pointers on Co-operation.

Farmers never co-operate because they want to—because they have to.

The time to co-operate is now long overdue.

The co-operative selling agency must be builded from strong local co-operatives.

Officers must get the facts before its members, whether things go right or wrong. The gossip route is mighty hard to cure and is often fatal.

SENATORS MAKE TIGERS STEP LIVELY

Hamilton Defeated by Ottawa in Strenuous Game—Score 2-1—Fans Displeased with Decisions

Ottawa, Jan. 22.—Ottawa retained its lead in the National Hockey League race here on Saturday night, beating Hamilton by 2 to 1. It was one of the most strenuous games in years, and at times threatened to get beyond control, so great was the feeling injected. On the play Ottawa deserved to win, but the issue was in doubt right to the end, the Hamilton team making several desperate rushes in the dying stages.

Arbour, the Hamilton centre, sustained a nasty cut near the right eye soon after the play began, and had to retire, medical attention being necessary. He was skating along near the boards, when he fell and got too close to Boucher's flying skate. It was an accident. Several nasty jabs, however, were anything but accidental. The crowd gave a rough reference quite a panning for penalizing Gerard and Broadbent, when it looked as if they were most unfairly taken than sinning, also when he failed to send Corbeau off for spilling Dennenay.

Hamilton—Jack Forbes, defence, Reise and Corbeau; centre, Arbour; wings, Prodgers and Rouchard. Subs, Smith, Wilson, Summers.

Ottawa—Goal, Benedict; defense, Boucher and Gerard; centre, Nighbor; wings, Broadbent and Dennenay. Subs, Darragh, Clancy, Helman.

Flora Mennenuk, a Russian, lived a hermit-like life in the bush just outside North Bay in the shack of Russian, as above. He had no fire, and subsisted on refuse which he collected from garbage cans on the outskirts of the town. The figure outside the shack is that of Provincial Constable Fred Lefebvre, who arrested Mennenuk on a vagrancy charge.

LACK OF PATRONAGE FOR AMATEUR HOCKEY

Ottawa Amateurs Hard Hit While Pros. Do Land Office Business—High Prices of Admission and Poor Hockey Blamed

Ottawa, Jan. 22.—Amateur hockey in Ottawa is undergoing a lamentable lack of patronage this season. Local sport writers attribute the decline in the interest to the high admission prices and the poor brand of hockey served up in the opening games.

The Ottawa Town Senators Granites were billed to come here and failed to put in an appearance, has given the simmers a nasty setback in the matter of public support. On that occasion a large crowd sat for two hours waiting for the teams to appear and it was past ten o'clock when a scratch team, composed of St. Mary's, Toronto, and a couple of Ottawa Y.M.C.A. players skated out to battle with St. Pats. of be local league.

The Montreals, city league champions last year, went to Pittsburgh and were badly trimmed. After that they went to Cobalt and beating where he Sudbury Wolves gave them a bat besting. Both these trips are declared to be unprofitable ventures on entertainments of little value.

In an effort to restore public confidence in amateur hockey, Ottawa brought back to their former level an a definite move is being made to avoid a repetition of the disgraceful mix-up when Granites failed to show up. It is conceded however, that while the Senators remain in the professional ranks as good as ever, the public support will not likely be near so good as it was last year. Only a return to form of serious rivalry with the pros. for the popularity of fandom, Mean while there is every hope that the fans are experiencing a record breaking season. Attendance records thus far have been the best of the past few years, and with Ottawas always at or near the top of the league table the best office returns are not likely to decline very badly. ,

Brantford, Ont., Jan. 22.—There was no sale of 200 bottles of overstrength beer on the market Saturday, although it has been all advertised for the past week. The announcement was made by Mayor Bill this morning. The sheriff had sold the consignment to the Ontario license department, which will handle the wet goods. There are many thirsty souls here to-day, for the announcement had been received with much interest and many protests.

UNPAID FARM HELPERS

Birds Work Well for Man Practically Without Wages.

Do Splendid Work in Field and Orchard — Robins Valuable Friend to Farmer — Redbreast Devours Many Cutworms — Why Should Be Co-Partner.

(Contributed by Catherine Parmenter, Toronto, Ont.)

When we sentimentalize and put birds in a class with the fairies that are living in the woods and insects that are living in crop production, we are apt to forget the real service with the work of the realm. If the weeds and insects were not destroying crop production would be greatly hampered. Without the birds it would be impossible to willingly pay for protection of the crops, while the same time giving little thought to the fact that we are being taxed by birds as farm help—yes, unpaid farm help. Weeds grow from weed seeds. Destroy the weed seed and we could in time get rid of the harmful plant. Insects that feed on farm crops come from the eggs and nits. Also, beetles and butterflies; destroy these early in the season and you have destroyed so many crawlers gaining life and increasing the crop.

How Birds Expand Farm Help.

A meadow lark will eat each day weed seeds and insects in quantity greater than its own body weight. Ten ounces of cutworms or young grasshoppers each day on an acreage is the time it would take the destruction of over 90 pounds in a year. Twenty meadow larks will eat from a ton to a ton of weed seed during the year. A ton of weed seed would produce 2,000 pounds mayseem like destroying a large order, but a little flock of meadow larks will do it. Are such birds worth protecting? If you have a little meadow lark perched beside a hundred pound sack of weed seeds, the gathering of which represented his year's work, don't you think your heart would soften and you would spare the bird's life? The personal man who appreciates a good friend will not injure, nor will he permit any one else to injure the insect and weed destroying birds of our meadow lands.

Robin Is More Fruit Thief.

Is the robin a cherry thief? No, the bird has a keen sight to satisfy his hunger by consuming a few cherries, but the robin's record where he works as an insect destroyer for six months of the year would say in his favor. Cherries, pears, plums and other domestic fruits that robins take are of little value if we sum up less than one-third of their food for that season. Robins feed on insects in the season, from March to October, and during that time they destroy almost the orchard and garden. If it were not for the good work of the robin, many attempts at vegetable production would fail. Vegetable gardens and small fruit plantations are largely at the mercy of the cut-worm. Redbreast a Great Devourer of Cutworms.

The robin is the best cut-worm hunter that we have. His daily capacity for these pests is a good one and there are hungry meallings to feed. It is not less than 200 cut-worms per day. Any bird that will destroy 200 cut-worms must be considered a friend, so when the garden vegetables are getting started is certainly worthy of the respect of all people. The taking of a few cherries or an odd straw berry by the robin is a fair to change the taste in his mouth after consuming so many cut-worms. Be broad-minded, and protect the robin. Give him a share of the harvest—united people will destroy such a useful bird.

Protecting Your Insect Friends.

If every single cherry must be reserved for sale, and robins should be driven from the trees, poisoning or odd fish set or else put up a cherry net, we did nothing but add to the tree. The period of cherry raiding is short, the birds have helped in the wild fruit and will go to the fence rows as soon as they are ripe, leaving the cultivated fruit. Protect the meadow lark, the robin, the bluebird and help protect the robin from people who do not know and who do more than to do a useful servant. The farm birds make life possible for man also—L. Hervemeier, Sec., Dept. of Agriculture, Toronto.

Farm Wife Should Be a Co-Partner.

It is only a successful, willing, thrifty and competent wife that can provide adequately for the needs of the home and keep the social atmosphere of the farm so wholesome and attractive that the husband will be in the family and to such help as may be necessary. One of the shames of farm life is that such services are accepted as a matter of course, and that little, if any, recognition is given the too important place taken by the wife and mother in making the farm financially successful and the home a fit place in which to rear a family. One of the best definitions I have heard of an ideal farm is "A home with a farm business attached." If this view were to be commonly accepted the phase of living on farms would be changed for the better. If now in, and the duties and influence of the home manager would be put on a par with the duties and influence of the farm manager. Then the farm business would become a partnership in fact.

Most Consumption Figures.

The average per head consumption of meat of all kinds, exclusive of poultry and game in Great Britain, was about 120 pounds a year prior to the war. Of this amount three-fifths was home-produced, and two-fifths was imported. Of the overseas supply 70 per cent. of the meat, 17 per cent. of the beef, and 9 per cent. of the pork came from within the Empire—Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa.

SLASHES WAGES TO BRING DOWN CITY EXPENSES

Drastic Action Adopted by Cleveland Mayor

ECONOMY ENFORCED

Would Such Action be Tolerated in Belleville?

A story of adventure in municipal administration which should be of interest to all taxpayers has been collected in Cleveland, during the past year, and is still in progress. The interest centres about the Mayor, Fred Kohler, who had made the "threat" that the year's work will be completed without an overdraft, no matter how this is brought about. Although there are many problems dealt with by the mayor of the American city which do not exist in Belleville, nevertheless, his efforts should provide food for thought for those interested in city business.

Interviewed at Cleveland, Mayor Kohler ex lained how he ran the city within its appropriation. The city arms faced the "threat" that the year should be successful one.

"It's a threat, not a promise," says Kohler. "We don't promise. Politicians promise."

Then Kohler, a humorous glint in his eyes, told how he had made the city a financial success—told how any one can do the same thing.

He told how he had taken office early in 1921 with the city $800,000 in the red. And how, by reporting on New Year's Day this year the city's book showed a surplus of $560,000.

Payroll Cut First.

"We began by trimming the pay roll," Kohler explained. "That was our biggest saving. But we've made almost as large a saving in eliminating the waste in the city supplies. We've cut down pretty near the bone but we can cut even more—and we will.

"It takes nerve. We've found it hard, with both political organizations against us. We've been handy-speaking terms with the council.

"That's because we've fired their party relatives. And every time we took someone off the payroll and didn't replace him, we found we got better service out of the men.

"There used to be so many men or garbage collection that there was only room for half of them to work at a time and scarcely any room for garbage on the wagon.

"You know," he commented, "many people think a city ought to have a good business man for Mayor. But it's not so much his business qualifications that make him a good city executive as his knowledge of his people.

"And in whatever you do, if you want to do it right, you must have one dictate to you. And I don't."

This year is Kohler's last as mayor. Then a stanch Democratic governor ment will place a city manager at its head. But Kohler denies his ethusiasm is a bid for the new job. He'll through, he says.

"But while I'm mayor we're going to keep on living within our income," he repeats. "This year our income will be $300,000 less, because of tax reduction. But that doesn't bother us.

"We've an extensive street repair program before us. We'll open up a new hospital and we're other big things to do. But we won't issue bonds."

SHERIFF EXONERATED

A. R. Foster Paid $594 For Hanging of Benny Swim

Woodstock, N.B., Jan. 22.—A motion commending Sheriff Albino R. Foster for his work in connection with the execution of Dennis Swim and exonerating him from any blame in connection with the hanging of the lamp, was passed by the Carleton County Council.

Sheriff Foster informed the council that some of the councillors had requested him to send in a bill to the county for the execution of Dennis Swim, but he had refused to do this, although the services of two hangmen had not been personally. He also said that he took over the responsibilities of the position of sheriff with the feeling that he would never hang a man, but he felt that it was his duty to pay the cost of any executions which might come within his jurisdiction.

On motion of Councillor Gallagher, seconded by Councillor McDougall, the council thanked the sheriff, complimenting him on the manner in which he handled the gruesome affair and exonerated him from all unjust charges that had been made against him.

WHY DOSEN'T PRINCE OF WALES MARRY?

Because He is Selecting Own Bride—In No Hurry to Settle Down

New York, Jan. 22.—Why doesn't the Prince of Wales marry?

The Dean of Windsor, Rev. Albert Victor Baillie, who advises the British Royal family in matters purely spiritual, smiled before he answered:

"He hasn't found the girl. She has not come along yet."

With that answer goes the age-old theory and long practice, too, that princes married the girls selected for them by their country's statesmen.

"That day is past," said the dean at the home of Arthur Curtiss James, where he is spending a holiday. "Just as the Prince of Wales marries it will be a love match. He has been travelling a great deal and perhaps he is a bit restless and unwilling to settle down as yet."

SIR HENRY THORNTON IS CONFIDENT

Moose Jaw, Sask., Jan 22.—I want to tell you a story that will show you what we are trying to do with the National Railways, said Sir Henry Thornton, President of the Canadian National Railways, speaking at a civic banquet during his recent visit here.

"Is a story of a turtle and a crocodile. It was told by a old gentleman to his grandson, and it is this: A turtle was pursued by a crocodile. The turtle was hurrying along as fast as it could but the crocodile had just opened its mouth to swallow the turtle when the turtle climbed a tree.

"But Grandpa," said the boy, 'a turtle can't climb a tree.'

"You're quite right," the old man replied, "but this turtle had to."

And that's just the position we are in with the National Railways. We have to make them pay. We aren't starting this thing whipped. We are starting it confident that we can make it pay, if you will give us your cooperation and support.

SOCIETY LEADER SAYS IT IS BEST

Declares Tanlac Overcame Stomach Trouble of Years Standing—Only Medicine She Ever Endorsed

Mrs. Mary Hurd, 736 King St. Regina, Sask., prominent of the Parkdale Women's Club and well known in society circles, is among the latest converts of Regina to give a public statement in behalf of Tanlac. She said:

"I have never spoken publicly about a medicine before, but since I have derived such great benefits from Tanlac, it is a pleasure to recommend it. I suffered several years, from stomach trouble, was extremely nervous and had many nights I could not sleep because the gas on my stomach was so bad I would be all filled up with it, and felt like every breath would be my last.

"I took three bottles of Tanlac and all my troubles disappeared. I am now feeling better than I have in years, never have a sign of indigestion, am full of energy and always ready for duties. Tanlac is simply grand."

Tanlac is for sale by all good drug gists.

Over 35-million bottles sold.

NO CLOSE PLAYS.

SAYS NEW UMP.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—In Bill Guthrie, who broke into the American league last fall, the majors have another umpire who insists there are no close plays.

The late Silk O'Loughlin always was a disciple of that theory. With Bill, the runner was either out or safe. There was never such a thing as a close play. If he thought so, he failed to admit it.

Guthrie works along the same line of reasoning as Bill in the matter of close plays. Guthrie's answer to such a query is always the same:

"There are no close plays, they are either 'dis' or 'dat'." With the "dis" he raises his hand to indicate out, with the "dat" he lowers the palms of the hand to indicate safe.

Guthrie, however, does not agree with Bill on the matter of balls and strikes, as did Silk. With Guthrie it is always a question of how many he didn't miss.

TATOOED FIGURE

New York, Jan. 22.—Because he was tired of a brightly tatooed fig ure on his arm, Steve Lopez, a sailor, of Shenandoah, Pa., placed his arm on the Pennsylvania railroad tracks in Newark, Sunday and delibera tives at the city hospital, where he now lies recovering from the result of his act. A lusiness drilling freight cars found Scanlon beside the track with his right arm severed at the elbow. He confessed that the figure of an undraped woman, tatooed in bright colors on his arm, had grown monotonous to him, and he deliberately placed his arm upon the track.

NEW YORK BISHOP ORDERS RECTOR OUT OF CHURCH

Or Correct Impressions Made by Sensational Sermon

DIVINITY OF CHRIST

Questioned by New York Preacher as Well as Biblical Miracles

New York, Jan. 22.—Bishop William T. Manning of the Protestant Episcopal Church last night made public a letter calling on the Rev. Percy Stickney Grant, rector of the Church of the Ascension, "to correct misimpressions" in the sermon which you have publicly given of your disbelief in our Lord Jesus Christ as God and Saviour, or if it is not possible for you to do so, then to withdraw from the ministry of this church."

The utterances of Dr. Grant, which had aroused widespread comment, were made in the course of a sermon last Sunday night.

Called In Statement

Besides questioning the divinity of Christ, Dr. Grant attacked the conception of miracles "as stamped into inherited from the age of witchcraft" and urged that consecrating of church funds be stopped that that prevents them from being used as forums."

No Miracles

Discussing Christ, Dr. Grant said: "Very few clergymen to-day who have been educated in the large universities accept the idea that Jesus had the power of God. He disbelieves did miracles as they were regarded in His day, but, as Dr., Coe points out, many of them are merely acts of suggestion, and would fall under well-known categories clearly and well classified by psychologists today if doctors understands them. They are not miracles."

Dr. Grant could not be reached at his home last night, but Bishop Manning's letter indicated little expectation that the rector would alter or change his position.

Farmers Have to be Shown If Manufactured Cold Storage Plant Better

Popular Bluff. Mo. Jan. 22.—Farmers of Northeastern Arkansas and Southeastern Missouri are utilizing scores of caves in the Ozark Mountains as cold storage plants, with the result that poultry can be in no need of for the storage purposes.

A cave at Zack, Ark., known as the "Spring Cave," because of the cold stream flowing through it, has been fitted with pipes so that the flow of air may be regulated, in part of it that is used for cold storage purposes is more than a quarter of a mile long and 15 feet wide.

Great quantities of fruit were stored in caves during a recent car shortage.

UNAVOIDABLE LOSSES

Flow Farm Land Deteriorates in Necessary Mineral Supplies.

What Case Store Takes From the Land Some Don't Like to Believe It—Must Be Returned or Replaced—Most Trade Balks at Heavy Weights.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

With the exception of nitrogen our agricultural products have failed to find any means by which they could add to nature's supply of plant food in the soil except the addition of minerals rich in fertilizing properties from rich deposits to the cultivated areas. Cultivated lands will gradually lose their mineral elements, particularly phosphorous and potash, through crop production. The extent of all measure made from the crops produced delays the day of exhaustion, but exhaustion will eventually come more quickly by some practices than others it is true, and the man that is content to stock farming while not returning all to the soil can greatly delay the day of reduced fertility and crop yields.

What One Steer Takes From the Land.

Every time a 1,000-pound fat steer is sent to market 18.51 pounds of phosphorous pent oxide, 1.76 pounds of magnesia, 2.41 pounds of calcium gone with him. A one hundred acre farm sending twenty 1,000-pound steers to market every year is sending incorporated in their bodies, principally in the bones, 1,110 pounds of potash, 352.40 pounds of lime, 370.20 pounds of phosphoric acid—the farm did this continuously for one hundred years—some of our Ontario farms lands have been farmed for much longer periods and chemical elements subtracted from the original stock in the soil in such as to greatly reduce the productiveness. The farm from which the steers had been made had been sold at a high price, the fertilizing elements or stock of plant food in the soil would have been for many years sooner.

Many Farmers Don't Like to Believe It.

Many of our farmers do not like to think that the fertility of their land is running down, and will argue that because their crops appear wonderfully develop a state of mind which prevents them from returning to the soil sufficient mineral elements to maintain the necessary balance in soil fertility that insures crop yields equal to the yields of virgin soils or virgin soils. On certain good farms in southern Ontario with which I am familiar I know that the loss in soil fertility mining, during the past thirty-seven years has, under the generally accepted good management, the approximately as follows per acre: Phosphorous removed, 463 pounds; potassium removed, 1,491 pounds; calcium removed, 1,059 pounds; of these amounts only fifty per cent. was returned in the manure through agricultural applications. The unreturned aggregate 1,454 pounds of phosphorous, 1,245.5 pounds of potassium and 529.5 pounds of calcium represents approximately what each acre of the land has lost. Is it any wonder, then, that the crop yields have been greatly reduced in many of the older sections of the province?

These Losses Must Be Replaced.

To bring the old soil back to maximum production one of the things we must do is to replace in quantity the crop demands, the potash, phosphorous and lime. These elements are essential, and must be present in available condition and in quantity. The best farmed soils will gradually lose fertility if something is not done to replace the rejection of the mineral elements removed in crops and sold off the farm either as grain, beef or milk.—L. Stevenson, Toronto.

Most Trade Balks at Heavy Weights.

"The day of the heavy steer which is passed," says E. F. Farrin of the animal husbandry division of the University of Minnesota in referring to the tendency toward lighter weights. Yearlings weighing 900 to 1,100 pounds, while heavy enough to meet the desired kind, and more recently 650 to 800 pound weights are in strong demand.

"A three dollar spread between prices for butter fat and beef makes heavy cows frequently prevailed on the local and foreign market last summer. No one can escape the verdict that the quality of beef and the price of common use of vegetable oils and compounds.

"Of course a reasonable degree of finish is necessary to meet the call in case of meat tender and juicy. Thin steers always have been and will make unpalatable tough meat. But it is a mistake to market nondescript cattle or those that are not in condition because the consuming public does not want that kind of goods."

An egg is 65.7 per cent. water. You cannot expect your pullets to lay unless they have an unlimited supply of clean, fresh water at all times. Always keep the hoppers full of grit, oyster shells and charcoal.

THIS MAN HIS OWN LAWYER

He is Allowed New Trial as an Indulgence

Toronto, January, 22.—"This is a very perplexing case," remarked Mr. Justice Riddell, writing the judgment of the Appellate Division where by John Berry is allowed, as an indulgence, a new trial of his $50,000 claim against the city of Toronto. Berry alleges that the city has appropriated an invention of his for the purification of water, without allowing him recompense.

"Practically all the difficulties," continues His Lordship, "have arisen from the fact that the plaintiff has chosen to conduct his own case. There can be no doubt that it is the right of every litigant to conduct his own litigation, even though being his own lawyer has the proverbial result. But in all but the simplest cases such a course is apt to lead to disappointment and often to disaster. 2.23-1td

SWEDEN BUILDS ROADS TO HELP UNEMPLOYED

(By Canadian Press)

Stockholm, Jan. 22.—Six hundred miles of highway were constructed in Sweden during 1922 by men who otherwise would have been without employment. The Government allotted funds to this end, and the work was done in large measure near the centres of unemployment. It was discontinued when employment in the district began to pick up.

It is predicted that the number of unemployed will be of help in the work during the first half of 1923 will be only about 24,000, and that by 1924 this number can be reduced to 6,000.

Council Votes Not to Accept Ald. McCreary's Resignation

Mayor Bennett Casts Deciding Vote, Breaking Deadlock—Alderman Submits Letter to Council Regarding His Attitude

As intimated a few days ago through the press Ald. McCreary last night carried out his intention of resigning from the Council as a protest against the members of that body in regard to the disposition of the chairmanships. In a letter of considerable length and couched in language somewhat strong, Ald. McCreary tendered to the City Clerk his resignation.

Ald. Robinson moved, seconded by Ald. Thompson, that the resignation of Ald. McCreary be accepted.

Ald. Robinson in supporting the motion said that there was another man to take Ald. McCreary's place. He said Ald. McCreary had caused much trouble at the meeting.

Ald. Thompson—We have heard enough of Ald. McCreary.

Ald. Donohoe said he was sorry that Ald. McCreary was leaving the Council as he was a valuable member.

Ald. Foster regretted Ald. Mc Creary was resigning and thought he was taking the wrong step.

Ald. Paterson was sorry to see Ald. McCreary take the stand he had taken and would like him to reconsider the matter.

Mayor Bennett in addressing Ald. McCreary said he would like him to remain in the Council.

Ald. Foster moved in amendment that the resignation be not now accepted but referred to Committee for consideration.

Upon a vote being taken 6 voted to accept the resignation and 5 against. Mayor Bennett voted not to accept the resignation and declared the motion to accept the resignation was negatived on a tie vote.

The vote was as follows:

For the resignation—French Thompson, Adams, Lynch, Ketchabaw and Robinson—6.

Against—Foster, Paterson, Donohoe, Treverton, Greenleaf, Mayor Bennett—6.

The woman's right side is partially paralyzed, and she is unable to talk, but she is possessed of a magnificent physique and is fighting a courageous battle for life.

Ratepayers' Association Memorialize City Council

Present List of Proposals For Civic Consideration

Investigation Promised

Many Important Matters For Discussion of City Council and Subsequent Aproval

Mr. W. C. Mikel, K.C., addressed the City Council last night relative to the Property Owners' Association of the city. The Association had adopted the following resolution which it desired the Council to consider and adopt if they were in favor of them:

1. Exact every effort to have Belleville selected for the U.E. Loyalist Celebration in 1924.

2. Exert every effort to have Belleville selected for the Head Offices of the Canadian National Railways.

3. In view of the fact that Canada is not doing the immigration already coming and work is not plentiful, the have should not be let down to immigrants who cannot take care of themselves, and money should not be spent to bring them here or set them up after coming here unless this will disorganize labor conditions, and impose burdens upon the taxpayer for the maintenance of such immigrants.

4. That all pavements be built by our own labor instead of by outside contractors with suitable labor.

5. The Station Street Pavement should not be built this coming season.

6. That in future where sewers and underground services are being constructed they should be constructed more possible at the rear of dwellings instead of on the public highways so that it would not be necessary to tear up pavements wherever working at underground services.

7. That the Fire Insurance rates in Belleville are too high and form an unjust tax on the property owners, and that steps be taken to compel a reduction.

8. That new industries starting, and existing industries in adverse conditions, be encouraged and helped, by that no fixed assessment be granted by the Council unless where it is clear that by reason of the fixed assessment the City is getting some direct benefit compensating the taxpayers for the loss in assessment.

9. That direct persistent effort be made to secure for Belleville some of the industries crowded out of the United States and Europe, to Canada that have capital and experience sufficient for success.

10. That the assessment be made the previous Fall for the coming year and the taxes be divided into three instalments.

11. That the Nominations be held the last Monday in November and the Elections the first Monday of December.

Mr. Mikel spoke against the present high rate of fire insurance in the city and expressed upon the necessity to do all in their power to have the rates reduced 25 per cent. This request can be made to the underwriters Association and if a reduction is not made that a meeting be held in Belleville of representatives from various municipalities, to fight this matter and see if we cannot get relief. Mr. Mikel also spoke in reference to the city providing a suitable hall for the Boy Scouts of the city. They cannot obtain any adequate accommodation. The boys are desirous of having some place where they can meet to improve themselves in the present week. He asked the Council to look upon this request in a most favorable light.

Mayor Bennett Hanna referred to the fact that it was necessary to consider the boys and see if something can be done to house the Scouts.

Ex-Mayor Panter spoke in reference to the high rate of fire insurance, and it was necessary to give this matter an early and fair start. The property owners desired in work in co-operation with the Council.

Mayor Bennett, thanked the speakers and said the Council would consider the resolutions presented.

Splendid Musical Concert Last Night

H. Czaplinski and R. Stewart Delightfully Entertain Representative Audience

PRESTO MUSIC CLUB

Belleville Music Lovers Enjoy a Splendid Program at City Hall Auditorium

The music loving people of Belleville are deeply indebted to the Presto Musical Club for the delightful concert given last evening under their auspices in the City Hall. The recital proved to be of exceptionally high order and both performers Henri Czaplinski, Violinist, and Reginald Stewart, Pianist proved to be artists in the highest sense of the word. They rendered a most difficult and varied programme delightfully and were indeed generous in responding to the vociferous encores demanded.

The representative audience which was of fairly good proportion, demonstrated by its silence throughout the rendition of the numbers, its keen appreciation of the artist's efforts. Both gentlemen were entirely devoid of mannerisms and exemplified an extremely comfortable and easy platform appearance. Their natural versatility of their talents was demonstrated by the sharing of the many different melodies of the classical numbers, and it is just such selections which are rich in romance that appeal strongly to modern imagination.

The two artists seemed to be perfectly accustomed to each other and it would be difficult to discriminate or to criticise their efforts last night as both performed so well chosen, from selections of unconventional, yet of sustained interest which were presented with an elegance of style and a faultlessness of expression and tone.

The stage setting was tastefully and artistically arranged with flowers and the general effect was reticent and it is to be hoped that their future efforts will attain such achievements as last night's affair.

CITY COUNCIL HOLDS EXTRAORDINARY SESSION LAST EVENING

Resignation of Ald. McCreary Not Accepted—Mayor Negatives Document on Tie Vote—Insurance Question Settled—Turbulent Session With Plethora of Chat

A CHAOTIC MEETING

Two Hours' Work in Four Hours' Time—Many Motions Referred to Committees—Safe Will be Purchased—Curtains on Restaurant Stalls—Grants Requested—Building Plans Must Now be Submitted to City Engineer—Market Tenders

The Council Chamber in the city building was last night filled to overflowing with spectators who gathered to hear the proceedings of the City Council as it was anticipated that there would be a display of fireworks and in this respect none were disappointed. It took the council over four hours to transact business which could normally have been completed with in two hours. From start to finish it was a wrangle and a tie up of civic business owing to the attitude of some of the members. A number present expected that Ald. McCreary would carry out his intention of resigning from the Council and he did so, but according to the ruling of the Mayor the motion to accept the resignation was negatived on a tie vote. There were twelve Aldermen present when after the midnight hour Ald. McCreary read a letter tendering his resignation. Upon a vote being taken to accept the resignation six voted for it and five against. Ald. McCreary did not vote. Mayor Bennett refused to refer the resignation to committee making it a tie and he declared that the resignation had not been accepted and negatived. Under this ruling Ald. McCreary is still a member of the Council. Another matter which was discussed pro and con for a couple of hours was the recommendation relative to the accident insurance for the city. It was finally decided to give it to Mr. H. F. Ketchaben in a non tariff company at a premium of $3,150 for the year.

Members present were Mayor Bennett, Aldermen French, Thompson, Adams, Lynch, Donohoe, Ketchabaw, Robinson, Greenleaf, Treverton, Foster and Paterson. Mayor Bennett.

Before the reading of the minutes Mayor Bennett stated that he would enforce the provisions of the relative to members of the Council not speaking to matters more than the required number of times. He hoped the members would be governed accordingly.

After some deputations had been heard and which requests had upon the table the Council went into Committee of the whole on reports etc. Ald. Thompson in the chair.

A number of accounts recommended to be paid by the various committees were passed. Also the following recommendations.

The recommendation to cancel the agreement with the Heston agency caused some discussion.

Ald. Donohoe said that the recommendation be referred back to committee for further consideration.

Ald. Greenleaf, Ald. Adams, Ald. Donohoe and Ald. Treverton spoke in support of the recommendation.

In answer to an enquiry the City Clerk said the contract with the Heston agency did not expire until the 10th of March.

Upon a vote being taken the recommendation was carried, the amendment to refer it back being lost.

SAFE REQUIRED.

A recommendation was presented that a safe be procured from the City Clerk to keep valuable papers in.

Mayor Bennett thought a safe can be procured for $200 and it is a bargain as the safe is worth much more money. The Clerk and other officials needed a place to file important papers.

Ald. McCreary asked if the safe was fire proof.

Ald. Greenleaf—The safe in question is an excellent boy at the price named The recommendation was adopted.

A motion prevailed that the City Hall be granted free for a concert to

Ald. Patterson Claims He Was Side-Tracked

Says Council Caucus Granted Him no Opportunity of Refusing a Chairmanship —Matter Discussed and Closed

During the Council proceedings last night the question of the disposal of chairmanships was brought up and caused some discussion.

Under the Order of Inquiries Ald. Patterson spoke as follows: I would like to ask the Mayor and Council the reason that I have been shut out of my chairmanship for the year 1923. I might say that on the night of the inauguration of the 1923 Council I happened to be called out of town. It made it a point to see the Mayor personally and three Aldermen, and explained to them that I would like to have the same Chairmanship which I held in 1922, But to my surprise on my return I found that such a not the case. Now I would like to know plain to the electors that it was not my doings that I have not a room in the 1923 council, as I did not have a chance to refuse, but it apparently looks to me that the 1923 Council have decided that I was not capable of handling the City's business, although last year, in my Department, we had the most successful year that Belleville ever had. I think I am entitled to some explanation.

Mayor Bennett—There was no desire to shut Ald. Patterson out of chairmanship but some of the Aldermen had stated that he, Ald. Patterson, would be out of the city part of the time during the year.

Ald. Patterson—It was unfair in my opinion.

After some further discussion the matter was dropped.

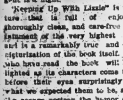
MUSIC and DRAMA

ZANE GREY'S "THE MAN OF THE FOREST" PROVES SPLENDID SCREEN ENTERTAINMENT

All the elements which made the marvelous Zane Grey short-stories the "mysterious Rider," so popular are embodied in the newest Zane Grey picturization "The Man of the Forest," which was exhibited at Griffith's last night. There is romance and adventure, humor, drama and suspense. And the entire production is mounted with the infinite attention to detail which Benj. B. Hampton knows so well how to bestow. The cast, too, is an added fact in favor of the photoplay, for it is made up of some of the most popular players of the screen, including Clah Adams, Robert Ellis, Carl Gantvoort, Jean Hersholt and Frank Hayes.

"Last, but not least are the animals stars of "Wolf Dale," which are owned and managed by Charles Murphy. For the first time in history the mountain lion, hitherto considered unmanageable, really acts a part of the screen drama, as a big grizzly and a dog, both accomplished natural actors, who will amaze you with their intelligence.

A highly amusing Larry Semon comedy titled, "Home Sweet Home" "The Devil's Pool" a very interesting Sherlock Holmes detective story and a Travelogue were also exhibited.



The entire program is being repeat ed again tonight for the last time "The Girl in Red" holding the board Wednesday night.

ENID BENNETT IN CLEVER COMEDY-DRAMA AT REGENT

Irving Bachelier's delightful comedy-drama "Keeping up with Lizzie," was the feature offering at the Regent last night.

"Keeping Up With Lizzie" is a picture that is full of human interest, thoroughly clean, and care-free entertainment of the very highest order, and is remarkably true and clever in its portrayal of the book. Those who have read the book will be delighted as its characters come to life before their eyes surprisingly like what we expected them to be, and as the scenes portray the humor of the

WOMEN FROM FORTY TO FIFTY

Will Be Interested in Mrs. Thompson's Recovery by Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Winnipeg, Man.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me good in every way. I was very weak and run-down and had terrible troubles that women of my age are likely to have. I had taken Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food and other tonics without any benefit to me, but after taking your Compound a few months I felt like a new woman. I recommend it to my friends and to any one I know who is not feeling well."—Mrs. Thompson, 203 Austin St., Winnipeg, Man.

When women who are between the ages of forty and fifty-five are beset with such annoying symptoms as nervousness, irritability, hot flashes and heat flashes, which produce headaches, dizziness, a sense of suffocation, they should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is especially adapted to help women through this crisis. It is prepared from roots and herbs and contains no harmful drugs or narcotics.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from roots and herbs, has for forty years proved its value in such cases. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful effects of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Women who suffer should write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for free copy of Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women."

story in a way that makes it more deliciously gratifying than ever. One follows the doings of Lizzie with real attention and expectancy, all the way from Pointview to finishing school in the east, abroad, and back home again. Then she could, where her old sweetheart, Dan, makes a strong come-back much to the disgust of the effete educated suitors from abroad. And of course it wouldn't be an Irving Bachelier story, if it did not end up the way that every body expected. There's a rare treat, with a good many laughs in store for those who haven't seen the picture.

An amusing Torchy comedy called, "Dangerous Torchy," Fox News, and a new chapter of the adventure play "Breaking Through" co-starring Carmel Meyers and Wallace MacDonald were exhibited during the evening.

ENTRUST SETTLERS TO SOLDIER'S BOARD

Professor's Advice for Placing of Immigrants—Wants People Who Are Valuable to Old Country

"Pitch the Appeal High"

Lord Byng, Hon. A. Meighen and Hon. C. A. Stewart Interested Listeners to Address

Ottawa, January 23.—That there would be definite economy in such a board as the Soldier's Settlement Board taking over the care of the handling and distributing the immigration from the Old Country, and that any improved organization would have to live through and solve many of the problems which have been practically solved by that Board in the West, were some of the contentions of Professor C. R. Fay, M.A.D.Sc., of Toronto University, in an interesting address to the members of the Canadian Club of Ottawa in the Chateau Laurier here.

The professor spoke on lessons of soldier settlements in the Canadian West, and he said very high tribute especially to the field service and supervisors of the board in their handling of the special problems which have faced the soldier settlers. The professor strongly deprecated the fact that only those here on farms were likely to make good as farmer in the West, and declared that no sort of selection of the assisted settlers from abroad. And of course it would-n't be an Irving Bachelier story, if it did not end up the way that every body expected. There's a rare treat, with a good many laughs in store for those who haven't seen the picture.

An amusing Torchy comedy called, "Dangerous Torchy," Fox News, and a new chapter of the adventure play "Breaking Through" co-starring Carmel Meyers and Wallace MacDonald were exhibited during the evening.

Thought it a mistake to hold out attractions only to such as farmers and agricultural laborers and domestic servants, and to split families when they got here. "We want to tal from the Old Country people as valuable to the Old Country," he declared.

The professor demanded of his hearers, if he related the story of Alexander Selkirk to a company of boys and told them of his sojourn there at the close asked how many of the boys would like to go out to Canada as an agricultural laborer, who response would there be likely?

"Pitch the appeal high," was h advice, for Canada and the great Canadian West deserves a high appeal, I said.

Lord Byng, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen and Hon. C. A. Stewar Minister of Immigration in the federal Government, were among the interested listeners to the address.

Alcohol Drained From Vats Containing Dead Bodies

Bootlegegrs Made Up 2,000 Quarts of Scotch From Preserving Fluid Stolen During Raid on Medical College

Back in the old days, ere whiskey was made largely an illicit beverage there used to be certain articles popularly referred to as embalming fluid." Such was said by experts to be a neutral stuff, producing a condition in the consumer closely akin to that in which the fluid named is employed.

But they are going even that stuff one better nowadays, for two weeks ago entrance was effected into the dissecting room of a medical college in Atlanta, Ga., and 200 gallons of grain alcohol drained off corpses therein preserved for experimental purposes.

The prohibition agents there say there is no doubt but what the stolen alcohol was manufactured into "bootleg" and marketed in Atlanta. Labels and caps used in disguising the alcohol as "bottled in bond, Highland Queen," are in the hands of the government men, who estimate that approximately 2,000 quarts of what would look like genuine smuggled goods could have been made from the amount of alcohol stolen.

Federal men say the bootlegger, with the aid of labels, government revenue stamps and caps could transform the stolen preservative so that only an expert could detect that it was not genuine "Scotch."

According to the agents, investigation so far has revealed that the bootleggers took the alcohol and mixed it with coloring matter, flavored to imitate the brand desired upon, and added water; then the product was bottled.

The product, it is said, was marketed in empty bottles which had formerly contained the genuine article. Supplies of counterfeit revenue stamps and labels are known to be available to dealers in illicit liquors, and the evidence being collected in this case by the federal agents leads to the conclusion that numerous persons were completely deceived by the clever imitations.

INTERESTING DECISION ON INSURANCE BENEFIT

Claim on Policy on Loan Stands—Winnipeg Man Failed to Re-Appportion Benefits of His Insurance.

A decision in an insurance claim in which the insured tried and failed to reapportion his insurance has recently been handed down by the Court of King's Bench, Winnipeg. The decision is important inasmuch as it deals with a new phase of legal disputes arising out of insurance and holds a lesson for insurance buyers and sellers.

R. H. Henderson, Winnipeg, carried considerable life insurance. His wife was the beneficiary, not in her status as wife but as security for sums of money which she had advanced to her husband. She paid the insurance premiums.

Before his death the husband endeavored to reapportion the benefit to the end that his daughter by a previous marriage, Maud Stafford, would receive $2,000 on his death.

The court's ruling was that the wife was a beneficiary of value. Also as a pledgee or equitable mortgagee of all moneys payable under the policy, including the $2,000 in dispute, in payment of the moneys which she had advanced.

BELLEVILLE INTERMEDIATES WIN FROM QUEEN'S SPEEDY SEXTETTE

Large Crowd of Enthusiastic Fans See Kingston Presbyterians Receive 3-1 Trimming at the Local Arena, Last Night—Local Intermediates Will Take Some Beating, and Are Now Leading Group No. 1. With Cornwall in Second Place

As a result of last night's games, the local Intermediates are leading group number one of the O.H.A.; while Cornwall are trailing a close second. Belleville backed Queen's into their end of the local ice sheet and held them there for the greater part of the sixty-minutes last night, while Prontenacs trimmed the highly-touted Cornwall squad in the Lock-Jaw Arena last night also. Kingston's win was all to the mustard as far as Belleville is concerned, as from all appearances the race has narrowed down between Cornwall and the red and white.

Queen's came here with a rejuvenated team from the one which played Belleville last Monday in the Limestone City. Quinn was nap between the flags last evening. He was replaced by Brown, sub-goaler of the Intercollegiate squad; Smith was also missing. Despite this fact, the Tricolour sent up a formidable team, and fought until the last gong had been sounded. Belleville kept the play in the Presbyterians' end, but lady luck and good keeping by Brown intervened, and decided that Belleville were destined to be limited to a trio of counters.

Penalties were few and far between, although the game was no plum-tree affair. Referee Cumming refused to halt the play for tripping and some slashing, although there was not enough or either occurred to call it a rough exhibition. Plenty of good old body-checking was handed out, and this had a tendency to slow up some of the boys to a certain extent. Both teams resorted to plenty of combination work and most of the goals were scored either directly or indirectly from this style of play. As in Kingston, many a perfect pass was intercepted by some opposing forward and the latter picked up the loose puck and raced down with only the defence to beat. The goaltenders also had shot after shot on them but the latter generally managed to get in front of it with either stick, body or hands. Many of the shots were wide and none were on a direct line with the boby. Bunny Frechette pasted the disc at the visitors citadel from every angle and was finally rewarded with a goal. The pace began to tell on the athletics as well as the locals. Belleville have a well-conditioned outfit and need not worry about the wind of the team. Jack Marks believes in this, above all sper reqiriements. The Queen's management will rely on the six-man defence policy, and one notes that the players scamper back to their positions after attempting a rush, or losing the puck. Very close-checking featured the battle and certain a player was deemed to circle two or three times before an opening could be found. When Queen's scored the first, the team began to ponder but "Teeter" came back with the equalizer and from then on the Belleville nets were seldom given a chance to score. Whenever one of the college players would get away, there always found Belleville's stone-wall defence a mean obstacle in their path and practically impregnable. Brown, the Queen's goalie was kept busy during the first few minutes but after that it was rather easy sailing and Brown's rubber was also given a chance to rest. Lee boy turned down aside with ease. The Queen's players were not able to sweep in Belleville territory with their own ice palace, but at the some time they came down now and then for the odd rush. The harber-pole in the homesters are now known, have a stone-wall defence in "Bouncer" and "Teeter" Holway. Both are rangy boys who use their weight at every possible opportunity. "Teeter" is improving by leaps and bounds and is due for a brilliant season. His rushes are always dangerous. He scored twice last night, both being pretty goals. Bouncer is probably more useful at defensive than offensive duties. When they hit him they stop with a jolt.

Malloy's pretty stick-handling was a shining light. Ray is a neat all-round player, his passing is accurate and he generally manages to pick the puck from his opponents stick.

The forwards fed "Bunny" Frechette throughout, owing to his deadly marksmanship he is relied upon to score a goal or two and he did not fail to accomplish this last last night. Bunny kept up the steady bombardment until Brown let one go by. It was scored from a rebound off the goalie's pads.

Frank Goyer worked like a trojan and turned in an excellent performance. He keeps a watchful eye on his opponents and seldom does the latter get a chance to score.

Weir is the same old back-checker as of old. Vern was injured but after a short rest returned to the ice. He too kept up a steady bombardment and was very effective. He had his back-and shot working to perfection. He missed a wide-open net by inches and deserved a goal for same.

Hagerman's work was an added feature. He is like a bee busing about keeping his wing on the man. Stan kept Lindsay well in tow and seldom did the latter get a chance to tally.

Brown in goal for Queen's paved a stellar game. His work at all stages was remarkable. He was rather lucky at times. Rickie was another outstanding player. He was, however, closely watched to be at all effective. He bears the brunt of battle on defence. Hansen scored the visitors lone tally.

Lindsay at centre is the pivot of the Victorior attack. He too, was bot-tled up very closely.

A fairy large crowd went home pleased at the result and are now confident that the locals will take a lot of beating. They need Friday night's game with Cornwall to obtain a good lead in the race.

FIRST PERIOD

Play opened fast with Queen's combining nicely. Cummings was watching them closely and allowed nothing to get by. Brown saved nicely. A minute later Crooks was called upon and turned it aside. Play slowed up a bit. Bunny peppered Brown but the goalie got them all. Hansen scored the initial goal off Crooks' pads. Doc Mallen after going thru alone hit the boards. Teeter batted one in when Brown was on his knees and pandemonium broke loose. Sour and Hagerman subbed. Mallen, Frechette and Weir shot wide. Period ending one all.

SECOND PERIOD

Mallen nearly scored but the disk hit Brown. Brown was warned for throwing it. In a scramble Queen's citadel had a close shave. Bunny Frechette scored a beautiful goal on a rebound from Weir's shot. The locals kept Brown busy. Play was very fast. Brown sprawled plenty with a hard body-check. George Stewart replaced Hansen. "Teeter" Holway scored number three when he faked a pass and shot. The barber-poles were checking the Tricolor into oblivion. Bung got the gate for boarding. Brown made a nice stop of Hagerman's shot. Queen's were beginning to feel the pace and sent on subs. Queen's forwards were passing the puck nicely but Lee was there to get them all. Brown also picked them off from all angles.

THIRD PERIOD

Play opened with Queen's playing hard. Bunny got the gate for it. Weir had one dead-on but Brown saved. Weir passed in front but scored. Bunny nearly pocked Brown in the dome with a hot one. Hagerman subbed Mallen. Bunny kept up the bombardment but couldn't score. Brown went down to save one. Very close on an open net by inches and was injured when he came in contact with Ritchie. Mallen came on in Weir's place. Crooks went to his knees to make a lovely stop. Pinkie was benched for holding Soup. Crooks took one in the shoulder. Queen's made a few rabbs but with no results. Ritchie went down when he got Bouncer. Hagerman went off when Cummings made a mistake in sending time instead of Bouncer. Time ending with Queen's trailing on a 3 to 1 count.

The line-up was as follows.

BOWMANVILLE ARE EASY WINNERS

Bowmanville, Jan. 23.—Bowmanville all the way in an intermediate O. H. A game with Cobourg here to-night and won in no uncertain manner by 21 to 5. Avery scored the first for the winners by taking the puck through the entire Cobourg team. Miles scored scored two more for the home team in the same period. Cobourg came out strong in the second period and rushed in two in succession. Avery counted once, and Cobourg came back with their final score. Bowmanville's forward line and Piper scored off the goalie's stick. Mills netted two, the result of good combination.

TERRIERS LOSE THEIR LAST CHANCE

Preston, Jan. 22.—The Preston intermediates buiplayed the Terriers of Galt in a Big Four game here tonight, the team winning by 8 to 2. The home team displayed a reversal of form since their game at Galt, and in tonight's game had the best of the game throughout. In the first and second periods the home team had much the better of the play, and, with a two-goal lead, they played a defensive game in the last. When the Galt team was finding the play, and the defence was playing at centre ice, Arnott broke through, and on a lone rush, making for the goal, got. The Galt team changed their attack every period, but they were doomed to defeat, and their attacks were fruitless.

ROTARIANS AS SHOWMEN

That the Rotarian Minstrel show will go ahead strong, is a certainty according to rumors of the re sult of the meeting of the committee in charge of the negotiations, which was held at Hotel Quinte on Monday afternoon, after the regular weekly luncheon. Already it is said that the rehearsals are on the stir and many have been selected, so that looks like real business along the minstrel show lines.

EXCITEMENT AT THIS HOCKEY GAME

Soo Greyhounds Leave Ice as Result of Dispute and Lose Game and Group Title to Sudbury

Sudbury, Jan. 22.—The Sudbury Wolves tonight won the scheduled O.H.A. senior Southern - group fixture with the Soo Greyhounds 1-0 by default, when George MacNamara marched in Harmon and White signed off the ice at the Palace Rink when Referee McCord refused to allow a disputed goal in the last three minutes of play. It was a sensational and surprising finish to one of the greatest games ever staged in Sudbury, and fandom from one end of the North Country to the other is now buzzing with excitement over the result.

From the time "Shorty" Green battled the entire four line by a beautiful lone rush from his defence position, brought "Pat" Walsh to his knees and poked in the disc on the rebound from his own close drive, it was a see-saw, battle between two great teams. Sudbury had scored on each desperately anxious to win what was regarded as the crucial game of the season, the last period Sudbury drew the Soo out by shooting the puck down the ice, feeding their defence, and then checking their rushes, until in the last five minutes the Greyhounds were at the point of exhaustion.

It was after Walsh had been bombarded constantly for some time that Harmon got away and shot from outside the Sudbury defence, his high drive striking ironmens on the shoulder, rebounding to the goal-post and bouncing over the net. Goal Umpire Emil Hittman disallowed it, and Referee McCord, of Toronto, who was right in front of the play, also refused to allow it. George MacNamara, coach of the Greyhounds, came out on the ice, and for a while a riot threatened, "Pat" Walsh, the Sault goalkeeper, took a crack at the goal umpire, and MacNamara is alleged to have threatened "Shorty" Green in the general melee. Excitement ran high, and the crowd was in an uproar. Finally MacNamara beckoned to his team and they left the ice. The referee and the Sudbury team waited out the required time, and the points were declared winners.

GIBBONS FORFEIT RETURNED

New York Boxing Commission Consider St. Paul Fighter Too Light for Dempsey

New York, January 22.—The New York match sought by Tom Gibbons, St. Paul boxer, with Jack Dempsey, has been thrown into discard by William Muldoon, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission. Gibbons' challenge which was accompanied by a $2,500 certified check, has been declined, Muldoon said, because Gibbons is too small for Dempsey and he thinks he can find enough to keep him busy in the light heavyweight class. A match between Dempsey and Gibbons would involve a repetition of the affair between Dempsey and Carpentier, said Muldoon.

Kane has been notified to call for the certified cheque.

JOHNSON STILL HAS A CONSIDERABLE DISTANCE TO GO

By pasting the venerable, much over-touted and greatly over-rated "Knockout" Bill Brennan the other night, young Floyd Johnston added somewhat to his prestige, but by no means made himself a contender for Dempsey, as some flattering press notices might lead one to believe.

Johnson did not beat much when he took Brennan into camp. Old Bill never was of much account, and according to reports, he was on Friday night at his best and simpleton. There was not a muscle in sight on his flabby body, and the flesh hung over the edge of his fighting trunks in folds, says one writer, who evidently refused to be dazzled.

Previous to the Brennan affair Johnston's one professional achievement of note was his defeat of Jack Martin—but since his last automobile injury Martin had been easy for third raters. Martin was a physical wreck when Johnston beat him.

Johnson's one foe since meeting Martin was a four-rate unknown, at Syracuse, New York. Johnson knocked out his party in three rounds, when, according to reports, it should have taken him three seconds.

That's not much of a record to pit against John Dempsey's wallop.

Berlin, Jan. 23.—Since this morning sixty-five thousand employees of the Stinnes works and one hundred thousand of the Thyssen works in the Ruhr region have been on strike according to Reuter's today.

LONDON PLAYER IS BANISHED

Tillsonburg, Jan. 23.—In an intermediate O. H. A. fixture here this evening the Pan Brieds ran away from the much touted London six and defeated them by a score of 7 to 2, the final period being a burlesque. The locals did not have to extend themselves at any time through the game. Just four minutes after play started Arthurs, the captain of the London six, was banished for the entire period of the game. Drawing a one-minute penalty for tripping he returned to leave the ice and the penalty was raised to 3 minutes and he still refused to go to the penalty box. Referee Sandercock started towards him to escort him, when without any reason whatever he hit the referee in the face and immediately the huge crowd was on their feet and Arthurs had to be taken off by Chief of Police Creighton, and the referee has recommended in his report to the O. H. A. officials that Arthurs be extended further playing in the O. H. A.

ONTARIO'S PARLIAMENT CONVENES

To-day at Toronto, the Legislature of the Province of Ontario, with all the traditional ceremonies incident to the event, opens to discuss the business of the people.

Such a good old stabilized institution as the Provincial Assembly convenes, sometimes and prorogues with customary regularity and the events which will transpire will be watched with interest.

It is a fact that the business of government is no child's play and many perplexing problems will come before the House to be dealt with.

It is to be hoped that the threshing floor at Queen's Park will produce more than chaff from the grain, but viewed from a distance it looks as if the backwash from the Drury seas of the past four years may become a flood that will leave very serious consequences. With candidness and altruism the present administration has taken many steps in the belief of its righteousness, but time will tell if such were entirely prudent.

The people of the Province of Ontario can take no lot or part in a policy they deem unwise, and although it may be too soon yet to be definitive in this regard, it is dangerously possible and somewhat obvious that someone is going to become engulfed in the undertow.

The Asquithian "wait and see" policy appears to be very timely advice to provincial electors just now.

CHURCH UNION

Judging from opinions expressed at a recent conference at Montreal of those of the Presbyterian faith assembled together to discuss church union, the good old staid Scotch principle of predestination is not by any means dormant. Clergymen and laymen both masculine and feminine, emphatically aired their views and there why union should not be consummated and have substantiated each argument without apparent bigotry and with considerable soundness of thought and reason.

It is unanimously agreed by these oppositionists that nothing should be done to imperil the unity, strength and existence of their church by contra argument, that might be misconstrued, and yet with some severity and decisiveness, it is agreed that the dismemberment of their church must not take place by the passing of what is termed an "iniquitous bill".

The whole difficulty seems to be, that the people in the West, owing to economic conditions such as sparsely settled parishes covering large areas, the fact that union is thought to be necessary to provide adequate religious facilities for incoming crowds of immigrants and other reasons, desire a sort of co-operative church, in common with the much preached common place co-operative ideas of many business organizations of to-day, while the East is quite satisfied and content with conditions prevailing here at present.

In the circumstances, to the layman, it would appear that there is a danger of cleavage between the East and West and this prospective situation should be viewed with a good deal of apprehension, inasmuch as there never was a time which Canada should be more united than to-day.

This sign of cleavage is already manifest in the political and economic situation as is amply demonstrated in our keen controversies relative to the tariff and problems of commerce.

The Eastern church of all denominations has for many years supported its Western charges financially and otherwise with their manhood and womanhood and the withdrawal of such pillars of support which would doubtless ensue if cleavage resulted, would be a most serious calamity, not only in the church, but in our national life.

Sympathetic consideration should be given to this all important matter and co-ordinated effort should be put forth to see that the unity and progress of our Country is not disturbed in any way.

It is a tremendous question indeed and furnishes a good deal of food for thought, but in the meantime all factions comprising the pros and cons in the matter should resort to careful vision and heed the danger signals ahead.

PASSING COMMENT

Reduction of taxation is all the rage in official civic circles, and the local government might do worse than make it equally prominent in national affairs as a motive of action.

Another reason why a church service is more popular in a small town is because there is nothing else to justify dressing up.

Every once in a while the post office clerks catch up with their work and give their attention to the special delivery letters.

Great man is Professor McLennan of Toronto university, who has succeeded in liquifying helium. But we doubt if he could name half a dozen movie stars or hockey aces.

As a last resort, the German government may have France bound over to keep the peace.

Naturally, those Scotch curlers who are visiting Canada felt like lingering longest in Quebec.

Noah stepped out of the Ark and looked about. "Well, thank goodness," said he, "the war debts are wiped out."

It would be interesting to know how much of the pious feeling people have on Sunday morning as a result of the Saturday night before.

HERE AND THERE

MAURETANIA'S RECORD

No steamship ever launched can claim so magnificent a record of service as the British liner "Mauretania." As a passenger ship she has steamed 850,000 miles and carried nearly 400,000 passengers. Including her voyages during the war, she has travelled over one million miles. Moreover, she holds all the speed records and has further achieved the remarkable feat of maintaining an average of 23¼ knots on twenty-seven consecutive runs across the Atlantic. Even more striking is the fact that on three recent successive voyages the times taken for the Atlantic crossing differed by less than five minutes.

THINK GOLDFISH COME FROM SILK MOTHS' EGGS

"It is said that there is a universal belief among the Chinese that the finer kinds of goldfish are evolved from the eggs of the silk moth," says the North China Herald.

"According to the belief of the Chinese the silk moth lays its eggs on a fresh brick or tile, and this is placed in shallow water and exposed to the sun. In several days they hatch out minute larvae and are fed on pond slime, developing rapidly into gorgeous goldfish.

"Great care has to be used in the preparation of the water, but the process may be aborted by an intervening thunderclap, which sometimes makes such havoc with the eggs that they hatch out frogs or scorpions instead of the much desired goldfish."

SPAWNING OF SALMON

Results of the Operation Disclosed by an Observer

The spawning of salmon is the basis of an interesting article by a contributor to the Edinburgh Scotsman. Salmon begin in October to gather in the places in the main rivers where they may deposit their eggs. The place selected for spawning is usually at the top or toward the top of a ford or run, though under favorable circumstances the whole of an extensive reach from top to bottom and from side to side, may be occupied by different pairs of fish. The large gravel is usually preferred, though on occasions the ova may be laid in a rougher bottom, and the size of the stones which may be moved by the salmon in the operation is rather surprising. Fine gravel is very seldom selected, while, of course, mud and sand, since in them the ova would be smothered, are equally unsuitable and are never used.—New York Times.

FISH CLIMBS TREES FOR ITS FOOD

The goby is a fish that lives mainly in warm countries. It often crawls out of the water in large numbers and skips and plays on shore like a lively kitten. In the countries where these wonderful fish are found the shores in many places are covered with low mangrove trees, and up these the goby climbs in search of food.

These fish have developed out of their fore fins what look like arms, with hands with webbed fingers, which help them to get over the ground, and out of their hind fins a kind of sucker or sucking disk, by means of which they can cling closely to the bark of a tree.

The goby is, sometimes, called a "mud-skipper," because it goes "skipping along over the wet sands and mud, even skipping with great speed over the surface of the water," says one writer. "It feeds on insect prey among rocks, leaves and weeds and out of the water is as agile as a lizard."

The eyes are raised on stalks so that the creature can look in all directions without turning the head. Gobies have been timed to stay from three to six hours out of water.

THE SPIRIT OF SERVICE

By Molly Bevan, Hamilton

Be thou, in all things, honorable and true
Having some noble aim to strive unto,
All self-forgetting in the daily task,
Giving to others whate'er they ask
Of help, or sympathy, upon the road of life
With all its trails, all its ceaseless strife,
Its joys and laughter, its most bitter pain,
Its love and hatred, and its loss and gain:
Believing he who serves his fellow man,
Through all his days, in every way he can,
Shall profit in the end an hundred fold
Though not in worldly wealth of hoarded gold,
Recall the lesson of an early day,
"Do unto others as you would that they Should do to you"—and let that creed
Thy guidance be in every thought and deed.

PRESS OPINIONS

BORROW IN RECKLES WAY

(Lindsay Daily Post)

"Rigid economy will become good politics when a sufficient number of the people think it worth while to make it good politics."

This was the keynote of an address delivered at the annual meeting of the Ottawa Board of Trade, by Horace L. Brittain, director of the Citizens' Research Institute of Canada. The subject was municipal taxation matters, and while he dealt also with the general question of all levies imposed by the various governing bodies, federal, provincial and municipal, he paid particular attention to municipal financial problems.

"The tendency of cities to borrow in an unlimited way, without thought of where their reckless career of spending was leading," became in for sharp criticism by the speaker, as he gave many instances where civic debts had piled up in the last few years out of all proportion to their increase in population.

He suggested limiting the authority of a municipality to borrow up to a certain amount per capita of population, and also the planning of all capital outlay at the time the civic budget was drawn up. The civic estimates, he urged, should be drawn up in the latter part of the year, so that several months of the new year need pass without any control of expenditure by estimates.

FINISH THE WORK

(Hamilton Herald)

The fact that 120 miles of track has been laid is sufficient reason, in the opinion of the Winnipeg Free Press, why the Hudson Bay railway should be pushed to completion. But if, as is most competent authorities now agree, the scheme is a crazy one, the fact that it has been begun is a mighty good reason why it should be finished. Better scrap the useless work already done and save the cost of the useless work which would have to be done to make the job complete.

WHAT MIGHT WAVE BEEN

(Ottawa Journal)

Sir Basil Thompson, formerly head of the British secret service, tells of a message sent by Hindenburg to the German Government in the fall of 1918 advising Germany's unconditional surrender. It was not transcribed, unfortunately, by the Allies' secret service. Had it been, would there have been an armistice on November 11, and would there have been the haggling at Versailles later? Unconditional surrender! Sir Basil Thompson says that conditions in the German army were so bad that had the German Government rejected Hindenburg's advice the armies of the Allies could have marched through to Berlin with little difficulty. In either case, the entire German nation would have escaped the completeness of its defeat. Would it have been easier in the humor for meeting the terms of the victors?

FARMERS WEARIED OF SCIENCE

(Oshawa Sun)

Farmers are getting sick and tired of being told by "arm-chair experts" how to do and what to grow. What they desire is leadership and advice from men of their own kin. At least, that is what one gathers from reading the following from the Brandon Sun: "A farmer in Minnesota has turned upon the multitude of agricultural experts who are so industriously farming for them from their desks. He declares that he has come to be well sours of magazine editors and learned writers express themselves on needs of agriculture. In an endless array on price setting or fair play, from trade or tariff, credit or no credit, and even no credit at all, he finds a knowledge surpassing that of a Solomon, but the writers are out of touch formation. And if generally ends in telling farmers what to do and what to do matter with us. Two years ago we were told to raise potatoes, and wheat, but now we are instructed to diversify. Consequently we are not at all trades but masters in none; with the purchase and upkeep of of a dozen acres of machinery. It is curious, no matter how many merchants go broke or bankers merely hanging on, unable to meet the requirements of the laws, that these folks are not advised what to do. Lumber yards are not advised to stick to with drugs and groceries, dry goods and hardware, because it is too risky to put all their eggs in one basket. The banker is not told that it would be a benefit to the community if he should go into the egg and poultry business, or the need of a double office, with perhaps a sideline of groceries in connection with a lunch counter and a round table to bolster up the trade during the slack season, when land cannot properly be appraised. There is no doubt that these classes are discriminated against, but when seemingly too modest to demand their shars of advice, it may be proper and even chivalric for the city farmers to call attention to these facts."

Woman's Sphere

THE MAN SHE MARRIED.

"The lady that I will wed," said she,
"A tall and handsome man must be;
I'll let him smoke, but not too much
But only in most decline;
He must be governed with his purse
On Sundays he must go to church
In weather foul or fine."

The maiden meant it when she said
These things about the man she'd wed,
But Cupid laughs at lofty dreams
And madly fires his darts,
For well he knows that maids forget
Each vow when once the man is met,
And marriages are never made
By "wish" blanks and charts.

She'd married now, but not unto
A tall and handsome hero, who Possesses all the manly traits,
She swore she'd have to see.
Her husband's cleverly set aglow,
He has no snappy clothes to sport,
He's just a common man who digs
His bread crusts in his tea.

Potato and Onion Scallop.

Slice as many potatoes as are needed, thinly, into cold water, to stand for one hour. With a sharp knife slice one Spanish onion very thin. Chop parsley enough to make two teaspoonfuls. Butter a shallow baking dish. Drain the potatoes dry and place a layer in the dish, then a layer of onions, sprinkle them with parsley, and dust them with pepper and salt and a teaspoonful of sugar. Dot this layer with butter, then proceed with the next layers, following the same plan, having potatoes on top. Now dot the potatoes thickly with little lumps of butter and pour in a cupful of light cream or rich milk. Cover the dish and bake the potatoes until they are soft, then uncover and brown them slightly.

(This may be done at the market at an additional cost of 10 cents per pound). Place on rack in dripping pan, sprinkle with salt, pepper, dredge with flour and stew trimmings of fat salt pork in pan. Roast in a hot oven for 30 minutes, basting every ten minutes. Remove to a heating hot buttered steak plank. Surround with a border of mashed potatoes, forcing it through a pastry bag and rose tube. Return to oven to brown potatoes. Garnish with tomatoes or green peppers filled with succotash. Place broiled mushroom caps down centre of fillet. Pass Madeira sauce.

Broiled Potatoes.

Wash and boil smooth potatoes with their jackets on. When they are just done but not soft, drain, cool, pare and slice them in thin slices, lengthwise. Dip each slice of potato in melted butter, dust with pepper and salt and broil on a greased broiler. When sufficiently cooked on either side, stack on a hot plate, garnish with parsley, and serve with chops.

LINKED LIVES

By D. Kinmount Roy

Kinkman on the whole was pleased with his visit. He concluded that at last Hardcastle was aware of his dainer, and the new sense of power filled him with satisfaction.

Following byeways, well known to himself, he was soon a good two miles from the Hall. It was calm and mild for the season, the sun was warm, and selecting a pleasant spot, he sat down to rest and think. He was weaker, owing to his recent illness, than he knew, and soon he went asleep.

How long he slept he could not tell, but the sound of voices quite near at last called him back to the business in hand, and cautiously peering through the undergrowth, he was almost petrified with amazement to see Oona walking with the young Glenmore, his arm through his horse's bridle, the animal keeping pace as though he were inclined in the conversation, and appreciated his master's confidence.

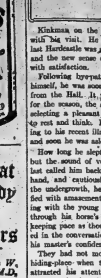
They had not gone than passed his hiding-place when the bark of a dog attracted his attention, some distance away, and when he dared to look again it seemed as though all the furies of hell had been suddenly let loose in the tortured soul of this miserable creature—for there was MacAlpin, with a footing-piece across his arm and a bandage round it, looking for game in a field beyond him.

For a time he was a sheer demented being; vowing vengeance in direful fury upon himself, as he could reach no other. He dug his fingers into the earth, tore up the coarse grass by the handfuls, he clawed his hair and beard with demoniac ferocious that was appalling, and in his extreme torture bit his teeth into his own flesh until the blood came. Then, as he became aware that Oona and her lover had joined MacAlpin was moving in his direction, he bounded to his feet, and ran, as fleetfooted as a deer, to the house, passing standing his years and condition, until he was far away out of sight and hearing.

Soon afterwards MacAlpin and the dog came out upon the path, and met Oona and her prospective lover, and where Kinkman had rested. The dog exam ed the scent with an angry growl, and started in pursuit, but his master at once recalled him, and neither ever knew what evil eyes had been upon them, that sacrificed passion to self-revelation and mutual understanding.

The industrial character of the place had become increasing interesting to Aynsworth, while he waited for the movements of Maitland, in unravelling the story of his father's misfortunes. He rode over daily to the works, where he never grew weary watching the men perform the miracles of transforming the shapeless lumps of iron into the bars and rods of commerce. Long years of familiarity with such things have taken the wonder out of it, but the age has well supplied us with new marvels peculiar to our own times.

True, the way by past Janet's cottage, where much had happened, is now known to change her opinion of the young laird, as well as of Donald MacAlpin.



Apart from the ever-increasing attraction of Janet's cottage, however, Aynsworth was greatly interested in his fellowcreatures and in the tremendous possibilities for the country which lay within the range of their skill and labours.

One day he asked the manager for allow him to enter the works as a learner, seriously to take up the business of mastering such details as he might, and become a workman with the rest.

Middleton smiled, well-pleased at the young man's request. He was not a native of the district, and as his head ship had no earthly interest for him; still, he thought it best to consult the Squire as it was quite a new departure to admit a gentleman on a common footing into the works.

When he drove up to the Hall, however, he found the Squire absent, and not likely to return for some months. He had recovered the position of it, of any sort, and was settled to find no message left for him. Middleton was glad, therefore, to fall into the way of using men's brains and bodies as (stepping-stones to their own success without taking much account of their individuality, or their likes or dislikes. To do him justice, he never resented it that they might desire any further recognition. Middleton was the real head of the business, and it was he who directed the business which was coining gold for the Squire, Hardcastle having just enough to interfere, so when Middleton decided now without seeing him to accede to the request of Aynsworth, he did no more than he would have done in any case, even had the Squire been at home. A new face in the morning before the vision of many kind, for those who could see it. Steam and electricity were revolutionising the world then, as electrical power and ships of the air are destined to revolutionise it in years to come. The wood en walls of England, enshrined in song and story had forever linked with the names of Britain's best and bravest sons, were then soon to give place to ironclads and steam-propelled monsters of distruction, the full value of which has yet to be tested in some great conflict of the future.

Middleton was a silent man, of mercantile perceptions and broad outlook. All his mind and soul was in his work; it was more than a money-making concern to him; it was a bit of destiny, more than that, but reaching out in its effects to the uttermost ends of the earth and opening up illimitable possibilities of expression and human's progress far and near.

WORK BEFORE BREAKFAST

"If you were to ask a farmer what he thought about work before breakfast, he would laugh and tell you that he had a half day's work done before breakfast.

However, to the average city man it is really a question. At military camp, the commanding officer wished to know why so many men (perhaps ten per cent.) dropped out of the work or drill parade before breakfast.

I suggested that he try the experiment of a piece of bread and some thin coffee to each man immediately upon coming on parade in the morning. That would be about 6 a.m. The men then worked until 7.30 a.m. and got ready for breakfast at 8 a.m.

This worked like a charm, not a single man fainted or dropped out of parade.

Why? Well, the stomach and all the digestive apparatus have a good long rest throughout the night and are ready for business in the morning. Further the fuel supply, food, which supplies energy, needs replenishing. Your body heat is lower by from one to two degrees in the morning than it is later in the day. Your body is not warmed to its work as it were. Then without any fuel what-ever you try to work. Faintness ensues in a great many cases.

Most men can take a few minutes' exercise in the morning before breakfast; that is a good time to take it, but very few can do any prolonged work before breakfast. There are exceptions of course.

Athletes in training, bicyclists, fighters, wrestlers and so forth almost invariably take a little bread and water, or perhaps milk before they do their early morning road work. The expression "it stays the stomach" is an absolute fact.

In an endeavor to establish a real appetite in men below par I have had men eat a cracker and sip a little water on arising.

Cuban Potatoes.

Boil and mash very fine six large potatoes, add the milk of a fresh cocoanut beaten with a dessertspoonful of sugar and a heaping tablespoonful of butter, beat light, and heap in a little nest with a poached egg in each nest. Sprinkle each nest with grated cocoanut.

THEY CALLED HIM AN "OLD PILL"

THAT was years ago when he packed a terrible grouch, a mighty irritable stomach and a liver that refused to do the things that all good livers should. No wonder his friends called him an "old pill" and shied away.

But that was years ago—long before he discovered Beecham's Pills and learned that one at bedtime can bring sunshine into a man's life. Today, he's an optimist, a hero to his wife, and a staunch believer in Beecham's Pills.

The cheer that Beecham's Pills bring into a man's disposition, in the incomparable cheer of sound digestion, active liver, and the regular habits that make good health.

SHORT STORIES FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

Junk and the Dog-Catcher

His name was Junk and he lived in an alley where no one but Tommy ever spoke to him. He died. Everybody wondered, though, how he had continued to live, with so many dog-catchers in the city. They did not know that Junk knew every dog-catcher by name and could tell the rumble of a dog-catcher's wagon a far away as he could hear it.

Once he had been chased by a dog-catcher. It was like thunder, noise and rumble he remembered best. Down the alley he had run, the dog-catcher in hot pursuit. Reaching into a little square box at one side of the alley he was plunged down six feet into a dark, damp hole. Over the top of the box that Tommy had discovered him Tommy had gone without tea while meals so that Junk could have food to eat. From that time Junk had worshipped Tommy and followed him around until people called him "Tommy Shadow."

One day Junk was out on the street playing with Tommy when a big limousine rolled down the street. A tall man jumped out and came up to Junk. Somehow he looked vaguely familiar, but Junk could not tell why. He was no dog-catcher he was sure of that. He liked him, and who ever heard of liking a dog-catcher?

"Whose dog is that?" the man asked Tommy, and Tommy told him all he knew about Junk—how he had suddenly appeared in the alley and belonged to no one in particular.

"Fly here, is it!" exclaimed the man. "I never suspected such luck. That's a very valuable German police dog. I bet him out in this neighborhood when he was just a pup." The stranger took Junk away with him. Junk was disgusted with himself. He had been fooled. The man was a dog-catcher, after all, disguised as a decent citizen.

He took Junk to a beautiful big house where Junk had more to eat than he had lived in the ETAOINSHR alley. He had ever seen in all the years he had lived in the alley, if such a thing were possible. He had to admit that the man was not a dog-catcher, but good to him, but each his food he would not!

The young man did everything he could think of for Junk, and then as he was a lover of dogs and understood them, he took a fancy to Tommy. He took the big car and went back to the alley, and Timmy came it see Junk. The poor dog was so weak he could scarcely drag himself around but at sight of Timmy he nearly went wild with joy. Timmy's mother was glad him.

The young man smiled down at the two of them. "Well," he said, "with Junk you to live with you, or you come to stay with him. I believe my chauffeur would like to have a bright young fellow to help him around the garage. Think you could leave the alley, Timmy?"

"Oh, yes!" said Timmy solemnly. "If Junk will stay there, I will."

Junk barked in a way that said, "It's all right. He isn't a dog-catcher, after all."

SOME HINTS.

Rub the mud stains from clothing with a raw potato.

THE BATHROOM CURTAIN

Instead of affixing the curtain to the sash of the bathroom window, thus necessitating the drawing down of the blind when the window is opened, attach it, on a brass rod, to the window frame and let the lower part of the curtain hang free, weighted down by another brass curtain rod. In this way when the window sash is up, the sash curtains preserves the privacy of the bathroom.

No better dusters can be made than those from the legs of old stockings, each leg cut open and the two sewn up together. Without cost and with the additional virtue of thrift, one may have silk, cotton or woollen dusters, each for separate needs.

IF STOCKINGS TURN GRAY

To keep the children's black stockings from turning gray with frequent washings, I dip them in salt water when they are new, then wash them in lukewarm suds and rinse rinse well.

Apple and Earth Apple.

Pare and boil six potatoes and when done mash them very smooth, and pepper, salt, a good-sized lump of butter and a cupful of tart apple sauce that has been rubbed through a sieve; beat well, then heap in a buttered deep pie plate. Sprinkle the mixture with fine crumbs and brown it quickly in the oven.

First Steps in Acting

MAKING SCENERY FOR YOUR PLAY

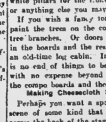
(From the Service Studies of Chicago, makers of scenery and drapery for the real theatre, come these suggestions on how to make scenery for the plays you put on yourself.)

A set of scenery for any sort of play you may decide to give is very simple and easy to make yourself. It will not cost over one dollar, and in building it you'll have nearly as much fun as in giving the play itself.

Do you know what the "wings" are? They are the side pieces of scenery in the stage. Do you know what "compo" boards are? They are stiff sheets of cardboard. Any place where carpenters are working on new houses you will probably find compo boards—large but light sheets of stiff pasteboard easy to cut into different shapes with a pocket knife. These make wonderful "wings" for your play. All trees or anything else you may want.

If you wish a fancy forest you can paint the trees on the compo boards. Tree branches, for leaves may be cut in the boards and the rest painted as an old-time log cabin. In fact, there is no end of things to be made, and with no expense beyond the cost of the compo boards and the paint used. Making Cheesecloth Scenery.

Perhaps you want a special painted scene of some kind that will stretch across the back of the stage. This can be made with common cheesecloth. Put the cloth in a pail of water; then after it is wet through and through and while it is drying, make a wooden frame. On this frame stretch the cloth as tight as you can and tack it about the edges, for if cheesecloth is put just in water it will not shrink when you apply the paint, and you will avoid having folds or sagging in the middle. With the frame completed, and the cloth tacked as tightly as you can, you have only to apply whatever color you desire, and your scenery for the back of the stage is made. The dry powdered colors from the drugstore mixed with a little water and glue make the best kind of paint to use.



Should you want to make the sandstone design that you see in use in the distance, simply buy a yard of gauze and let it hang down on the back curtain you have just finished. You will be surprised how this will give the effect of sustance.

When it is so easy to make scenery so play you put on need go without the proper setting.

RUSSIA COLECTS TAX ON HOUSEHOLD SERVANTS

Government Levies on Maids and Butlers

(By Canadian Press)

Moscow, Jan. 22.—Russia's tax on luxuries has been extended to include servants.

By recent decree a tax of 600 million rubles a year was levied upon all families having one servant, and 600 million rubles for each additional maid or butler in the house. At the present rate of exchange 100,000,000 rubles is the equivalent of $3.

The minimum wage for servants in Moscow today, by a ruling of the central trade union, is 200 million per month. All servants must be secured through a government labor bureau, and failure to register each household worker, or endeavors to avoid paying the servants' tax, is punishable by imprisonment and fine.

CANADIAN EXHIBIT TRAIN IN FRANCE

Project Laid Before Minister of Trade and Commerce by Senator Beaubien

THIRTY MOTOR CARS

Facilities Extended by the French Government Await Aproval of French Chamber of Deputies

Senator C. P. Beaubien has submitted his report to the Minister of Trade and Commerce concerning the proposed Canadian exhibition train to tour France, fully detailing all the plans as far made. Unlike the French exhibition train which went through Canada in 1921, the Canadian train will travel by autobus, and it is the intention to have a caravan of specially constructed busses to travel over the following journey: Le Havre, Rouen, Le Mans, Rennes, Quimper, Nantes, Toulouse, Beziers, Montpelier, Marseilles, Grenoble, Geneva, St. Etienne, Clermont-Ferrand, Dijon, Besancon, Mulhouse, Strassbourg, Sarreguemy, Nancy, Metz, Charleville, Lille, Lens, Arras, Dunkerque, Boulogne, Amiens, Reims, Soissons, Verdun, Lemoges, Angouleme and Bordeaux.

After the completion of the tour, states Senator Beaubien in his report, the train could be handed over to France, and be stationed close to the building intended for the use of the Canadian Government. The staff would include the following: the free warehousing and handling at ports of entry and exit free of all material which is necessary for the moving and fixed exhibition; the special construction of a complete train of 30 motor cars and trailers, fitted up with show windows, with special conviniences allowing the cars to be shunted on the ordinary French railway wheels concealed in order to present the appearance of a commercial motor car.

Free traction of the above equipment, and free transportation and lodging of the Canadian personnel during the train's progress through France, as well as privileged customs treatment.

A long list of eminent men in France is proposed to constitute the patrons of the undertaking, beginning with President Millerand and Premier Poincare.

Diorama of Canada.

Senator Beaubien proposes also the erection of a large diorama giving a bird's eye view of Canada at the exhibitionary exhibition. He thinks that the effect would be most gratifying, and would serve a double purpose, inasmuch as it could be used at the British Empire Exhibition to be held in London in 1924.

"The most propitious time to carry out this project," states the report in his report, "would be during the summer and autumn months of next year. The new France-Canada treaty just completed, should open up a new field to Canada's exportations to France. Nothing, therefore, would be more timely than an effective campaign to advertise our goods. Moreover the echo of the successful French train in Canada has not died out in France. It has, in a measure, been revived in the French press by the recent negotiations with the French Government. The public mind is in a sufficient mood to receive the idea of this Canadian exhibition. The opportunity of the propaganda itself and the exceptional conditions under which it can be made should not be overlooked.

ENJOYABLE SLEIGH PARTY

Last evening the pupils of the Commercial form of the local High School held a sleigh party. The aggregation went sight seeing through the beautiful city by the bay, using flat bottom sleighs as observation coaches. About 7.30 p.m. the joyful, but chilly gathering returned to the recreation hall of the "Y" where games of a variety were indulged in and refreshments served. At a reasonable hour the happy gathering of Form 1-C, 1923 broke off, with eager anticipation for the 1924 outing.

THRILLING TALES OF STORMS AT SEA

Recent Hurricanes and Gales Add Perils to Ocean Navigation

Some Ships Missing

Record Weather for the Atlantic—Bioblegger's Boat Broken up and Abandoned

(By Associated Press).

New York, Jan. 22.—The hurricanes, whole gales, hail gales and storms for nearly, two months, have spent their force, the weather bureau reports, but in their wake they have left stranded and sunken ships, unsolved and mysterious tragedies of the sea, and a series of "delayed sums" for trans-Atlantic liners which has not been equalled since war days.

How comes the worst of the year. January brings more vicious pounding gales to Atlantic ships than any other month. But the weather bureau joins with maritime experts, this year, in the belief that it cannot possibly match the late November to January 1st record.

That seven-week period came to 1st and January 7 and left a record hard for any like period to approach. The Atlantic claimed 12 ships; it took 39 men to their deaths; it left 26 big liners more than 12 hours late—most of them were from 2 to 3 days behind schedule; it left the most unsolvable mystery of what happened to 8 other ships.

In addition there were accidents or near accidents on the Sea of Marmora, the Pacific, the Great Lakes, the Caribbean and the Japan waters which crossed the Atlantic were the worst.

Secretary Hughes brought the first official reports to the fleet as he returned from South America in November. It swept out from behind the Azores with a force of more than 100 miles an hour. It tore across the Atlantic, hit the French coast and tore right back again. And of the 11 wember 26 there began to be reports of trouble at sea.

The famous Canadian fishing schooners failed to report that day. "Anxiety is felt for them," said the despatches. Later word got in; the fish is the first list of missing ships.

On the same day a big motorship went to pieces on Long Island, many residents of the vicinity got most of the cargo, according to the prohibition agents. Towards night a body was washed up on Long Island with the story of six men who had fought death for two weeks in an open boat.

Two days later the Italian liner President Wilson crept in Quarantine here, and with her came the first reports of what actually was happening out on the Atlantic.

"Storm!" said her officers, "storms? We have never experienced anything like it. The gale at times was 120 miles an hour."

For seven weeks since then incoming liners have told the same story. Each alien has it to retold that it had to be a particularly desperate fight to get into the port.

But from then until January 7 hardly a ship entered New York harbor that did not show the scars of its fight. Daily there were reports of S.O.S. received of foundering ships, of boats driven on unprotected shores, of liners with passengers huddled in to keep them safe from waves which crashed over smoke stacks—reports of everything that the sea can do.

On December 24 the liner President Garfield brought in a tramp steamer she had towed from off Nantucket. The Rosa Ferlita, the schooner, was in a bad way and her crew of 11 were all but worn out. Later the Menominee, another liner, came in three days late with a fishing crew and 17 fishermen she had fired their schooner, which was leaking and crumbling under them.

Such great ocean travellers as the Caronia, the Berengaria, the Olympic, the Majestic, the Zeeland, Zealand and many others, came in, all days late. They told of terrific battles with the waves. La Savoie of the French line reported 100-mile gales and 90-foot waves.

Ships got into Halifax to get out of trouble. On December 26 four small boats crashed to the beaches inside New York harbor. They were all ill-fated bootleggers.

The Heinrich Kayser, a freighter, limped into port with a full gale. With a crew of 43 aboard she is still missing. Her owners at last are ready to call her a probable loss.

The Valacia, a freighter, came in January 8 with a story of 9 dead and 10 hurt because a cable drum was torn loose by a huge wave and sent crashing among the crew.

The weather bureau says it cannot estimate the average force of the gales for those seven terrific weeks.

"Well, 75 miles is not too low," says the bureau. "It is probably nearer 85. But be conservative, for 75 miles an hour is nearly almost constantly for seven weeks is pretty close to a record for the Atlantic."

FUR STORE WAS BURGLARIZED

Lindsay Furrier Suffers Loss of $4,000 When Valuable Fur Coats Are Stolen

Several hundred dollars' worth of fur coats were stolen from the A. O'Loughlin store last evening, the first alarm coming from the A. O'Loughlin establishment when he arrived at the store to find the stock disturbed and some twelve or fifteen coats missing.

The thief or thieves had entered through the skylight after mounting to the roof. The coats stolen were all Hudson and French seal and very expensive. They were taken from their hooks in the cases and apparently hoisted through the roof again, as Mr. O'Loughlin states that the doors were not disturbed. The thieves had taken the precaution to put out the large electric light that burns in the doorway behind the store and so carefully were their movements guarded and covered that the entire job was carried out without the knowledge of the night watchman, Mr. Edwards, or the night constable, Umphrey.

The Provincial and local police are working on the case.

Plan Sells Very Rapidly

Former box office records here are being given a merry chase for first place in connection with the sale of the plan of Griffin's Theatre for the big amateur musical comedy offering, which is being presented at that theatre on Wednesday and Thursday of this week. This play will be given by Belleriffian under the direction of Mr. Theodore Bird, of Toronto.

During Monday afternoon, there was a steady business in the exchange of the red tickets for the theatre tickets, at the box office, and more than 500 made eyes sold during the morning. The plan opened on Monday morning for both Wednesday and Thursday's presentation. Before three o'clock on Monday afternoon the red tickets were all sold and at one local store, and there were the anxious enquiries for the other vendors of these red tickets without which it is impossible to reserve seats for the theatre, as the theatre staff do not handle any of the money.

Almost all many tickets have been reserved for Thursday's presentation as for Wednesday, and the members of the company have decided to present a popular priced matinee on Wednesday afternoon.

Everybody seems anxious to see, "The Girl in Red", and according to reports, it is a clever musical show with tuneful melodies, and with many opportunities for the amateur performers to display their histrionic ability.

The splendid auspices under which this play is being presented, namely the Children's Aid Society, is no doubt another popular reason for the excellent response, and anyway, everyone is always interested in a local show.

In connection with this play several merchants have decorated their windows in harmony with the show. The "Girl in Red" is the main attraction of the windows, one of which is almost entirely trimmed in red, and she also appears in such a red canopy, in a swing. Of course "The Girl in Red" is the window in a daily of the exact variety.

CITY COUNCIL HOLD MEETING

ial bidd by an Orange society.

A communication was read asking the Council to take steps to have cuspidors removed, which are in vogue constally in some restaurants in the city.—Referred to committee.

The Boys' Council asked for a grant of $150 to assist them in carrying on their work.—Referred to Executive Committee.

Bonds for Market.

A communication was read from Mr. J. C. McCaffrey, the Union Bank stating that a $5,000 Victory bond was in the bank for the city as a bond for Mr. A. B. Jarvis, lessee of the market.

Some of the Aldermen considered that the city was amply protected in regard to the bond, but a motion prevailed to send the matter to the Market and Property committee.

W.C.A. Grant.

The Women's Christian Association asked the Council for a grant of $250 per month for the months of January, February, March and April, and $100 per month for the remaining eight months for indigent purposes.—Referred to the Executive committee.

Plans for Buildings.

Mr. C. Campbell, City Engineer, who is also acting Building Inspector, presented a letter to the Council relative to plans being submitted before any permit is granted for a building. Ald. Donohue could not see that it was necessary to give a plan for every building.

Ald. Adams—A simple draft or plan was all that was necessary.

Mr. Thompson then called attention to by-laws for which sewers and sidewalks debentures are to be issued be amended, where found necessary in order to have any debentures issued on the serial basis instead of the sinking fund plan and that a meeting be held in the Provincial Railway and Municipal Board authorizing said change. Carried.

A letter by Ald. Thompson, seconded by Ald. French that Mayor Bennett and Ald. Patterson be appointed representatives of the city on the Hospital Board of the W.C.A. Carried.

Ald. Thompson, seconded by Ald. Thompson that boats of sand be placed in convenient places for the use of citizens to assist extinguishing fires.

Ald. Donohue said the sand had to be heated before being placed on the walk.

The matter was referred to the Public Works Committee.

POLICE RAID N. Y. FLAPPERS

Flippers and Flappers Prove to be High School Students Who Left Home "For the Movies".

New York, Jan. 23.—The flappers' last stand, the police raided it today in their dresses and tresses short and the men wear their hair long, is to be "cleaned up."

Greenwich Village, famed for beauteous artists' models and erratic poets, but frequented largely by youths and maids from the suburbs, has again been placed on the police daybook, and the long-haired men and short-haired fancy prices will soon be no more —maybe.

The clean-up started early yesterday morning, when the police raided Chatman's Cafe and Dance Hall.

Eleven High School girls and several youths fell into the arms of the law.

Startled parents were notified, and took their daughters from the Station House back to their homes in Flushing and Flatbush. They told the detectives that the girls had left home "for the movies."

Twenty-three in all were arrested, and all but the youthful eleven will be arraigned today.

CIVIC INSURANCE

a non tariff company and it would take the insurance of the city at a sum of $350 less than the amount proposed to be paid to the Employers Liability Assurance Corporation.

Mr. H. F. Ketcheson said he was not dictating whether the council accepted a tariff or non-tariff policy. There had been no complaint since he had handled the city insurance. He could not see the advantage at $20 less in a non-tariff company.

Mr. Fisher said that Mr. Ketcheson had placed some of the city fire insurance in non tariff companies.

Mr. W. H. Fraser knew a man has given good service to the city h should have an equal chance with others. Mr. Ketcheson had done well by the city in years gone by.

Ald. McCreary—We should pass around the business and not to stick it all to one agent. He would entrust the insurance with a company that can save the city money.

Ald. Robertson—If $350 extra is going to make the city absolute safe then we should give our business to such a company.

Ald. McCreary—From the policy the total liability is limited to $10,000.

Mr. H. F. Ketcheson—The policy covers for an indefinite amount. The limit in a case is $5,000 and $10,000 for two cases.

Mayor Bennett—The rate has more than doubled the past six years. Other tax payers of this city should have a chance to get some of this business especially if we can save $350 to the citizens.

In answer to a question from Mayor Bennett, Mr. Ketcheson stated that his son Ald. Ketcheson was a salaried employee of his.

Ald Donohue said he had made up his mind to support a strong company in regard to this insurance business, as it provided ample insurance in case of a fatal accident.

Ald. Trevertan said he voted for the non tariff policy in committee because it saved $350 to the city. He would vote for a non tariff company getting this insurance.

Ald. Foster moved in amendment that the Toronto Casualty be made the insurance as represented by Mr. Davison get, the insurance at a premium of $3,150.

Mr. H. J. Fisher spoke in support of the city saving $350 and placing the insurance in a non-tariff company.

Mr. H. F. Ketcheson said that the companies which he represented had done the right thing for the city.

Ald. French moved in amendment to the amendment that the policy of Mr. H. F. Ketcheson be accepted.

Ald. McCreary rose to a point of order namely that Ald. Ketcheson had not a right to vote upon his question as he was an interested party in the transaction.

Ald. Thompson—I would rule that Ald. Ketcheson had a right to vote on the question as he was only an employee of Mr. H. F. Ketcheson.

Ald. McCreary appealed against the ruling of the chairman and the Mayor assumed the chair and stated that Ald. Ketcheson in his opinion had not the right to vote.

The ruling of the Mayor was appealed against and upon a vote being taken the Mayor was overruled.

The Committee rose and after some further discussion in regard to the matter of insurance the Council rose and reported without any definite action being taken.

Under the head of motions the matter was again taken up.

Ald. McCreary moved, seconded by Ald. Foster that the tender of Messrs. Davison & Davison on behalf of the Toronto Casualty Fire and Marine Insurance Company covering the total liability to the public for accidents through maintenance of streets, parks, etc, be accepted at a premium of $3,150 provided protection be effective as from noon standard time, January 22nd 1923.

Ald. McCreary spoke in support of the motion stating it was through the instrumentality of Davison & Davison that we are able to secure this protection at $3150. We should give consideration to those who are working in the city's interest. It was but fair that we should give it to Messrs. Davison & Davison.

Ald. Thompson moved, seconded by Ald. French in amendment that the policy be given to Mr. H. F. Ketcheson at a premium of $3150 and that the policy to be placed in the Toronto Casualty Company.

Ald. French said we could hold this insurance down through the efforts of Messrs. Davison & Davison who can give us a reasonable rate.

Ald. Adams said he could not understand why Mr. H. F. Ketcheson did not quote a non-tariff company when representing his case.

Mr. H. F. Ketcheson—I did quote a non tariff company and had no accredited agent of the Toronto Casualty Fire and Marine Insurance Company.

Upon a vote being taken the amendment of Ald. Thompson prevailed. The yeas and nays were asked for and re sulted as follows:—

Yeas—Donohue, French, Ketcheson, Patterson, Robinson, Thompson and Trevertan—7.

Nays—Adams, Foster, Greenleaf, Lynch, McCreary and Mayor Bennett. —6.

DEATH ENDS BETROTHAL

London, Jan. 22.—Lady Colten ham announces that her son, the Earl of Eschesham, who died last week, had been betrothed for some time to Miss Reva Lewis, of "Ivor," The ceremony was to have been announced shortly.

Editor's Note: Miss Reva Lewis is the granddaughter of the late Archbishop Lewis and was a pupil of St. Alban's.

"My Boy was Starving to Death"

"As He Was Getting No Nourishment He Was Gradually Wasting Away."

"Here's a story which will interest every mother. Seven years ago my son, born, I was in such delicate health that the doctor didn't think I could survive the ordeal. For weeks after he was born my life hung suspended, so so I couldn't feed him and the poor little fellow was left to the care of friends. He wasn't naturally strong. No care was taken in choosing his food and his poor little stomach became so weakened that he couldn't keep anything on it.

"As he was getting no nourishment from his food, he was gradually wasting away. Finally, in despair, we took him to a specialist and he said that my boy was starving to death. He gave me a prescription medicine and advised a certain diet. The child did not improve and the specialist couldn't seem to get strong. This went on for about seven years and the boy still continued weak and puny looking. He could not play like other children without having to lie down and rest. My sister who lives on a farm, hearing of her son, said that she could fix him up if I would send him to her. While I hated being separated from him, I was ready to make any sacrifice to get him strong. He was away from me for three months and I felt all the feelings of great excitement that I awaited his return as my sister had never given me a hint to be surprised when I saw my boy. When my sister got off the train I could not believe that it was my own boy that she was bringing to me. I hardly could see such a change in any child. He was a fine, healthy child with a bright and happy smile! 'What on earth have you done to him,' I said. 'Why,' she replied, 'I simply made him live on Ostrine and that changed him.' I got here's the real secret, I gave him three bottles of Ostrine before he had taken half a bottle his whole appearance had changed. He got heavier, his face took on a colour and his whole body rounded for hours at a time.' The change in my boy is the most wonderful thing in my life. I am a regular 'fan' for Ostrol and never lose a chance to boost it. As I write I am looking out of the window and when I see that rosy, active, healthy child running round, I can not believe that he was once a puny, delicate boy."

Ostrol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money.

Fifteen Thousand Families Tried Vicks Last Winter and Are Enthusiastic

ACTS SO INSTANTLY AND SO DIRECTLY

Here's the successful new method of treating any kind of cold in the head. A salve that acts like a healing liniment, poultice or plaster. At the same time its ingredients, released as vapors by the body heat, enter the nose, throat and lungs every time you breathe. Colds are commonly broken in overnight, croup in fifteen minutes.

This preparation, Vicks VapoRub was discovered by a North Carolina druggist. In 10 years, its use has spread until now over 17 million jars are used yearly.

TESTED IN 15,000 HOMES.

Over 15,000 families in Ontario and Quebec tried Vicks last winter by invitation of the manufacturer through local druggists. They promised to report results. The three cases below are just random specimens of the hundreds of good reports received.

Vicks is an ideal remedy for children, applied externally, no dosing to upset their stomachs. Good for head colds, sore throats, tonsilitis, catarrh, sore throat or hoarseness, and for skin hurts or blemishes, too. Truly "The Remedy of 100 Uses."

HOW VICKS IS USED.

Mrs. J. Saunders of 235 Barton St., East Hamilton, Ont., says: "I was bothered with asthma and a very bad cold in the head. I applied Vicks VapoRub, rubbing it on with my fingers, and found it gave me wonderful relief. I would be pleased to recommend it to anyone having a bad cold or in case of harm. As a family remedy it has no equal. It is the best help others as it has helped me."

Mr. Joseph Haley of 120 Weir Mills St., Montreal, Que., says: "My wife has suffered with quinsy for years, but Vicks must have prevented it for she has not had a touch of quinsy without a single attack. We sent part of a jar to a neighbor, whose boy had a very bad cold in the head. He also got relief. Vicks surely should be in every home."

Mrs. Vick Hall of 579 Topper St., Montreal, says: "I find Vicks VapoRub one of the finest salves I have ever used. It cures burns and bruises, and even mosquito bites, with most excellent results."

At all drug stores, 30c per jar.

NORTHERN MAN ROUTED WHOLE WOLF PACK KILLING ONE

Elevator Employee Chased Animals With Piece of Lead Pipe

MADE NO FIGHT

Chased Them Single-Handed Over Glare Ice—Turn-Tail and Ran

Port Arthur, Ont., Jan. 23.—Thos. Squires, an engineer mechanic at Canadian National elevator B, on the south end water front here, broke out a serious crimp in the theory that wolves will attack a man, when he turned attacker and killed one of a pack of six with a piece of gas pipe, while the other five turned, and with their tails between their legs beat a hasty retreat for safety.

According to Squires' story, which is borne out by other employees of the elevator who witnessed the affair, a pack of six animals appeared on the ice within a quarter of a mile of the shore line. Armed with the length of piping Squires went out to meet them. Five of them turned as he approached, but the sixth lingered a trifle longer than the others and fell a victim after Squires had given him a chase of several hundred red feet.

"If the experience I had today i typical, there is nothing to that yarn," Squires said. "They made no show o fight and the one I killed gave me a mere run before I caught up to it."

It is supposed the wolves came in over the ice from one of the islands of the bay and were unaware they were nearing a centre of human population.

The wolves in the pack encountered by Squires are described as brush wolves, distinguished from timber wolves which are larger and generally credited with being more vicious.

WOOD DAY AT MARKET

Eighteen Sleigh Loads of Wood on Market Square Before 10 a.m. Today

Before ten o'clock this morning, le less than eighteen loads of wood wer lined up on the south side of the market for sale, and prospects hayre were making their way about th sleighs contemplating purchases. I was the opinion of many prospective customers, that the wood vendors were placing the wood together high and also were short weight. Not unfrequently possible, as if the thermometer were hovering below the zero mark the wood all on display was of narrow kinds. Some of it was green, an a small percentage of it was dr. Some loads were very soft wood, the were two or three good loads, of grey hardwood. There were several lo of birch and cherry for the stove and one farmer had a stock rack pil up with slabs.

The good load of nice straight body beech, which was quite green an in cord wood tier, one farmer nette the tidy sum of $12. Several other loads of the previous warmth, producing article were seen on their way t the market square later in the day a well.

A few loads of fair hardwood slabs hay were also on sale.

McGILL PROFESSOR RETURNS FROM ENGLAND

Much Interest There in Research Work for Diabetes Cure—Cost of Living Reduced

LESS UNEMPLOYMENT

Government Has Road Building Program—Emigration Chief Topic—Canada More Than Ordinary Colony

St. John, N. B., Jan. 23rd.—That the eyes of the medical world are turned to Canada scientists with the most intense interest research work in connection with diabetes was a statement of Prof. J. B. Whitnall, professor of anatomy at McGill University, Montreal, who arrived here on the Canadian Pacific steamer Montclare, Saturday. He is returning to Montreal after a visit to the old country. He said that in England as well as other centres, considerable work is being carried on along the same lines and this is one reason why so much interest is manifested in the research work here.

Speaking of conditions in England, Prof. Whitnall said there is not much apparent unemployment, but that is largely due to the efforts of the government to cope with a trying situation. He said that large numbers of jobs are now at work widening old roads, doing away with sharp corners and in general bettering the conditions of the roads and streets. He said it is generally conceded that conditions will not improve to any great extent until international trade with Europe has been readjusted. The cost of living, Prof. Whitnall pointed out, has considerably improved during the last two years and while it is not back to a pre-war basis, it is decreasing. With regards to emigration, he said that is one of the chief topics in many centres in England. The people in the old country, he said, are keenly alive to the great possibilities of Canada, and openly confess that there are wonderful opportunities here that are not available for them at home. They also appreciate the fact that the best class of people possible should be sent here to avail themselves of these opportunities.

Prof. Whitnall said that the war had much to do with these important questions and that the people of England were brought to realize that Canada was considerably more than an ordinary colony.

TEMPEST IN A TEA POT.

In the Council proceedings last evening there was a brief discussion in reference to a statement made that parties in the city had procured wood which was cut from trees about the city, who were not justly entitled to same. It was however shown that a lot of cut, has considerably improved during the last two years and while it is not back to a pre-war basis, it is decreasing. With regards to emigration, he said that is one of the chief topics in many centres in England. The people in the old country, he said, are keenly alive to the great possibilities of Canada, and openly confess that there are wonderful opportunities here that are not available for them at home. They also appreciate the fact that the best class of people possible should be sent here to avail themselves of these opportunities.

Prof. Whitnall said that the war had much to do with these important questions and that the people of England were brought to realize that Canada was considerably more than an ordinary colony.

WARDEN ELECTED FOLLOWING DEADLOCK

INSURANCE MEN HEAR ENCOURAGING ADDRESS

President A. E. Lawson of the Canadian Life Underwriters' Association Addressed Local Association Members Last Night After Banquet—Other Speeches Delivered—Outlook for Steadily Increasing Insurance Business

Mr. A. E. Lawson, Dominion President of the Canadian Life Underwriter's Association, was the chief speaker at the annual local meeting of that Association held at the Chamber of Commerce last evening, when a representative body of local members enjoyed the splendid banquet and later the concert which followed.

Mr. Lawson, who hails from Winnipeg, and who has had a long connection with the insurance business, holds that the association exerts a most powerful influence, and holds high powerful moral standards, in the business and that there are no higher men in any business than the Underwriter men, not only on personal merits but also on business merits. Naive and smooth methods of salesmanship are continually discouraged by the association.

The life of the Underwriters' Association was sketched by the speaker from the inception in 1906, after the association had been formed in the United States as a result of the disclosures in connection of insurance affairs in New York State, as found after investigation. As a result of said investigation of Underwriters and few, the insurance men of today, receive higher revenue for their work and their services are regarded much more valuable. The Canadian association is now intact.

The legislative committee of the association has recently frustrated the imposition of a tax upon insurance men, in their respective municipalities, of "A few ambitious assessors" men, to establish a revenue legislation for part timers in the business, by which they were allowed to get part license to operate in towns of less than 10,000 population. The Underwriter Association is "A watchman at the gate".

In the publicity Committee department, established, publication called the "Life Underwriters' News" reaches the hands of all agencies, in which the reflections of the qualities which have made the big men of the business big, are reflected on to the men on the firing line. This publication is of the highest possible caliber.

"Institutional advertising", said Mr. Lawson, "Has also brought about a harmonious compact between companies and the field men, and has come to be to think insurancewards, so to speak." The personal advertising of the men themselves, was recommended as being the greatest commander of the confidence of the prospect, as he was bound to do business with the man who he had trusted in the past, having known his honest merits.

Canada has now more than three and one half millions of dollars insurance in Federal and Provincially chartered companies, and have invested more than 600 millions of dollars in Canadian Funds.

Considership in this business of the type which has made Canada a delight-

Controversy in County Council Over Election Of Warden

No Decision Reached in Caucus and Proceedings Adjourned

LIBERAL VS. U.F.O.

Politics Causing Trouble—Aspirants Says Those Who Attend U.F.O. Caucus Must be One

At the hour of 5.10 on Tuesday afternoon The members of the County Council of Hastings County assembled at Shire Hall, Belleville for the inaugural meeting. Owing to caucuses being held during the early part of the afternoon the opening proceedings were delayed to the hour above mentioned.

When the members had assembled County Clerk Mr. W. H. Nugent stated that their first duty would be to elect one of their numbers as Warden for 1923.

Mr. J. L. Nowton moved, seconded by Mr. N. Vermilyea that Mr. Charles B. Ballard, Reeve of Montenagle and Stirling be Warden.

Mr. J. V. Walsh, Reeve of Tyendinaga, then stated that he was a candidate for the position of Warden. It was the year when a Liberal was to be selected and he (the speaker) was a Liberal, whilst his opponent was a U. F. O. Mr. Ballard was not numbered as a Liberal and was not entitled to the position as such. Mr. Walsh said that he was justly entitled to be elected Warden.

Mr. Ballard denied that he was a U. F. O. He was a Liberal and had always been such and had been selected by the Liberal caucus.

Mr. Campbell moved, seconded by Mr. C. W. Thompson that Mr. J. V. Walsh, Reeve of Tyendinaga Township be elected Warden.

Dr. Embury suggested that the matter of selecting a Warden be laid over for the time being.

County Clerk Nugent read section 206, Chapter 192 of the Municipal Act relative to the selection of Warden's which position had to be filled at the opening of January session and by an open vote. He could not accept a motion to postpone the election.

Mr. Walsh—When a member goes into caucus with the U. F. O.'s he must be a member of that organization.

Dr. Embury moved, seconded by Mr. Kells that the Council adjourn until 10 o'clock on Wednesday morning.

As a motion to adjourn is always in order it was submitted to the Council and carried.

Council resumed at 10.30 on Wednesday morning with all members in attendance with the exception of Mr. Metcalfe, Reeve of Deseronto, who is ill.

County Clerk Nugent asked if there were any other nominations for the position of Warden and there being no other nominations closed.

Mr. Haggerty moved, seconded by Mr. Cranston that the Council adjourn until 2 o'clock.

The motion to adjourn was carried, if voting for it.

RUN-OFF NEAR BOWMANVILLE; TRAINS LATE

As 1.15 this morning a wet bound Grand Trunk freight train was derailed at the crossover west of Bowmanville. The engine was derailed, also the tender, together with twenty-two cars. Auxiliaries from Belleville and Toronto were immediately called to the scene and started the work of clearing wreckage. The east bound track was cleared at 11.00 this morning. As a result of the right-of-way being blocked the passenger trains were late. Some of the Grand Trunk trains were transferred to the C.N.R. between Toronto and Cobourg.

The investigation Committee of the Canadian National Railways is enquiring into the cause of the Smash-up, but so far no reasons have been ascertained. One fortunate feature is the no lives were lost and no one was injured.

The local mail train from Toronto had not yet reached the city at two o'clock, having been reported three hours late at that time.

FRENCH WILL FIGHT TO A FINISH

Labor Still Agitating Strikes—Communists Appeal to France—Sir John Simon Disagrees With French Method

BERLIN NEWSPAPER WRECKED

Berlin, Jan. 24.—Twenty persons were killed and many injured by the collapse of the top storey of the Tageblatt building to-day, sympathized with the French desire for security on their Eastern frontiers but said that their occupation of the Ruhr was the wrong way to achieve it. "Real security cannot be based on aggression", he said "and the advance into the Ruhr is an operation leading step by step to more violence."

GERMAN COAL BARONS FACE FINES ONLY

Mayence, Jan. 24.—Fritz Thyssen and his five fellow German industrialists apparently faced only fines by the French court martial trying them here to-day for their resistance to the French demands for the Ruhr Valley coal. The prosecutor at the close of the last sessions suggested that he was inclined to leniency because of the patriotic motives of the Germans. He referred the court to the provision in the regulation of General Degoutte for the imposition of a fine in case of refusals by the Germans to comply with orders.

ALL WERE FINED

Mayence, Jan. 24.—Fritz Thyssen and the five other German industrialists, charged by the French with refusing to cooperate with the French plans for the delivery of reparations coal from the Ruhr Valley, were all found guilty by court-martial here today. Fines were inflicted. Herr Kesten was fined 15,632 francs. Her Wuestenhoeffer, of the Essen Mine Association, 8,640 francs, and Herr Ten-Glemann, of the Essen Anthracite Coal Company, 6,020 francs.

Berlin, Jan. 24.—The Bavarian Government has declared it is unable longer to guarantee the safety of Emil Dard, French Minister at Munich, according to information received by Reuter's, and France has been informed to this effect by the Berlin Government.

Excellent Talk Lions' Luncheon

Mr. T. P. J. Power, of Belleville Kilty Band Fame, the Speaker—Other Features Make Luncheon Enjoyable One.

Mr. Tom J. Power, proprietor of the New Queen's Hotel, this city, and for twenty-two years, manager of the Belleville Kiltie Band, was the speaker at the Lion's club meeting today.

Mr. Power has undoubtedly done more for this city in the manner of advertising with the Band, than any other individual who ever resided in the city, as the name of Belleville Band ever been advertised all over the world with the organization.

Twenty-two years ago last November, the Belleville Kiltie Band made their first concert at Niagara Falls, never thinking that they would be in existence for the time which they have been. Since that time they have been touring and have played in all the principal cities in the countries of the world.

Receiving an official send off at Ottawa in 1926, the band toured Canada to Victoria, B. C., and sailed for the Hawaiian Islands, Fiji Islands, Manning Isle, Australia, New Zealand, Tasmania, Ceylon Island, India, Burma, Egypt, France, Spain, England, Scotland Ireland and Wales. This tour which is brimful of the most interesting features imaginable, were briefly touched upon by the speaker, who stated t hat during the two years and

Christ Church Annual Vestry Meeting Held

Wardens, Lay Representatives Elected — Reports Received for Church Year

VOTES OF THANKS

Extended to Retiring Officials and Teachers—a Satisfactory Year

The annual vestry meeting of Christ Church was held Tuesday evening in the Parish Hall, and was largely attended by the men of the congregation. Rector Rev. Henry Cowley Dean Swayne presided and opened the meeting with prayers. Mr. John Watts was elected vestry clerk. The Rector, Wardens and various organizations presented satisfactory reports which were adopted.

This is the first time the vestry has been held at this time of the year instead of Easter. Recent legislation has made this feasible, so that in the future the church business year will coincide with calendar year and not vary in such as formerly.

Mr. Douglas Rowe was appointed Rectory Warden and Mr. Arthur Hayman, People's Warden. Mr. G. B. Smith was elected Lay Representative to Synod for the ensuing three years. Hearty votes of thanks were given to the retiring wardens, choir, guild, W. A. and S. S. officers and teachers for their faithful and efficient work.

HE PUT HONEY IN HONEYMOON

But Instead of Being "An Expert Window Dresser" Man was a Hamilton "Milliesaire".

A Chicago despatch says: Charged with paying for his romantic honeymoon with "pretty Jean Black, 1720 Hamilton avenue, with crisp $100 bills," Harold M. Levy, "millionaire" of Hamilton, Ont., and Chicago, landed in the hands of the detective bureau.

The silk and rose-scented trail over which he led his bride ended disastrously, according to the police when bootleggers, auto agents and lingerie houses from Chicago to Kenosha, Wis., began to complain that they had pushed checks for Levy which came back from a Hamilton bank marked "no funds."

Out Again; In Again.

Levy was returned to Chicago by Detective Sergeants Quitter and Hacks, who were awaiting him when he was released from custody in Milwaukee, after paying a fine of $50 and costs on a charge of passing a bad check.

His bride, sadly disillusioned, but still cherishing memories of her brief taste of life in suites in the Congress and other expensive hotels where Levy lived her, had been deserted several days. Her father, Joseph Shacks, who conducts an "antifinical" career established at the Milwaukee avenue address, went to Kenosha and brought her home where she found herself shielded after her husband's arrest.

Upon his return to the city Levy appeared to forget all about his rich connections in the Canadian city and declared his brother, who is not a Rockefeller Room Style shop at 2345 Milwaukee avenue, would come to his rescue.

Levy, who is thirty years old, took his wife, who is nineteen years old from the home of her parents on November 26, according to detectives. They first went to the Congress Hotel, where they occupied expensive rooms for two days. Levy, the police declare, gave a check for $50 at the Congress, which was returned from the bank as worthless.

They went from there to another large downtown hotel and when they left Levy is alleged to have received the process. He ordered an automobile, the officers say, and gave a check for $6700 in payment, but after he and the girl had been driven about 15 or 20 miles they turned back and asked for the return of the check. He is also said to have given an $800 order for silk underwear and hosiery from a Chicago house, but the firm became suspicious and failed to fill the order, although he was permitted to carry away some silk stockings.

Levy is wanted in Hamilton on charges of having obtained money from some local merchants by false pretences. He posed there as an expert window dresser.

HAMILTON PASTOR ON MARRIAGE

Once Refused to Marry a Couple Because Groom Was Intoxicated

A marriage license cannot be regarded as a mandate instructing a minister to perform the ceremony. This was the stand taken last Sunday night in a sermon delivered by Rev. Dr. Whiting, pastor of the Centenary Methodist Church, Hamilton and City Clerk Kent, issuer of marriage licenses for Hamilton, agreed with Rev. Mr. Whiting Monday morning when approached on the subject.

Rev. Mr. Whiting stated that on one occasion he had actually declined to marry a young couple when the groom was under the influence of liquor, although the girl was perfectly willing to go through the ceremony, despite the condition of the groom. On this occasion, Rev. Mr. Whiting said, the groom asserted that he had a license and could force the minister to perform the ceremony. Mr. Whiting's reply was to the effect that he would like to see the city hall that could force him to marry a couple he thought should not be married.

Licenses

On occasions City Clerk Kent has refused to issue a marriage license. He would not issue one if the applicant was under the influence of liquor, he said, and no minister could perform the ceremony when one of the parties is under the influence of liquor without laying himself open to heavy penalties.

Asked whether there was any intimidation as to the right of the persons to marry before the license was granted, Mr. Kent replied that the applicant was always asked certain questions and was compelled to make an affidavit regarding the right to marry.

"They have to comply with the law," said Mr. Kent. "I have refused licenses on certain occasions when the applicant did not comply with the law."

St. Catharines, Jan. 24.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, who delivered several addresses on Social Hygiene in this city during the week, is no believer in apartment houses, according to a statement made by her to the Canadian Press during her visit. "There is no need in a country the size of Canada to pile one house up on another," she declared. "Ideal conditions of housekeeping should be easily accomplished."

In this regard the eminent English suffrage leader, who proudly confesses that she is now "a Canadian by domicile and desire," admits a tremendous interest in the subject of co-operative housekeeping.

When Mrs. Pankhurst uses the term "co-operative housekeeping" the minds of readers may picture several families crowded into one house, but that is not her idea. Her desire is to eliminate the drudgery of the home and retain the privacy through the communal use of laundry, cook, vacuum cleaner, kitchen, etc., which would be located apart from the residences, but near to them.

For the sake of example, she pictures a community of fifty families each living in their own residences constructed without thought of kitchens, laundry tubs, or the various so-called necessities of modern real estate construction. To hire the services of a cook would come high and one family, but if all fifty were to co-operate in the hiring of a cook and waitresses, the best of table service and cuisine could be secured similarly with laundry. A community of that size could support six most modern laundry.

A community dining hall, library dance hall and hospital would follow with highly skilled and trained people to look after them. There is nothing new under the sun, said Mrs. Pankhurst admits that her scheme has been tried in the past, about one hundred years ago, when various religious brotherhoods lived in such communities. However, Mrs. Pankhurst thinks the experiment is well worth while trying again.

TWO GIRLS AND A BOY AND ALL DOING WELL

Dublin, Ontario Family Gets Increase of Three—Record Surpassed in India Recently

Seaforth, Ont., Jan. 24.—At the Seaforth Memorial Hospital Monday, Mrs. Frank Dunnie, of Dublin, Ont., gave birth to triplets—two girls and a boy. Dr. Hugh H. Ross, the physician in attendance, stated that all three babies were fine and healthy, and perfectly formed, weighing 5, 5½ and 6 pounds respectively, and that the mother was doing well. Unusual interest is being taken by the citizens in the event, which is the first of its kind in the town.

Under the heading "Extraordinary Birth Record," a letter appears in the London Lancet from Major-General P. Hehir, I.M.S. (retired), who writes: "I am sure that many your readers will be interested in a case of five infants at a birth. Five perfect infants were recorded by the last mail from India. The lady doctor in charge of the King Edward Memorial Hospital at Rohtak, in the Punjab, states that a Brahmin woman in the hospital gave birth to five baby boys. At five she divorced and specifically formed and of fairly large size. They and their mother were reported to be doing well on the day following."

BURLAP SACKS CLOTHE RUSSIA'S NEEDY

Serviceable Clothing Made From Containers for the Poor and Deserving

Moscow, Jan. 24.—Millions of American burlap sacks which were brought to Russia filled with sugar, flour, corn or rice for the starving population are to be made into garments this winter to help relieve the famine in clothing among the poor. The sacks are now accumulating in warehouses since the American Relief Administration shipments began to arrive mainly in cotton bags.

Experience has shown that Russian women, taught by hard times the value of burlap sacks as cloth soon turn out a serviceable overcoat or a dress. One sack is placed inside the other, a hole cut for the head, and place for the arms. Double sleeves or pockets are made from the third sack. For wear in cold weather, the garment is made thicker by "quilting" with whatever is most handy, articles such as newspaper, rags, pieces of paper or leather, sheared wool or tea case fibre being used. The sacks will be turned over to old people's homes, orphanages and various other institutions.

With such an excellent program arranged no doubt the popular Regent Theatre will be favored with a bumper audience tonight.

A LAND WHERE MUSIC EXCITES TO RIOT

Hindus and Mohammedans Differ in Regard to Music

(By Canadian Press)

Bangalore, India, Jan. 24.—Friction between Hindu and Moslem communities has resulted in serious disturbances in Tipitur, in Mysore province, during recent weeks. Numerous assaults have been reported, and on several occasions the shops have had to close their doors. Special police forces have been called out, and now have the situation well in hand, however.

The cause of these disturbances lies in part in the differing attitudes of Hindus and Mohammedans regarding music. Hindu religious ceremonies are usually accompanied by music, Mohammedans object to music at their services, and are seriously disturbed when interrupted by musical sounds.

In 1892, the government permitted the reconstruction of a mosque within the Hindu quarters, with the distinct understanding that the Mohammedans should on no account object to processions with music passing in front thereof. The Mohammedans now contend that since music was never played before this mosque from 1892 to about the present time, permission should always be disallowed for processions with music in that place. The Hindus, on the other hand, have been asking since 1920 for permission to take an image in procession in the neighborhood, absolutely without intentions. The government, after a prolonged inquiry, decided to admit the request.

The present trouble began at the time of the Dusserah procession last September, when the authorities of the government refused to grant a license, on account of the excited feelings of both communities and the fear of any disposable crowds in the city. In the following month, however, a procession was allowed before the mosque on account, the Mohammedans left the mosque in a body as a protest, and the procession passed quietly.

This incident led to high feelings between the two communities. Many individual assaults occurred, and general apprehensions of a breach of the peace were prevalent. On account of these circumstances, the Hindu shops were closed for two days. The district magistrate has issued orders that a large police force reached the place in time to prevent further disorder. Precautionary measures are present, and are keeping careful watch over the district.

Scotch Curlers Are Beaten

Bet, Receive Warm Reception at Toronto Where They are Banqueted

(By J. Stewart MacPhail)
In Toronto Telegram.

When teams meet, bets warm, as the truth o' this gem said adage was amply demonstrated in the town o' Toronto yesterday frae the meenit our ever watchful curlin' vestigators landed, Scotia stepped off the train at Union Station—aboon twelve-thirty mid-nicht—which is just about the time they get their heads on the pillow after a perfect day.

They, Prime Pipe Band wi' them was a', their war paint on, an' pleyed the Scotchmen up tae the knocker, let in wan deservedly rewarded for they hoped they were only there it an entertainin' capacity an' no as defeated hats in the game tae bahoo themsel's when in Toronto.

The civic reception was declared by the last record of them tae be the finest among the many gold aces they had yet received, bit when it got the length o' the speeches they were fairly dumfoosed at the patriotic tone gae freely oo' earnestly expressed by each an' a' them. A' the local speakers at the City Hall, Kiwanis Edward an' the Granite Club dwelt on the greatness o' the Empire an' the couriers oom' frae an' the pride they felt in being part and parcel o' the great, auld Union Jack.

STRENUOUS TIME.

Our Scotch frenes are still talkin' about the curlin' an' the fun they had on the Atlantic which is said tae be the worst experienced in twenty years, an' it is a credit tae the hale majesty o' them her already made up their mind tae stay at hame, when once they ge back again. This is perhaps the result o' so many defeats so far, as some o' the local curlers has expressed it, bit nevertheless, Sidd Abe Lincoln says' play here yesterday, an' on the whole a better lot than were here in 1912.

LOSE BOTH MATCHES.

Baith the matches played yesterday went against the Scotchmen, bot only by narrow majorities in the total scores, the afternoon game being forty fifteen points and the evening an-wes only nine an' seventeen.

The Renfrewshire quarter, represented by James Walkden, Provost Lang, A. Lorimer and J. Y. Rankin wears the best o' the bauch on yesterday's play, although the captain, Col 'Aikman, was in great' form in the evening game against the strong Park Lhale rink, skipped by John McBain which he, won by three points.

W. J. Jackson is another Toronto Bonnie in the curling world, an' demonstrated his ability by only losing by two shots from Shelburnian —— gettin' a great victory over Major Bruston's expert Granite four by three shots.

TEST MATCH.

The big test match is due to be played today commencing at two o'clock on the Granite rink. There is sure tae be a big crood tae see the game an' the Scotchmen will likely appear in their full curling dress, as they at present a knickerbocker suite o' Harris an' tweed was the big "Balmoral" bonnet which they usually all don on special occasions.

GRANITE BANQUET.

The banquet given last night by the Granite Club surpassed anything that this popular club has tackled, the decorations being very effective and the head table was quite an illustrious one with Frank Shannon, president, in the chair and on his right were Lieutenant-Governor Harry Cockshutt Controller Hiltz, Hugh Munro, Col Fraser, Dr. V. H. McWilliams, Major Astle, Geo. S. Lyon, Dr. Tait, H. H. Matoulmes and Jas. Nicolson, and on the left were Lt.-Col. Aitkinen, Lt.-Col. Ronnie, Major Brunton, Major Marshall, Rev. Dr. R. N. Burns, G. S. Peavey, Major Le Pan, F. J. Lucas and Dr. Wylie.

How Frontenacs Beat Cornwall

Game Was Very Exciting and Cornwall Net Guardian Put Up Great Game

Playing Cornwall to a standstill with their speedy skating and great back-checking, Frontenacs won the most exciting game seen so far on the local Arena this season when they defeated the Easterners by a score of 5-2 after sixty minutes of hair-raising hockey in which Gallinger, the Cornwall goal-tender, played a big part. He had horseshoes strung all over him but he played good hockey as well and in the first period and for the biggest part of the second period he was unbeatable and put up a marvellous performance. Had it not been for Gallinger's sportsmanlike work, the score would have been much greater. He was only on shots that were almost impossible for him to handle and was the great Gallinger beside. McNevin in the Frontenac end certainly played his best game last night and he was much better than his average. His average fan gave him credit for being able to play. He was right on the job to and on more than one occasion he saved what looked to be a sure goal against his team. Not the first period especially, he slid out and made a wonderful stop when Lazzee and Hughson combined and were right in on him. He took Larose off his feet and saved a great play.

Frontenacs owe their victory to sheer hard work and back-checking. While their combination was not nearly what it should be, they made up for this on individual efforts and it was only towards the end of the second period did they start to pass the puck.

Jack Powell yelled himself almost hoarse at the players to make them pass the puck but still they would not do it and right there is where Frontenacs will have to brush up if they intend to go up into the finals, which it it hoped they will.

Supporters of both teams were present in goodly numbers. A return game will be played in the near future.

GIANTS NOSE OUT QUINTE BATTERY BY 21 PINS

The Giants defeated the Quinte Battery Five in a league fixture at the Recreation Parlors last night by only 21 pins. It was an interesting game to be a spectator of, as both teams were evenly matched. The Battery Five won the first game by 35 pins but the Giants little by little got these back and 31 with them in the next two games and just won out by a narrow squeak. Gerald Lynch was high for the Giants and McIlsaac for the Battery Five.

Ford Car Always On the Top

Even When the Ford Employees Play Hockey They Defeat Teams Like the McLaughlin Sextette

Those hockey fans who failed to witness the encounter between the Belleville Motors and McLaughlin's Ltd., last night, missed a real treat. This time the little Ford stuck it over the big Mac. The final score was 7-3, but that does not actually indicate the play, as the losers "ran out of gas" on several occasions and had to wait until the service car arrived. The "Lizzies" were hitting on all four last evening, while a few spark plugs were missing on their opponents' side. The goal keeping of both "Count" Mellet for the Macs and "Fat" Doran for the "Henrys" was all that could be desired, John Ros Roach and Chief Benedict would look sick beside either of these net guardians. The Count was kept busy counting the goals, but as this is his first appearance he looks better than on previous stage next time. His opponent practically covered the goal-mouth with his huge frame, while Leo Amos Moise's team found it difficult to score.

Stub Barrett was easily the star of the game, but "punctures" and "shoecoats" were too numerous to suit him. He was by far the best man on the ice, better than stick, Amos Moise's excellent work kept McLaughlin's in the running, while Chapman did a wicked six-cylinder buck. Doug Elliott was stepping on the gas all evening and he is a hard man to pass Marshall on the road. Saylor was a tower of strength to the losers. He says his real game is ping pong and billiards. The remaining members of both teams ably supported the aforementioned players.

HOCKEY GAME HERE THIS EVENING

The Belleville High School puckchasers will be at home to the Napanee Collegiate squad to-night. The locals have already turked away enough victories to cinch the group and should win to-night's game without much trouble. The Napanee team are considerably segregated and should give the homesters a harder tussle. Ritchie Arnott and Bill Strach can may not be able to play to-night. Stub Barrett will handle the bell.

TICKET SPECULATORS THRIVE IN RUSSIA

Moscow, Jan. 24.—Moscow this winter is a profitable field for the speculator in theatre tickets. At the theatre box offices there is much rush for seats for the ballets and other popular pieces that queues are often formed, and many persons are ready to pay the higher prices to save standing in line.

Many workers who, when communism was at its height, had access to the theatres free of charge now purchase regularly from speculators, apparently taking it for granted that the new economic policy, and all that goes with it—the good and the bad—is here to stay.

The people of the city flock every night into the lighted streets. Scores of theatres, more than in the pre-war days, cater to their amusement, and close by are the restaurants and cafes, the gambling casinos and the cabarets.

Jack Dempsey Anxious For Real Action

Heavyweight Champion Arrives in New York—Says He Wants Plenty of Boxing During the Year

New York, Jan. 24.—Just the least little bit softened by his Christmas vacation, Jack Dempsey, the world's heavyweight champion, returned to New York "looking for a fight."

"I feel fine, boys; got a little more weight than I usually carry because I haven't done any work. Willing to meet 'em all as fast as they pop up," the champion said to a crowd of friends that met him.

With the exception of puffed cheeks and just the hint of a roll around the belt Dempsey looked in splendid shape.

"You know 'Doc' (Jack Kearns) does the business and I do the fighting. I don't know anything about any prospects. 'Doc' will be here tomorrow and he can tell you if anything is on right away," he said.

Dempsey was accompanied by his brother, Johnny. He said he was going to start light training at once "over in Jersey," and that he was going to get down to hard work in New York with Harry Grebs and George Godfrey, a big colored heavyweight.

The champion was protecting a tender left arm from the crowd. "Stopped of in Salt Lake City and was head first into a vaccination. Been wanting one for a long time," he explained.

Dempsey said he wanted to do a lot of fighting this year.

"I don't like the stage or the movies," he said.

He added that a motion picture concern which handled the Carpentier pictures had offered him a contract, but he declined because one clause provided that he should remain out of the ring for a year.

"I'll fight anyone, fellows. You know all the contenders and I know them all and I'm not making one exception or trying to get away from any of them," he said.

Seeking for Millions in Gold Near the Coast of Africa —Have Tunnelled to Wreck

London, Jan. 24.—Treasure seekers have located a wreck on the bottom of the sea just east of Cape Colony, which is believed still to shelter gold and jewels valued at $10,000,000, according to reports reaching here from South Africa.

The East Indiaman Grosvenor went down in 1782, and the records show she carried great treasures in her strong boxes. One hundred and forty years exposure to the action of salt water has not destroyed them, it is argued, and a company has been formed to conduct salvaging operations. The wreck lies close to the land. A tunnel has been dug from the shore to the hulk of the Grosvenor, and it is expected soon to have divers in the remains of the vessel searching for the long lost valuables.

BABE BORN IN JAIL LOSES ITS EYESIGHT

Means Now Being Taken by Authorities to Remedy The Deficiency

London, Ont., Jan. 24.—Authorities are discussing to-day where the responsibility lies for the fact that the infant born in Middlesex county jail on New Year's day may go through life blinded.

The mother was held princed to the jail for 30 days for some minor offense and she served the entire period, being taken to Victoria Hospital at the expiration of her sentence with her infant in her arms. And since then the city of London is endeavoring to make amends in some measure to the innocent victim of man's laws. Two specialist surgeons have been hired to attend the child while there is still a chance of saving its sight.

TORONTO RECTOR CAUSES FRICTION

There was a tense moment at last night's annual vestry meeting at St. Barnabas church, Danforth avenue, when a resolution with reference to the attitude of the rector, Rev. F. S. Powell, at a meeting of the Parish Guild, was broached. The rector was forestalled with a decision from the Chancellor of the Diocese, and discussion was nipped in the bud.

The trouble originated in the complaint of officers of the women's organization that the rector was endeavoring to unduly direct the activities. This resulted in new officers being elected.

PROPORTIONAL REPRESENTATION

A rather peculiar situation will arise in the Legislature now in session at Toronto and in the Federal House when it convenes shortly at Ottawa, when the redistribution bills now impending in both Parliaments come up for discussion. The champions of this electoral reform are certain to develop great activity in both places. It should be remembered that proportional representation is advocated by representatives of all political parties but the Progressive element is definitely committed to the measure inasmuch as it forms a part of their political platform.

The Western Progressives are strong advocates of the proposed measure, particularly those in the urban areas and the more densely populated rural districts, while the United Farmers of Ontario now in power at Toronto will likely be somewhat at variance with their Western brothers in regard to the legislation. Hon. Mr. Drury and his cohorts doubtless know that the adoption of such a measure would mean political suicide, as the preponderance of densely settled areas constituted of large cities and towns in the Province would undoubtedly send members who would be adverse to U.F.O. principles. Therefore it proportional representation is introduced at Toronto during the present session the ardor of the Drury Government will likely have been found to be somewhat dampened.

It will be extremely interesting as a basis of comparison to note just how closely the two different factions of the U.F.O. will adhere to their platform principles when the measure comes up for discussion both at Toronto and Ottawa.

We wonder whether or not these members will belong to the finer type of pessimists, who look mischance full in the face and still go forward unhopeful yet undismayed.

EUROPEAN DANGERS

The situation in Europe appears to be developing into an economic war in which the chief factor is the mark and the franc, coupled with the rigid determination of France to exact material resources to recover her just reparations and the equally arrogant attitude of the Rhinelander to place every obstacle in her way to prevent the carrying out of a carefully prepared programme.

France at the main appears to be keeping within its technical rights as established in the Treaty of Versailles, while solidifying and extending her occupancy of the Ruhr region. In these operations the French have met with the approval of the governors of Great Britain and Italy and the United States is rather non-committal in the matter and has withdrawn her forces of occupation from Coblenz.

It looks as if France in exercising the right of a preferred creditor is jeopardizing the already very shaky social and economic health of Europe and there is a chance that if this condition is more disturbed, she may draw herself into a state of continental chaos which may surpass even that existent during the Great War.

France should not forget that there are other large creditors in this affair and it is altogether likely if the French are successful in their venture these other nations will proceed to collect their due toll in like manner.

It must, of course, be remembered that France has a sore heart and cannot forget her own downtrodden position subsequent to 1870, when she was forced into submission and compelled to pay every cent of Germany's war levy. Yet, at the same time in her impulsiveness she should be cognizant of the claims pending of other National creditors, and should be extremely careful in her present manoeuvres, so that same will not be jeopardized by any continental upheaval and economic unrest which may lead to social ruin.

John Bull, as usual, is moving with apparent slowness, but this is traditional and characteristically methodical—He will be there or thereabouts when he deems it necessary.

HERE AND THERE

WHENCE COMES VIRTUE OF REAL COD-LIVER OIL

The food value of cod liver oil, long recognized by the medical profession, is now known to be chiefly dependent on its richness in that vitamin distinguished by the first letter of the alphabet.

But where does the cod get his "vitamin A?" No animal, be he land or marine, can make vitamins. He must obtain them from vegetation, or from other animals who have thus obtained them.

An editorial writer in the Journal of the American Medical Association tells us that the primary source of vitamin for the cod is to be found in sea-weed and diatoms. The oil obtained from its liver is there merely a convenient storage battery for this substance and not of all the factory that produces it. We read in the paper named above:

"It is obviously of great importance to know the origin of any product that is indispensable to human or animal welfare. In the case of vitamin A has been established that green plant pigment is a significant part in the production of the food factor, just as the vegetable kingdom has long been known to synthesize other essentials of diet which the animal organism cannot construct. Studies have indicated that vitamin A can actually be produced by the green plant from inorganic sources.

"It thus becomes clear how the higher land animals and man draw their supplies of vitamin A directly or otherwise from green plants, and how their own tissues seem to lack the power to manufacture it.

"But how about the marine animals which appear in many cases to be particularly rich in vitamin A? Investigation has demonstrated that among their sources of foods the marine algae share with land plants the power to synthesize it. And most recently the production of large amounts of vitamin A by pure cultures of diatoms in sterilized sea water has been discovered.

HOW BOGUS ANTIQUE IVORIES ARE MADE

Many returning tourists delight in having acquired antique ivories, pieces in leather-covered boxes, often bearing the crest of some noble French family. They are, however, the victims of a new school of "bone sculptors" which is making Paris its centre. The "artists" are specializing in imitations of carvings executed between the ninth and sixteenth centuries. It has been found that by simply boiling in infusions of tobacco juice and an alcoholic infusion of raisin seeds or washing in hydrogen peroxide, followed by an oven treatment, it is possible to give the finest coloring of age in a short time.—Scientific American.

John evidently thinks the government is a beautiful thing, like a child's faith in Santa Claus. Soon who is to pay for the presents which he expects later, however, will begin to wonder pects the government to put in his stocking.

THE ROMANY HEART

Esther Hill, in Kansas City Star

The moonlight's white on the trail to-night,
And the grey dust's black with rain;
On either side, outstretching wide,
Is the loneliness of the plain.
A horse whirl whistles among the thistles
And the stars are hard and bright,
And, oh, but it's I that could tell of it—
The beauty and magic and spell of it,
The dank, sweet sunburned smell of it—
The gypsy trail by night!

My feet are bound in a dull, drab round,
Of duty and not desire;
But the soul in me is a thing born free
And touched with a living fire,
In dreams I wander alone and yonder,
The trails I have loved and passed;
For the moonlight trail is the gypsy's road—
And a pack of dreams is a gypsy's load—
The red god's faith is the gypsy's code,
And the gypsy's bond holds fast.

The moonlight pales on those silvered trails,
As the patient, night wears on;
Till the east is grey with a wan, new day
And the skulking coyote's gone,
Yet I lie dreaming of campfires gleaming,
Wherever the good stars shine;
For mine is the joy of the campfire wire,
In the gypsy toil and the gypsy strife,
In the wild, free run of the gypsy life—
And a Romany heart is mine!

PRESS OPINIONS

EQUALITY OF THE SEXES
(Ottawa Journal)

Decision of the Free State Government to put Republican women on the same footing as men, so far as crime is concerned, will be justified by those familiar with present-day conditions on Dublin. Neurotic girls are among the most active revolutionaries, for the simple reason that because they are females they have more fads. They disfigure the walls of the city with lying propaganda, and they are active carriers of documents, arms and ammunition. Some of them have ever been known to accompany men on expeditions of murder, remaining near in their dwellings until required, and taking them back when used, relying for safety on the chivalry of those whose deaths they were out to encompass.

SENTIMENT VS. ACTION
(Woodstock Sentinel Review)

The official statement accompanying the withdrawal of the American troops from the Rhine was simply that the president deemed it expedient at this time. It is generally and naturally interpreted as an evidence o the president's disapproval of France's action, in France it is officially stated that no formal protest against the occupation of the Ambrican area from Washington. On the American side, it is pointed out that copies of Secretary Hughes's speech, in which he said that "the alternative of forcible measures to obtain reparations is not an attractive one," were sent to France. The French retort is that the expression of a sentiment is a different thing from the making of a proposition.

Apparently the expression of a sentiment is about all the United States is at present prepared to contribute to the clearing up of the European mess, and it is not likely to accomplish much.

GREEK ATROCITIES
(Presbyterian Witness)

Mustapha Kemal and other Turkish nationalists charge that the Allies they have found in the devastation by the Greek army at Smyrna a sufficient justification for their gathering of the big all Greeks from territories under their sway. But while it has never been contended that the Allies were guilty of unwarranted attacks upon the Turkish population, there is an overwhelming mass of testimony to the policy and the records of the two nations. It has for ages been the settled attitude of the Turk to treat the subjects of minorities of a superior race by massacre and deportation, while with the Greek persecution of political rivals and killing of inhabitants have been the result of bitter passion and in considerable part retaliation long endured. Turks in old Greece and Macedonia are accorded more liberty than twenty days ago the Christian population in Turkey. One has only to read Greek history and Turkish history to see the enormous racial difference between the two nations. While the one has produced a great civilization and has made a valuable contribution to art, science and scholarship, the other has been, and still is, a people unfitted for governing nor to the progress of the world, but casting a blight over every land it has ever been. The Greek atrocities are only an incident in the history of a once great, but now broken people, while the other acts on the part of Turkey are characteristic of her whole history and environment. Few modern Turks have acquired a superficial polish; but it is only skin deep. Beneath the surface still lies the beast.

Winter Sports in Canada

Among the countries of the world Canada has long been without a peer as a summer resort. To-day it challenges the hitherto undisputed supremacy of Switzerland as the realm of winter sports. Who has not heard or read of St. Moritz, the price of the Swiss people and for many years the winter time Mecca of Europe? Canada has a score or more of places where all that St. Moritz can offer in the way of winter sports is not only duplicated but surpassed. The fame of these is spreading beyond the confines of this continent to lands across the seas. No longer is the Dominion pictured as a land which hibernates for such a long and trying winter period. The truth regarding the invigorating and exhilarating winter climate of this country, with its joy giving and health imparting sports, is at great an advertisement for Canada as the enthusiastic laudations of the players of no summer and early fall.

Quebec, the ancient and picturesque, Ottawa, a capital to be proud of, and a host of other cities and towns might be named as worthily claiming the attention of those who delight in the season's sports. But the Canadian winter of 1923, because of the event, is the bid, substantial, and progressive city of Montreal. If that municipality is which the past and the present, the old and the new are harmoniously blend and combine, had nothing else to point to but Mount Royal it would still have much to boast of. But in addition to the famed toboggan slide of that same beautiful height, there are many attractions in store to charm and delight every visitor.

It would indeed be almost impossible to detail in a single article the variety of the winter sports and recreations that Montreal will arrange throughout the balance of the month and all of February. The Winter Sports Committee, selected by the citizens, is responsible for the arrangements which hold particular interest in an exhibition of skating, skiing, curling, snowshoeing, hockey, ice-racing, tobogganing and the like. Every Saturday in the period named, special athletic contests and exhibitions are held at the Montreal Ski Club, while every other "effort" sport has its special place on the programme. In double-lined, long-tailed coats, the ski-ers of such a remarkable brotherhood as Winnipeg, varied in costume and masquerade, belts and other social functions, spell which light parades build the most fascinating natural surroundings. Here is the glamor of romance over all, but there is also behind it the spirit of real Canadianism that shows how to blend its play and recreation with its work and to belief to the land that it loves.

Montreal has shared no court to show that Canada as a winter resort need take second place to Switzerland, or to the Canadian National Railways which seen in such plans and projects as an opportunity worthy of developing business, but of spreading knowledge of Canada beyond its own boundaries as well as among Canadians themselves.

CHECKING UP

One morning, a young colored man wandered into a drug store and asked the proprietor if he might use his telephone. Permission being granted, the youth went into the booth, and the druggist overheard the following: "Ah'd like to speak to Mist' John son. ... Yes, sir; Mist Johnson ... This Mist' Johnson? Say, Mist' Johnson, you've been wonderin' if you' raced a boy to cut yo' grass an' run yo' car an' help around de house? .... Yo' cut a boy does it? Yo' gotta'n outstep with him!..Uh, huh. When the boy left the booth, the druggist called to him.

"If you're looking for a job, I can give you one here," he said. "We need someone to make himself useful."

"Much obliged, boss," said the youth; "but Ah've got a job. Ah works for Mist' Johnson. Ah just been checkin' mahself up."

PORTUGAL FOCUS ANXIOUS EYES TOWARD AFRICA

Is Threatened With Loss of Her Territories There

(By Canadian Press)

Lisbon, Jan. 24.—Portugal is threatened with the possible loss of her important African colonial possessions, according to Admiral Leote do Rego, who has caused something of a sensation by giving an interview to the Diario de Lisboa in which he declares that Mozambique, on the east coast, and Angola, on the west coast of Africa, may be invaded by troops of the South African Union.

The Union intends to obtain possession of those territories by fair means or foul," the admiral declares. "It is time that the people of Portugal know the truth. They should prepare to defend their colonies before it is too late. It is reported," the admiral continues, "that General Smuts is concentrating troops on the frontiers, and that he means business. Portugal, deprived of those possessions, will be whittled to nothing among the nations of the world, for her colonial holdings constitute her importance."

The press is demanding that the Government inform the people as to what really is transpiring," alleging as the same time that all questions raised in Parliament on this subject are dismissed with vague and unsatisfactory answers."

PEOPLE WILL TALK

We may go through this world, but we will be very slow,
If we listen to all that is said as we go;
We'll be worried and fretted and kept in a stew,
For mischievous tongues must have something to do.

For people, will talk, you know.

If rules and modest, you'll have it presumed
That your humble position is only assumed.

But don't get excited; keep perfectly cool.

If reserving and noble, they'll rest
Out their spleen,
You'll hear some loud blats that you're selfish and mean;
If upright and honest and fair as the day,
They'll call you a rogue in a sly sneaking way.

For people will talk, you know.

NIAGARA IN WINTER

The countless thousands who annually visit the Cataract of Niagara propounce it the greatest natural wonder on the continent of America. Little less in sublimity and grandeur than the waterfall itself is the journey through which the waters rush onward to Lake Ontario after their awful plunge over the cliff. For a little distance from the foot of the falls, the stream is comparatively placid; but gathering momentum as it flows onward narrows it fills the gorge and rushes over the rocks in foamy rapids; here breaking into deluges of spray, and there springing high into the air as it dashes against some rocky obstacle in its mad race for the calmer reaches of the bed below. Never are the famous falls more gloriously beautiful than during the winter months. A snowy mantle covers the surrounding shores. The trees and shrubs, bathed perpetually in the glint of the rays of the rising stream, wear garments of glittering hoar-frost, marvellously wrought and trimmed with loveliest lace. The rocks and boulders along the course become huge blocks of gleaming ice, and mammoth icicles form the walls of Cave of the Winds and down the step sides of the gorge. But no power can check the mighty flood, whose onward waters take on a deeper, darker hue from the whiteness of their setting. In unabated volume they sweep majestically along, tossing high in the air their spindrift-like sprays as if in proud disdain of the tyrant Ice-King's iron rule. The Grand Trunk Railway System offers exceptional facilities to reach "Niagara the Glorious." 194.27,31,23,7,10

Many Pertinent Questions On Order Paper by Conservatives

Drury Government Asked to Explain Their Stewardship

CENSURE FOR GOVT.

Has Not Improved Agricultural Conditions During Its Tenure of Office

At the opening of the Provincial Legislature at Toronto yesterday, several questions were placed on the order paper by Conservative members.

Hon. Peter Smith—Enquiry as to know what is the total amount of money borrowed by the Government from the end of the fiscal year 1921 to Dec. 31, 1922.

Hon. G. S. Henry wants to know what was the total amount paid out by the Departments of Highways after Oct. 31, 1922 for the accounts incurred during the fiscal year 1922.

Chas. McCrea, of Sudbury, is enquiring as to total number of sales of pulp and timber areas from Nov. 1, 1921, to Oct. 31, 1922.

Other questions include the amount of moneys that have been paid by the Government to Hon. N. W. Rowell, K.C., or his firm for services, and to E. T. Harding or his firm.

Enquiry is also made as to Arthur W. Roebuck's present connection with the Government.

Dr. Forbes Godfrey asks under what ruling the Government paid money to Justices Riddell and Latchford for services on the timber commission.

Mr. McCrea is asking for a return regarding the appointment of Allen MacDonald, Crown Timber Agent at Fort Frances.

W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal, is asking for a return showing all correspondence, telegrams, reports and investigations made and Orders-in-Council relating to the dismissal of S. G. Rogers, clerk of the Division Court, clerk of a Ontario County.

CENSURE FOR GOVERNMENT.

Resolution, practically of want of confidence in the Government, is to be moved by Sinclair (Lib.), as follows:—"This House regrets that the Executive Government, supported in the House by a bloc of purely agricultural representatives, has failed to take adequate action for agricultural betterments, although elected upon a farmers platform as an alleged protest against the indifference of the former administration to the needs of agricultural discouraged in; and this House urges the Government even at this late date, to initiate measures by taking active steps to improve the agricultural industry of Ontario."

DESCRIPTIVE ADDRESS AT BETHEL HALL

Returned Missionary Tells of Tropical Lands, Illustrating His Remarks With Lantern Views

At Bethel Hall last evening before a large audience Mr. F. Peer, a missionary from St. Vincent, British West Indies, gave a very interesting description of his work among the natives of that island illustrated by magic lantern views. The views were very interesting showing the wonderful work which missionaries are doing and also the terrible conditions under which the natives live. Mr. Peer has spent some years in St. Vincent and only returned home to recuperate after a severe attack of malaria fever. Mr. Peer will receive his addresses each night this week.

GOLD VEINS UNDERLYING NOVA SCOTIA AND LABRADOR SOIL

Area of Three Thousand Square Miles of Gold Bearing Rock in These Districts

ACTIVITY EXPANDING

Several Prospecting Expeditions Proposed—Gold Rush Will be Regular Stampede

(By Canadian Press)

Halifax, N.S., Jan. 24.—News of various gold seeking expeditions and encouraging reports of untapped veins of the precious metal lying under the frozen soil of northern Labrador, to say nothing of the acres of gold bearing soil in Nova Scotia, have led those who study the undercurrents of progress, to forecast for 1923 a gold rush in these two localities that will rival the Alaska boom of a few years ago.

It is an acknowledged fact that the precious minerals contained in the soil of Nova Scotia have never been taken advantage of to the degree their abundance warrants. This has been due to many reasons, according to the Department of Mines, chief among them being inefficient and unscientific methods of extracting the ore, and unwise financing.

Nova Scotia gold is obtained almost entirely from vein workings, the auriferous quartz bearing veins running parallel to one another. The Atlantic shore from Canso to Yarmouth is occupied by the auriferous strata and the width of the district varies from ten to fifty miles. The area of the gold bearing sedimentary rocks in this portion of the province is estimated at three thousand square miles. During the last few months great strides have been made in gold mining operations in Nova Scotia and there is a promise of still greater advancement, judging from reports of activities among mine operators who are installing modern machinery and expanding workings. It is also stated, by experts, that there is great room for advancement along this line, not only in extended operations but in making more complete use of the resources at hand, as in the case of the conservation and development of the by-products, of silver and arsenic ore.

W. F. Jennison, well known geologist and mining expert, stated recently that examining a mine working in Nova Scotia obtaining ore dollars to the ton, he sampled tailings which yielded twenty-four dollars to the ton. Because of such wastage, he said, gold mining in Nova Scotia hitherto had been a failure.

Cochrane Hill gold mine, thirteen miles from Wine Harbor in Guysboro County, although under water twelve years, has been pumped out and is working. The silver alone in this mine showed twenty-nine dollars to the ton and would pay for all operations, leaving the gold almost profit. Tests of mine showed gold values of $304.00 per ton. On the property at Cochran Hill there are thirteen gold bearing veins that have never been touched. Utilizing hydro power near at hand, the Cochran Hill mines will be operated this spring by a thirty thousand dollar electrically operated plant, according to present indications.

Mr. Jennison claims that the gold bearing quartz veins in Nova Scotia are more irregular or "pockety" than those of Porcupine and no more likely to "pinch" out at shallow depths.

Outstralling the prospects for Nova Scotia, Northern Labrador seems to be in for a regular stampede. The recent Stag Bay revival has dazzled the boldens of claims in that district with prospects of great wealth and inquiries are pouring in from all over North America. One company already formed intend starting operations as soon as navigation opens in the spring.

In the meantime, it is understood, several expeditions of prospectors lured by the prospect of gold, will set out regardless of ice and winter storm conditions, in hopes of getting on the ground early with its attendant advantages. Some who are familiar with the Labrador coast declare that the ice at the season of the year will not offer such a formidable barrier as it will later in the season.

Are Women Overworked

Yes, hundreds of thousands of them are. This applies to the housewife and mother who struggles on a small income to make both ends meet by doing all the washing, ironing, cooking, making and mending for a large family. There are others who not only support themselves working in factories, shops, stores and offices, but often have an invalid father or mother to support, therefore do housework besides. These are the women who break down early and are afflicted with various forms of female weakness. Ninety-eight out of every 100 women who have tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have proved that it is a successful remedy for woman's ills. For nearly fifty years it has been restoring women to health, and it will pay every ailing woman to try it.

Insurance Men Hear Managing Director Address

in every normal man, (or female) to accumulate.

Possibly a handshake from a fellow worker will prevent a man from quitting the game, and thus increasing the most adverse advertisement which the business can possibly receive. Every man is at some time or other needs sanitary power and new life, and by taking full advantage of this Association, which is the fountain head, he will receive the power he requires.

Mr. Lawson explained that the Association would not necessarily do away with the under underwriter, as the Association possessed neither positive nor Talismanic powers, but the powerful moral influence which it wielded made it a safeguard for malicious interest in the business.

Mr. Lawson was given a rousing ovation, by the members present, who sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow", and gave him three cheers and a Tiger.

Mr. George F. Cole, President of the local Association was the efficient chairman, and Mr. Weber, of the Capital Life Insurance Company of Ottawa was another speaker. Mr. Weber, who has been a member of the Association for thirteen years, told how the Association had established good fellowship and abolished unfair methods in the business. By being associated with the Association, the men heard inspiring addresses by men who had been successful, and knew their subjects who were real speakers, and who were able to instil solid their sanctimonies and to create enthusiasm, and turn money into their pockets. The congress at Ottawa, just recently held, was praised highly by the speaker, and described as being the finest, best and most educative meeting ever held. A few of the stipulations passed at Congress were passed out to the men by Mr. Weber.

Mr. A. Jones, Manager of Molson's Bank, and a guest, was glad to meet such a robust body of "peppy men", who were engaged in one of the greatest business of the world. Mr. Jones admitted that the men had better study to investigate the financial condition of their prospects thoroughly before approaching them in order to secure better results.

Dr. E. D. O'Flynn, who says he owes a grudge to any Association, or other representative qualities, gave an interesting recitation, the last verse of which was set to music. It was about the hereafter (one of them) and brought down the house.

Mr. T. Hendrick, of Trenton, a new man in the field, expressed pleasure at being present, as did Mr. William Bolton, who also spoke a few words. Mr. Bolton and Mr. G. Reid were anxious that Belleville receive their share of the Institutional advertising, as this city has as yet received none.

Mr. H. J. Ketcheson, one of the old-time members of the Association, and Mr. Hodge, who was in the Association when Mr. Lawson was a "boy scout", and was thankful that the Association had done away with the cut throat business methods of the old time Belleville business. Mr. Ketcheson moved a vote of thanks to the speaker of the evening.

Mr. Stephen Burrows in seconding the motion, is also one of Belleville's oldest insurance men, and one of the Association's oldest members. Mr. Burrows felt that the large companies should record the life work services of old insurance men who had aided materially in the building of the very foundation of the company, which is proving successful and rich.

Mr. G. Reid and Mr. P. Brockel moved and seconded a vote of thanks to the other speakers of the evening.

Mr. Mayberly sang it ill ill

During the banquet Mr. Sanford Burrows rendered a solo in excellent voice and Mr. Stephen Burrows also sang "Pale Britania."

DIED

The funeral will take place from his late residence, 2nd Concession of Thurlow, Sunday, February 4th, at the hour of 2.30 p.m. Service at the house at 2 o'clock. Interment Belleville Cemetery.

EXCELLENT TALK AT MONDAY LUNCHEON

three months in which the tour took in, and many interesting events were visited and covered, 30,000 miles were travelled, and 126 days were spent at sea.

His wonderful tour was proceeded to play before King Edward VII at Buckingham Palace, and in Sandringham House, where the present King also heard the musical organization. Carnegie Hall, Royal Albert Hall and Mexico were repeatedly toured, and a unique feature of the Mexican tour was the fact that there was the only place in which the natives attended the concert.

Mr. Power deserves much credit for having retained a warm spot in his heart for old Belleville, which city he constantly advertised. Even with his office in Chicago, Belleville, Canada, was always advertised as the head and home office.

Mr. Power was tendered a most hearty vote of thanks by Cubs Fred Deacon and Charlie Hanna, and the hearty hand clapping of the cubs indicated the true feeling of the club men towards Mr. Power.

The Cubs were delighted too, with the readings given by Miss Cissy Turvey, who is a natural born elocutionist, and who was aptly described as being the Doris Elizabeth Hyde, of the Belleville Lion's Club. Miss Turvey was tendered a vote of thanks by cubs Rose Wotten and Ernie Finkle.

Bill Latimer was chairman today with Charlie Hanna collecting the fares. Ernie Finkle was good fellow-ship chairman.

Guests of the Club were Miss Hallan, who accompanied Miss Turvey, and Mr. Harold Hodge.

Owing to the fact that Dr. Norman Nealson, the efficient secretary of the Belleville Lion's Club,

Flag of Tories Is Always Unfurled

Meighen Appeals to Other Political Parties

"Throw Off This Political Pretense", He Cries

Criticizes Election Methods of the Liberals

Brampton, Jan. 24.—Post County Conservative Convention met in the large auditorium of Monday night to do honor to their member of parliament, Sam Charters, at a banquet in the armouries here. Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, was the chief speaker. He was given a tremendous reception by the 600 persons who sat down to the tables. Mr. Meighen, however, had nothing new in the line of policy and critisism.

With a new government in power for thirteen months he still aimed most of his criticism at the election methods of the Liberals. He maintained, as he had done repeatedly in the past, that the people is voting on his government had made a mistake. He did take occasion to reveal some new angles on the Lake of the Woods control controversy in reply to Premier Drury's Hamilton speech. Mr. Drury, he said, now maintained he was not responsible for the legislature because of opposition in all parties in the legislature.

Lake of the Woods.

Yet, said Mr. Meighen, when he had requested that the concurrent letters from Premier Norris and Premier Drury's Hamilton speech. Mr. Drury, he said, now maintained he was not responsible for the legislature because of opposition in all parties in the legislature.

Meighen said he did not know from whom these representations were coming until Mr. Drury let the cat out of the bag by writing: "I have asked Mr. Backus to make his representations to you." Mr. Meighen also quoted letters from Premier Norris of Manitoba asking the federal government to protect Manitoba. Speaking of Canadian obligations to the empire, Mr. Meighen said he would rather be out of the empire than sticking within it with others bearing the burdens.

He appealed to other political parties "to throw off this political pretense and to state where we are while union government is at the very bag was always unfurled" and everybody knew to what it pointed.

Drury's Commissioner, Says Is Unjustified and Not Sustainable

Gordon Waldron, acting as a Commissioner for the Drury Government has issued a report on his findings in connection with the "Bon Echo" road charges. The report and his examination the engineer of the Colonization Road Department of the Government, but absent from Canada, Denison, who was responsible for the investigation, has escaped paying suc evidence does on promise to let him by his mother. Mr. Waldron finds that Mr. Denison's charges were made with the object of arousing feeling against the U.F.O.

ALDERMAN McCREARY'S LETTER TO CITY COUNCIL

Document Covering His Resignation Proves Interesting Compendium of His Views of Civic Administration

HIS REASONS

Why He Resigned From Office—As Public Protest and Under Sincere Conviction of His Duty as a Citizen

Belleville, 22nd January, 1923.

I want it to be distinctly understood in tendering my resignation as an Alderman of the City of Belleville I am doing so in the belief that a majority of my colleagues have made it remitiable' and wilful misdemeanor in delegating responsibility into incompetent hands.

When one offers himself for municipal administration, the spirit that actuates such duty should be one of humility and service; Too often successful candidates permit themselves to develop a sense of self appreciation which overrules sound judgment, and when that element combines with one of selfish intention, then the basis of 'efficient municipal administration" is faulty and good will not accrue therefrom.

Council members held a meeting at the City Hall upon the invitation of the Mayor on Monday evening the fourth instant, when all members were present excepting Alderman Paterson who was away from the city. It has been the custom for years to hold such meetings to facilitate procedure of Council at the inaugural meeting. At this particular meeting each man present agreed upon his HONOUR to abide by the decisions then arrived at in regard to the distribution of chairmanships. I wish to stress the significance of that undertaking. Let me repeat: EACH ALDERMAN PRESENT AGREED UPON HIS HONOUR TO ABIDE BY THE DECISIONS THEN ARRIVED AT IN REGARD TO THE DISTRIBUTION OF CHAIRMANSHIPS.

A discussion of qualifications of the different nominees for the various chairmanships took place. In the case of the Executive Committee there were four nominees, namely, Aldermen Robinson, Thompson, French and McCreary. Aldermen Robinson and Thompson were carried out on the first ballot, leaving Aldermen French and McCreary tied, and on the second ballot being taken Alderman McCreary had the majority, whereupon Alderman French and I shook hands across the table and he agreed that the question was settled fairly. Alderman Thompson left the meeting in anger, saying that he had headed the poll and that it was his choice to have any chairmanship he wished, that if he could not have Executive he would not accept any chairmanship, and that he would be back at the Inaugural meeting to throw a monkey-wrench into the machinery.

Other awards were made to the satisfaction of the meeting. Then a majority gave Alderman Treverton the chairmanship of Market and Property, whereupon Alderman Robinson left the meeting in anger because he was not reappointed to that chairmanship. Alderman Robinson may have the desire to administer such department of the city business but owing largely to his physical disabilities he was unable to carry on last year satisfactorily to rest of Council.

Alderman Robinson since the inaugural meeting stated that he had obtained awake in bed on Sunday night the seventh instant concocting a scheme whereby he could obtain his old chairmanship, that he "got in touch with Alderman French and others, prior to the inaugural meeting and submitted to them a proposition to throw his lot in with them if they would throw in their lot with him" and bragged that French fell for it, with the result that he gained his point.

This is an instance how the business of this city is conducted. If Aldermen have no respect for their WORD OF HONOUR it is a disgraceful exhibition to show other citizens and a very poor foundation upon which to build the business of the city's administration. Such utterly contemptible disregard of an UNDERTAKING OF HONOUR has led to the undoing of nations and individuals in the past, and history will continue to repeat itself, and rightly so!

Even had the said been a justification of the means, this action might be excusable, but I am of the opinion that the interests of the city must needs suffer through such dedution of these persons. Hope for progress, and I submit that any prejudiced public opinion will agree with me therein. It is in points of such unbusinesslike methods that I can desirous of disassociating myself from this Council, and with a view to avoiding a better public interest in our city affairs.

Unless Council rescinds the foregoing appointments, then I must ask you to accept my resignation. I have taken this stand neither in anger nor disappointment, but with the sincere conviction that it is my duty. I would call father upon discussion and at one than to quietly allow my colleagues to continue the injustices of this city in such manner, thereby giving tacit assent that all is well, when the very foundation of the administration, to me, plain words, is rotten.

I offer my resignation in protest against clique control of the business of our City.

(Signed). W. S. McCREARY.

INSURANCE MEN HEAR ENCOURAGING ADDRESS

President A. E. Lawson of the Canadian Life Underwriters' Association Addressed Local Association Members Last Night After Banquet Was Delivered.—Vouch for Steadily Increasing Insurance Business

Mr. A. E. Lawson, Dominion President of the Canadian Life Underwriters' Association, was the chief speaker at the annual local meeting of that Association held at the Chamber of Commerce here last evening, when about thirty local members enjoyed the splendid banquet and later the excellent speeches.

Mr. Lawson, who hails from Winnipeg, and who has had a long connection with the insurance business, holds that this association exerts a most powerful influence, and holds high powerful moral standards in the business and that there are no higher men in my business than the Underwriter man, not only on personal merits but also on business merits. Suave and smooth methods of salesmanship are continually discouraged by this association.

"The life of the Underwriters' Association was sketched by the speaker from its inception in 1906, after the association had been formed in the United States, as a result of the deplorable condition of insurance affairs in New York State, as found after investigation. As a result of said investigation of these noble men and few, the insurance men of today, receive higher revenue for their work, and their wares are rendered much more valuable. The condition is now intact.

"The legislative committee of the association has recently frustrated the imposition of a tax upon insurance men, in their respective capacities in the Province of Saskatchewan; and in British Columbia, prevented a near altercation, when it was proposed, by a few ardent insurance men, to establish a myself legislature for part timers in the business, by prohibiting the employance of part timers to operate in towns of less than 10,000 population. In this manner the Association is, "A watchman at the gate."

In the publicity Committee department, a publication called the "Life Underwriters' News" reaches the hands of all members, in which the reflections of the qualities which have made the big men of this business big, are reflected on to the men on the firing line. This publication is of the highest possible caliber.

"Institutional advertising," said Mr. Lawson, "Has also, brought about a harmonious compact between companies and the field men, rendered possible to think insurancewards, so to speak." The personal advertising of the men themselves, was recommended as being the greatest commander of the confidence of the prospect, as he was bound to do business with the man who he had trusted in the past, having known his honest service.

Canadians have now more than three and one half millions of dollars insurance in Federal and Provincially chartered companies, and have invested more than 650 millions of dollars in Canadian Funds.

Comradeship in this business of the type which has made Canada a delightful country in which to live, was strongly advocated, as the prevention of the disintegration of Canada, was explained by the excellent old spirit of comradeship as displayed by the pioneers. Their motto was "When the need is greatest, be the truest friend", and that is the spirit which should permeate the army of insurance men on the firing line, and which will satisfy the passion

Controversy in County Council Over Election Of Warden

No Decision Reached in Caucus and Proceedings Adjourned

LIBERAL VS. U.F.O.

Politics Causing Trouble—Aspirants Says Those Who Attend U.F.O. Caucus Must be One

At the hour of 5.10 on Tuesday afternoon the members of the County Council of Hastings County assembled at Shire Hall, Belleville for the annual meeting. Owing to caucuses being held during the early part of the afternoon the opening proceedings were delayed to the hour above mentioned.

When the members had assembled County Clerk Mr. W. H. Ponter stated that their first duty would be to elect one of their numbers as Warden for 1923.

Mr. J. L. Newton moved, seconded by Mr. N. Vermilyea that Mr. Charles E. Ballard, Reeve of Monteagle and Herschel be Warden.

Mr. J. V. Walsh, Reeve of Tyendinaga arose and stated that he was a candidate for the position of Warden. It was the first year when a Liberal was to be selected and he (the speaker) was a Liberal, whilst his opponent was a U. F. O. Mr. Ballard was not numbered as a Liberal and was not entitled to the position as such. Mr. Walsh said that he was justly entitled to be elected Warden.

Mr. Ballard denied that he was a U. F. O. He was a Liberal and had always been such and had been selected by the Liberal caucus.

Mr. Campbell moved, seconded by Mr. C. W. Thompson that Mr. J. V. Walsh, Reeve of Tyendinaga Town be elected Warden.

Dr. Embury suggested that the matter of selecting a Warden be held over for the time being.

County Clerk Nugent read section 206, Chapter 192 of the Municipal Act, relative to the election of Warden, which position had to be filled at the opening of January session and by a majority vote. He could not accept a motion to postpone the election.

Mr. Walsh—When a member caucuses in caucus with the U. F. O.'s he must be a member of that organization.

Dr. Embury moved, seconded by Mr. Kells that the Council adjourn until 10 o'clock on Wednesday morning.

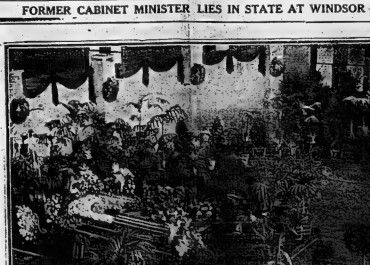
As a motion to adjourn is always in order it was submitted to the Council and carried.

Council resumed at 10.30 on Wednesday morning with all members in attendance with the exception of Mr Metcalfe, Reeve of Deseronto, who is ill.

County Clerk Nugent asked if there were any other nominations for the position of Warden and there being no other nominations closed.

Mr. Haggerty moved, seconded by Mr. Cranston that the Council adjourn until 3 o'clock.

The motion to adjourn was carried 18 voting for it.



RUN-OF NEAR BOWMANVILLE; TRAINS LATE

At 1.15 this morning a west bound Grand Trunk freight train was derailed at the crossover road at Bowmanville. The engine was derailed, also the tender, together with twenty-two cars. Auxiliaries from Belleville and Toronto were immediately called to the scene and started the work of clearing away the wreck. The east bound track was cleared at 11.00 this morning. As a result of the derailment, trains were late. Some of the Grand Trunk trains were diverted to the C.N.R. between Toronto and Cobourg.

The investigation Committee of the Canadian National Railways is enquiring into the cause of the smashup, but so far no reasons have been ascertained. One fortunate feature is the no lives were lost and no one was injured.

The local mail train from Toronto had not yet reached the city at two o'clock, having been reported three hours late at that time.

FORMER CABINET MINISTER LIES IN STATE AT WINDSOR

The photographer shows above the body of the late W. C. Kennedy, Minister of Railways, lying in state in the Armories at Windsor. Here thousands of citizens from all parts of Canada paid final tribute to a well-beloved leader. Where the casket rests, in one section of the Armories, the building was decorated in black and purple, with palms and boxwood shrubs screening the raised dais and the pathways which the people followed. The casket was banked with a mass of flowers, tributes to Mr. Kennedy's memory sent in from all over Canada.

BERLIN NEWSPAPER WRECKED

Berlin, Jan. 24.—Twenty persons were killed and many injured by the collapse of the top storey of the Tageblatt building to-day. The editorial and mechanical departments of the newspaper were badly damaged.

WRONG WAY OF COLLECTING DEBT

London, Jan. 24—Sir John Simon, speaking at Oxford yesterday sympathized with the French desire for security on their Eastern frontiers but said that their occupation of the Ruhr was the wrong way to achieve it. "Real security cannot be based on aggression", he said "and the advance into the Ruhr is an operation leading step by step to more violence."

GERMAN COAL BARONS FACE FINES ONLY

Mayence, Jan. 24.—Fritz Thyssen and his five fellow German industrialists apparently faced only fines by the French court martial trying them here to-day for their resistance to the French demands for the Ruhr Valley coal. The prosecutor at the close of the fornoon sessions suggested that he was inclined to leniency because of the patriotic motives of the Germans. He referred the court to the provision in the regulation of General Degoutte for the imposition of a fine in case of refusals by the Germans to comply with orders.

ALL WERE FINED

Mayence, Jan. 24.—Fritz Thyssen and the five other German industrialists, charged by the French with refusing to cooperate with the French plans for the delivery of reparations coal from the Ruhr Valley, were all found guilty by court-martial here today. Fines were inflicted. Herr Kesten was fined 15,632 francs. Herr Wuestenhoeffer, of the Essen Mine Association, 8,640 francs, and Herr Ten-Glemann, of the Essen Anthracite Coal Company, 6,020 francs.

Excellent Talk Lions' Luncheon

Mr. T. P. J. Power, of Belleville Kilty Band Fame, the Speaker—Other Features Make Luncheon Enjoyable One.

Mr. Tom J. Power, proprietor of the New Queen's Hotel, this city, and for twenty-two years, manager of the Belleville Kiltie Band, was the speaker at the Lion's club meeting today.

Mr. Power has undoubtedly done more for this city in the manner of advertising with this band, than any other individual who ever resided in the city, as the name of Belleville Band ever been advertised all over the world with the organization.

Twenty-two years ago last November, the Belleville Kilties Band played their first concert at Victoria Park, never thinking that they would be in existence for the time which they have been. Since that time they have been incorporated and have played in all the principal cities in the countries of the world.

Receiving an official send off at Ottawa in 1906, the band toured Canada to Victoria, B. C. and sailed for the Hawaiian Islands, Fiji Islands, Manuaia Isle, Australia, New Zealand, Tasmania, Ceylon Island, India, Burma, Egypt, France, Spain, England, Scotland Ireland and Wales. This tour, which is bombast of the most interesting features imaginable, were briefly touched upon by the speaker, who stated that during the two years and

Christ Church Annual Vestry Meeting Held

Wardens, Lay Representatives Elected — Reports Received for Church Year

VOTES OF THANKS

Extended to Retiring Officials and Teachers—a Satisfactory Year

The annual vestry meeting of Christ Church was held Tuesday evening in the Parish Hall, and was largely attended by the men of the congregation. The Rector Rev. Rural Dean Swayne presided and opened the meeting with prayers. Mr. John White was elected vestry clerk. The Rector, Wardens and various organizations presented satisfactorily reports which were adopted.

This is the first time the vestry has been held at this time of the year instead of Easter. Recent legislation has made this possible, so that in the future the church business year will coincide with calendar year and not vary in length as formerly.

Mr. Douglas Rowe was appointed Rector's Warden and Mr. Arthur Harmon, People's Warden. Mr. G. H. Smith was elected Lay Representative to Synod for the coming three years. Hearty votes of thanks were given to the retiring wardens, choir, guild, W. A. and S. S. officers and teachers for their faithful and efficient work.

Emminent Suffragette Speaks to Women

Advocates Community Housekeeping Supervised by Experts

NOT AN EXPERIMENT

Was Tested a Century Ago by Religious Brotherhoods—Another Co-operative Idea

St. Catharines, Jan. 24.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, who delivered several addresses on Social Hygiene in this city during the week, is no believer in apartment houses, according to a statement made by her to the Canadian Press' correspondent. She says: "There is no need in a country the size of Canada to pile one house up on another," she declared. "Ideal conditions of housekeeping should be easily accomplished."

In this regard the eminent English suffrage leader, who proudly confesses that she is now "a Canadian by residence and feeling," admits a tremendous interest in the subject of co-operative housekeeping."

When Mrs. Pankhurst uses the term "co-operative housekeeping" the minds of readers go at once to several families crowded into one house, but that is not her idea. Her desire is to eliminate the drudgery in the home and retain the privacy through the communal use of laundry, cooking, vacuum cleaning, kitchen, which would be located apart from the residences, but near to them.

For the wife of moderate means, she pictures a community of fifty families each living in their own residences and using in common a staff of factory chefs, laundry tubs, or the various so-called necessities of modern residential construction. In the new services of a cook would come high and rare family, but if all fifty were to co-operate in the hiring of the best and waitresses, the best of table service and cuisine could be secured regularly with a handsome per centum of that also could support the most modern laundry.

A community dining hall, library dance hall and hospital would follow with highly skilled and trained people in charge after them. There is nothing new under the sun, and Mrs. Pankhurst admits that her scheme has been tried in the past, about one hundred years ago, when various religious communities lived in such communities. However, Mrs. Pankhurst thinks the experiment is well worth while trying again.

BURLAP SACKS CLOTHE RUSSIA'S NEEDY

Serviceable Clothing Made From Containers for the Poor and Deserving

Moscow, Jan. 21.—Millions of American burlap sacks which were brought to Russia filled with sugar flour, corn or rice for the Czar's war population are to be made into many suits this winter to help relieve the misery in the Russian capital. The sacks have been accumulating in warehouses since the American Red Cross-inaugurated its campaign, but I arrive nearly a year and a half ago.

Experience has shown that Russian women, even of the poorer class, can take three sacks and from them soon turn out a serviceable overcoat for a dress. One sack is used for the other, a head hole cut, and place for the arms. Double sleeves are sockets are made from the third sack. For wear in cold weather, the garment is made thicker by "quilting" with whatever local batting is used, such as excelsior, rags, pieces of rope or leather, sheared wool or tea rags that have been dried, ripped and turned over to old people's homes, orphanages and various other institutions.

REWARD OFFERED FOR LINDSAY BURGLARS

With a view to obtaining some clue or information regarding the big robbery of furs from the store of A. D'Loughlin Sunday night last, the Lindsay firm has offered a reward of $200. This reward will be paid to any person giving information as to the identity of the culprit, or culprits.

It is common talk that the thieves belong to this town, and the police have every confidence that they will run down and disclose the entire plot.

Crown Attorney Anderson and Provincial men visited the scene of the robbery early Monday morning and it is understood were able to secure valuable information from certain foot prints in the snow.

A LAND WHERE MUSIC EXCITES TO RIOT

Hindus and Mohammedans Differ in Regard to Music

(By Canadian Press)

Bangalore, India, Jan. 24.—Friction between Hindu and Moslem communities has been brought to a head by differences in Tipetur, in Mysore province during recent weeks. Numerous assaults have been reported, and as a general occasions the shops have had to close their doors. Special police force with large forces of troops are under the situation well under control.

The cause of these disturbances lies in the different attitudes of Hindus and Mohammedans regarding music. Hindu religious ceremonies are usually accompanied by music, Mohammedans have no music at their services, and are seriously disturbed when instrumental music passes them.

In 1893, the government permitted the reconstruction of a mosque with in the Hindu quarter, with the distinct understanding that the Mohammedans should on no account object to processions of Hindus in front of the street thereof. The Mohammedans now contend that since music was necessary during the prayer time, and since in almost the present time, parmission should always be disallowed for processions in the quarter in that place. The Hindus, on the other hand, have been asking since 1900 for permission to allow music to accompany their festivals in the streets, absolutely without restrictions. The government, after a personal inquiry, decided to admit the Hindu claim.

The present trouble began at the time of the Dasserah processions in September. On this occasion the government refused to grant a license, on account of the conflicting claims of the communities and the influx of irresponsible crowds in the city. In the following months, the ban on processions was allowed. Before the processions occurred, the Mohammedans left the mosque in the midst of the prayers and the procession passed quietly.

This incident led to high feelings between the communities. On account of threatened violence, the Hindu shops were closed for two days. The disturbances broke out, however, after a large police force reached the place. There was no further disorder, and the situation is now quiet.

"BON ECHO" ROAD CHARGES

Mr. Walkton finds that the charges were unjustified and "were false and exaggerated." He also finds that only exonerates the engineers of the Colonization Road Department of the Government, but also Mr. Dennison, Denison, who was responsible for the investigation, has escaped paying "our share of the blame" and has left it to his mother. Mr. Waldron finds that Mr. Denison's charges were made with the object of arousing feeling against the U.F.O.

DESCRIPTIVE ADDRESS AT BETHEL HALL

At Bethel Hall last evening before a large audience Mr. F. Peer, a missionary from St. Vincent, British West Indies gave a very interesting description of his work among the natives of that island illustrated by magic lantern views. Mr. Peer has spent some years in St. Vincent and was home on furlough to recuperate after a severe attack of malaria fever. Mr. Peer will continue his addresses each night this week.

KINDLY POLICE JUDGE MOURNED IN MANY LANDS

London, Jan. 24.—The death of Tassie Smith, the Metropolitan police magistrate for 15 years at the Westminster Court, will be regretted by a large number of people here and in the Colonies.

Mr. Smith was more of a friend and kindly adviser than a severe judge and referee of the law, and his advice to first offenders was many times the means of sparing them to fresh and better efforts. Often he received letters, from overseas, announcing progress in the new life, while other men, whose lives he had materially influenced for good, never failed to call on him whenever they returned to England.

ALDERMAN McCREARY'S LETTER TO CITY COUNCIL

Document Covering His Resignation Proves Interesting Compendium of His Views of Civic Administration

HIS REASONS

Why He Resigned From Office—As Public Protest and Under Sincere Conviction of His Duty as a Citizen

Belleville, 22nd January, 1923.

I want it to be distinctly understood in tendering my resignation as an Alderman of the City of Belleville I am doing so in the belief that a majority of my colleagues have made irremediable and wilful misdemeanors in delegating responsibility into incompetent hands.

When one offers himself for municipal administration, the spirit that actuates such duty should be one of humility and service. Too often successful candidates permit themselves to develop a sense of self appreciation which overrules sound judgment, and when that element combines with one of selfish intention, then the basis of efficient municipal administration is faulty and good will not accrue therefrom.

Council members held a meeting at the City Hall upon the invitation of the Mayor on Thursday evening the fourth instant, when all members were present excepting Alderman Paterson who was away from the city. It has been the custom for years to hold such meetings to facilitate procedure of Council at its inaugural meeting. At this particular meeting such man present agreed upon his HONOUR to abide by the decision they arrived at in regard to the distribution of chairmanships. I wish to stress the significance of that undertaking. Let me repeat: EACH ALDERMAN PRESENT AGREED UPON HIS HONOUR TO ABIDE BY THE DECISIONS THEN ARRIVED AT IN REGARD TO THE DISTRIBUTION OF CHAIRMANSHIPS.

A discussion of qualifications of the different nominees for the various chairmanships took place. In the case of the Executive Committee there were four nominations, namely, Aldermen Robinson, Thompson, French and McCreary. Aldermen Robinson and Thompson were counted out on the first ballot, leaving Aldermen French and McCreary tied, and on the second vote being taken Alderman McCreary had the majority whereupon Alderman French arose, shook hands across the table and he agreed that the question was settled fairly. Alderman Thompson left the meeting in anger, saying that he had headed the poll and that it was his choice to have any chairmanship he wished, that if he could not have Executive he would not accept of any chairmanship, and that he would be back at the inaugural meeting to throw a monkey-wrench into the machinery.

Other awards were made to the satisfaction of the meeting. Then a majority gave Alderman Treverton the Chairmanship of Market and Cemetery, whereupon Alderman Robinson left the meeting in anger because he was not reappointed to that chairmanship. Alderman Robinson must have the desire to administer such department of the city business but only laying to the physical disabilities he was unable to carry on last year satisfactorily to rest of Council.

Alderman Robinson since the inaugural meeting stated that he had remained awake in bed on Sunday night the seventh instant concocted a scheme whereby he could get back his old chairmanship, that he "got in touch with Alderman French and others prior to the inaugural meeting and submitted to them a proposition to throw his lot in with them if they would throw in their lot with him" and bragged that French fell for it with the result that he gained his point.

This is an instance how the dual rôle of this city is considered. I address myself to no respect for their WORD OF HONOUR it is a disgrace full exhibition to show after citizens and a very poor foundation upon which to build the business of the city's administration. Such an utterly contemptible disregard of an UNDERTAKING OF HONOUR has led to the undoing of nations and individuals in the past, and history will continue to repeat itself, and rightly so!

Even had the case been a justification of the means, the action might be excusable, but I am of the opinion that the interests of the city must needs suffer through such collusion of these persons. Judge for yourselves, and I submit that no prejudiced public opinion will agree with me therein. It is in protest of such unbusinesslike methods that I am desirous of disassociating myself from this Council, and with a view to awaken a better public interest in our city affairs.

Unless Council rescinds the forcing appointments, then I must ask you to accept my resignation. I have given this stand neither in anger nor disappointment, but with the sincere conviction that it is my duty. I could rather stand discredited and out than to quietly allow my colleagues to continue the business of this city in such manner, thereby giving tacit assent that all is well, when the very foundation of the administration, to use plain words, is rotten.

I offer my resignation, in protest against clique control of the business of our city.

(Signed) W. R. McCREARY.

TWO GIRLS AND A BOY AND ALL DOING WELL

Dublin, Ontario Family Gets Increase of Three—Record Surpassed in India Recently

Seaforth, Ont., Jan. 24.—At the Seaforth Memorial Hospital Monday, Mrs. Frank Duncie, of Dublin, Ont., gave birth to triplets—two girls and a boy. Dr. Hugh H. Ross, the physician in attendance, stated that the babies were fine and healthy, and perfectly formed, weighing 5, 5½ and 6 pounds respectively, and that the mother was doing well. Unusual interest is being taken by the citizens in the event, which is the first of its kind in the town.

Under the heading "Extraordinary Birth Record," a letter appears in the London Advertiser from Major-General P. Hehir, I.M.S. (retired), who writes: "I feel sure that many of your readers will be interested in the case of five infants at a birth. The particulars were communicated by the usual mail from India. The lady mother in charge of the King Edward Memorial Hospital at Rohtak, in the Punjab, states that a Brahmin woman in the hospital gave birth to five baby boys, all five are described as perfectly formed and of fairly large size. They and their mother were reported to be doing well on the day following."

HAMILTON PASTOR ON MARRIAGE

A marriage license cannot be regarded as a mandate instructing a minister to perform the ceremony. This was the stand taken last Sunday night in a sermon delivered by Rev. Dr. Whitlaw, pastor of Centenary Methodist Church Hamilton and City Clerk Kent, issuer of marriage licenses for Hamilton, agreed with Rev. Mr. Whitlaw Monday morning when approached on the subject.

Rev. Mr. Whitlaw stated that on one occasion he had actually declined to marry a young couple when the groom was under the influence of liquor, although the girl was perfectly willing to go through the ceremony, despite the condition of the groom. On this occasion, Rev. Mr. Whitlaw said, the groom asserted that he had a license and could force the minister to perform the ceremony. Mr. Whitlaw's reply was to the effect that he would like to see the city hall that could force him to marry a couple he thought should not be married.

Licenses

On occasions City Clerk Kent has refused to issue a marriage license. He would not issue one if the applicant were under the influence of liquor, he said, and no minister could perform the ceremony when one of the parties was under the influence of liquor without laying himself open to heavy penalties.

GOLD VEINS UNDERLYING NOVA SCOTIA AND LABRADOR SOIL

Area of Three Thousand Square Miles of Gold Bearing Rock in These Districts

ACTIVITY EXPANDING

Several Prospecting Expeditions Proposed—Gold Rush Will be Regular Stampede

(By Canadian Press)

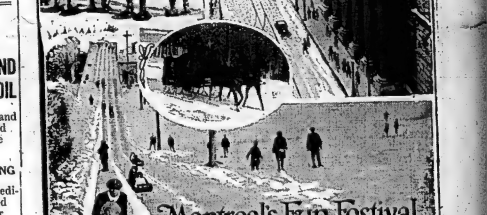
Halifax, N.S., Jan. 24.—News of various gold seeking expeditions and encouraging reports of untapped veins of the precious metal lying under the frozen soil of northern Labrador, to say nothing of the area of gold bearing soil in Nova Scotia, have led those who study the undercurrents of progress, to forecast for 1923 a gold rush in these two localities that will rival the Alaska boom of a few years ago.

It is an acknowledged fact that the precious minerals contained in the soil of Nova Scotia have never been taken advantage of to the decree their abundance warrants. This has been due to many reasons, according to the Department of Mines, chief among them being inefficient and unscientific methods of extracting the ore, and unwise financing.

Nova Scotia gold is obtained almost entirely from vein workings, the auriferous quartz bearing veins running parallel to one another. The Atlantic shore from Canso to Yarmouth is occupied by the surveyors strata and the width of the district varies from half to 1 ½ miles. The area of the gold bearing sedimentary rocks in this portion of the province is estimated at three thousand square miles.

During the last six months great strides have been made in gold mining operations in Nova Scotia and there is a promise of still greater advancement, judging from reports of activities among mine operators who are installing modern machinery and expanding workings. It is also stated by experts, that there is great room for advancement along this line, not only in extended operations but by more complete use of the resources at hand as regards the conservation and development of the by-products, of silver and arsenic ore.

W. F. Jennison, well known geologist and mining expert, stated recently that examination of a mine working in Nova Scotia obtaining ten dollars value to the ton, he sampled tailings which yielded twenty-four dollars to the ton. Because of such success, he said, gold miners in Nova Scotia believed had been a failure.



Cochran Hill gold mine, thirteen miles from West Hanson in Guysboro county, although under water twelve years, has been pumped out and is working. The silver mine in Lake Catcha yielded twenty-nine dollars to the ton and would pay for all operations, leaving the gold clear profit. The run of mine showed gold values of $304.00 per ton. On the property at Cochran Hill three are distinct gold bearing veins that have never been touched. Utilizing hydro power near at hand, the Cochran Hill mines will be operated this spring by a party that combines a mine working in Nova Scotia obtaining ten dollars value to the ton, he sampled tailings which yielded twenty-four dollars to the ton, because of such success, he said, gold miners in Nova Scotia believed had been a failure.

Winter Sports in Canada

Montreal's Fun Festival

Among the countries of the world Canada has long been without a peer as a summer resort. To-day in challenges the hitherto undisputed supremacy of Switzerland in the realm of winter sports. Nor has not heard or read of St. Moritz, prince of the Swiss people and for four years the winter time Mecca of Europe? Canada has a score or more of places where all that St. Moritz can offer in the way of winter sports is not only duplicated but surpassed. The fame of these is spreading beyond the confines of this continent to lands across the seas. No longer is the Dominion pictured as a land which hibernates the variety of the winter sports and throughout the winter months, but recreations that Montreal will afford a land of ice and snow and all that throughout the balance of this implies. The Canadian Winter Sports Committee, selected by the citizens, is responsible for the arrangements which hold particular appeal to all interested in skating ,skiing, curling, snowshoeing, hockey, ice-yachting, tobogganing and the like. Every Saturday in the period named, special ski contests and exhibitions are held at the Montreal Ski Club, while every other winter sport has its special place on the program. It is doubtful if there has ever been anywhere such a remarkable program for winter sports, varied as it is by magnificent scenery, perfect climatic conditions, the leisure of getting on the ground early with its attendant advantages. Some who are familiar with the Labrador coast declare that the ice at this season of the year will not offer such a formidable barrier as it will later in the season.

LINKED LIVES

By the time he reached the Hall the storm had passed; his face was still as white as his head was sere it, but a decent veil had fallen over many manifestations of his worst self. Was he not, in spite of everything, Squire Hardcastle of Fosseway Hall? And Squire Hardcastle of Fosseway Hall he would remain in spite of Heaven or Hell.

Sherwin was delighted to see his friend back again. He had been at Whale, which is solitary possessed of the Hall, all the guests having left, and was heartily weary of his own company. The society of grooms and keepers did not suffice for spice and interest, and his. The minister was a man of serious mien himself and 'twas he called, and even a call from the Reverend Hector Fordice added little to the pleasure of knowing that the Squire was back and was so full of his plans that he opened his mind quite freely to Sherwin. They were cottages on the estate not yet fit for tatterkinds; and the aged and sick in these miserable hovels milk certainly pertain in extreme wretchedness except repairs were made before the winter set in.

Sherwin was greatly impressed with the need of these poor cottagers, and the minister's sincerity.

"I really believe," he said to the Squire after dinner, when seated cosily in the library, "that he takes his duty quite seriously."

Hardcastle smiled in spite of himself at the naivete of the remark.

"Yes, I believe he believes he means it!" Sherwin affirmed eagerly; "and after all the Church, you know, is not the bad place for a man who does good to do that."

"I daresay," the Squire said drily, sipping his wine thoughtfully, and watching Sherwin with some touch of amusement, "but you have to be made that way to begin with, and have very strong sympathies and no gentlemanly taste."

"And you mean?" Hardcastle answered, looking sharply.

"Oh, I mean—that I have been an ass, and missed splendid chances! That fellow Fordice makes me feel uncommonly fortable; why, he believes in God so thoroughly that he actually maintains that the Devil is behind the conversion of men who have even no knowledge of Him, and that there are persons of the sort we want not without charge all a man's life!"

"Oh!" the Squire answered impatiently, rising and taking a turn about the room; "he is an "event" which wise men may well ignore. You are not fit to go alone yet, Sherwin!"

"Well, he really is a fine fellow—you ought to know him, Eric!"

"I know him!" Hardcastle answered with scorn; "I have no desire to know such human trash!"

"But he thinks and says some quite fine things, and there may be something in it after all. He thinks because so many of the springs of human action are inspired by trust—trust, remember—and that we who care not for God or for God are crying under their breath for help and deliverance. Do you know, I think I believe that."

"Deliverance from what?" Hardcastle said, turning round quickly and facing Sherwin.

"From—from—oh, from—I suppose from bad things generally,' he answered falteringly.

Hardcastle smiled bitterly, 'I had thought better of you, Sherwin; you have lost your head and have taken to romancing again. Fordice must have been more than usually drunk when he known him to be, to have filled you with such rubbish as that! Deliverance indeed! A man ought to know the actual business of life to forget these visionary things, in which men like Fordice revel at the cost of their real business, no doubt. Here is a case for you—I am threatened with an action the aim of which is never that man shall out of my hands and out of the reach of my son.'

"How dreadful!' Sherwin said with quick sympathy and alarm, everything else retreating to the backward. 'And would it take all your wealth?' he asked eagerly.

The Squire smiled at the question. 'Oh, by no means,' he answered with comfortable assurance; 'a man takes care that his interests are beyond the reach of accidents of that sort. But this fine fellow Fordice would no doubt consider my claims a mistake, would he see it accomplished, quite legitimate, and a Heaven-sent punishment for God knows what! That is the kind of man he is!'

Sherwin was aghast with horror, and looked absolutely appalled, as though the harmless minister was a messenger of Satan. 'Really, really,' he said in perplexity, 'you amaze me. I considered him not only respectable, but—but positively interesting and of course glad that he had a free hand to fight the rights of property—which, of course, is the foundation of everything.'

Both men were sipped their wine in silence for a time, busy with their own thoughts. Then, in a strong gasni, after all, Sherwin was saying to himself, 'and this rich man is little better equipped for life than the poor man, to the last extent—very little better! Who would have thought it?'

The Squire was, for his part, owning to himself that he had a difficult problem to solve, more difficult than he had ever imagined. In fact, he had grown to consider his position absolutely secure and all his troubles almost ended. There was only this young girl, and this most unnecessary young girl, and it should not have been a difficult matter for him to get her out of the way. He felt like going out, even before he slept, to find McAlpin and appeal to him once more on the ground of their friendship to respect the present long-established order of things and consider his interests as his own. He even thought of trying to get the girl into his own hands. It might even be possible to persuade her to marry Sherwin and send them both, sufficiently provided for, to the ends of the earth! Ah! if she were only free to act herself and carry out reasonable plans, all would be well.

But that was just what he dare not do, and hence the situation was becoming intolerable. Almost unconsciously exasperating to a man of Hardcastle's temperament. Was it possible, he asked himself, that Ellen had found out the truth before he died? When he heard of his permanent sojourn he had considered it unlikely. Now Hardcastle's mission to dog him to the death and secure any evidence he might have procurable, he should have been on a most serious failure? Still the question came back: Could Glenmore have learned the truth? Could he have shared what that he had played him false? And surely have cursed his own folly, rather than the fact that he had found out and than the subtle and effective brain that had played so daringly for such high stakes? Was it so? It remained a bitter thought that Glenmore might, after all, have discovered his treachery before he died.

A sense of dread and bolter crept into his mind; cares and fears of years arose and iron nerve he felt at times like a criminal under some strange compulsion, even obliged to look into the eyes of his victim, until in defiance of his deadly work the gaze seemed to follow every movement of his, fearful, haunting insistence, when in truth they were for ever sealed to sire oblivion, like a burnished mirror.

Yes, he would like to know whether Glenmore had found him out; it would be a relief, more, of course, but he would like to know!

He was thankful now that Reginald Ware was in Paris; very: he best of all things considered; he had imbibed fantastic notions about honour and such-like rubbish, and was on his way to a sensible man's advantage, but on the contrary embarrassing in dealing with the present position of life.

Of course, he repeated, it made no difference—could not possibly make any difference, but it would be a satisfaction to know if Glenmore died believing him to be honest. Then, in his opinion of him, if such was the case, might even be of some material service to him. Dead men were said to be a hard battle to fight!—he would fight it out all the same; but he would like to fight it with the help of the dead rather than where he can see his foe. The thought came to the Squire with much bitterness that he had been a fool to come to Whale

Canadian Infantry Association Asks that Law be Enforced

IT IS NOT LEGAL

Annual Meeting Held at Ottawa on Saturday

Ottawa, Jan. 22.—The matter of the unauthorized wearing of military uniforms came up for consideration at the afternoon session of the annual meeting of the Canadian Infantry Association.

It was finally decided to ask the Government to instruct the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and civil police authorities regarding the unauthorized wearing of uniforms was to be strictly enforced.

General Sir H. M. Pellatt is again president of the Canadian Infantry Association.

It was pointed out that in 1920 the Criminal Code was so amended that it became a crime to wear any part of a military uniform unless authorized to do so. Members present felt that the time was now passed when C.E.F. veterans had no right for wearing their service uniforms.

SEA CAPTAIN NEAR DEATH ON LAST VOYAGE

Suffered Stroke on Bridge of Olympic—Saved by Doctor

Passage Was Stormy

Viscount Burnham Says Bonar Law is Well Established in People's Confidence—Chancellor a Passenger

New York, January 22.—The White Star liner Olympic arrived here from Southampton after a stormy passage, with her commander, Captain E. S. Hamilton, confined to his room, all but helpless from the effects of a stroke he suffered while on the bridge of the vessel last Thursday afternoon. Captain Hamilton was taken from the ship to a hospital and it will be five or six weeks before he can return to his home in England.

This was to have been the captain's last voyage as a commander, as he has reached the retirement age of sixty years. Making the trip with him was Captain H. F. Davis, formerly of the Adriatic, who was to take over the Olympic on her next trip westward because of the sudden illness of Captain Hamilton. The Olympic will be taken back by Captain David Assistant Commander L. H. Wright brought the vessel into New York.

Captain Hamilton's life was saved by the officers said, by the skill and decision of Dr. Miles Pryor, the ship's surgeon. The captain suffered a second stroke Friday night. Dr. Pryor remained at his side for forty-six hours without rest or sleep.

Burnham's Statement.

The hope that America and England would settle their debt problem was expressed today by Viscount Burnham, managing director of the London Daily Telegraph, who arrived on the Olympic. Viscount Burnham said that England would stand by her pledges.

"We have got to get this whole debt question answered and out of the way," he said. "I am not particularly interested just now what per cent. the funding commission decide to be correct. The problem is now to get England and the United States standing shoulder to shoulder the troubled situation that menaces the whole world. Those two nations can get together and settle all financial matters are straightened out between them."

A fellow-passenger with Viscount Burnham was Sir Robert Horne, Chancellor of the Exchequer under Lloyd George. Sir Robert said he went to America was on private business. He will return to England on February 15.

Rubber Delegation.

"I do not care to talk for politics at this right now," he said, when asked for an opinion on the debt question. "You see, I only recently left my position as Chancellor and my successor is just now engaged in very delicate negotiations. I expect to speak at a luncheon of the English Speaking Union on Saturday, and at that time, if I find it can be properly done, I may express some of my personal views."

The Olympic also carried a delegation representing the British rubber industry, who have come to discuss prices with United States manufacturers.

The delegation included Sir Stanley Bois, F. A. Bourne and H. T. Miller. They declared that in recent years the British rubber industry had been losing money but because of low prices and the rubber producing colonies were feeling the effect.

It was decided, they explained, that conferences should be held with United States manufacturers regarding U. S. duties, so that proper prices might be fixed.

PHARAOH'S ROYAL ROBES RECOVERED IN LUXOR TOMB

In Excellent State of Preservation—Needs Chemical Treatment

GOLD INLAID THRONE

Wicker Baskets Brought to Light Exactly Same as Modern Product

Luxor, Egypt, Jan. 22.—Howard Carter moved things to-day in all directions. He is faced with the necessity of hard, unceasing work if the archaeologist of Tutankhamen's tomb is to be cleared by February 1st.

The first things were brought from the tomb soon after ten o'clock. They were two enormous, egg-shaped boxes of meat, game, fowl, and venison, some having been boned before they were put in. These boxes were a heap of rushes with sharp ends. An American ravished the crowd by remarking that they were probably toothpicks placed in the tomb for Tutankhamen.

After these boxes came a large oblong box, four feet long by two feet high and broad, containing forty-seven bouquets of cornflowers underwean. The box aroused considerable comment. It was made of wicker work, with a fine basket work and richly ornamented with gold. On top were hieroglyphs, evidently the cartouche, or oval, which bears the king's cartouche, while on the front of the box were the king's name and cartouches, all in gold.

Visitors who just arrived were impressed with this display of magnificence. They commented that Tutankhamen must have lived amid sumptuous splendor if he were able to lend gold on such mundane objects as a linen box.

The next object brought out was a magnificent chair, or throne. It was about the same as an ordinary dinner chair, except for its carving and workmanship. On the front of the back were two figures of the hawk-headed God Horus, one on each side of the sun's disk. All of these images and hieroglyphs were in solid gold, while the throne itself is inlaid in the choicest thin bands of gold.

Beside the throne was an exquisite footstool richly inlaid with precious figures of Asiatic and African captives, upon whom the king and queen placed their feet when they sat on the throne.

It is understood that this chair was the queen's throne, though it is uncertain, pending a more detailed examination.

Then about four stretchers made a procession from the tomb. On the first were two plaited straw, gold-inlaid baskets, which excited tremendous interest as they were exactly similar to those familiar in every-day use. They were filled with heavy contents, but the straw was so fragile that the contents did not touch them pending preservative treatment.

On the second stretcher was magnificent collaretties, necklaces and insignia of the king which had fallen on the shoulders of the living.

The official robes of Pharaoh were on the third stretcher. They were of fine linen, and were so delicate that it is understood the experts will be able to preserve them sufficiently to enable photographs to be made to be replaced, and thus the world will have for the first time in history examples of the costume worn by the royal robes of Pharaoh. The robes were made of excellent linen. It is doubtful if it is possible to treat the fibre.

On the fourth stretcher were more linen and a very handsome walking stick with a gold handle, which is remarkable for its finish and the gold filigree work ornamenting the handle. There were a hundred gold and gold balls on every square inch of the handle, which gives some idea of the delicacy of the work.

It was rivalled half an hour later, however, by two other walking sticks which were found in a box of miscellaneous pieces picked up on the floor. One walking stick was embossed with gold and ivory of astounding delicacy, while the other was notable for the exquisite figure of an Asiatic captive. The significance of this was that Pharaoh had an Asiatic in the bottom of his hand whenever he pressed this stick.

GAS TANK CAR BLOWS UP

Gasoline went up in Shannonville at 12 o'clock midnight on Saturday, not in price however, but in flames. Standing on the siding in the Shannonville C.P.R. station along with other railway cars, was one tank car loaded with gasoline. Whether there was a leak in the car or not is not definitely known, but it is thought that there was. At any rate the car was fired, and exploded, making a real wild fire for a time. The looping of the flames was quite plainly visible from Tweed.

Men, who were on the scene shortly after the fire started, managed to get the cars on from the others, and save them, but the tank car was a total wreck. Whether was the result of a fire, that four lengths of the track were doubled up, and the snow in the adjoining field was melted. There was no transit. This station is some three and a half miles from the village of Shannonville.

ROTARIANS HEAR BUSINESS TALK

Mr. L. L. Moore, Principal of the Ontario Business College, this city, was the speaker at the regular weekly Rotarian luncheon held to-day. His address was "Some Tendencies in Business."

In opening, Mr. Moore, explained that a "school house was the bulwark of civilization." Although the talk was not on the subject of Education, yet Education was the foundation of every business. Today for instance, goods are being sold over the long distance telephone, and even by radio. A fact which would be unbelievable some years ago.

Business men have also come to realize the great value of newspaper and magazine advertising.

Mr. Moore gave some interesting information regarding the operation of the big financial houses. Two of the greatest of the world of which are Canadian. Watered stock, bonus stock and other conditions back of them were stated, was criticized by the speaker.

The joint stock system of financing by banks and business institutions which this system has installed into the financial world.

The value of life insurance among partners in business, in favour of one another respectively, was highly recommended. Mr. Moore said business insurance was also designated as having "come to stay." Character insurance in connection with the bonding of the infant born in Middlesex county left on New Year's day may go through his lifetime.

The mother was held prisoner in the jail for 25 days for some minor infraction and she asserted the entire period, being taken to Victoria Hospital at the expiration of the sentence was her initial to her arms. And since then the city of London is endeavoring to make provision in some measure to the innocent victim of man's laws. Two specialist nurses have been hired to attend to the child while there is still a chance of saving its sight.

Insurance and financial restrictions in Canada now established, was the speaker's description of Attorney General Raney's proposed, blue sky law which was also described as being unable yet to save "fools from their folly."

A thorough system of double entry book keeping in say business from a peanut stand establishment up was advocated generally by the speaker. The quality of paper should be the best and colored paper should be out of date for business correspondence, pink paper having the greatest effect upon "prospects" of any colored paper used.

Mr. Albert Hoch, a new member of the Kingston Rotary Club, was welcomed by the Rotary Club was introduced by Flint Canada Cement Co. Mr. Hoch's business interest at becoming a member of the club.

"Charlie" Reid was chairman today. Prez. Ross Dawson having been handicapped by a hoarse voice and owing to the fact that Sergeant-at-Arms Harry was unfortunately not enough to break his left arm to-day. Col. Wilson collected the "fares."

Rotarian "Mac" Hamilton presented each member of the club with a Belleville Creamery calendar, also an interesting pamphlet of literature.

Rotarians will put on a real good Rotarian Norm Turner. Mr. Huck is minister show in the near future so Rotarian "Charlie" Dolan explained. A meeting was held after the luncheon to make primary arrangements for the show.

"Charlie" Reeber informed the Rotarians that a Gymnasium display would be held early in February.

three months in which the tour continued, some twenty countries were visited and covered, 30,000 miles were travelled, and 110 days were spent at sea.

This wonderful band was requested to play before King Edward VII. by commercial cards, and later at Sandringham House, where the present King (as Prince of Wales) was entertained. Cuba, the United States and Mexico were repeatedly toured, and a unique feature of the Mexican tour was the fact that it was the only country in which the natives attended the concert.

Mr. Power deserves much credit for having retained a warm spot in his heart for old Belleville, which city he was constantly advertised. Even with his office in Chicago, Belleville, Canada, was always advertised as the head and home office.

Mr. Power who tendered a most hearty vote of thanks by Colin Percy Dawson and Charlie Hanna, and the hearty hand clapping of the cubs indicted the true feeling of the club men towards Mr. Power.

The Cubs were delighted too, with the address given by Miss Clare Turney, who is a natural born elocutionist, and who was aptly described as being the Bessie Elindell of the city of Belleville Dion's "Cub. Miss Turney was tendered a vote of thanks by cubs Tom Sanderson and Lorne Fiddle.

Bill Latimer was chairman today, with Charlie Hanna collecting the fines. Jerry Fiddle was appointed relief ship chairman.

Guests of the Club were Miss Hollan, who accompanied Miss Turney, and Mr. Harold Holton.

Owing to the fact that Dr. Norman Nelson, the efficient secretary of the club, leaves next Thursday for England, he has resigned from his position as secretary, so he will be gone from Belleville for almost one year. Cub Steve Sanderson is the new secretary, and the club will now have to appoint another official tail twister, which job Steve has held down with a vengeance up until this date.

Scotch Tourists for Belleville Again Tuesday.

A Belleville rink from the local club journeyed to Toronto yesterday to engage the Scotch rink in friendly competition, administering a defeat. It will be remembered that Belleville rink trimmed the tourists at King's Rink a few days ago.

BABE BORN IN JAIL LOSES ITS EYESIGHT

Means Now Being Taken by Authorities to Remedy The Deficiency

London, Ont., Jan. 24.—Authorities are discussing today where the responsibility lies for the fact that the infant born in Middlesex county jail on New Year's day may go through life blinded.

The mother was held prisoner in the jail for 25 days for some minor infraction and she asserted the entire period, being taken to Victoria Hospital at the expiration of the sentence was her initial to her arms. And since then the city of London is endeavoring to make provision in some measure to the innocent victim of man's laws. TORONTO RECTOR CAUSES FRICTION

There was a tense moment at last night's annual meeting of St. Barnabas Church, Danforth avenue, when a resolution will, reference to the attitude of the rector, Rev. E. C. Powell, at a meeting of the Parish Guild, was broached. The rector was favorable with a decision from the Chancellor of the Diocese, and discussion was nipped in the bud.

The trouble started in the complaint of officers of the women's organization that the rector was endeavoring to unduly direct the activities. This resulted in new officers being elected.

Encouraging Address

in every normal man, for friendship and understanding.

Possibly a handshake from a fellow worker will prevent a man from quitting the game, and the knowledge that some adverse advertisement which the business can possibly receive. Every man at some time or other needs auxiliary power and new life, and by taking full advantage of this Association, which is the strongest link, he will receive the power he requires.

Mr. Lawson explained that the Association was formed primarily to deal with the unfair underwriter, as the Association possessed neither punitive nor Talismanic powers, but the powerful moral influence which ill-welded made it unpleasant for malicious twisters in the business.

Mr. Lawson was given a rousing ovation, by the members present, among whom, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow", and gave him three cheers and a Tiger.

Mr. Ernest F. Cole, President of the local Association was the efficient chairman, and Mr. Weltzey of the Capital Life Insurance Company of Ottawa was another speaker. Mr. Weltzey, who has been a member of the Association since its inception, told how the Association had established good fellowship and abolished unfair methods in the Insurance. By being associated with the Association, the men heard inspiring addresses by men who had been successful, and who had enjoyed many of the real speakers, and who were able to instil into their audiences, knowledge and encouragement, and turn money into their pockets. The congress at Ottawa, just recently held, was praised highly by Mr. Weltzey, being among the highly the finest, best and most educative meeting ever held. Mr. Weltzey's addresses and at Congress were passed out to the men by Mr. Weiler.

Mr. J. Neal, Manager of Molson's Bank, and a guest, was glad to meet such a robust body of "peppy, men", and was pleased to see the great genuine business of the world. Mr. Jones advocated that the men had better wisely investigate a Canadian business and their prospects thoroughly before approaching them in order to secure profits policy holders.

Col. E. D. O'Flynn, who says he owes a grudge to any Association fostering Insurance interests, gave an interesting recitation, the last verse of which was set to music. It was about the Kaiser, and one of the greatest brought down the house.

Mr. T. Hendrick, of Trenton, a new man in the field, received pleasure at being present, as did Mr. William Bolton, who also spoke a few words. Mr. Bolton and Mr. G. Reid were anxious that Belleville receive their share of the business advertising, as this city has as yet received none.

Mr. H. F. Ketchison, one of the oldest Insurance men in the Association, described Mr. Lawson as a "topnotcher," and was thankful that the Association had done away with the cut throat business methods of the old time insurance men, and Mr. F. Ketchison moved a vote of thanks to the speaker of the evening.

Mr. Charlie Burrows in seconding the motion, is also one of Belleville's oldest insurance men, and one of the most popular men in the business. Mr. Burrows felt that the large companies should reward all the wee servants of the old insurance men who had aided materially in the building of the very foundation of the company, which is now successful and rich.

Mr. G. Reid and Mr. P. Brooks, moved and seconded a vote of thanks to the other speakers of the evening.

Mr. Magerlin paid $1 fine for having a Mongrel Mr. Sanford Burrows rendered a solo in excellent voice and Mr. Stephen Burrows also sang "Rule Britania."

A movie actor was suing a company for an immense sum for breach of contract. Upon being asked why he demanded such a sum, he replied, "Because I am the greatest actor in the world." Is Modern in Every Respect —A One-Storey Structure With Every Facility and Convenience for Education

The official opening of the new Prince of Wales school, Thurlow, will take place on Friday, January 26th, at 2 p.m.

The Provincial Inspector of Schools, Dr. Waugh, will officially open and inspect this beautiful new four-roomed school, which would do credit to the city of Belleville. The school is splendidly situated on College hill, overlooking the Moira river, a splendid elevation, and almost immediately adjoining the city. The school serves a section about one mile, north, east and west, but bounded on the south by the city of Belleville. The school was made necessary some years ago because of the Belleville School Board breaking up an agreement of long standing which made it possible for the children from this section to attend Belleville schools.

The new school is such as any city might well feel proud of, having four spacious class rooms, teachers' and domestic science rooms, splendid halls with entrances to east and west, also an assembly room or auditorium hall which will seat from four hundred or more people.

The building embodies all modern improvements — drinking fountains, steam heating system, lavatories, electric lighting, etc. The heating system is a most remarkable one, being through the medium of an ever ready well supplied hot water, which is always higher than the original surface level of the land. This well is within twenty feet of the school building. By means of an automatic electric water pump the water is forced to the building one or more times for various meetings, socials, etc.

Knowing that both above goals are reached, there still remains the problem of procuring $750 from new or increased revenue over the estimated receipts from all sources.

On Treasure Trove in Depths Of the Sea

Seeking for Millions in Gold Near the Coast of Africa —Have Tunnelled to Wreck.

London, Jan. 24.—Treasure seekers have located a wreck on the bottom of the sea just east of Cape Agulhas, which is believed still to shelter gold and jewels valued at $10,000,000, according to reports reaching here from South Africa.

The East Indiaman Grosvenor went down in 1782, and the records show she carried great treasures in her strong boxes. One hundred and forty years exposure to the action of salt water has not destroyed these, it is argued, and a company has been formed to conduct salvaging operations. The wreck lies close to the land. A tunnel has been dug from the shore to the hulk of the Grosvenor, and these expected soon to have divers in the remains of the vessel searching for the long lost valuables.

Many Pertinent Questions On Order Paper by Conservatives

Drury Government Asked to Explain Their Stewardship

CENSURE FOR GOVT.

Has Not Improved Agricultural Conditions During Its Tenure of Office

At the opening of the Provincial Legislature at Toronto yesterday, several questions were placed on the order paper by Conservative members.

Hon. Howard Ferguson wants to know what is the total amount of Provincial Revenue for the year ended from the end of the fiscal year 1921 to Oct. 31, 1922.

Hon. C. G. Henry wants to know what area the total amount paid out by the Departments of Highways after Oct. 31, 1922 for the accounts incurred during the fiscal year 1922.

Chas. McCrea, of Sudbury, is enquiring as to total number of miles of pulp and timber areas from Nov. 1, 1921, to Oct. 31, 1922.

Other questions include the amount of monies that have been paid by the Government to Hon. J. W. Bowell, K.C., or his firm for services, and to R. T. Harding or his firm.

Enquiry is also made as to Arthur W. Roebuck's present connection with the Government.

Dr. Forbes Godfrey asks under what ruling the Government paid money to Justice Riddell and Latchford for services on the Ontario Commission.

Mr. McCrea is asking for a return regarding the appointment of Allen MacDonald, Orono, Timber Agent at Fort Frances.

W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal, is asking for a return showing all correspondence, telegrams, reports of investigations made and Orders-in-Council relating to the dismissal of E. C. Drury, Esq., as the First Division Court of a Ontario County.

CENSURE FOR GOVERNMENT.

A resolution, practically of want of confidence in the Government, is to be moved by Sinclair (Lib.), as follows: "This House regrets that the Progressive Government, supported in the House by a bloc of purely agricultural representatives, has failed to take steps to improve the agricultural betterments, although elected upon a farmers' platform as an alleged protest against the indifference of the former administration toward the industry and those engaged in; and this House urges the Government even at this late date, to implement promises by taking active steps to improve the agricultural industry of Ontario."

PORTUGAL FOCUS ANXIOUS EYES TOWARD AFRICA

(By Canadian Press)

Lisbon, Jan. 24.—Portugal is threatened with the possible loss of her important African colonial possessions, according to Admiral Leote do Rego, who has caused sounding of a sensation by a letter addressed to Diaz de Lisboa in which he declares that Mozambique, on the east coast, and Angola, on the west coast of Africa, may be invaded by troops of the Boshkin African Union.

"The time has arrived to obtain possession of these territories by fair means or force," the admiral declares. "It is time that the people of Portugal know the truth. They should prepare to defend their heritage before it is too late. It is reported," the admiral continues, "that General Botha is now moving troops to the frontiers, and that he means business. Portugal, deprived of these possessions, will be the laughing stock among the nations of the world, for her colonial holdings constitute her importance."

The press is demanding that the Government inform the people as to what really is transpiring in Africa at the same time that all questions raised in Parliament on this subject have been met with vague and unsatisfactory answers.

TICKET SPECULATORS THRIVE IN RUSSIA

Moscow, Jan. 24.—Moscow this winter is a profitable field for the speculator in tickets. Every night the theatre box offices there is such a rush for seats for the ballets and other popular pieces that speculators soon formed, and many persons are ready to pay much higher prices to save standing in line.

Many workers who, when communism was at its height and access to the theatres free of charge now purchase regularly from speculators, apparently taking it for granted that the new economic policy, and all that goes with it—the good and the bad—is here to stay.

The people of the city flock every night into the lighted streets. Scores of theatres, more than in the pre-war days, cater to their amusement. And close by are the restaurants and cafes, the gambling casinos and the cabarets.

TWO MEN SCRAMBLE OVER SIX OUNCES

Night Constable Humphries of Lindsay had his nose severely bitten by a dog night while passing a down town hotel by the sound of a fracas of some kind. Entering, he found two men having a lively argument over a six-ounce bottle of whiskey, or what appeared to be whiskey, and which actually turned out to be a strong concoction of home-brew. The constable separated the men, secured their names, and confiscated the bottle. Police court proceedings will follow.

How Frontenacs Beat Cornwall

Game Was Very Exciting and Cornwall Net Guardian Put Up Great Game

Playing Cornwall on its own floor, with their speedy skating and great back-checking, Frontenacs won the most exciting game seen so far on the local Arena this season when they defeated the Easterers by a score of 2-2 after an exhibition of hair-raising hockey in which Gallinger, the Cornwall goal-tender, played a big part. He had a wonderful string all over him but he played good hockey as well and in the first period and for the biggest part of the second period he was unbeatable and put up a marvellous performance. Had it not been for Gallinger's superhuman work, the score would have been much more than the average fan gave him credit for being able to play. He was right on the job on and on more than one occasion he saved what looked to be a sure goal against his team. In the first period especially, he did out and made a wonderful stop when Larose and Kingborn combined and were playing for the net took Larose off his feet and saved in great style.

Frontenacs owe their victory to sheer hard work and backchecking. While their combination was not exactly what it should be, they made up for this on individual efforts and Harry Geoffrey, a big colored heavyweight.

The champion was protecting a forward lead at the end of the Second period in Salt Lake City and ran head first into a vaccination. Been wanting one for a long time," he explained.

Dempsey said he wanted to do a lot of fighting this year.

"I don't like the league or the men here," he said.

He added that a motion picture concern which handled the Carpentier pictures had offered him a contract, but he declined because one clause provided that he should remain out of the ring for a year.

"I'll fight anyone, fellows. You know all the contenders and I know them all and I'm not making one exception or trying to get away from any of them," he said.

RUPTURE IN THE FOAL

How to Deal With Umbilical Scrotal Hernias.

How Rupture Is Caused—Umbilical Hernia Not Usually Serious—Treatment of Scrotal Hernia Essentially a Surgical Operation.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto).

The term Hernia, or Rupture, is applied to designate a condition consisting of the protrusion of a portion of the intestine or bowel from the abdominal cavity through a normal or abnormal opening in the abdominal wall, which protrusion shows its presence by a lump or tumor-like mass, with the skin remaining intact as a covering or enclosing sac.

Umbilical Hernia.

In the case of Umbilical Hernia or rupture at the navel, the condition generally appears within a few weeks after birth. It consists of the protrusion of a portion of the bowel through the navel opening in the floor of the belly, the skin remaining intact, forming a covering sac or pouch. Its presence becomes noticeable by the appearance of a round soft lump, or tumor-like mass at the navel. Should doubt exist as to whether the condition is actually present or not, the true nature can be readily determined by grasping the lump in the hand and by pressing and manipulating the lump with the hand. It will be found that the bowel can be returned to the abdomen, leaving a somewhat loose opening at the navel, through by which the bowel protruded can be felt when the lump is pressed. Coughing, thus distinguishing it from any other swelling. Should the navel, as the foal is allowed to regain its feet, this bowel may return to the abdomen in the case of skin and the lump or tumor will then appear smaller at the navel. The size of the rupture varies from that of an egg to a large-sized ball.

Treatment.—As a rule, rupture at the navel is found to be a simple condition, except when of large size, which usually can be treated successfully by means of a truss or supporting bandage. The truss should first be placed on its back, and the lump or tumor manipulated with the hand to return the protruding bowel into the abdomen. The bowel then forced from again escaping, a pad or small cushion is placed over the navel opening and retained in position by a truss or supporting bandage, such as a piece of band or canvas girth encircling the body, fastened by buckle or tape, and prevented from slipping forward or backward by a strap from each end, over and breach band. The only objection to the use of a truss or bandage is that it may prevent the skin from properly expanding. In the case of large ruptures, this may cause irritation to the skin around the navel has a bad effect, and should first be noticed it causes helps to close the opening and prevents the bowel from again escaping.

When the foal reaches the age of four or five months without showing any tendency to close, the operation should be enlarge instead of decrease, it may require an operation by a veterinarian. The most common methods of operating are by means of clamps, ligatures, sheaves, and ligatures. In applying these, the foal must be placed on its back, and the lump or tumor with the bowel contents of the rupture may be returned to the abdomen. The skin forming the pouch or sac should then be removed, but not too close to the skin, but as far as possible from the body, and to this a clamp or ligature placed tightly and securely over the skin, but not through the navel or bowel opening. The clamps or ligatures are left on until the sac remains is removed, until they slough and fall off together with the imprisoned skin and tissues.

Scrotal Hernia in Colts.

Scrotal Hernia, or rupture at the scrotum, affects male animals only, and is usually present at time of birth, or appear within a few weeks thereafter. This form of rupture consists of the protrusion of a portion of the bowel through the inguinal canal, together with the testicles. Its presence is characterized by the increased size of the scrotum.

Treatment.—The treatment of Scrotal Hernia is ordinarily a surgical case essentially of a surgical operation, the castration and removing and being castration by what is known as the "covered method," which should be undertaken only by an veterinary surgeon. As a rule colts intended for work purposes, operated on in this form of rupture, should be operated on early in life, from two to three months before the colts is much over one year old, as the operation is more successfully performed with age, while, in the case of foals only a portion of the operation is invariably successful.

Should a mature bowel appear incurable for breeding purposes, surgical interference is warranted only when the animal is in the course of failure in health. The best plan in such cases is to destroy the animal, but in cases in the hope that with growth and development of the animal the bowel will become reduced.—Dr. G. D. McGilvray, President Ont. Vet. College, Guelph.

Ants Fine Before Tartaric Beverage.

A small amount of moistened tartar emetic and powdered sugar in equal parts will drive ants away if sprinkled where they appear. No nature should not be thrown out when the ants appear, as they usually present saints for another emergency. Add a little more sugar when they seem to be used as before. Care should be taken to keep it out of the reach of small children.

WARDEN DELIVERS INAUGURAL ADDRESS

Dr. James L. Hughes Addressed Belleville Club Last Evening

Former Chief Inspector of Public Schools Delivered Comprehensive and Instructive Discourse to Club Members and Guests—Orchestra and Social Evening

DICKENS AS AN EDUCATOR

Children Must Have Childhood—Exterior Polish in Private Schools—No Individuality in Our Institutions—Choose Own Vocations—Discussed Negative Words With Children

Those who were privileged to attend last night's affair at the Belleville Club, were certainly delighted and enlightened to a very great degree, when they heard a most inspiring and comprehensive lecture delivered by one of Canada's nationally known educators, Dr. James L. Hughes, formerly Chief Inspector of Public Schools of the Province of Ontario. Although now seventy-seven years of age Dr. Hughes is vigorous, strong and well preserved and he held the rapt and undivided attention of his audience for nearly one and three-quarter hours, taking as his theme, "Dickens as an educator".

The speaker was able to visit Belleville yesterday only after much inconvenience to himself and his presence in the city together with his dimely remarks last evening was deeply appreciated indeed.

During the afternoon Dr. Hughes was at the Ontario School for the Deaf, with Dr. Coughlin, an old friend and his itinerary there consisted of an inspection of the institution during which he addressed the pupils.

Grave fears were entertained last night by the officials, that the attendance would be affected by the many counter attractions, but at eight o'clock, the scheduled time for the address, a fair and representative audience was assembled, which was later considerably augmented in numbers and ultimately the club-rooms were packed to the doors.

It was noted last evening that the younger men and women were much impressed by Dr. Hughes remarks, and even the older set appeared to be greatly disturbed, and were wondering whether or not they had reared their families properly, and had given them the opportunities for the undoubted training necessary in their primary education and ultimate success.

The speaker upon being introduced by Mr. E. Gus Porter K.C., M.P., who in exercising strenuous efforts and is working indefatigably for securities with while for the Belleville Club, reverted to other years gone by and reminisced to the details of the audience. Of those same earlier days, when educational advantages were not so easily accessible to the youth of our country. It is significant that Dr. Hughes may be regarded as an old Hastings County Boy and the history of the perilous days of his bachelorhood spent in inculcating the young in the secrets with the fundamentals and rudiments of education as explained by him, was indeed most interesting to his listeners.

The speaker is perhaps the foremost living authority on Charles Dickens and his illustrates, which many little incidents not how he has been in close contact with that family. Many striking facts were given before the assembling relative to the education of our youth and the systems in vogue in the upbringing of our children.

Dr. Hughes, former Chief Inspector of Schools for Ontario, on rising to speak was received with applause. He said he knew many people in Belleville sixty-six years ago, but did not recognize any of them now if they were present. He said the subject of his address would be on Charles Dickens. The doctor said that he had studied him so much as any other man in his day. No other man studied Dickens as Charles Dickens. Dr. Hughes said that after graduating from normal school at the age of twenty he taught school at Frankford, and he was given that position because the authorities at the normal thought that he was strong enough to handle the pupils, as some of them had used the previous teacher rather roughly. He took his position, then, (afterwards Minister of Militia)who was then fourteen years of age in Frankford with him. They kept "bachelor's hall", the speaker being cook and Sam housemaid. At the age of twenty-one he was appointed to the staff of the normal school at Ottawa. Dr. Hughes said he had never attended high school and never had any sympathy with education that tried to make all pupils book-learned. He contended that some who fail in school curriculum make a better success of life than those who are continually school fed. He urged that we should have technical courses instead of so much book-learning. Dickens understood every element of modern education and revealed same in his writings. The speaker thought he was invited to the home of Dickens and introduced to his mother, sister and Aunt Georgia Hogarth, who was the original of the characters Agnes and David Copperfield. He gave seven several things that stood in Dickens study because he was the author of "Dickens as an Educator" written twenty years ago. He refered to Dr. Marigold who was the founder of education for the deaf. He was also the first man in England to advocate the teaching of the blind and the instigator in the old land of the education of neglected children.

The first superintendent of the Department of Education for the whole of the United States advocated two fundamentals, school training and music. Dr. Hughes maintained that the term "grammar" was not the proper designation for the head of school departments, but rather the name "director" should be used. Dickens was the first man to advocate national schools in England and he was also the first man in England to advocate the idea of normal schools for the training of teachers. Coercion and "cramming" were the two great faults of modern education. Dickens did more than any other man to eliminate "cramming". There is a lot of coercion in our schools at present, but the speaker hoped that it would soon be abolished. He cited an instance in a Cincinnati

POST OFFICE STAFF REDUCED

Owing to Illness Some of Local Clerks Are Absent From Duty

Postmaster Gillen announces that four men of the city postoffice staff are indispensed and are consequently unable to attend to their duties with the mails. An epidemic of a la grippe nature seems to have invaded the city during the past few days and has caught these civil servants in its clutches.

The public are requested to bear with the local staff in this inconvenience and any little delays which may be experienced will soon be remedied and the usual prompt service restored. In the meantime, it is sincerely hoped that those who are now ill will soon be able to resume their duties.

WARDEN-ELECT ADDRESSED COUNTY COUNCIL MEMBERS

Warden Walsh Delivers Inaugural Address, Following His Election to the Chair

Communications Received

Appeals for the Blind—Councillors Invited to attend Opening Ceremonies of Thurlow School To-morrow Afternoon

When the County Council assembled on Wednesday afternoon a vote was taken for the position of Warden for 1923, Mr. C. B. Ponton, K.C., of Montcagle and Ireshel Township received 6 votes and Mr. J. V. Walsh, Reeve of Tyendinaga Township, received 22 votes. The vote was as follows:

For Walsh—Thompson, Cranston, De Embury, McGuire, Ashart, Wignie, Green, McKenzie, Turell, White, Kelly, Young, Reid G. Reid, Hubbard, Walsh, Kells, S. B. Rollins, Moore, Haggerty, McMurray, Burns and Wright—22.

The Warden elect upon taking the chair addressed the Council as follows:

Warden Ashbrae, :

Mr. Clerk and Members of the Council of the County of Hastings:

In accepting the Wardenship it might become me to say you could have easily chosen from your number a more suitable man than myself, but as this would be a reflection upon your judgment and one which even you will not readily discover such, there is no need of my emphasizing the fact.

It's a very great honor for any man to be elected by his fellow-men, Warden and Chief Councillor of his County. I assure that I appreciate the honor and fully realize the responsibility that is attached thereto in the office of Warden in the County of Hastings. I shall endeavour to preserve the honor and dignity of the office and serve in a manner acceptable to all concerned.

I have no resolution in accepting the position. That is in seeing to many of the former members back in their seats, especially Dean of this assembly. I refer to the Reeve of Thurlow who, blessed with a robust constitution and enjoying the full confidence of his constituents, is to be found in his accustomed seat as representative of Thurlow, which he has so ably represented without a break for nearly half a century.

To the new members Tudor and Cashel I extend a hearty welcome and trust that he may find it a pleasure to assist in transacting the County's business, and I am sure we will all be delighted to cultivate his acquaintance.

Salaries of Officials of the County Council Fixed by Sheriff—Appointed by Government

COUNTY PAYS BILLS

Has no Control Over Expenditure of Own Funds for Some Salaries

At the County Council proceedings on Wednesday afternoon, a resolution was read which was passed by Hamilton and other County Councils, protesting against the order-in-council which had been passed by the Legislature of Ontario relative to the salaries of officials of county jails, and another dealing with the jail surgeons, being fixed by the Sheriff of the County The order also stipulates that the officials shall be provided with specified clothing, also the matron.

Mr. Kells: Such a drastic rule should be killed, as it verges on Russian rule. It also places the matter in the hands of those who are not responsible to the county. It is an autocratic movement.

Mr. Withers and others spoke in reference to concurring in the resolution submitted.

The Council decided unanimously to concur in the resolutions of protest.

EULOGIZED INSPECTOR

During the course of his remarks at the Belleville Club last night, Dr. J. L. Hughes refuted to H. J. Clarke, B. A., County School Inspector as one of the most competent officials in the Province. This commendation emanating from such an authority as Dr. Hughes, speaks well for the future gratifying to the City and County.

Advertise Belleville For Tourist Traffic

Instructive Meeting Last Evening in Chamber of Commerce Rooms to Stimulate Local Advertising

Chairman fo License Board

Spoke of Hotel Accommodation and Conditions Generally

A comprehensive scheme for advertising Ontario, generally and locally, was outlined at a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce last night by Dr. P. C. Doolitle of Toronto, Pres. of the Canadian Automobile Association, and by Mr. James Hales, K. C., Chairman of the Ontario Provincial Board of License Commissioners. The idea behind the advertising is to make of Ontario the tourist resort of the North American continent and one of the famous scenic centres of the world.

His worship Mayor Bennett was elected chairman of the meeting and in the course of a brief introductory address, said there were no more beautiful places than we have in our own country and district, Ontario, however was very backward in the establishment of parking places and camp grounds for tourists.

Dr. Doolitle, on being introduced, made a few brief references to his association with Mr. Hales, Chairman of the License Commission. He then went on to say the nature had been more kind to Belleville than to many other towns and cities in Ontario, heading in many directions the arteries of exceeding beauty. Mr. Bizzo had also been kind to Belleville in extending to the city the facilities of the Provincial Highway as well as branches of that highway leading to the many beauty spots.

Speaking of tourists who were not persons of wealth, but after years of saving would make a tour of several Province. They preferred to camp by the roadside and get their meals at a cost of 50 cents per day and there was perhaps a better advertiser than the man of wealth. If the city or town suited him that he was going elsewhere, possibly he would desire to come and establish a home there. Thus the market for real estate would be stimulated.

He recommended that the city of Belleville should have a car in that procession of tourists with the Michigan Pikers who were coming t his way this year and that from this car literature

INCOME TAX ON BOOTLEGGING

New York, Jan. 25.—Bootleggers who have done a profitable business in New York during the past year were warned today that they would be expected to pay income tax on their illegal gains.

John D. Appley, prohibition agent chief, announced that he was preparing a list of bootleggers known to have made many dollars, which he would submit to the internal revenue department, and that it behooved those men to file returns.

Under the law, information given by the bootleggers in making their returns is confidential and cannot be given out, even to another federal department, or for the purpose of prosecutions.

A SHORT SKETCH OF THE WARDEN-ELECT

Warden Walsh Was Born in the Township He Represents—Says He Will Devote Attention to Politics After Retirement

Mr. James V. Walsh, Warden elect for Hastings County is the popular Reeve of Tyendinaga Township one of the largest Township in the County. In the year 1880 Mr. Walsh was born in Tyendinaga, being a son of the late Mr. Michael Walsh. All his life has been spent in that municipality. For a period of 11 years the Warden elect was a Councillor and Deputy Reeve of the Township, Upon the retirement of Mr. Peter McLaren as Reeve of the Township after holding the office for fourteen years. For 16 years the Warden has been the President of the Albert Cheese factory which is one of the largest factories in the Bay of Quinte district. Mr. Walsh is a member of St. Charles Roman Catholic Church, located at Read, Tyendinaga Township but is not connected with any fraternal organization in the last generation. Mr. Walsh was the Liberal candidate for East Hastings, but was defeated by a few votes on one occasion. He is one of the youngest members of the County Council to be elected to the position of Warden and he will no doubt fill the position with credit alike to the County and himself. Mr. Walsh states that it is his intention to retire after this year from municipal politics in the interest of the party to which he is and always has been identified.

TRAP DOOR DID NOT TRIP

Car Owner Trapped—Liquor Found Under Back Seat

Freeport, N. Y., Jan. 25.—A trap door trapped William Dawson when the police seized 60 bottles of whiskey under the back seat of his automobile.

An ingenious device by which the liquor could have been dropped into the road merely by pulling a trap-door under the rear seat failed to work, the police said.

TRIES SNAKE TO CURE AILMENT

Ottawa, Jan. 25.—That the days of faith in fortune tellers' statements are not past was evidenced recently at the Victoria Memorial Museum when a lady accompanied Clyde L. Patch, of the museum staff, with a startling request to call a live snake around her neck. She gave as her reason that a fortune teller had told her that this treatment would cure an ailment.

Mr. Patch, in compliance with her request, brought one of the museum's five foot pets and obligingly encircled the lady's neck with the reptile.

A natural feeling of repulsiveness was probably responsible for the sudden blanching of the lady's face. However, in pursuance of her evident determination to carry out the fortune teller's advice, she stood the ordeal for some few minutes, until Mr. Patch himself, afraid she might faint, removed the snake.

FULL MICRO SAFETY

WARDEN ELECT ADDRESSED COUNTY COUNCIL LAST NIGHT

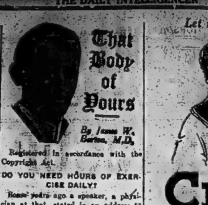
Gentlemen, the business before you will be along the same lines as last year, though I do hope there will be the limitation. Legal proceedings are usually costly to any county and the County of Hastings is no exception. Your appeal to the Ontario Court of Appeal against damages allowed Dr. Clinkard lately, failed. You will decide only in this case as to the advisability of carrying the appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada.

There will, of course, be many other great and important matters likely to engage your attention during the coming year which will require your earnest attention. Efforts should be made to have your entire county road system approved by the Government as well as to secure the Government subsidy for the expenditure upon these roads and bridges in 1923 appropriating ten thousand dollars. You will, I trust, give this your attention and I suggest you appoint a small legislative committee to look after this matter as well as other matters of a similar nature.

You will, of course, spoint the usual committee to look after the business of the county during recess. I do not see the necessity of a Purchasing committee this year but think it would be well to appoint instead a Publicity committee whose duty it would be to advertise the resources of North Hastings. I am strongly of the opinion that a few hundred dollars spent for this purpose will be of material benefit to the County of Hastings and the city of Belleville's assistance in the way of engineering and developing the mineral resources of the county may well be considered, and I believe that if proper representation was made to the Government by this Council that assistance may be had in the way of a Government engineer to help develop the wonderful resources within the County of Hastings.

Agriculture should have more attention from the Government. In a county like Hastings we should have two Agricultural Representatives, whose duties it would be to mingle more freely with the farmers and also Judgment supervising and advising.



I do hope that you will not consider any reduction in the appropriations for roads. The taxpayers are asking for better roads and getting generous assistance in building them. Nobody objects to the expenditure on roads so long as the money is well and prudently spent, and in connection with the expenditure on all roads and bridges it is very important that they be overseen in there be a competent man, and he should receive advice and assistance from your Superintendents frequently. In order to do this properly it is absolutely necessary to have two active Road Superintendents in the County of Hastings.

It is very necessary to continue the construction of new bridges throughout the county, using where possible reinforced concrete. This work should begin as early in the spring as weather conditions will permit in order to avoid the cold frosty weather in the fall which is very detrimental to concrete work in the course of construction. It is possible that some of the old bridges can be repaired. All bridges should be examined very carefully this spring, and where it is found entirely to the Chairman and committee in charge, together with the Reeves of the municipalities in which the bridges are situated. Close attention to this work by your Superintendents is of great importance.

I am advised that the Minister of Highways for the Province of Ontario has intimated, if necessary, that he will struct a bridge across the Bay of Quinte just west of Deseronto and that he will be asked to signify your approval of the undertaking early this session.

The chances of your county are in excellent condition. Your county debenture debt was reduced to $245,-000 on the 31st of January, 1923. No new debentures have been issued since 1918 and the present debenture debt will be reduced at the rate of $30,000 per year. There is no necessity for an increase in the county's tax rate while the assessment remains where it now is and you avoid litigation.

My intimate knowledge of your chief county officials will permit me to say that they are diligent, conscientious and capable, each having a strong sense of his duty and making an honest effort to discharge that du-

DO YOU NEED HOURS OF EXERCISE DAILY?

Reason points ago a speaker, a physician at that, startled us by an address in Toronto people that he didn't believe a body building because he couldn't afford to spend hours and hours every day to keep his body in shape.

About the same time Sandow, the world's strongest man was appearing at a local theatre, and the full amount of exercise he was taking in a day was just fifteen minutes—he said that time it took him to give his muscles his performance.

How do you account for the physician's statement? Well, he simply didn't understand the elementary principle underlying exercise. And what is that?

Briefly it is this, when you exercise a muscle, the blood vessels in that muscle become dilated in order to allow blood to enter the muscle. If within a short time you take some further exercise the small arteries supplying the muscle do not have time to contract to former size. They remain slightly dilated. If you take further exercise within a reasonable time the vessels are often further dilated or rather prevented from contraction to any extent.

What does this mean to you? That systematic exercise of a muscle educates the arteries supplying that muscle to remain in a dilated condition. This increase in the blood supply not only provides in increase of oxygen during exercise but "during repose" carries an "increased amount of nourishment to the muscle with the result that the muscle increase in size and power.

There is the secret then. A small amount of exercise every day properly educated arteries, and you get your increased amount of nourishment not only during exercise but during repose even when you are asleep.

Try, I am pleased to inform you that while our County Solicitor has been confined to his house for a few weeks he is well on the road to recovery.

In conclusion I desire to extend to the Press and the representatives of the Press of the city and district of the county a cordial invitation to attend the sessions of this Council and committee meetings and to say that we desire for the purpose of reporting the proceedings for the benefit of the tax payers in the County.

APPEAL FOR BLIND.

Mr. H. J. Jackson, addressed the Council relative to the County Council assisting the blind in Canada. There are some 7,000 blind persons in Canada and the National Institute for the Blind is doing a grand work for these unfortunates. Last year the products of the blind amounted to $200,000. The workshops have to be subsidized every year. It takes a considerable time to educate the blind. These unfortunates in the many articles and blind girls are even taught to run sewing machines. In Hastings County there are 13 blind persons and some are being taught various occupations. He asked the Council to make a donation of $500 which is not one-fifth of what has been spent for the blind in the City of Toronto last year it cost nearly $2000,000 to carry on the work of the institution.

Mr. Embury—This County has always made contributions for such appeals. He moved, seconded by Mr. McGuire that the matter be referred to the Ways and Means Committee.

A communication was read from Mr. F. B. Beattieboro relative to the Council and members of the Council to attend the opening and christening of the new public school, the Sheriff will Waise in Thurlow Township on Friday afternoon. Received and filed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A number of communications were read and those in which grants were asked for were referred to the Ways and Means Committee for consideration.

FILL IN BRIDGES.

Mr. J. D. McMillan, of Belleville district superintendent of the C.T.R., wrote the Council relative to the proposition of filling and grading at the bridges in Madoc Township which bridges are now an unused eyes line of the C.P. R. Mr. McMillan stated that the old bridge could be removed and the place filled in. An appropriation of $1,450 had been made for the work which could be done under the supervision of County officials.

Mr. Kelly stated that the old bridge was in a dangerous condition and to build a new bridge would cost from three to four thousand dollars.

Mr. J. Burns, Reeve of Madoc village, referred to the matter and asked that the offer be laid on the table for further consideration.

The request was complied with.

Council adjourned until 10 o'clock Thursday morning.

CONSERVATIVE MEMBERS FOR W.&N. HASTINGS WANT TO KNOW

Pertinent Questions Fired at Drury by Local Members —Roebuck and Rowell Have Been Collecting Liquor Fines From Ontario Coffers

The progressive Conservative members of the Legislature for North and West Hastings are not wasting any time in getting down to business. The peregrination of the Drury Government are being closely investigated at Toronto and the two local members have asked the following pertinent questions concerning this commission administration.

Roebuck Bucked

W. H. Ireland—Has Mr. A. W. Roebuck, barrister, at any time been retained by the Government? For what purpose or purposes was he retained? What were the conditions of his retainer in each of the several matters? Is he still in the employ of the Government? How much has he been paid to date in each matter? What further amount is claimed by him in each matter?

Rowell Had Some Bills

J. R. Cook—What amount to date has been paid by this Government to N. W. Rowell, K.C., or his firm for services? What further amount is claimed by N. W. Rowell or his firm?

This it will be noted that our members are not permitting the grass to grow under their feet and are not silent listeners in the deliberations at Queens Park.

NEW HOME FOR CANADIAN BUFFALO HERDS

Canadian Government Establishes Home For Remnants of Former Innumerable Herds

A new Dominion Park to be known as Wood-Buffalo Park has just been created by order in council. This park will be situated near Fort Smith on the west side of Slave river. It extends north from 60th to the north boundary of the province of Alberta and includes within its boundaries the present habitat of the wood-bison, or so-called wood buffalo.

These wood buffalo are the only remnants to be found in their native wild state of the millions of buffalo which at one time roamed throughout the great central plains of North America from the Mexican border to the country north of the Great Slave lake. Only the prompt action of the Dominion Government in affording them protection has saved these magnificent specimens of American wild life from extinction.

For a number of years, rangers of the Department of the Interior have patrolled the more accessible portions With improvements in transportation and many new trappers pouring into these northern areas, a more rigid patrol and a greater measure of protection was found necessary. The creation of this park will assist materially in furnishing this.

MUSIC and DRAMA

FINE DRAMA PROMISED IN "THE SILENT CALL" AT GRIFFIN'S TOMORROW

H. O. Davis' presentation of the Laurence Trimble-Jane Murfin production "The Silent Call," which released through Associated First National Pictures, Inc., and said to be the greatest picture of snow and ice, will be the feature at Griffin's tomorrow night, and Saturday, Matinee and night.

The story is a drama of the outdoor West. Beautiful exteriors, a romance of silent places of virgin forests and mountains, and the novelty of a dog in the leading role are the features that have commended this release to photoplay followers.

Strongheart, a Belgian police dog, who was a decorated hero in service with the Red Cross during the war, is the canine in the starring role. How well he understood his part was realized in the course of production when hardly any direction was required for him and very few scenes.

A sensational plot for mastery between two men, in which a girl fig ures, and a scene around the strange evolution of the dual nature of dog and wolf in Strongheart.

"The Silent Call" was adapted by Jane Murfin from the Hal G. Evarts story, "The Cross Pull," which appeared in The Saturday Evening Post. Laurence Trimble directed the production. Among the players in the cast are such favorites as: John Gowers, Kathryn McGuire, William J. Dyer, James Mason, Nelson McDowell, E. J. Brady and Robert Bolder.

"Kid Love," an original and amusing Century Kiddie comedy, each role being enacted by a child, a Travelogue and a new chapter of "Buffalo Bill" series are being exhibited on the same program.

HERBERT RAWLINSON IN "DON'T SHOOT" AT REGENT

"Don't Shoot!" The darkness of a great room saw the shadowy movements of many figures. Pistols were switched on, and a great tragedy was written into the book of life when a man and a woman who had never seen each other before were compelled to marry, because an insanely jealous man thought their fiances was in love with another man. The dramatic grip of "Dod't Shoot," Herbert Rawlinson's finest Universal starring vehicle, is its pre-eminent virtue. George Bronson Howard wrote the story.

"Don't Shoot" has as its opening Christie comedy, a new Vodevil Movies, Pathe Newy and a Kinogram will be exhibited on the same program.

was place for other affections, including his favorite pets, two pigeons which he kept close beside him in a special cage in the forge. A German shell which burst on that fateful morning just outside the smithy, hurled the cage to the ground, and the frightened pigeons escaped and flattered through the open door. The soldiers saw them and that enough evidence to condemn the poor man.

NAPANEE COLLEGE SEXTETTE WIN HANDILY FROM B. H. S.

Another Case of "Upsetting the dope" at Arena Last Night When Napanee Win 5-4 Overcome 2-Goal Lead in Last Stanzas by Outclassing Local Students—B.H.S. Win League, But are Due For a Rude Awakening

The Belleville High School were forced to accept the short end of a 5-4 score here last evening against the Napanee Collegiate. A decidedly luck exhibition play spoiled the locals defeat. The homsters went into the last period with a two-goal lead to their credit, but they did not stand. With the score 4-4 everyone was sent up on the forward line in an effort to break the deadlock, but three Napanee players broke away and with ability to beat out the goalie, they added the winning counter. The Belleville youngsters have already won their group and the result of last night's game made no change in the standing. With three wins and one loss to their credit they are declared winners of this section. If they continue to dish up the class of hockey that they displayed last night they will be able to go far with them. Only one or two of the boys were up to form. Strachan scored three goals and assisted on the pick of the bunch. Ray Arnott and Kerr played mediocre hockey, but as for the remainder of the squad, nothing much can be said. Leaving their positions uncovered, bunching at centre ice and falling to back the puck die, were also responsible for the defeat. The visitors had the Belleville forwards so completely hitched and thither with no apparent object in view. The locals are not stealing many of Napanee's laurels when we say that justice to themselves it can be truthfully said that practically every player was off form. Everybody stepping administering a six to one trimming to the N.C.I. boys in Napanee last week ago B.H.S. were slightly over-confident. The winners has improved considerably and with the additions of a new goaltender, pressed and a much more formidable line-up. But as the teams time had B.H.S. been playing their average brand of hockey the score would have been reversed. Last night's defeat will awaken them to the fact that constant practice will remedy the defects. Manager Leoty was absent and it was too until that latter stages that Frank Adams and Jack Marks took charge. It was during the last few minutes that B.H.S. came to life and had they served up this brand of hockey throughout the defeat would have turned into victory.

Napanee boys were weak on shooting, but carried the puck down the ice to perfection. The scoring was well divided, each of the five goals were chalked up to a different player. They nearly always managed to slip through the first line of defence and slip it into the corner. Not one of their five goals was the result of long range marksmanship.

Daly played a nice game in goal and although he is a new-comer at the game, he showed lots of class. Perry the visiting centre man was the pivot of the attack and although he was injured twice, he gamely returned to the ice. Wheeler, the Napanee right winger, worked hard and scored the winning goal. Although he is rather short on weight, he has lots of bumps with a smile. The rest of the boys played a prominent part and deserve credit. The Napanee boys defeated the Deseronto stalwarts a 10-3 trimming in their own rink on Monday night. Strachan's all-round playing kept the locals in the hunt. He scored three goals and saved a half a dozen others.

Hurley is a little short on condition. He made some dangerous rushes, but invariably went into the corners. Carley let some rather easy ones slip in and experienced an off-night between the posts. Ritchie Arnott was left out of a sick-bed to participate and consequently could not do himself justice. A week's rest will do him a world of good. Bukard did not show up as well as usual, but he, too, has been under the weather.

Kerr was shifted to a wing position and did fairly well. His drives were landing on the boards to the left of the net. Ray Arnott showed his best form in the first period. Daly managed to take care of Ray's shots. Townsend, the peppery little forward did not perform as well as in Napanee. He had a set-to with Perry and got the gate, but on returning scored a goal.

Belleville High School have high hopes of bringing the silverware east this year, but they must remember that selfishness with the puck will get them nowhere.

Only god, hard, steady practice will win the games and the defeat may do them a world of good. Only a handful of spectators were present, they really deserve better patronage. To finance their own travelling expenses is a difficult proposition when they receive such half-hearted support as they did last evening. Two or three steadily work-outs will show a vast improvement in the general team-play.

"Slish" Barrett handled the ball and sent a few law-breakers to the cooler to think the matter over. "Josh" Canning acted as time-keeper and Bill Gilbert as one goal-judge.

Brockville Gets the K.O. In Cornwall

By 14-6—Eight Goals Scored in Last Twenty Minutes — Cornwall Takes Game in Easy Fashion

Cornwall, Jan. 25.—In a fast game of hockey before a large crowd in the Victoria Arena last night, Cornwall defeated Brockville in the O. H. A. intermediate series by 14 to 6.

The first period gave Cornwall three straight counters. Early in the second two more were added, and the fourth best Bellringer for them in succession. Each team added one more before the ball, and the score stood 5 to 4. The spectators were real anxious about this time, and the anxiety was increased when Brockville made it 6 to 5 early in the last period. But four in a row is quick order for dispelled the danger, and after Cornwall scored this quarter Brockville added one more to their list, and the figures stood 10 to 6. Another four were added by Cornwall in somewhat easy fashion, and the final was 14 to 6 for the locals.

Cornwall—Gallinger, James, Smith, Tilton, Kinghorn, Largee; subs., Beach and Gravelley.

GRAND TRUNK SPORTS

On Saturday the Grand Trunk of Ottawa are sending a hockey team and two bowling teams to Belleville to play the local trunkers here. They will arrive on the afternoon train and in the evening they will play the Belleville up to a standard of the score between seven and eight o'clock. The probable line-up for the hockey will be: Goal Baker; defence McElrath and Frosts; wings Weir and Williams; Center Young. Subs, Harley, Simmonsde and Savage. After the hockey match two local bowling teams consisting of the office bunch at the station will take two teams from the hospital city, and give them a hard run for leadership in rolling the pins. There will be no charge to see either of these affairs and the public are invited to turn out and witness some clean sport between the "runners" and the Ottawa's.

At Toledo, Ohio, federal officers seized a complete printing plant used to counterfeit Canadian internal revenue stamps, whiskey labels and stamped corks.

A NEW ALIBI

New York, Jan. 26.—"Jack Dempsey won the title from me on a knock punch," declared Tom Gibbons, "that is the latest alibi offered by Jess Willard, former heavy-weight champion.

"Sounds rather reasonable. The surprising thing is that Jess didn't stamp it out sooner.

"Dempsey slammed me on the jaw as we were coming out of a clinch, after we had been ordered to break clean. His act was contrary to the rules of the Toledo commission.

"After that smash punch I was through. I didn't know a thing from then on. I was practically helpless. I had dropped my arms to step back clean, when Dempsey put over the illegal punch that decided the championship in his favor."

Tigers Take The Count Are Blanked By Frenchmen

Hamilton Team Off Color and Lose 5-0 to Montreal Outfit

Hamilton, Jan. 25.—Displaying a brand of hockey that would have defeated any team in the N.H.L. Canadiens stepped into Percy Thompson's Tigers here last night and defeated them by a 5 to 1 count. Aside from a few minutes in the opening period, and the first half of the final session, Tigers were never in the picture, and but for the poor work on the part of Forbes and Sid shooting on the part of Canadiens' the Dandyrant team would have run up a larger count.

The entire Hamilton team appeared to be suffering from the after effects injuries received at Ottawa. They did not show any dash until the final period, and then it was too late.

NEW ENGLISH LAW PROTECTS RETAIL BUYER

New Unit of Weight Adopted in England's Trade

London, Jan. 24.—The retailers of grain in England are in the throes of readjusting their selling methods, which have come down to them through generations, to suit a system designed to give greater protection to the buyer. Corn, and a variety of other similar products, must henceforth be sold by actual weight, instead of by measure. Formerly dealers sold by the weight held by the measure, and reaped an undue harvest at the expense of the consumer.

The country of making is virtually impossible for anyone not an expert to know what the actual weight was.

Today the retailer is aggrieved, but on the other hand the buyer is getting a square deal. The term "corn" in the new law includes wheat, barley, oats, maize, dried peas, dried beans, linseed, and potatoes, as well as the seed of grass, clover, vetches, turnips, cabbages and beets.

Irishmen Trim Ottawa In Overtime

Noble Scores Winning Goal —John Ross Roach Still Keeping Them Out

When "Reg" Noble took a pass from Randall and scored against Ottawa one minute and a half after the overtime period began, in last night's game, he brought to a conclusion one of the hardest fought pro. hockey league engagements of the year, the Irish winning by 2 to 1. The teams battled through the first 30 minutes without a tally, and then Dye put the local in the lead. Five minutes had elapsed in the next period before Denenny tied the count, and it remained that way until the finish of the session, mainly because of the extraordinary goalkeeping of Roach.

In the first two periods Ottawa used their famous defensive system, and although it proved effective, the visitors suffered on the attack, one man and at most two, taking part in the rushes. When St. Patrick's jumped into the lead Coach Green changed his tactics, and sent three men running for the goals. So fiercely did they attack that at times there was only one man on the defence, and once the whole Ottawa team, except Benedict, was past centre. Roach stood to his guns in an amazing manner, and no more brilliant goalkeeping effort have ever been seen here. Ottawa beat him for one counter when they earned about ten.

THE COUNTY COUNCIL

The differences relative to the Wardenship of the County Council of Hastings were amicably settled yesterday afternoon by means of an election and now the "County Premier" has taken the chair and business will proceed with decorum and despatch. Precedent in County Council affairs has again asserted itself and a Liberal in politics occupies the coveted chair. Conservative members who are in extreme opposition this year, threw camouflage to the winds and came out as open supporters of the Liberal aspirant. It has been the custom for many years that a Conservative and Liberal shall reign alternately and no exception has been made in the case of this term. It would appear that the U.F.O. endeavored to throw the proverbial monkey wrench into the machinery, but numerical strength was insufficient to disturb the traditions and County customs.

The "sessional indemnity" of County Councillors is not of such tremendous proportions to warrant a lengthy session, as has been proviident in Toronto lately, where supporters vote early and often for the government to prolong their stay.

It does not take a prophet to predict that there will be no serious meddling with the routine business of the county, but possibly the rather large levies for Government Highways which have been a drain on county treasury will shift customary policies to suit the changing tides of public opinion of county councillors. The financial obligations which must be met cause considerable figuring in the annual budget and the equalization of taxes which must be explained satisfactorily to the taxpayers in the townships and municipalities who are chargeable with the amounts.

Perhaps the County Councillors may pin an inquisitive eye upon the provincial government and ask them why the appointment of some county officials should be controlled from Toronto when their remuneration is assessed against the county treasury.

The Warden-elect to-day in his inaugural address reviews the coming year comprehensively. His remarks are published in another column of to-day's issue and should be carefully read by the citizens.

Whether or not the county will further litigate and appeal in the matter of the adverse verdict in the Clinton case will be decided this session. Increased facilities for the furtherance of agriculture and the development of the many varied natural resources existent within the confines of our County are advocated by Mr. Walsh. The construction and repairing of bridges is also dealt with and these features would appear to furnish considerable food for thought in the present deliberations of the members.

However, these county legislators will likely experience lots of minor arguments which will help to liven the leaden hours, but the electorate of Hastings can safely rest assured that the present council will "stand as a bulwark of vested rights against the clamor and caprice of the mob", and will therefore govern to the very best of their ability and power,

HON. MR. DOHERTY ON A SPEAKING TOUR

While Hon. Mr. Drury with his Attorney-General and other colleagues are piloting their ship of state through turbulent seas at Toronto, the Hon. Manning Doherty seems to be perfectly content to temporarily desert his fellow seamen and take to the outside platform. The Minister of Agriculture cannot be greatly impressed with the responsibilities of office for he is scheduled to address a meeting to-morrow afternoon at Woodstock. Ont., where the Oxford county Farmers' Co-operative Produce Company will be in convention assembled. Members of the county sgg circles, cheese factories and other rural electors are cordially invited, according to an advertisement appearing in the Woodstock Sentinel-Review, to remove their Prince Albert coats from the family cedar chests to attend this all-important meeting and there be enlightened relative to the tremendous possibilities and unqualified successes of co-operative marketing.

It looks as if the Minister deems this procedure of more importance to the county than his constant attendance in the Legislative Chamber to defend the various activities of his Department. Mr. Doherty will doubtless be required to elucidate considerably, in retaliatory vein to opposition attacks upon his administration. The Dairy Standards' Act and Co-operative marketing schemes will be fully discussed, and owing to the fact that he is the mentor in the enforcement of both movements he should be anxious to defend himself against all questioners.

At the present time numerous lieutenants of the Minister are sayorting up and down the country in an endeavor to induce farmers to form co-operative societies to market their own products with their own capital, and are meeting with some measure of success.

In the meantime at the Oxford meeting to-morrow afternoon ,Hon. Mr. Doherty will try to gold-brick the farmers again. They should remember that the many so-called advantages of co-operative societies are getting sadly frayed and run down at the heels. A lot of noise has been made in the organization and operation of these institutions, but unfortunately a lot of debts instead of dividends have been reported. The shareholders in these ventures, even as the manufacturers in their projects, do not come in for patriotism at every more while considering vacancies in their pockets.

These nonchalant meanderings of Mr. Doherty should be discontinued at such important times when the House is in session and more attention paid to the business of the legislature in order that a long session may be avoided. These pet ideas can wait until the real warm weather comes together with the political picnics which no doubt will take place to divert the public mind. Even then it is safe to predict that some of these distinguished Queen's Park statesmen will likely grab their hats hurriedly, make a start and never stop going until they are safely en route along the back concession and up the first side road.

HERE AND THERE

THE BOOKKEEPER

O Life, how mathematical thou art!
How nicely balanced are thy ledger sheets!
The entries all are there, on either side—
Debits and credits; now it but remains
To close the year's account, and turn the page.

Here, as a debit, is a costly Grief;
No diadem of pearls could be more rare;
I paid for this with tears wrung from my soul;
Nothing I owe for it—I gave my all
Of secret sorrow and unnoted pain.

But on the credit side, to balance this,
Are hours of ecstasy, set here and there
(Like precious jewels) in a silver frame
Of quiet, happy days,
I lost a friend

On such a date: item: a friend I gained;
This entry shows a blunder rashly made;
And this a bright idea that served me well;
And day by day I sold my puny strength,
To find, each day, that puny strength renewed.

O life, how mathematical thou art!
I strike a balance: draw a blood-red line
Across the white, blank spaces, that may stand
For days when nothing happened, good or bad;
And turn the page to Nineteen Twenty-three.

PRESS OPINIONS

A WEAK RECORD

(Guelph Herald)

It was a forcible exposure of an exceedingly weak record that Hon. Hugh Guthrie made in dealing with the Dominion Government before the Young Men's Conservative Club of Hamilton. A review of the past twelve months of the life of the King administration at Ottawa is a melancholy one, revealing a series of weaknesses, lack of attempt to make good on pre-election promises, and bungling legislation when anything was taken in hand.

Taking it as a whole and it would be difficult to find the record of any government so bare in achievement as that of Premier King. The close of the session found such a paucity of progressive legislation that Liberal supporters were glad to pass over it in silence. When anything was attempted, such as the Wheat Board legislation, it was bungled. Mr. Meighen warned the Government that such a board would be a failure, but it went ahead and the attempt to form such a board was the failure that was prophesied. Any hope it has entertained of relief in the matter of reduced freight rates were destroyed by the bungling methods adopted at Ottawa.

Nothing need be said as to the failure of the administration in making good on pre-election promises with respect to the tariff. It was a good thing for the country that it fell to the lot of Hon. Mr. Fielding to be said about the failure to cut down expenses, at Ottawa, as Premier King promised he would do. Instead of cutting down the national debt it still being added to daily. This is all the more strange seeing that the Conservatives on soldiers' civil re-establishment are now considerably lessened. The Government's record is very barren as to unemployment, transportation and immigration. The former has been totally left to the municipalities to grapple with, and about the only this that has been done with respect to the railways was to dismiss a board that was rapidly turning deficits into a surplus and appoint a new one that suits the Liberals at Ottawa more than the old, non-political one did. Immigration to Canada has almost been a thing of the past, and altogether what between bungling and incompetency conditions with reference to the Ottawa administration show a very unsatisfactory state of affairs. In his address at Hamilton Hon. Hugh Guthrie brought out these deficiencies with a telling hand. Unless Premier King can do better at the approaching session it would be a good thing for the country if the small majority secured at the expense of the Progressives was wiped out altogether, and a more progressive government.

LIBERALS AWAY FROM HOME

It is as clear as daylight to every political observer that the present wealth of Progressive members of parliament are in reality Liberals. The line which divides them and the Liberal party is an imaginary one. Their attitude is well known and it must seriously affect the attitude of the Progressives.

JUICE AND JOY

Tis time the score off my bank,
The stingy I will break,
And then with swagger and with swank
I'll go to spend my pay.
Nowhere in my way I'll take;
Around amid the throng and cry,
"Juicy, juicy, goosey, goosey,
Juicy, goosey goose!"

Softly at each spot the bee,
My dashes so drawn for me,
The turkey gobbler with is wen,
I will not deign to see,
But I'll exclaim in accents curchas,
"Ladies and gents, I wish to purchase
Some

Juicy, juicy, goosey, goosey,
Juicy, goosey goose!"

I think that I have thirty cents,
Of coin that is a lot,
I'll spend it all, oh, hang expense,
And when my bird I've bought,
Albeit my treasure I will hold,
And cry to all the world, "Behold,
A goose!
Juicy, juicy, goosey, goosey,
Juicy, goosey goose!"

I will a chef of great renown
His services engage;
He'll stuff my bird with crumbs so brown,
With onions and with sage;
I'll put a wreath around her neck,
Lemons sliced they shall bedeck,
My goose!
My juicy, juicy, goosey, goosey,
Juicy, goosey goose!"

As we eat, 'n eat, 'n eat,
As we'll eat galore,
As we'll eat, 'n eat, 'n eat,
And we'll eat some more;
From dawn to dark, from dark to dawn,
We'll eat, 'n eat till she hath gone,
My goose!
My juicy, juicy, goosey, goosey,
Juicy, goosey goose!

GREAT SOCIAL INSTITUTIONS

Judging from the headlines in the daily newspapers there seems to be a scarcity of news and the favorite topics seem to be the three old standbys, "Love, Marriage and Divorce." We thought pretty nearly all that could be said had been reiterated again and again about these subjects but evidently there are a few who think they have something new.

Just the other day Judge Lindsey, who married such a sweet young thing not so very long ago, declared: "Marriage is a failure. As a social institution it has failed miserably."

But from another standard of courts, Miss Helen P. McCormick, for the last five years an assistant District Attorney, comes assurance: "Marriage is a success. It's merely a few of the married who fail."

"Marriage," seems to me, is one of the very greatest social institutions evolved by Christianity and civilization combined. There will always be some persons not fitted for it, just as there will always be those who break our short social laws. On the other hand, modern society as a whole takes too irresponsible a view to marriage relation. I have known many cases where marriage seemed to be a failure, and the blame rested neither on the husband nor on the wife, but on a society which wouldn't give him a living wage, and which kept her living in circumstances where she could not make the best of herself or of her marriage. Society permitted this condition of affairs and intervened only when matters came to a crisis and by the assertion of a tired, overwrought man, society laid itself liable to the support of his wife and family."

Miss McCormick declares that she not only believes in marriage, but in early marriage, for she says:

"Any healthy young man and young woman who have love and who have sense of responsibility, can make marriage a success."

She agrees with Henry Arthur Jones, the playwright, who declared that criticism of marriage is like blaming a ship for mutiny on it—there's nothing wrong with the ship, the trouble is with the crew!

'Let him sit down,' Aynsworth said, as he drew his coat on.

"It's quite now, sir!' he said, looking up helpfully.

'Perhaps it is,' Aynsworth answered, 'and we shall call the game off, and say no more about it.'

'Yes, sir,' Hammerman ascented humbly.

'And there must be no more cornering of lads or men in those works, Hammerman, do you understand?'

For answer the fellow held out his hand, a trifle unsteadily, Aynsworth understood, and gave it a friendly grip. Some time I'll give you a lesson or two on the science of the business, Hammerman,' he said. 'To know how is often very useful. You strike with the force of a battering-ram or a steel-hammer, but a little skill won't hurt, you know!'

'Thank you, sir,' Hammerman said, gratefully, smiling through the grime, vanquished but happy at the prospect of the distinction promised him.

Seeing Middleton in the distance, returning from somewhere, Aynsworth hastened to meet him, and both men walked away, leaving Hammerman and his admirers to their own meditations.

'Who would have thought it?' one of them said, looking after Aynsworth, 'now if it had been a fellow like Donald MacAlpin, I could understand it, but he don't look like it, no-how, that he don't!'

'May be!' Hammerman said, doubtfully, but I happens to know what it is like after sinking up-t o here in hostility. I has not been drunk for the last seven year cam' New Year, but I knows all about it!'

'Why, I had forgotten you ever were drunk, Munroe,' Aynsworth said pleasantly, 'you were such a model of propriety. 'It's an awfu' bad pract'ce, for it empties a man o' strength and reason, and fills him instead with pugnacibecility. I has not been drunk for the last seven year cam' New Year, but I knows all about it!'

'Zowee,' groaned Frankie Ford. "Shiver my cylinders! This cold weather gets right into my radiator. What with being a Ford and freezing to death, what joy is there in living. I'd like to know."

"Brush sary. I have an idea!" Frankie always stuttered when he got excited. "I've been rotting down on the espouse lately and have saved a lot on gas. I guess I can afford a new coat for the winter.' He buttoned his old rusty black one tighter around his radiator and shuffled out into the snow. The cold made him spotter and faster.

"Oh, shoot this old Ford!" The girl stamped on the starley exasperatedly.

But Frankie Ford only shrugged his wheels and rattled his gears. "That will until I get my new coat," he stuttered proudly. "I'll just saunter down to the garage now and see what they have on hand in the line of coats. "

"Something in tan or grey," he ordered. "Mrs. Longlimo got a very swanky one in here last winter. The same style, please." The Ford loved the word, 'swanky.' He knew it was an gas."

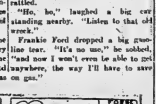
Very soon he was all dressed up in a coat of lovely grey. "My, how cheap my old wheels look with this coat," he thought. "I believe I'll economize on gas for another year and get solid wheels."



"As big as I can wear," he ordered proudly, "don't skop at the cost." He looked at himself in the plate glass window. My, how beautiful he was! No one would ever guess that he belonged to the Ford family. But wait there was still something wrong with him. A new top! That was all he needed. By this time he had the habit. He might look as well economize on gas for the rest of his life and get a new top.

His new top on, Frankie Ford strutted out of the garage as proud as a stuffed peacock. He no longer felt the cold, and he was confident that he would fool every one. They would never dream, but what he belonged to some family high in society. As he stepped out into the street a blast of cold wind struck him. He sneezed and coughed until his insides rattled.

Frankie Ford dropped a big gasoline tear. "It's no use," he sobbed, "and now I won't even be able to get anywhere, the way I'll have to save

Twangy Tid-Bits From the Big Show

(Selected by Zeke—Just in.)

"The Turkey in the Straw," clog, by the Shakespeare Twins, was an ensemble riddle feature.

After the hacky strike which Fred Black made at Stoney Lonesome, it is expected that the City Council will be approached by a representative body of young men, with a view of improving in bus service to that thickly-settled popular suburb.

The house rose on the bullet was brought to the attention of the audience, and plenty of the cast were found "irrigating!"

Things we would like to know: What was the name of the "Theatrical Company" with which Mr. H. Frost became associated temporarily, as alleged in the "Girl in Red" production."

And would a show be a success without a drive at the policeman, the Chief of Police, or the G.T.R.?

We rev'el a lot in Trenton," boasts a member of the cast.

The women members of the Dooley Lodge dressed wire and gave the U.F.O. high ball, much to the amusement of the audience.

It was rumored during the performance that there were many epidemics in Belleville. This in the presence of Mr. Smith from Shannonville, and the Goodwins from Trenton, etc.

Smith came to Belleville from Shannonville because he heard that there was always something doin' in this city.

Jack Reynolds confesses that he once invented a mouse-trap, but it would not sell. It was too slow for the Belleville mice.

Costume for "The Girl in Red" herself was supplied through the generosity of Mr. Reg. Abrahms.

Discovered:—The only freak air in Belleville comes from the touring comic operas.

When your intended has "Birdie" for middle, you are supposed to go twigging for a hope chest.

The chauffeurs were out to show Belleville something even if they were handicapped by hailing from Trenton.

When Smith, returned from Corbyville, he could hardly stand up—he was so tired.

ELABORATE PRODUCTION OF "GIRL IN RED"

ways. Harry Davis, a cheerful liar, (alias Jack McGie), entered the room with a bang, and kept the audience on their toes. Jack was easily the snappiest boy in the cast, and handled his role as though he had toured with the company, so easily and smoothly did he handle his part.

Davis is feeling moody. His collar is chilled, and his regret is that if his wife does not soon return, the "rest" life will finish him. Mr. Theodore Bird, director of the show, as Jack Reynolds, arrives and influences Davis to join the Dooley club, where you play pool and take an 11:54 a.m., then return to Wifey dear and tell her of the big installation ceremonies at the club. Davis falls hard for this, which later proves disastrous for him, when his wife-scope, trailing wife (Miss Doris Reve) hears of his racket.

The fun really begins, however, when Razius, the colored servant, announces in loud voice the arrival of the Governor of Trenton, and later Mr. Smith of Shannonville. Wifey has returned, with mamma (Miss Ivy Dickens) papa, a gay old bird, (Geo. W. Turner), Mom (Miss Marjorie Bird), Jack's sweetheart, and Lucy (Miss Mary Dorsey), who is Mr. Morrison's sweetie, is having been a case of love at first sight when he met her while on a vacation at Stoney Lonesome. Fred Bick plays the part of Morrison, and E. H. Bland is Mr. Smith.

Throughout the play a plot is carried, besides the introduction of many novel and well rendered dood numbers with the chorus. Pa Goodwin is supposed to be a brother Dooley in Davis, and when the latter discover that they are members, and that in the near future there is to be a fine function in the lodge, Davis finds himself stuck for the price of evening gowns for the three ladies. Accordingly, the new dressmaker at the Ritchie Store is sent for to make measurements for the gowns. Then the fun begins in earnest. Reynolds attires himself in red fabrics from head to foot, and he as the "Girl in Red", or the new dressmaker at Ritchie's, announces himself, and begins his work on Davis' wife, much to the anxiety of his friend Davis, who is present. This scene is screamingly funny, but the Girl in Red also makes a split with Pa, who, as the man before us said, is a gay old bird. He is seeking love making once more in the evening of his life, but is flabbergasted when the Girl in Red announces that she is the daughter of a cruel man who divorced his wife here in Belleville some twenty years ago. When the photo is flashed, it is the likeness of Pa himself, and blushes and daughters enter the room in time to find Pa in the arms of the dressmaker, his daughter. Just before the grand finale for the smelling salts, the old codger explains, and May Davis is torn embrasing her dear long lost "Pa", who in all probability needed a shave. The Girl in Red finally discloses "her" identity to Mona, "her" sweetheart, who finds that Valve" kisses differently from most females with whom she has had experience.

At the conclusion, Jack and May are still happily married, Pa and Ma are understanding one another perfectly, Mr. Morrison does not regret his pleasant vacation at Stoney Lonesome, and it appears like wedding bells for Jack Reynolds and daughter Mona. By the way the Dooley business is also a dream of the past, and our Mr. Smith has recovered from his bell moose feat of running to and from Corbyville ten times, as an initiation tester of the Dooley Club.

The performance of each and every member of the cast above mentioned demonstrates that they were very suitably chosen for their parts and each did nobly in their respective roles. It is possible, however, for Mr. Goodwin and Mr. Smith to take just a little bit out of their part to laugh as the sky is almost the limit in each case. A touch of additional pepper and a little more slow play from Mr. Smith, would aid greatly.

Between act 1 and 2 the Summers Twins do a little dance to the strains of the mouth organ, and Little Miss Celeste Muldrun dances the Highland Fling in excellent style. Between act 2 and 3 Richard Silsenius renders the "K-K-Kits" one again song, in good form, and Miss Kitty Johnston gave an excellent solo dance which brought down the house.

Song hits of the show were varied and of a tuneful nature. Mr. A. H. N. Sandgrove and Miss Irene Baker, dressed in summer toggery, with plenty of stripes, rendered the "Cynical Owl" song in excellent manner, working in a pretty little dancing step out in front of the mixed chorus, who were brought down in number and similarly attired.

The song hit de Luxe of the evening however was the Japanese song "O Sing A Lo" sung by Mrs. Glen Jeffcomson and Mr. C. D. Bankier, assisted by the Japanese boys and girls. All were in Oriental costume, and in their nodding gesturing manner, on bended knee, told the pretty little story of the song.

Mr. Fred. Bick and Miss Mary Dorsey handled the fine old song, "For Love" in a very presentable manner, the stage appearance being most finished.

Solos were rendered by several members of the cast. "Josi Ike a Doll" by Miss Helen Potter; "Don't Leave Me Mammy" by A. H. Bradford as the colored servant, assisted in the encore number by the Midnight Steppers, Harry Faulkner and Tommy Burns. Mr. Smith handles the comedy number, "My Home Town" in good form and gave a good hand from the customers, as he himself would say. The solo "Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses" as sung by Miss Marjorie Bird, was well rendered and well received, Mr. Victor Raddgh accompanying the soloist on the violin. Miss Gladys Muir, carrying a beautiful bouquet of flowers, sings "Poppyland" and is assisted by the chorus, and also makes a fine impression on the audience.

A natural smile in a solo number in a production of this kind, is always an irresistible feature, and a heart winner from the standpoint of the audience, and appropriate gestures in sentimental, ballads always aid materially in putting them across.

In the opening chorus soloists who assisted Miss Wrightmayer were Miss Aileen McLaurin, little Miss Sylvia Tett, and Master Tommy Burns.

Stage decorations, and furnishings, which by the way were supplied through the kindness of The Thompson Furniture Co. were all that could have been desired, and the lighting effects, which aided so materially in the pretty solo and choral numbers were directed by any professional of forts seen here in some time.

Mr. Al Wilson's orchestra supplied the music and accompaniments, and

DELICATE GIRLS NEED NEW BLOOD

Rich, Red Blood Means Health And Strength.

The anaemia of young girls may be inherited, or it may be caused by bad air, unsuitable food, hasty and irregular eating, insufficient out-door exercise and not enough rest and sleep.

It comes on gradually, beginning with languor, indisposition to mental or bodily exertion, irritability and a feeling of fatigue. Later comes the palpitation of the heart, headaches, dizziness following a stooping position, frequent backaches and breathlessness. In a majority of cases constipation is present. There may be no great loss of flesh, but usually the complexion takes on a greenish-yellow pallor.

Cases of this kind, if neglected, become more serious but if taken in time there is no need to worry. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which are free from any harmful or habit-forming drug, are just the tonic needed to remedy this wretched state of health. Though it is not noticeable, improvement begins with the first dose, as the blood is made rich the pallor leaves the face, strength and activity gradually return and the danger of relapse is very slight.

If any symptom of anaemia appears, prudence suggests that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills should be given at once, and the sooner they are taken the more speedily will their action improve the blood. You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MINING COMMENT

While the Tek and Lake Shore running peculiarly with high mile heads" people are asking why the Kirkland Lake, which lies between them is barely breaking even wild heads somewhere around $40. A mining engineer suggests that the reason is unscientific mining. He points out that if the Kirkland Lake is being worked as are mines in Porcupine by blocking out big tonnage and handling it in bulk, the result is apparent, and suggests that both Tek and Lake Shore would do but little better under similar management. It is said that the Kirkland Lake differs materially from Porcupine and that both Tek and Lake Shore have made their money by changing methods and following rich lenses instead of trying to block out and mill big ore bodies.

McKINLEY PAVING ITS WAY.

As a result of having realized around 300,000 ounces of silver during 1922 the McKinley-Darragh was able to pay its way, in addition to paying for the July period of the first five $3,000 to $10,000 a month on the profit side of the ledger during the last half of the year.

Enthusiasm have seized upon the favorable results and have erroneously assumed on "excellent authority" that the company realized a net profit of $110,000 during 1922, "less the shortdown costs for the first five months of the year, amounting to a few thousand dollars."

WALL STREET.

The New York market started the week in colorless, quiet and irregular trading, without definite trend and in the attitude of marking time until developments in the Franco-German crisis give the basis for a new move. There was slight pressure in various directions yesterday but it produced little more than irregularity. Foreign exchange were inclined to ease and big probably had the effect of slowing up operations.

CHICAGO, WHEAT

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Buoyed by the strength of European exchange, the wheat market today rallied sometimes from recent sharp declines in prices.

Houses with eastern and foreign connections were early buyers of wheat and gave the market an upward impetus which, although afterward somewhat more offset through increased selling, was again in full force during the last half of the day. In addition to the return in European exchange, the fact that the Liverpool wheat market failed to reflect yesterday a decline here had a bullish influence and so, too, did purchasing of May new against sales at Winnipeg. Besides, it developed that the price difference had been greatly narrowed between Argentine wheat, c.i.f. Europe, and No. 2 hard wheat at ports in the Gulf of Mexico. Demand for wheat grew more impressive in the final dealings and, with many previous sellers trying to even up trades, the market closed at practically the figures reached. Nevertheless, other bears contended that, broadly speaking, the day's recovery was only a natural reaction after the big break which of late had been recorded.

Corn was weak, owing in some degree to the prevailing mild weather. Oats were firmer with wheat. Future prices closed:

May, $1.18½; July, $1.11½; Sept. $1.06¾.

VIEWS IN WALL STREET

Hornblower & Weeks, New York, wired O'Brien & Williams: "Important stocks are reaching lower levels gradually and we look for this sagging market to continue."

Jenks, Gwynne & Co.—The unusual dullness yesterday would indicate that stocks are in strong hands and that holders are not unwilling to liquidate on the foreign situation. Look for further irregularity, but believe that stocks bought on the setbacks, especially the oils, will show good profits.

Post & Flagg—While the market is waiting some outcome abroad, it shows no uneasiness in the interval and acts well.

DUKE OF YORK MAY OPEN TORONTO EX.

At Least the Invitation Has Been Sent to Him by City of Toronto

London, Jan. 25.—The invitation from Toronto to the Duke of York to open the Canadian National Exhibition this year is being very carefully considered. It is understood that it is impossible at present for the Duke to make a definite reply. There is no decision yet as to the date of the wedding of his Royal Highness and Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon.

The Duke of York will receive the freedom of the city of Glasgow on Friday and will remain in Scotland some show. He will attend the curtain game between Queen's Park and Ballygate on Saturday.

London representative of the C.N.E. has arranged a conference with the Duke of York during the latter part of this week and officials here feel optimistic of H.R.H. accepting the invitation.

school where children of nine years of age were doing work which they should not be required to do until they reached the more mature age of fourteen. Dickens did not particularly care for mathematics. He wrote fourteen lines on the subject of too much study which caused bodily harm and ruined the physique. Stanley Hall, a great educator, wrote a whole book on this same subject, but it did not compare favorably the main points as had Dickens fourteen lines.

Quoting from Dickens, Dr. Hughes gave an instance where uneducated, wealthy men would send their sons to fashionable schools for their higher education. He said that in their attendance at these institutions much "cramming" and subsequent mental dwarfing education. He said that in Ontario the pupils were only crammed for examination instead of being educated. This was the reason that Dr. Colquhoun had introduced legislation in the periodical examinations as teachers were neglecting to teach this all important subject of physical culture. He hoped that we would soon be rid of the school examination. Great improvements had been made in the matter twelve years in eliminating examinations and he hoped soon that success would be attained along these lines.

Dr. Hughes emphasized the fact that every child was entitled to its childhood. No man can expect perfect maturity if he cannot enjoy his youth and childhood. He urged that parents allow their children to have their individuality and imagination. The speaker gave an example of a newly married couple who were entering another and who elaborately gowned their little daughter in preparation for a wedding reception which they were attending. At this affair the parents concocted an alliance between their fourteen year old daughter and a wealthy old man, whom they met at the ceremony and who appeared day old would not wish to come in contact with.

Dr. Hughes urged his dispersal of parents to study their children. "Do not try to stop them with their games which helps their imagination" the speaker said in one of his clever views. In jocular mood Dr. Hughes referred to the elderly unmarried ladies, commonly known as old maids as "old maids" who were continually distributing advice "free of charge" relative to the training of children. He said that this and who were generously blessed with "stop", "don't" and other negative words. He divided the class into two groups, "The Salt of the Lord" and "The pepper of the Devil", the last class being the worst of the two with as far as the upbringing of children was concerned. Dickens understood thoroughly the relationship of vision. The author used to say that he wished the express would stop the children from the East End of London, so that they might sleep in the open and awake with the dew drops of God's heaven on their faces instead of the tears of discontentment? "Hard Times", written by Dickens before the days of the wasted to emphasize, relative to the curse that came to children who had no childhood.

The speaker continuing said that the fault with the private schools of Dickens day was that there was no individuality. The aim object of these institutions was to finish pupils with a sort of exterior polish which was decidedly unnatural. He urged parents to allow children to choose their own vocation and not to endeavor to cheat the children out of it by trying to mould them into something for which they are decidedly unfitted and for which they never were intended.

At the conclusion of Dr. Hughes' remarks, Mr. E. Gus Porter entered a hearty vote of appreciation and thanks on behalf of the club.

The vociferous applause conveyed to the speaker demonstrated quite forcibly the sentiments of the audience and for by "Sandy" Burrows all joined in a hearty rendition of "He's a Jolly Good Fellow" followed by three robust cheers and a tiger.

Dr. Hughes, replying, said that it was decidedly a most appreciative and kindly audience and hoped soon to have the opportunity of addressing them again. He said that he had read with some of the articles which stood on Dickens own desk and which were given to him by the Dickens family because of the work of writing the book on "Dickens as an Educator".

Al Wingo and his quintette then came in from the "Girl in Red" performance and proceeded to furnish dance music for the club. This musical organization is rapidly becoming most efficient and the selections last night were of excellent quality.

The card tables were in evidence and the genial host of the club officials was manifest everywhere.

Last night's affair was an outstanding feature of many similar entertainments scheduled to continue every Wednesday from now until next May and the Club officials are looking forward to their vision and forethought in having secured Dr. Hughes as the speaker at the inaugural event.

Altogether much was achieved last night and it looks as if applicants for membership in the Club should make haste to become associated with the organization, as there is liable to be a waiting list, owing to the somewhat limited accomodation available.

IN MEMORIAM.

RAWLEY—In loving memory of my dear husband, who departed this life on January 25, 1922.

Dearest Father, thou hast left us,
Left us all forever more,
But we hope again to meet thee,
On the bright and shining shore.

As one by one the leaves do fade,
And scatter around decay,
We're here a little while on earth
And then we pass away.

Among the faces we shall see,
There's one we'll see no more;
By his image will remain
With us till life is o'er.

He who rules on earth and Heaven,
He who knows for all what's best,
Has ended all thy toil and sorrow,
Gave you your eternal rest.

And when the Saviour's voice is heard
Calling to the dead "Arise!"
Oh; may we meet each other to greet
Amid the flaming skies.

Sadly missed by
Yes, we hope when life is ended,
And we pass from earth away,
We through Jesus shall surely meet thee,
In that land of endless day.

—Mrs. W. H. Rawley.

WHAT MADE ME HAPPY

"I was congratulating myself that I had passed the winter without any sickness, when I got one at the beginning of last day. It was because I was run down, living on sweets. I had some trouble in getting rid of them, but after a few months work, I would wake up regularly morning after morning, some terrible calamity would take place. Although we were comfortable off, I felt sure my husband was going to lose everything. The children worried me. If they made the least noise, I would get into a terrible temper. I would feel then so that I am sure they hated me, I would be very cross with myself after it was over and make up my mind never to let it happen again. I would go to bed at night and begin to think and picture dreadful things which might happen to me and my family. I would lay awake for hours and sometimes until daylight, until I was so weak that I could not raise my head. Then I would waken next day just as tired as when I laid down. After a while I got so that I didn't care what happened. The children neglected and I myself have cared if they had left me for dead. I think that it was all a matter of time before I would lose my mind. I knew that my symptoms were due to a run down condition and that if I could only get something to build me up, I might be all right. I knew that there must be some good tonics but most of them made such claims I believe that I was afraid of them. Happening one day to run across a leaflet about Tanlac, I was impressed with the moderate way this preparation was described, so I made up my mind I would try it. I did and today I am the happiest and healthiest woman living. I haven't a care in the world and there is nothing away from me, my children are now my pride and joy. My husband tells me that my disposition is as near an angel's as any human being's can be, but of course he is prejudiced. I don't believe I have a nerve in my body now."

Tanlac is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money. 6-22

NOT ALL SUNSHINE DOWN SOUTH

Snowstorm Sweep Over Carolina and Georgia Doing Much Damage.

New York, Jan. 25.—Snow storms of varying degrees are sweeping the Atlantic seaboard today from the Canadian frontier to South Carolina.

The South is the worst hit. A blizzard of a severity hitherto almost unknown there swept North Carolina, Georgia and North Carolina yesterday, leaving a mantle of snow and ice, demoralizing traffic and causing damage estimated at several hundred thousand dollars.

The storm covering Northern Georgia, South Carolina and the western part of North Carolina was still on today. Temperatures around freezing were reported in many points where the climate should be balmy.

The Weather Bureau at Washington issued a storm warning today to the effect that the disturbance in North Carolina was moving northward and would increase in intensity and cause strong winds and gales all along the coast.

ADVERTISE BELLEVILLE FOR TOURIST TRAFFIC

advertising our city should be plentifully distributed all along the route.

Belleville has a location at the centre of the North American continent where there are 50,000,000 people. Many of these were men of wealth who could be induced to tour Ontario and enjoy the beauties of our natural scenery. Last year the Ontario Motor League had had inquiries from 10,000 American tourists who were desirous of coming through Ontario. The League advised them generally not to come last year as the highways were still mainly in the course of construction and there were so many detours that travelling was not pleasant. This year, however, they were ready to receive them and he believed they would come in great numbers.

Mr. James Hales, K.C., stated that he had had an interview with the members of the Provincial Cabinet in regard to a comprehensive scheme of advertising the scenic attractions of Ontario. The Government had promised to include $10,000 for that purpose in the estimates at the coming session of the Legislature. With this fund it was proposed to issue a handsome booklet that would cover the Province in a general way a ld make reference to the chief centres of each of the counties. Mr. Hales recommended that this Provincial booklet should be supplemented by booklets issued by the various city and county municipalities. Belleville he thought should join forces with the towns of Deseronto, Picton and Trenton with Prince Edward. He had, himself, made frequent tours through the northern parts of Hastings, Lenox and Addington and Frontenac and he was greatly enthused over their many advantages from the standpoint of attracting tourists traffic. He believed that these wild and waste places to the north could be made far more valuable in a financial sense than the best agricultural lands in other parts of the Province.

Mr. Hales exhibited a chart of the automobile maps of Ontario and commented that they did not give the excellent roads that recently had been place as Marmora and Madoc and Tweed. According to these maps these northern towns were practically in waste places without any connecting highways.

Referring to the work of the Department he said their duties covered the issuing of licenses and they hoold accommodation. In regard to hotels he would like to see a comprehensive classification established. There was a strong agitation for better treatment for the hotels and it should be recommended that they encourage an important public service. The present hotel-keepers of Ontario, he believed, did not wish to see the extension of the bar with its traffic in intoxicating liquors.

The best accommodation of Ontario would have an extremely important bearing on the tourist traffic. Belleville had the advantage of already having a high-class hotel and many tourists arranged their trips so that they could enjoy the advantages of good accommodation.

At the conclusion of Mr. Hales' most interesting address a cordial vote of thanks was moved by F. S. Deacon and seconded by Mr. Mark Sprague and was enthusiastically received by the meeting.

Rev. Dr. E. N. Baker, in the course of a brief address spoke in glowing terms of the beauties of the Oak Lake district and other points in the vicinity of Belleville.

Hannford, N. S.—"I am the mother of four children, and I was so weak after my last baby came that I could not do my work and suffered for months until a friend induced me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Since taking the Vegetable Compound my weakness has left me and the pain in my back has gone. I feel like a different woman and am troubled with female weaknesses to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for I think it is the best medicine ever sold. You may advertise my letter."—Mrs. GEORGE I. CROUSE, Hannford.

My First Child

Glen Allen, Ala. — "I have been greatly benefited by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for headaches, nervousness, and pains. I was troubled in this way for nearly four years following the birth of my first child, and at times could hardly attend to my feet. A neighbor recommended the Vegetable Compound to me after I had given birth to a baby, since without much benefit. It has built me up, and I am now well and strength. I recommend it and give you permission to use my name if you desire."—Mrs. IRA RAY, Glen Allen, Ala.

ity or Belleville and he also drew the attention of the audience to the fact that there were only two first class hotels in Belleville, admirably conducted and were up to date conveniences in every way.

Dr. Doolittle and Mr. Hales addressed the members of the County Council this morning along similar lines.

CUSTOMS' OFFICIAL IS DISCHARGED

Ottawa, Jan. 24.—[Please write in English the next time—Ed.]

This request, penned on a communication which he couldn't decipher has resulted in the dismissing of J. Robert Ferguson, one of the chief clerks at the Toronto Customs House, where he has been employed for the past twenty years. This because the Spanish Consul at Montreal, M. Malgrery Salvador, complained to the Customs Department at Ottawa of the "impertenance" of one of the Toronto officers.

The Spanish Consul wrote a letter of inquiry to the Toronto office "in French, for as the man was not so readily understood by the staff, a corner of the sheet was turned up and the request written, "Please write in English the next time."

The resultant action on the part of the Customs authorities in Ottawa is regarded as another attempt to thrust dual language on all the Dominion officers in Ontario and particularly in Toronto.

Mr. Ferguson is a Liberal, and belongs to a family that has always been Liberal, and active workers in London, his former home. The pretext for laying Mr. Ferguson off is that the memo was "impertinence to the representative of a friendly foreign power," but the real explanation is said to be dislodge him for what is regarded as a slur on the French language."

The dismissal was ordered by the Minister of Customs, the Hon. Jacques Bureau, who is a French-Canadian, and it may be a coincidence that a French Canadian takes Mr. Ferguson's place.

Mr. Ferguson last week was in Ottawa in connection with the Toronto officials at a conference of the Dominion Customs Association, in an effort to secure the adjustment of salaries and to better the conditions generally.

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia To Overcome Trouble Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, causing so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food fermentation and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal function of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition, or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, sweet on the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder of tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

"I Had Bilious Attacks and Stomach Weakness"

Mrs. Wm. Robinson, Yorkton, Sask., writes:

"I suffered from stomach and liver trouble and used to have bilious attacks so bad that I could do nothing for weeks at a time. My stomach would be so weak that not even a drink of water would stay on it. On my sister's advice, began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and must say that they have made me feel like a new woman."

ANNUAL DANCE HELD LAST NIGHT BY SONS OF SCOTLAND

Camp Rob Roy No. 43 Stage Most Successful Affair at Academy

"A BRAW NICHT"

Large Attendance of Members and Guests—Members of "Girl in Red" Cast Entertained With Hits From The Score

Some two hundred persons were present last night at the annual Annual Dance Ball, held by Sons of Scotland, Rob Roy Camp No. 43, which was held in Johnstone's Dancing Academy, and the function was the most successful yet held by this club. Everyone present are loud in their praise of the really excellent time.

Promptly at 9 p.m. the dancing commenced, and though there were card tables for those who did not care to dance, the card games were never started, every person was there for the pleasure of dancing. Music for the dancing was supplied by Bill's six-piece orchestra, and Mr. Albert Johnstone was master of ceremonies, and kept everything in fine fettle. Dancing concluded at 2 a.m. and at 12 o'clock, a supper which was all that could be desired, was served.

The Academy was gaily decorated, and after the "Girl In Red" performance was concluded, a gay, afterthestre party was formed by some fifteen members of the company, who attended the dance. They were persuaded to render the song hits of the show ensemble, which proved very entertaining and incidentally, a special added attraction to the already fine affair.

Officers in charge of the dance were Mr. Quintin Boyd Chairman, Mr. Fred Kennedy Secretary, and the committeemen were Messrs. Robert White, Robert Browning, and J. Logan.

LEACOCK SPEAKS FROM THE SHOULDER

Montreal, Jan. 26—Addressing the Canadian Club here last night Stephen Leacock declared that the world cannot be made better by the impositions of a brutal majority.

The supreme example of that was prohibition in North America. If prohibition was not clacked within a generation it would dig the grave of democracy. "If fifty-one of a majority can dictate to forty-nine of a minority what they must drink," he said, "they will later tell us what we must wear and presently slamp us with a cast iron hall mark of uniformity."

WESTERNERS NOW ADMIT EFFICACY OF WHEAT BOARD

Saskatoon, Jan. 26.—A compulsory Wheat Board is far superior to any kind of voluntary pool under present conditions, at least in the opinion of Hon. J. A. Maharg, President of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association as expressed this afternoon to the twenty-third annual convention of that organization in the course of his presidential address. "It was a mistake," he added, "to introduce any alternative proposition which might weaken in any way the chances of getting such a board."

Tyendinaga Farmer Guilty of Selling, Assessed $200 and Costs—Mrs. Lindo of Main Street, Point Anne Suburb, Fined $50 and Costs

CHILDREN CONSIDERED

Convicted Woman Would Have Gone to Castle Ketcheson if Charge Had Not Been Reduced

This was, O. T. A. day in police court, with His Honor Judge Wills on the bench.

Philip Darnable, farmer on the Indian Reserve in Tyendinaga, who was arrested more than one week ago, on a charge of selling liquor, by the Provincial police of this city, appeared for trial today. He was fined $200 and costs of $8.

On January 14th. last, Inspector W. J. Connors, of Hamilton and Inspector F. Nanhan of the Provincial Police this city, seized a bottle of liquor from Mrs. Mary Lindo, of Point Anne following the conviction in police court here of two alleged customers of the Lindo family, who are foreigners.

The liquor on analysis at Toronto proved to be of very high velocity, namely 73.23% proof spirits, which is quite high.

Mr. Chas. Payne who defended the accused, was instrumental in having the charge reduced from selling to the lesser charge under the act, of having purchased the liquor illegally in the first place.

The old lady would have been merely an agent for her husband on the selling charge, and if convicted would have to go to jail where her husband now is and thus the children would be left alone. On the lesser charge therefore, the woman was assessed $50 and costs.

SMOULDERING HATE-FIRE MAY BE SOON ABLAZE

Clamoring Mobs of Discontented Germans Hurl Characteristic Sneers at French Troops—Shipping Operations Suspended on Rhine River Owing to Labor Unrest

Mayence, Jan. 26—French troops with orders to shoot to kill in case of further disorders, took over command at Mayence from local German police to-day, following attacks upon French officers during the early morning hours.

German crowds, infuriated by prison sentences passed upon Herr Schlutius, Duesseldorf finance director, and Herr Raiffeisen, mine director, man-handled French soldiers and officers, invaded a hotel where the latter were billeted, dragged an orchestra to the street, and forced the musicians to play Deutschland Uber Allies.

NO INTERFERENCE FROM POLICE

Local police did not interfere and the French general commanding the area issued a proclamation taking over command of the city, and directing his troops to shoot when necessary. Spahis (colonials) patroled the streets and kept crowds from gathering.

When order was sighted the machine guns they commenced to sing patriotic songs, including the song now famous, "We Seriously We'll Lick France." The fury of the population grew when the French ordered the arrest of Oexle. The people gathered in dense masses and defied the machine guns and bayonets. They proceeded to the Kaiserhof and to the French headquarters at the Hanan Hoeng singing national songs.

Owing to the numerous new arrests and deportations throughout the Rhineland and Ruhr the powerfully charged atmosphere is liable to lead to combustion at any moment.

Rhine Shipping Ban

Cologne, Jan. 26.—All shipping on the Rhine has been suspended as the result of a decision of the Transport Workers' Union. MUSIC and DRAMA

"DON'T SHOOT" CARRIES A REAL MORAL.

Humanity seldom heeds the abjur-ation of Christ and all other great philosophers, to have mercy on the weak and keep the cross of the suffering.

This is pointed out in the Universal photo-play, "Don't Shoot," which is at the Regent Theatre tonight and Saturday, matinee and night, with Bert Rawlinson in the star of it. Edna Murphy, the leading woman, and Jack Conway directed.

The story was written by George Bronson Howard and the principal characters are impersonated by Rawlinson, Miss Murphy, Wade Boteler, and George Fisher.

The principal character in the story is a great artist at all trades in his time, and his line is either saleslowing or confidence work. He gets on a house at midnight to rob it and is mistaken for an old sweetheart of the girl who is about to marry the owner of the house. In anger, the man whose house he has entered compels the crook to marry the girl, using a gun to enforce his demands. The crook and his unexpected wife take up life lessons at once and the story is rounded by his strange bride to try the honest side of making a living for a while. Then, come troubles, and troubles are legion. People will not accept him. He has been a crook and they prefer him to stay one. "Human" ity!

If you've tired of pictures that merely entertain and don't mean anything, "Don't Shoot" will charm you.

Pathe News, a good Vodevil Movie, "Twas Ever Thus" an animated Chaplin comedy, and a Kinogram are being exhibited on the same program.

GIANT DOG LEADS CAST IN "THE SILENT CALL"

A canine star is making his debut in "The Silent Call," the Lasalle-Tremble-Jane Murfin production, presented by H. O. Davis and distributed by Associated First National Pictures, Inc., which is being shown at Griffin's tonight and Saturday, matinee and night. The dog shows a canine intelligence that is striking.

H. O. Davis has selected for his story Hal G. Evarts' novel, "Cross Trail," which was published in The Saturday Evening Post.

The plot deals with Western life around the High Sierras and calls for a dog in its leading delineation. The producers spent months of investigation searching the foremost kennels of this country and Europe before they came upon Strongheart, the Belgian police hound who takes the role of Flash in the picture.

Flash is a cross between dog and wolf; and the development of the picture shows the two strains in him struggling for mastery. The Belgian dog combination becomes intolerable because his desire to get back to the mountains where he mates with a tall blooded wolf.

While the police dog, as a distinct novelty in motion pictures calls for unusual attention from audiences, the story is admirably acted by a cast star cast which includes John Bowers, Kathryn McGuire, James Mason, Helen Ashowell, R. J. Brady and Robert Bolder.

"Up and Over", an interesting travelogue, "Kid Love," an animated juvenile comedy, the cast being entirely made up of children and a very clever dog, and a new episode of the popular "Buffalo Bill" serial are being exhibited on the same program.

That Fort Churchill would be the most practicable grain outlet for the Canadian northwest is the claim of Mr. Elihu Stewart, a Toronto engineer, who spent a number of years in that region in the employ of the Dominion Government. It was decided to hold the annual meeting in 1924 in Belleville.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Council of Belleville for the use of the Council Chamber for the holding of the meeting and was carried by a standing vote.

The president and Mr. B. R. Lovekes were named as delegates to the Ontario Fairs Association meeting to be held at Toronto.

PROCEEDINGS THIS MORNING AT THE COUNTY COUNCIL

the Board, said that all that was desired was that some equitable arrangement might be made between the Board of Education and the County of Hastings in regard to the building of a Collegiate Institute.

Mr. F. S. Deacon stated that owing to the condition of the present High School building the Education Department had refused to grant the Board the usual amount for a High School. In the building of a new School the Government would assist, and it would mean the teaching of Agriculture, Horticulture, etc. The Board is desirous of a committee of the County Council being named to co-operate with the Board of Education in this matter.

Mr. G. T. Woodley: "We have lost our great this year owing to the undesirable condition of the High School building. The Board is justified in asking the Council to pay their fair proportion of the cost of educating the county pupils."

Mr. Clancy: "Before hearing the deputation from the School Board he would move that this matter be referred to the Ways and Means committee. Mr. Douglas seconded the motion.

Mr. Vermilyea: "The County Council has paid all the bills presented to the Council by the Board of Education. We pay the county and our children well educated."

The matter was referred to the Ways and Means committee.

Want Assistance.

A deputation from the village of Frankford was heard. Mr. W. R. Simmons said that the delegation was asking for aid from The County Council for assistance in building a new school which will cost—$70,000, according to the lowest tender. Since the village had been incorporated it had paid some $9,000 into the county treasury.

Mr. Whitelaw spoke in support of the proposition as outlined by Mr. Simmons.

Mr. Simmons: "If the County Council would guarantee the bonds it would materially assist the Board of Frankford village."

The matter was referred to the Ways and Means committee.

Council adjourned until two o'clock.

STOWAWAY BOCHE WIVES

Antwerp, Jan. 26.—The transport St. Mihiel will sail direct to Savannah, Ga., tonight with the American troops.

All the war during the checking up process half a dozen stowaway German wives were discovered. Their soldier husbands had declared them dead. Soldiers and officers were set at work scouring for further unregistered women.

The wives of the soldiers occupy quarters on the second after deck, while the men are now being housed.

The fare was soon extinguished and no damage resulted.

SHAKE UP IN C.O.A.B. LEAGUE

Many Central Ontario League Receive Mail at Entirely Different Ad dresses Now

OSHAWA, Jan. 30.—From surroundings among the Central Ontario Baseball League circuit it is well that the executive at their meeting in Bowmanville in December named officials to the secretary's call an all-day session for the annual meeting to be held this year in Oshawa. Sport writers have been telling us that the other fellow has got, and it seems that the annual May day moment took notice of the likely change in the conference rule to Jan. 1, and hooks the ties which bound earlier than usual and the scribes are drilling at a clean-cut.

Past President Lockington, of Port Hope, is an article in the Globe in praising the men who are on to the O.B.A.A., but other officials say the league has always "muddled" its affairs, and let the end fall where it will. This course should still be followed, it is said. Among these officials is Chairman Johnson of the bustling Sarnia club, while town of the league are: Jack Oakley, the boy who Lindsay discovered two years ago; Harold Bowmanville, who started into the fanning town last season and showed so well as short; Thos. Players are in Belleville, Wood McCaffrey, who performed first base for Cobourg, and Bill Hillard, catcher, ranked Hillard, from Oshawa, are in Peterborough, last year's Sarnia star, Ray Hamilton. Fair, the star centre fielder Port Hope, are in Oshawa; while Lim J. Crowley, who was a star for Port Hope the last two years in Scarboro'ia. One or two leagues may be in existence, but we will have a bit of explaining before Central League certificates are issued, and this is the first step in the young movement.

As Secretary J. C. Nott of Central Ontario League, is the news correspondent of the Empire it is only fair to assume the above article was written by Mr. Nott. Secretary Nott comes in the duty of the Central League to endeavor to deal with the clubs that follow the suggestions in Oxide and pass it to the O.B.A.A. the proper body. If Mr. Nott can show how to accomplish we will admire of his support. At the present time the general executive committee of clubs of a delegate from each town in the league and as all the town with the exception of Lindsay, Port Hope and Lonside are well supplied with imports it is safe betting that the delegates will be on hand at a meeting favorable to the tourist moment is rendered. If action is to be taken we will have to come from the bottom up and the O.B.A.A. could direct their attention to districts outside the Central League. The writer has heard that last year Geyer, the famous southpaw of Belleville went right into Secretary Dalmage's town.

TREMAINE REAL FIGHTER

Carl Tremaine, the Cleveland bantam, made a tremendous fight by his performance in Cincinnati recently when he knocked out Mike Ballerino, fifteen rounds. Tremaine is the hardest hitting bantam since Jerry McGovern was knocking theorymer. Carl is not a mere slugger. Although he indulges in no fancy stuff he knows when as well as how to hit! he were matched with Joe Lynch in the title he would be a big favorite for betting. Incidentally the bout would create a new record for gate receipts at boots known little Ark.

Tremaine is the kind of fighter the fans want to see. It is to be hoped that he gets more opportunities to show here to the future.

Dog Races at Banff

ce Hundred Mile Derby Will Be Run—A Feature Event in Western Canada

Calgary, Alta., Jan. 30.—For the first time in the history of Canadian carnivals a one hundred mile dog race will be run in full view of spectators. This will be the Word's Championship dog derby and it will be the main feature of the seventh annual winter carnival to be held at Banff, Feb. 24 to March 5. The dog race will be run on the one hundred mile trotting the course which is being laid out on beautiful lake Winnewaka, a mere sided setting for such an event with its natural facilities of space. Seven famous teams from the Pas have already been entered, including four winners of last year races. These options include C. B. Morgan, whose teams will be driven by Joe Norris, the Parasteen team driven by its Indian owner Parenteau. The sum of five thousand dollars has been donated by Lawrence Trimble, the owner of the famous film dog "Strong heart," already established at Banff and is at work on Mr. Trimble's new picture "The Pasthem Pact," which will star "Strongheart." The carnival committee which is headed by Mr. Jim Brewster has preparations under way to make this one of the most successful winter carnivals ever held in Western Canada. In addition to the dog derby, other thrilling sports will be skiing down the natural slopes of Tunnel Mountain. Skating on the Bow river, hockey matches, including ladies teams, snow shoeing along mountain paths and trails, swimming in the hot sulphur springs, and the attendant water sports will be an unique attraction. The ice palace will be the centre of an elaborate display of fireworks every night of the carnival. Invitations have been sent to many "Well wishers," including noted writers of sport.

Big Game Here At Arena Tonight

Trenton Juniors Play Locals in Interesting League Fixture at 8 p.m.

Belleville teams face three crucial games to-night.

Belleville Intermediates tackle Cornwall's speedy sextette in the factory town. The locals won from Tilton ford On. by a goodly score last year but the Easterners are an improved team. It will be tough sledding out Jack Marks feels that his boys will bring home the bacon. They left for Cornwall at noon to-day. Belleville Juniors face the Trenton juveniles at Arnott's arena. The locals still have a fighting chance. Should they win to-night and trim Picton at home the group will be tied up. At any rate they should win to-night. Trenton will be accompanied by a contingent of supporters.

The 34th Battery lock horns with Napanee in the neighbouring town. The Gunners have already dropped two and cannot afford to lose this one.

SCOTCH CURLERS AGAIN DEFEATED

Three different rinks were the guests of the Scottish curlers' activities yesterday. In the afternoon they competed at the High Park and Toronto clubs, and in the evening at Queen City. At High Park, in a five-rink match, the Canadians and Scots each finished with a total of 61 shots. Again at the Toronto Curling Club, where one rink of the home club met one of the Scottish quartets, the score was 18 to 10. In the evening, at Queen City, the Canadian rinks beat the tourists 61 to 46.

In the morning the visitors went to the Christie Street Military Hospital, where they fraternized with many of the patients. At noon they were the guests of the High Park Club at the Sunnyside Pavilion. Rev. Dr. Cameron took advantage of the occasion of the anniversary of the birth of "Robbie" Burns to deliver a most interesting address on the life, works and influence of the famous Scot. An enjoyable part of the luncheon was the singing of "Scots Wha Hae" by C. H. Gilchrist of the tourists.

This morning the Lakeview Club will entertain the "Scottiss" at their rink in a match with three rinks of the home club, and one from Aberdeen Curling Club. The Rotary Club will entertain the tourists at the King Edward Hotel at noon. This afternoon the Scots play at Oakwood rink. They depart from Toronto tonight at 7 o'clock for Hamilton.

"MIDGET" SMITH BEAT WILSHUR

Billed as Another Terry McGovern, the terror of the lightweights two decades ago, "Midget" Smith of New York showed the spectators at the Coliseum last night just what that term means by defeating Corky Wilshur of Toronto opposite in a ten-round decision. Smith weighed 126 and "Corky" 125.

Smith's clever, shifty style and terrific punch, which Wilshur scaled at 122½ at 9 o'clock and 125 ringside, proved too much for the unfortunate against an opponent of the calibre of Smith, who is unquestionably one of the greatest of his weight ever seen here the public. The Torontonian was too fast and shifty for Smith for most of the trip, but in the fifth, ninth and tenth rounds Wilshur was in difficulties, especially in the last two canto, when the gong probably saved him from a knockout.

CONTRASTING TYPES.

The main bout opposites are entirely different types of boxers, Smith is the stocky, rugged, two-handed kind. He makes little or no attempt at standing off and boring, preferring to bore in and administer punishment to his opponent at close quarters. Remarkably fast on his feet, with a well-weakened Wilshur, and when the New orker went to work in the ninth round, Wilshur was unable to withstand the ferocity of his assault.

Smith was outboxed and Wilshur was outfought. Wilshur took the lead in the third round, repeatedly landing rights and lefts to the head. The fourth was fairly even, but Smith attacked determinedly in the fifth and won the round. Wilshur was on the defensive throughout the sixth, but Wilshur's left jab counted time and again in the sixth and seventh with eighth slightly even. Then came the spectacular mirth and tenth in which the "Midget" won the decision.

HARDWARE BOWLERS AND G.W.V.A. WIN

In the first game the Belleville Hardware defeated the Shoe Clerks by 102 pins in a slow game of bowling, neither team ever up to their mark. The Belleville Hardware won the three games by only a few pins each time. Nephin was the best man for the Hardware and Sinfield for the Shoe Clerks. The line up:

BELLEVILLE HARDWARE

Doran	117	152	118—387

Sinfield	152	154	184—501
	634	609	658 1931

The second game was more interesting between the G.W.V.A. and the Corbyville crew. In the first frame the War Vets won by only 40 pins. The Vets also won the second by 29 pins this giving them a total of 69 pins. Therefore the C.I.A. tried t heir hardest to win out in the last frame, and it looked as if they were going to pull out victors but for the steady bowling of the Vets they might have won out. Herton led the procession for the Vets and Allore and Smith being tied for the honors of their team. The score:

The game tonight will be Merchants vs Springers.

Bengals Win From Varsity

Blanked Students 4-0 and Won Round by 5-3—Varsity Outplayed

Blanking the University of Toronto senior team by 4 to 0 in the final period, the Hamilton Tigers last night overcame a two-goal lead and won by 5 to 3. It was a sensational finish to a contest in which the Bengals outplayed the locals in every session, but failed to get the breaks until they were needed. The collegians scored two goals in the third period when the visitors were two men short, and the other was kicked into the net by a Hamilton player in the opening period.

The Tigers played well together and in Brackenborough showed a player who can back-check with the best of them and also score goals. He is only a little fellow, but he has speed to burn and his shifty work was the outstanding feature of the defence was one of the features of the game. He scored two goals by clever, by rebating the checks and shots on one another on a rebound from Day's shot.

The Tigers demonstrated that they are the best team in the city and association, and it is difficult to account for their failure to be up with the leaders. They are, however, still very much in the running, and as they play as well at the local Arena as on their own ice, they will not be greatly handicapped in their future games.

SOO GAME CANCELLED

North Bay, Jan. 26.—The Sudbury at Soo N. O. H. A. senior game scheduled to-night for Soo was officially cancelled, Secretary Carrier announced tonight. A full meeting of the N. O. H. A. executive has been called for North Bay on Monday, January 31, to consider the report of Referee McCord on last Monday night's game at Sudbury, when the latter left the ice with one minute and 30 seconds to play in protest to a disallowed goal.

This fact and the alleged intimidation and assault upon the referee and goal umpire are covered in the report forwarded, and will receive the consideration of the Executive.

OLD SAW MADE RECORD

The saw has been in use on Mr. Murray's farm for over half a century, the group consists of the Monk Tyne.

OPTIMISTIC OSHAWA

Oshawa, Ont., Jan. 26.—Day by day as every way Oshawa is getting better. This week they have tied up the local Junior O.H.A. hockey group with Port Hope and the Central Ontario Junior school group with Bowmanville. On Friday evening Manager Ed Donald will ask the following intermediates team to Port Hope to play the return game for the championship of the group: Goal, Dick Smith; defence, Heffernan and Fair; centre, Jack Smith; wings, Kip Bowden and Alan Lowe subs., Dick Oliver and Charlie Blanchard. They will go down accompanied by 100 rooters on a special train and can get no worse than a tie in the group standing, but from the performance the team handed out in Whitby last evening Port Hope will have to be much better than when they played in Oshawa to prevent the championship of

WHERE IS SHABBY STREET?

It's the lonesomest house, you ever saw.

Make no call saying that every day and only most have its shabby air. Shabby street runs right out dast at home on any other street.

Only four weeks now—it seems a month.

Gone to heaven, the preacher said, And my heart is just broke wishing her back.

And my eyes are always red.

I stay out of doors till I'm almost frozen.

Cause every blessitsed room Seems empty except to scare a boy. And packed up the door with gloom.

Oh, but I look to come into my meals And hear her there in her place, Pouring the tea and passing the rolls.

With that loving shine on her face

But night-time is worse. I creep up the stair To bed as still's a mouse, And on my pillow, it seems so hard To stay in this old gray house!

And nobody giving me good-night hugs, Or scrambling my hair back—so; Things a boy makes fun of before his chums But things what he likes, you know.

There's no one to go to when things go wrong—

Oh, she was so sure and sure! There wasn't a thing could tackle a boy That she couldn't up and cure.

There's lots of women, it seems to me, That wouldn't be missed so much, The women whose boys are most grown up, And old maids aunties, and such.

I can't understand it at all, at all, Why on earth she should have to go, And leave me here in this old gray house, Keedin' an' wantin' her so!

Oh, the very lonesomest thing of all Is the wide, wide world to-day It is a big way of twelve whose heart's just broke, 'Cause his mother's gone away!

Hawkeyes are amazing and also surprised of the mucus membrane go and you will feel fine in almost no time.

Just get one ounce of Parmint (double-strength) add to it a little sugar and enough hot water to make ½ half, pint and you've got an inexpensive remedy better than you can buy ready mixed.

Its soothing, healing action on the membrane is the reason so many people use it for Catarrh and acute nasal colds.

98 OUT OF EVERY 100 WOMEN BENEFITED

An Absolutely Reliable Statement Important to Every Woman

Remarkable Results Shown by a Nation Wide Canvass of Women Purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. 50,000 Women Answer

For some time a circular has been circulated with each bottle of our medicine bearing the statement: "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

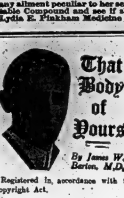
Replies, in fact, have been received from over 50,000 women answering that question.

98 per cent of which say YES. That means that 98 out of every 100 women who take the medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended say they are benefited by it.

This is a most remarkable record of efficiency. We doubt if any other medicine in the world equals it.

Think of it—only two women out of 100 received no benefit—98 succeeded out of a hundred!

Did you ever hear anything like it? Why it must admit that we, ourselves, are astonished.



Such evidence should induce every woman suffering from any ailment peculiar to her sex to try Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and see if she can't be one of the 98. The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Cobourg, Ont.

Of course we know that our medicine does benefit the large majority of women who take it. But that only two out of 100 received no benefit is most astonishing.

If only goes to prove, however, that a medicine specialized for certain definite ailments—not a cure all you think it made by a cure all physician—must be more successful than drugs, but from a combination of nature's roots and herbs, can and does do more good than hastily prepared prescriptions.

You see, we have been making, improving and refining this compound for over 50 years until it is so perfect that it actually has the virtue to benefit 98 out of every 100 women who take it.

Its reliability and recognized efficiency has gained for it a sale in every town and city, in every drug store—leading all others.

That Body Of Yours

IS IT REALLY A WOMAN?

Yes, it can really be said to be the most wonderful machine in the world. Thousands of parts, all working in unison and capable of giving, when in complete service possible. It needs attention like any other machine and if neglected does not give full service. Yet it will go on doing work day in and day out, year in and year out with never a bit of real supervision on your part.

Sometime one part will not function properly and the machine does but a small percentage of its best work.

Now your body is like a machine in that it takes in fuel, food and air, gives out energy and work day in and day out, year in and year out with never a bit of real supervision on your part.

Sometime one part will not function properly and the machine does but a small percentage of its best work.

Now your body is like a machine in that it takes in fuel, food and air, gives out energy and work day in and day out, year in and year out with never a bit of real supervision on your part.

And yet this later point, the throwing off of waste matter, is where the danger lies, because although aches can clog up a boiler so that steam and energy is impaired, not real damage is done. But what about that body of yours? Waste matter accumulates in the lower bowel—constipation—and the blood stream actually draws into itself these poisons that should be cast thrown out of the body. That is the reason that in almost every disease the first thought before any treatment is given is to have the bowels positively cleared of these poisons.

Poisoned blood cannot fight the germs of disease and are ever present in or about the body.

THE KITCHEN VISITOR.

(By Anne Campbell)

There are friends I see but seldom
And I love them just the same.
Some I see in church or lecture,
Some I meet on Fifth Avenue.
There are those I call by name.
But the friend who is the dearest
Does not call for me at all,
She just walks into the kitchen
For a little chat, that's all.

There are friends who ring my doorbell
And I scurry up the stair,
Put my apron in the closet
And I've got to comb my hair.
But the friend who is the dearest
Just drops in to have a chat,
She will visit in the kitchen,
And I let it go at that!

If I'm busy what's the difference?
If my house is in a mess,
If my spirits is untidy,
I don't have to stop to dress.
For the friend who is the dearest
Has a kitchen cup of tea,
And our jolly little visit
Brightens up the day for me.!

For Effect

"Young ladies, I have often wanted to ask you this: Do you smoke when you are by yourselves?"

This question was put to the young in his address by Sir James Cantile, the famous surgeon, in a lecture on Smoking and Its Effects, reported by the Westminster Gazette.

"If you do," he continued, "do you enjoy it? If you only, smoke to please people are there, then it is to impress those you are with. Do you do it to imitate others?

There were four social poisons, he declared—alcohol, tobacco, tea and coffee. "Tobacco is the least harmful of the sisterhood." Why? Because if you have been poisoned by tobacco, if you wait long enough the effect has gone off.

"But the effect won't go off if you have been drinking tea for forty years. Tea, some with coffee—only a little worse.

LINKED LIVES

By D. Kinmount Roy

The old lawyer approached the matter with perfect calmness and impartiality. It was his opinion that Eric Hardcastle was at least aware of the hopelessness of his case, and dare not even face the uncovering of his doubtful business transactions with Aynsworth's father, much less the tragedy of the Long Walk. He might never return to Rosemay, but in death, even by his absence create no end of difficulty, and delay all proceedings indefinitely, and perhaps force them to offer some terms of settlement. It would be like the old fox, the lawyer said bitterly, to oblige them under some pressure of policy or necessity to let him escape the just consequences of his villiany.

If they could find the miserable creature who had been his tool and accomplice, and get him into their hands, they might be able to compel the Squire under threat of a serious charge to make restitution in full. Aynsworth, Maitland thought, should not accept to take this course. As to leaving Reginald Hardcastle's name unsullied by Maitland's disgrace, that had never been of the slightest consideration to him. It might then be possible to clear the fair name of Glenmore without much publicity, and some grace might even be extended to the wretched man who was induced to commit the crime for which he had been tried so long ago. As Maitland said pathetically, he was an old man himself, and as he had no heir, he was willing to make over his frightful days now long past, he would like to live to see the case settled with honour to Glenmore's memory and no profit to his son.

It seemed all clear enough as stated by Maitland, but possible also, if fortune favoured them. But the lawyer had overlooked some of the most difficult and dangerous points which time just at this moment driving Aynsworth to the point of despair.

Of the word of Cona,' he said, as he pushed the papers from him, 'and yet he has left his daughter's name barely Maitland has forgotten! If my father's name is worth vindicating, this monster of cruelty and cunning has withheld the name of this sweet girl, whom he has so deeply wronged.'

The old lawyer's face was ghastly as he spoke. Aynsworth paced the floor of his narrow lodging in a fever of hope and longing and despair, which mixed and mingled like colours in a rainbow before fading into nothingness.

"To think of it! To think of it!' he murmured to himself in the stillness of the night,—'One man sins, and many men and women suffer, and the wholly innocent of his misdeeds; not even a transformation of such a man as Eric Hardcastle at this late hour of his sentence into an honest and worthy member of society,—if such could be,—could lift the curse from which his crimes have laid upon others. God Himself cannot recall the results of a man's acts, for tasks wrecked things straight in a man's life, this side of time. For the rest—who knows?' To hunt down a criminal was one thing; to hunt down to the bitter end Ocda's father was quite another.

Had his own father known all, could it have been possible for him to know all, he would never have burdened him with a task so terrible; and yet that task was laid upon him. Nothing could obliterate from his mind the fact that he was the last man in a mob where the gallows had once cast its ignominious shadow, nor that it was Eric Hardcastle who was responsible for this terrible situation.

And yet we know, as Aynsworth cannot know, that in the end, Reginald Hardcastle's greed and heartlessness, he had not deliberately planned this crowning horror. The coming of the unfortunate woman with the little child was wholly unlooked-for, indeed, it was the last thing he could have imagined, and had to meet a sudden emergency. To be found out, discredited, disgraced and shown in his true colours meant his absolute extinction on the very verge of a great success. He never once blamed himself for the course he followed, nor could he ever understand why any rational person could blame him in the light of the circumstances. He never intended to connect Lord Glenmore with the murder; but if Maitland had blundered into the hastily contrived meshes of his plaid, it was no business of his to thrust himself any way to save him from the consequences of his own ill-luck. Had Glenmore been found guilty and suffered the extreme penalty of the law it would have been a pity in a way, but it would after all, have saved much trouble and many anxious days—

SHORT STORIES FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

THE FIRE AT MIDNIGHT

It was late and everything was quiet as Dan turned out the light and crawled into bed. He was just dropping off to sleep when the loud ringing of the fire bell aroused him. Sitting up in bed Dan counted the taps. "Three!" he gasped. "Why, that's the University."

In a second Dan was out of bed and groping in the darkness for his clothes. He dressed as quickly and quietly as possible and was just slipping out into the hall when he bumped against a chair and knocked it over. "Dan, where are you going?" called out his mother, echoed by his father and sister.

"I'm going to the fire," muttered Dan, rushing his breland shin.

"Fire! Oh, we want to go, too," cried his sisters, jumping out of bed and making frantic efforts to get dressed in half a second.

"Fire! What fire?" asked his father.

"Thirty-six! The University!" exclaimed Dan excitedly. "Oh, do I have to wait for those girls? I'll be too late."

"Oh yes, Mother, make him wait. We'll be ready in a minute," they cried.

"Say, I guess I'll go, too," Mr. Garver said. "You may need my help. A fire at the University is bound to be serious this time of night.

"Well, I'm not going to stay here alone," declared Mrs. Garver. "Dan you get the car out, and we'll all be down in a minute." In an incredibly short time the whole sleepy family had piled into the car and it was racing through the dark towards the University.

"It must be the dormitory," said Mr. Garver, as he rolled up his sleeves to be all ready to go to work when they got there.

"Gee, that's serious," gasped Dan. "See that smoke."

"Yes, they have red the sky is," called Mr. Garver from the back seat. "Oh dear, I almost wish I hadn't come."

They parked the car at the corner of the campus, all jumped out and ran across the campus toward the red glare of light. Mr. Garver stopped slowly along. "Where's the fire?" he gasped.

"Fire! What fire?" asked the student. "Oh," he laughed, "we were in basketball game celebration and somebody turned in the alarm. Want to see the bonfire? It's back of the gym on the old athletic field. It's about over now, though."

"Thank you," said Mr. Garver, "then that explains why they didn't put it out." Slowly he turned around and went home followed by his silent, sleepy family.

WOMEN AS CENSORS.

At the annual meeting of the Welland Canal Council of Women every member was asked to attend at least one more show during the year in order to have the full information on what sort of pictures are being shown. In addition, a committee was appointed to visit the theatres to keep the objectionable and praiseworthy features.

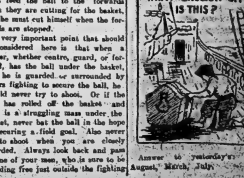
Dale Bread.

Take two cups of flour, four teaspoons of baking powder, one-quartet of a cup of granulated sugar, three-quarters of a cup of milk and water, one cup of dates stoned and cut.

Mix ingredients in order given and bake in a buttered and floured pan one hour in a slow oven.

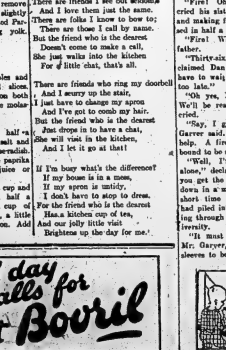
Basketball Lessons

(This is the ninth of twelve lessons in basketball by Coach C. Crave of the University of Pennsylvania, intercollegiate high scorer for 1921. Mr. Crave was captain of his team in 1921, and was named as All-Collegiate centre in 1919, 1920, and 1921. He is the author of having played nine years of basketball and besing only five.)



The centre should be the tallest man on the team, for an important point in winning basketball games is to be able to secure the tap all the time. As you see in the picture, the taller man is getting the tap, that is, batting the ball to his team.

The centre must be strong and very fast. He must be a bulwark on the defence, taking the ball off the backboard because of his advantage in height. He must also be the one around which the offense is built. He must feed the ball to the forwards when they are cutting for the basket, and he must cut himself when the forwards are guarded.



A very important point that should be considered here is that when a player, whether centre, forward or forward, has the ball under the basket, and he is guarded, he surrounded by fighting to secure the ball, he should never try to shoot. Or if the ball has rolled off the basket and there are opponents around under the basket, never bat the ball in the hope of securing a field goal. Also never try to shoot when you are closely guarded. Always look back and pass to one of your men, who is sure to be standing free just outside the fighting group.

A centre must play all over the floor. When a foul toss is being tried, he should always stand directly under the basket so that his arms, ready to ward off the offense of the team, he should drop back and help them. If the forwards cannot get separated, it should be up to him to see that the team is working right.

ANIMAL SHOW AT FIRE HALL

Tamed Denizens of the Woodlands Provide Interesting Entertainment

Fire Hall No. 3 of this city, contains an animal show, which, unlike most circhses, presents a continuous performance.

Some time ago, the firemen captured two baby, red squirrels, and built for them a large, airy, and comfortable home in the fire station. Today, their little friends are full grown, healthy, happy,—and well cared for, and the manner in which they tear around the inside of their limited home, is interesting and amusing.

They reside in a large, three storey dwelling, which is equipped like a modern gymnasium, with miniature house, bed of shavings, small crotched tree, balcony run-away, swinging ladder, and last, but not least, a circular, hollow tubular affair about the size of a rolling pin, with which the little fellows "do" their best trick.

The way the squirrels travel about that balcony, up the ladder, and down the tube, is dazzling to the eye. We always knew red squirrels were little speed merchants, but when they are seen at close range, their speed is mystifying.

They have become as tame as can be also, and immediately a stranger arrives they appear at the wire to see if there are any nuts in circulation.

They are not worrying about the fast situation, nor the high cost of living, for they are comfortably near the store, and their pantry is well filled with pop corn (on cob) and plenty of nuts of different varieties.

Mr. Biggs Gets a Setback at Session of Legislature

Unwonted Economy by Government Results in a Holding up of Proposed Legislation

Ferguson Twits Raney.

Says Drury Government Must Keep Within Rules of House—Irregular Procedure

The Drury Government got its first setback of the session in the Legislature this afternoon, when Hon. Speaker ruled that the Highway Travel Act introduced by Hon. F. C. Biggs, without the report of the Highway Committee being submitted to the House, was out of order, and contrary to the rules of parliamentary procedure.

The introducing of the bill was the result of the first hostile debate. Hon. Howard Ferguson asked whether the report of the special committee had been tabled.

"The bill is the report," said Mr. Biggs.

"That is absolutely irregular," said Mr. Ferguson. "The committee was ordered to report to the House."

Mr. Biggs stated that evidence had been taken all over Ontario, and that everybody should be acquainted with it. Members of all parties had been on the committee, and that should ensure sufficient information. To print the report would cost too much money.

"Printing the report would be a waste of public money and time," said Premier Drury.

Mr. Ferguson stated that the purpose of the Legislature was to review and consider the committee's report.

"If the Prime Minister had not been so extravagant in the first place, I would be inclined to accept his economical views now," he added.

He quoted from a manual to prove his contention that the bill without the report of the committee was out of order.

Premier Drury: "I do not think the evidence will be of value to the House."

Dr. Forbes Godfrey: "That is for us to judge."

Drury: "The good sense of the House would say that the report was not necessary."

Ferguson: "The rules of the House say that if a bill is presented without a report it is out of order. At the present time we are paying for the printing of a Government magazine which is full of Government propaganda."

At this juncture Mr. Speaker ruled that the bill was out of order until such time as the report was submitted.

Hon. W. E. Raney, wrathy at the turn the discussion had taken, said in a bitter undertone that Mr. Ferguson was delaying the House by "playing the old game in the same old way."

Ferguson: "I overheard my little friend over there and nevertheless I must say the delay is caused by the Government's methods of doing business. The Government must keep within the rules of the House, and I would suggest to Mr Drury that he give them more consideration.

ROLLOW BILL INTRODUCED.

Hon. Walter Rollo, Minister of Labor introduced his bill to amend the Public Health Act to give the Government power to control the pollution of agricultural stream by industries situated on their banks, and to pass into the waters.

Carl Hoscroth introduced his bill to provide for free text books in Public and Separate schools.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. Jas. McQuire, 20 King street, is very ill at present.

Mr. William Bartlette of Toronto is a business visitor in town.

Mr. F. C. McLaurin, Principal of the High School is confined to the house through illness.

Mr. Windover, Reeve of Frankford village was yesterday taken ill whilst attending County Council and was compelled to return home.

The many friends of Mr. William Argwil, who underwent a serious operation at the Belleville Hospital, wish him a speedy recovery.

Winter sports are not totally confined to Montreal this season. Many snow-shoeing and sleighing parties are in vogue in Belleville just now. Tonight, Mr. V. Thompson is the hostess at her country camp when a number of the younger set of the city will otherwise eat there.

Ottawa, Jan. 26.—The effect of the plebiscite in Prince Edward Island by which the electors voted to make that province drier by prohibiting the importation of liquor for export cannot become effective until April 24 it was learned here to-day.

Customs Clerks Should Know French to Hold Positions

Correspondence Over Suspension of Toronto Customs Officer—Must be Courteous

Says Jacques Bureau

Appoints Frenchman in Charge—Letter From Spanish Consul Cause of Trouble

Mr. Bureau wrote to Ferguson:

Dear Sir,—On the 15th of December, 1922, Hon. Mr. McMurray wrote you reminding a postage stamp of 1c. call (8.10) which was claimed by the department from one Cosgrave.

The letter was written politely, in the language of this country, and was written by the official representatives of the Canadian.

You stamped the letter with the stamp of the Customs and Excise Department, Toronto.

Ont., Dec. 18th, 1922, and you wrote at the foot of the letter the following instructions:

"Kindly send your communication in English.—R. Ferguson."

The Council assumed that the employes of this Government spoke and wrote the official language of their own country, and he committed an offense when he wrote in French.

I must require courtesy from the officials of the Department over which I preside, and they must be civil and polite to the public. The letter is signed by an official representative of a foreign country in discourteous, to say the least, and such conduct cannot be allowed.

For your lack of courtesy and civility, I must suspend you, pending my decision as to whether I shall dismiss you or not.

Yours truly,

J. BUREAU.

MR. BERTRAM REPLIES.

On the 18th December, Collector Bertram answered the Minister:

Dear Sir,—I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter of the 17th inst., with enclosures in connection with the suspension of Principal Record Clerk Mr. R. Ferguson.

I have noted the last paragraph of your letter re all officers under me treating the public with courtesy and politeness and also warning the heads of the various branches, at the port, accordingly."

Officer T. A. Gendron is temporarily in charge of the Record Room during Mr. Ferguson's absence.

Yours truly,

J. H. BERTRAM,

Collector of Customs and Excise.

BAY HUNTER WAS ILLEGIBLE.

The clerks in the Customs House who have seen the letter sent by the Spanish Consul, say that it was so badly written that its illegibility was beyond question. While it was in the French language, some thought it was written in Spanish. For this reason the request was made to write in English. The vast majority of the letters to the Toronto Customs authorities are written in English and few of the staff speak the French language.

DWELLING BURNED

Free Skating Rinks For Children—Run Off on Grand Trunk

CAMPBELLFORD DWELLING GUTTED

Damage to extent of nearly two thousand dollars was caused by fire due to the upsetting of a coal oil lamp at the home of Fred Emmons on Bird street near the old Waters' estate, shortly after 7 o'clock Wednesday evening. The new motor truck with Driver Nip. Weston at the wheel, responded promptly to the alarm, but the flames had gained such headway that the firemen were unable to stop them. Prior to the arrival of the brigade neighbors managed to save a few household articles. Mr. and Mrs Emmons and two children were in the house at the time but escaped without injury. The house is a frame one recently purchased by Frank Walsh and only partly covered by insurance.

The urgent need for more fire alarm boxes was evidenced by Wednesday night's blaze, and there will be no chance of getting lower fire rates in Campbellford without this necessary protection.

FREE RINKS FOR THE KIDS.

Due to the energetic efforts of the new council and with the object of keeping the boys off the road which is dangerous since the opening of the New Power House at Ranks Falls, two open air skating rinks have been established, one on the west side of the river next to the Baptist Church and one back of the music hall on the east side.

Judging by the attendance on opening day these rinks are very much appreciated by the rising generation, exactly 105 boys and girls took advantage of a fine sheet of clear ice and enjoyed the wholesome sport.

Mr. Henry's recent visit is already bearing fruit and the decay of Trent Valley Town is actually beginning to wake up.

A box car attached to a Grand Trunk freight going west jumped the track near Campbellford about 2 a.m. Thursday morning, the damage was quickly repaired and passenger service not interrupted. The trouble was caused by a broken wheel.

COUNTY CHUNCIL DELIBERATE AT THURS. MORNING SESSION

Members Addressed Relative to Advertising County's Resources

WILL PRESENT MEDAL

To Pupil Standing First in Entrance Examinations—School Report by Inspector—Treasurer Wants Salary Increase

The Thursday morning session of the Comcil County commenced at 10.30 with Warden Walsh presiding.

Minutes of Wednesday's session were read and confirmed.

ADVERTISE COUNTY.

Mr. James Haley, chairman of the Ontario Licensee Board, addressed the Council relative to the development of lands in North Hastings and those adjoining this County. He stated the proposition is that million of dollars in revenue for the Province can be derived if these lands and the lakes were opened up for the tourist traffic which is at present great and is increasing rapidly every year. There is in Hastings County wonderful places for tourists. He would ask the County Council to do some advertising in regard to the possibilities of Hastings County. The Council might get up a booklet and set forth the beautiful places which are accessible in the County of Hastings. The spending of a couple of thousand dollars would be had every reason to believe, prove valuable to the County and would bring revenue to the County. This is an important subject and should not be neglected.

Dr. Embury—There is much in what Mr. Hales has stated. He agreed with the previous speaker that it would be well for the County to do some advertising on the line suggested. He would advocate a provincial highway from Ottawa and westward through a portion of the county which's not now travelled. Diverting traffic will be a provincial highway running east and west in the northern part of this and other counties. The result will be beneficial to the county.

Dr. Doolittle supported Mr. Haley in his appeal to help develop the northern part of Hastings County, which, as to speak, is a playground. Tourists are coming here by thousands and much money will be spent.

On motion the request of Mr. Hales was referred to the Ways and Means Committee.

WANT SALARY INCREASED.

Mr. R. Mallory, County treasurer, requested the council to increase his salary making it $2,000 per annum.

The request was referred to the Ways and Means Committee

SCHOOL REPORTS.

Mr. H. J. Clarke, School Inspector for South Hastings, in presenting his annual report which was minute in detail stated that the lack of permanency in the teaching profession in the rural parts of the inspectorate was rather regrettable.

There are only 4 male teachers in the schools outside of the city of Belleville, the towns of Deseronto and Trenton. A consolidated school would be a cure for this, but there is no consolidated school in his inspectorate. In his inspectorate there are 59 school houses, 27 public school teachers, 16 of whom are men. There are 4 teachers in the Indian school and 23 teachers in the Ontario School for the Deaf. In South Hastings 5868 pupils and the daily average attendance was 4078. Belleville led in attendance with a percentage of 93.8 in 1920 children registered. The inspector referred to the new public schools being erected in Belleville, at the 5th division of Thurlow and in Sidney section No 7. Education costs $30.74 per pupil in 1922 in Belleville. In closing the inspector referred to the satisfactory entrance examination held during the year. He also stated that the Ward-en of the County might present a medal to the pupil making the highest marks at the entrance examination.

Mr. Wiggins spoke in support of the County providing a medal and he moved, seconded by Mr. Wright that the Finance Committee make provision for a medal for one of the three inspectorates in the County.

The motion prevailed.

AFTERNOON SESSION OF COUNTY COUNCIL

200, of which the Province will bear 80 per cent. and Prince Edward and Hastings will share 40 per cent. between them.

Rev. A. H. Creegan headed a large deputation representing every class of the community in favor of "The short row important it is," he said, "we have been maintaining an antiquated method of the ferry boat." He claimed that Deseronto was circumscribed as to trade by its location, and was reaching out after trade.

"We ask you to vote that amount that we may go on with the project this summer," said he in closing.

In winter there is very much interrupted communication by the ferice. The ferry, on certain days when the ice is strong, cannot operate, said Mr. R. J. Sprear.

Deseronto has received small aid from the county for the taxes paid in by the town, said Mr. Sprear, while other municipalities get over 2% mills.

Reeve Metcalfe of Deseronto was unfortunately absent from Council owing to illness.

Warden Walsh had no doubt in my mind that this should be granted," said the Warden.

Dr. Embury said the County Council had to be fair, although the Council was not in a mood to be spending large sums of money. He said he personally thought the request might be granted, but only after careful investigation.

Mr. W. Wiggins spoke favorably and said that the lighing up of Prince Edward County was a benefit to another link in the highway scheme. "There is no use building highways unless we have the traffic to use, and publicity of our resources is bound to come," he added.

"We are desirous of making Deseronto a shipping point," said Mr. Sprear. "Boats have been driven off the bay to points."

The stretch from shore to shore is two-thirds of a mile. Part will be filled and there will be two spans and a swing, Mr. Harvey of Deseronto explained.

Councillors stated that the Council would not go into the construction of a speculative, and that the Council might consent to 50 per cent. of the cost up to $40,000.

The following question was referred to the committee of Ways and Means.

Warden Walsh said he did not think the Council would be asked to do anything beyond expressing itself in favor of designating this as a part of the highway system up to that of Inspector Minns of Centre Hastings, and that this be retroactive. At present Mr. Minns gets $300 allowance, while Mr. Colling's allowance is $410, the latter having a greater mileage and more schools. Mr. Wiggins also thought Inspector Clarke should have a greater allowance. The matter was put over to the committee to report upon.

"The county-provincial road coming from Eldorado into Madoc, near the mill corner, was a danger spot," said Reeve Burns, who advised removal of a sharp curve and widening of road. The work will cost about $400. Council decided to have the Superintendent remove the danger spot.

Miss Tait, superintendent of Belleville General Hospital, Mrs. Van Buskirk, Mr. E. Bennett, Mrs. Mc-Ackerman and Mr. H. F. Ketcheson formed a deputation on behalf of Belleville Public Library.

Mr. Tannahill said that the County Council voted $1,800 last year and Belleville granted $3,000.

Hastings County had 489 patients and Belleville 845 last year. The rate per day is $3.50 per patient. The Government grants $1.50 per day for public ward patients.

Dr. Embury advised Council that the latest need of the Hospital was an X-ray machine, to bring Belleville General Hospital up to standard.

Mr. H. F. Ketcheson stated that Belleville Hospital, required new equipment and more money for maintenance and asked for continuance of grants or even an increase from the county.

The request was referred to committee.

Standing Committees!

The report of the Nominating committee on standing committees was adopted.

Roads and Bridges—C. W. Thompson.

Bridges—J. A. Moore, D. McKenzie, T. Tuvill, J. Newton, W. A. Ruh, J. Douglas, J. V. Walsh.

House of Refuge—W. E. Windover, J. Richardson, J. V. Walsh.

County-Provincial Highways—J. W. Haggerty, chairman; J. Green, J. G. Sills, J. Cranston, J. Cappell, C. S. Rollins, J. V. Walsh.

Two schools were built in North Hastings, according to Inspector Colling's annual report for North Hastings schools. He complimented the North on its general appreciation of the value of education, school rates of 60 to 70 mills being not unknown. Mr. Colling spoke in favor of a uniform school rate for the Province.

Consolidation would result in lightening the burden, the Inspector believed.

COCO CLASHES WITH KU KLUX

Louisiana Attorney Says Offences Against Law and Order Are Outrageous and Horrifying

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Bastrop, La., Jan. 26.—The Ku Klux Klan was charged with the responsibility for numerous outrages in Morehouse Parish in a statement today by Jay W. Cross, Attorney of Louisiana. He declared that since the advent of the Klan in the parish there had "arisen a condition of disorder and lawlessness which has ripened into the suppression of constituted authorities by the Ku Klux Klan and the establishment of a government of its own." Mr. Coco further declares that the flogging of citizens, their deportation and banishment with summons other offences were but measures and were of such frequent occurrence that they were accepted as commonplace things.

Thornton Visited National Parks Of the West

Saw Thousands of Buffalo and Scores of Elk on Western Reserves

Hugh Balliford, jan. 26.—Sir Henry Thornton, the new president of the Canadian National Railways, who returns from Vancouver to Winnipeg this within the past twenty-four hours, visited many of Canada's national parks. His first stop was made at Jasper, Alberta, and under the auspices of the portentioned, Col. Maynard Rogers, he was given a glimpse of some of the winter beauties and tourist attractions of the 4,000 square miles of government reserve at the place. From Jasper Park station the C. N. railway president first proceeded to Wapita the base of Pyramid Mountain, one of the many peaks fronting the valley of the Athabasca. Within sixteen minutes of leaving the station Sir Henry encountered two or three small herds of elk feeding on the range, and in one of the valleys among the foothills watched the approach of a company of elk numbering sixty. The elk came down the hillside and, upon within ten yards of the train upon which the railway chief was standing, Sir Henry, later crossed the Athabasca to Lac Beauvert, and there inspected the work which is being carried on by the Canadian National Railways in extending Jasper Park Lodge. Its log cabin hotel enterprise was opened to the public in September, 1921, and this year would have to be ended for lack of feeds, is under way here. So far as known in Providence, the project is the first of its kind i athe country. The system has made a good start, seven children in 1921 having received scholarships which allowed them to remain in school, and in 1922, eleven were so aided.

State Commissioner of Education Walter E. Ranger, in speaking of the plan said: "It promises to supply a grasp need at a week place in public education. While 96 per cent. of the public's children from 7 to 14 years of age attend school, only 60 per cent. of those in their 15th year, and 40 per cent. of those in their 16th year are enrolled in school. Obviously any extension of school education must be for those years.

PROVIDENCE RAISING FUNDS TO HELP WORTHY STUDENTS

A Novel Plan to Further Education

Providence, R.I., Jan. 26.—A campaign to raise $100,000 as a fund from which 50 high school students may be enabled each year, by money scholarships to complete courses which otherwise would have to be ended for lack of funds, is under way here. So far as known in Providence, the project is the first of its kind i athe country. The system has made a good start, seven children in 1921 having received scholarships which allowed them to remain in school, and in 1922, eleven were so aided.

State Commissioner of Education Walter E. Ranger, in speaking of the plan said: "It promises to supply a grasp need at a week place in public education. Freebooters of Ye Olden Days Had Nothing on Ont. Borderers

Many Ingenious Methods Employed by Rum Runners During the Winter Weather

Windsor, Jan. 26.—A good deal of enginuity is being shown by rum-runners engaged in smuggling liquor from Canada into the United States. Because of the slips and channels being frozen over, it is impossible to bring large vessels up to the wharves on this side of the river, the usual doriys equipped with steel runners, are used as sleighs until the crafts reach open ocean of beer.

If the trip is a long one the cargo of the dory may be transferred to a larger boat. Otherwise, the boat on reaching water is propelled by a little Evinrude motor to within 100 yds. of land, and then used again as a sleigh. The destination is usually Toledo. The normal load is 30 cases of beer.

The men employed wear hip rubber boots to which are attached spike arrangements for walking on the ice. Clad in warm sweaters and woolen caps, they are a hardy lot.

BUILDING BOOM IN FIRE SWEPT NORTH

Haileybury Citizens Take Advantage of Housing Loan Scheme

Haileybury, Jan. 26.—A number of citizens of Haileybury have signified their intention of availing themselves of the opportunity offered by the housing committee, whereby $300,000 has been specified 95 available for those wishing to build. Under the county seat, the one restriction being that the builder shall own the land, and cost of the dwelling shall not exceed $4 500.

There is every indication that the town will enjoy a big building boom, commencing in the early spring, and it has been stated that the housing committee will increase the amount of money available on the 90-year payment plan to $500,000 if such is considered advisable.

"NO EATS" SIGN WHEN HUSBY KEPT HIS PAY

"No money, no eats." This is how the motto is framed in the Mc-Quire household, according to Mrs. Jesse O. McGuire, of Roselton, Sask., in seeking a divorce. She charges her husband, Daniel O. J. McGuire, with cruel and abusive treatment and asks custody of her four-year-old son.

"I put up a neatly printed sign," she says, "No money, no eats," in my dining room and a few weeks my husband didn't return the family enjoys a certain amount, he knew, better than to ask me for meals," said Mrs. McGuire. She bought the home, she testified.

"Sometimes I refused even to give him the long accounts of the time, because he was so untidy," said the little English woman. "He usually attached his wits with a monkey wrenches, hammers and stove lids, she declared.

The kind strong possible to make a man of him, but there is no foundation to work with," she said. She told Judge J. Hall.

EARLY SETTLEMENT

Coal Strike Bogey Reported on Wane

New York, Jan. 26—The coal strike bogey was on the wane today as bituminous operators and labor union chiefs resumed wage negotiations here with the encouraged belief they would settle "soon" and possibly before nightfall.

Settlement would not necessarily mean the signature of a contract, they pointed out. But agreement on wages and working conditions, and on duration of contract was in sight, they declared. When it actually was reached the signature would be a mere formal act the following days or even days elapsed before names were affixed.

As the conference, now hanging upon the consolidation of a sub-committee of 17, began its sixth day, it was generally conceded that the miners had withdrawn their demand for a two-year contract, and were ready to sign for one year, dating from the expiration of their present agreement, next April 1.

Upon one vital point bugs parties today seemed to be approximately agreed, that was extension of the present scale of $1.26 a ton to contract miners and $7.20 per eight-hour shift for day laborers.

New York Girl 23 Years of Age Forsakes Pleasures to Superintend Orphan Asylum and 128 Babies

New York, Jan. 26.—Twenty-three years old and 128 babies to waddle, feed and clothe!

That's the task confronting May Weisner, youthful superintendent of the Israel Orphan Asylum ,who, almost without warning, was whisked out of the institution's offices where for three years she had served as bookkeeper and told that henceforth the responsibility for the entire institution would be in her hands.

And without a regret for the parties, the good times, the clothes which the other girls of her age consider indispensable, Miss Weisner has buckled down to the business of mending the broken hearts and wiping the noses of the little homeless children of New York's East Side.

Sacrifice?

"Not a bit of it," smiles the exceedingly attractive young woman who, if looks and charm and disposition count for anything, requires none of Mr. Coue's self-improving devices.

"Every woman wants a home and here I have one all ready for me with 128 children in it. I'm going to make it a real home, too—with bird cages and window boxes and everything."

The bird cages and window boxes, along with diminutive tables, nursery pictures, Dutch flue china and other paraphernalia which Miss Weisner considers every orphan's rightful heritage are already being installed in the asylum. And so successful have her devices been that older and much larger institutions have written to ask her how she does it.

It was Justice Gustave Hartman who recommended Miss Weisner to her task.

Faithfulness over small things, love of children, tact and ability to handle other people were some of the qualities which he enumerated.

LIVING A LITTLE CHEAPER IN SOME AMERICAN CITIES

Washington, Jan. 26.—The cost of living in 31 cities in the United States in which the surveys were made decreased in the twelve months ending in December from 5.3 per cent. in Norfolk down to four-tenths of one per cent. in Indianapolis, according to a report Saturday by the Department of Labor. Among the cities reporting all showing decreases for the twelve months' period were: Boston, 3 per cent; Chicago, 2.5; Cincinnati, 1.2; Cleveland, 3.4; Denver, 2.3; Detroit, 3.4; New York, 2.3; Philadelphia, 2.1.

AGNES CLAIMS KING LACKS A MANDATE

Hanover, Jan. 26.—Addressing a public meeting arranged by farmers' clubs here, Miss Agnes MacPhail, M. P., and Joseph Binette, M.P., of Prescott and W. J. Hamell, M.P., of Muskoka, have no mandate from their constituents to sit on the government side of the House of Commons, Miss MacPhail declared. The eligibility of the King government resulting from the acquisition of these ex-Progressive represents no mandate of the people.

In the last federal campaign, she added, Hon. Mackenzie King had charged that Premier Meighen had no mandate from the people and no moral right to hold office, but with a majority composed of three ex-Progressive Mr. King himself now had no moral mandate.

The constituents of Mr. Binette and Mr. Hamell, she said, are not in accord with the action of these two members and the Progressive group has not lost, but gained tumultuously by their desertion.

GERMAN POOR AIDED BY AUTOCRATS

Munich, Jan. 26.—Eight million marks have been granted at an auction here of jewels and gold and silver articles which, now and Princess Konrad assembled for the benefit of Munich's needy. Many of the contributions were heirlooms and other family treasures.

Members of Bavaria's old aristocracy were liberal in opening their hearts and coffers. Prince Konrad and his wife themselves donated articles which sold for 800,000 marks. A bouquet of diamonds and pearls set in gold, contributed by Princess Leopoldine, brought 2,500,000 marks, the highest bid of the auction. A piece of jewelry from one of ex-King Ludwig's daughters went for 320,000. Princess Ludwig Ferdinand and Princess Pius were represented by 180,000 marks' worth of donations.

STABILITY OF CANADA'S RAILROADS DEPENDS ON FREEDOM OF MANAGEMENT

President of Canadian Pacific Points Out How Canada May Avoid Costly Mistakes

E. W. BEATTY, K.C.,
President Canadian Pacific Railway.

It's special article written for the Annual Financial number of the "Montreal Gazette," E. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, makes a plea for the keeping free of Canada's railroad management from the legislative and political restriction. The subject is of unusual interest at this time, and Mr. Beatty points out that Canada has something to learn in this respect from the somewhat similar experience of the United States. The article follows:

Canada has sometimes been upbraided with having been quick to adopt new ideas than her neighbor, the United States. While this more conservative attitude may have its advantages, it sometimes has its disadvantages, as it enables us to study the progress of experiments carried out under similar conditions to those pertaining to this country without being involved in the penalties of failure. In no case is this more true than in the Government control of railroads during the war. Those who anticipated a new formation from the experiment have either confessed their disillusionment or have diverted their enthusiasm to some visionary scheme.

The extent to which the American railway is still crippled can never be estimated but not been thoroughly recognized, and the slow and costly way to do a small war-time over-regulation has been overlooked. Many of the difficulties with which railroads are now faced, with a shortage of 180,000 freight cars and 2,000 locomotives, the American railroads have failed satisfactorily to handle the harvest or to distribute the most needful coal. For this they are not themselves to blame. As Secretary Hoover has frankly admitted, the American railroads are suffering from long-continued financial starvation, and points out that the loss to the United States during each period of severe car shortages is at least a billion dollars, most of the loss falling upon the farmers.

In the United States, the farmer has been clamoring for reduction of freight rates, but of what advantage will those lower rates be to that farmer if they still further deprive the railroads of the credit required to buy the equipment for transporting the harvest to market? Lower rates can only mean more unmarketed corn.

In case anyone may think this picture overdrawn, let me page from editorials in the Wall-Street Journal of December 9th:—

"The theory that you can tax railroads poor, compel them to pay the highest wages and conduct transportation at a loss and still get cars in America or anywhere else."

"The Interstate Commerce Act, approved February 4, 1887, has been continually amended, each amendment bringing with it more and more restraint, and leaving to railroad managers less and less initiative."

"Coincident with these amendments came many higher taxes; then the public utilities commissions, decisions, and without the forms of the Interstate Commerce Commission was doing to a large way, always there was growing the overwhelming stream of legislation of a restrictive character, some fanatical, some political and utterly selfish, but all tending to increase the cost of operation and lessen the initiative of the management."

"The railroad problem is today more political than economic. Government interference has dried up the sources from which railroad management built its colossal structure. Investment capital is a wary shy of political control. With control of their expenditures and their own hands, subject only to economic laws, the railroads of course ought to be permitted to readjust itself to whatever business may do and to adapt itself."

"You must not think you can continues the policy of private ownership and at the same time prevent every railroad method and operation and still expect them to continue to show enterprise and initiative. Too much protection and too much regulation are disastrous."

The record of the present shopmen's strike in the United States shows that wage-fixing by government boards does not avert strikes. It is generally admitted that the strike was due in no small measure to the workers' resentment at having their wages cut by government authority. The matter could have been amicably arranged if negotiations had been left to the railroad officials and the employees.

The moral of all this is, of course, that Canada would be wise to profit by her neighbor's experience and avoid the mistake of 'content spasis for government interference in order to adjust railway matters which are to be dictated by the management interference, however well intentioned it may be in the beginning, inevitably results in paralysis and inertia. A fund-table contribution between the parties interested is much more likely to settle the troubles. In the case of immigration we have seen how war regulations have forced a specific purpose have hampered the movement of desirable settlers to the country and the natural interests of the official mind to adapt itself to new circumstances. Regulation of government regulation means increased demand for officials and increased taxation, and beaven knows we have taxation enough now to bear. What the business of this country needs is the freest initiative and prospect of a reasonable return for enterprise, and they only due regard to the general welfare.

It cannot be too strongly emphasized that railroads most provide needs are capital and men. Without capital the full possibilities cannot be realized and the burden of taxation increased, and without the forces, in industrial expansion cannot be developed. Every energies should be directed to exploiting the advantages and resources of this country, and in those quarters where wealth is available and whose holders believe that they will receive a fair and constructive financial system their investments will be encouraged and adequate protection which they deserve. The wealth of this country lies in the ground for the most part and must be taken out of it by the direct labors of men and money.

Unfortunately, the government lies in the field of private enterprises capable of being successful, generally of national peril, or to save propositions. Under the circumstances, it is the necessity for broad policies of non-interference by legislation which has a tendency to tie the hands of those who have the direction now entrusted with the legitimate development of the commerce and industries of the nation. Providentially, we can see no indication of such an attitude in Canada, and that is as it should be. It is the spring of the pioneer which initiated this country's development, and it is that spirit translated to our modern and complex commercial life which will contribute most to its future prosperity.

GERMAN WOMEN PREPARE FOR NEXT XMAS. TOY TRADE

Fraus of Title Make New Plaything For Export To Foreign Lands

Potsdam, Jan 26.—In a quiet real dential quarter of Potsdam a group of women who formerly belonged to the aristocracy and the brilliant shops circles of imperial days, are working daily from morning until night at stuffing teddy bears, toy elephants, dogs, and other animal figures. The workplace of employment is a branch of a toy factory of Doberan, Mecklenburg-Schwerin.

The factory provides the felt skins, and it remains only for the local plant to fill them with sawdust and to affix the necessary beads for eyes and nose. The playthings produced are intended, primarily for export, and a heavy demand has been reported, especially the pre-Christmas season.

Children in foreign countries are promised a new German creation for next year's Teletide in a plaything called the "fighting stick." Already a few of them have been made here, and large contracts have been closed abroad.

Teddy bears range in price this year from 1,320 marks for the smallest, to 265,000 for huge "furnish", whose leather-soled feet are mounted on wheels.

PRISONERS MUTINY IN MARYLAND JAIL BUILDING

Riot Quelled by Guards With Bird Shot

Eighteen in Hospital

Were Later Marched to Cells Under Cover of Drawn Revolvers—Objected to Bill of Fare

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 26.—Eighteen prisoners of the Maryland house of correction, are in the hospital there suffering from shot and bullet wounds, and three guards are suffering from bruises as the result of a mutiny that raged in the prison walls today, in which more than 100 of the 500 prisoners took part. The disturbance was precipitated by the bill of fare and the quality of the food served. None of the prisoners or guards is said to be seriously hurt. Eighty-five of the prisoners in the fight were negroes.

Warden William Lankford stated tonight that the guards used shot guns and revolvers only after an effort to disperse the prisoners by persuasion and by turning the fire hose on them, after they had advanced threatening-ly on the warden and the guards who surrounded him at the end of the corridor in which the prisoners were assembled.

Warden Lankford said that early this morning he was called and to the effect "If the prisoners had refused to obey their guards and go to work, and had entered one of the corridors and barricaded it, they decided to stand standing at one end and the unruly prisoners at another.

The prisoners told the warden they would not work until the food regulations are changed. He told them to go to work and that he would have Penny Cabletta, director of the state welfare board, hear their complaints at parole. The prisoners merely said they were going to stay where they were until their demands were met.

When they all refused to go to work, the warden ordered the fire hose turned on them. Then he shot off the water and tried unsuccessfully to reason with the prisoners three furniture at him and the guards, and after the warden had fired a shot into the air, the guards charged on the officers. Then the guards fired on them.

The prisoners had their hands above their heads and two at a time with guards pointing pistols their backs or revolvers, were marched to their cells.

GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY AT FOXBORO

On Monday, Jan. 22, 1923, Mr. and Mrs. J. Bryant, of Foxboro, celebrated their golden wedding at their home there, in 1873, they were married, and at their home there they have lived fortyeight years of their wedded life. Those who were present for the auspicious occasion on that happy occasion were Mrs. Bryant's three sisters and their husbands, Mr. and Mrs. S. Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. J. Vermilyea, and Mr. and Mrs. Jaques, all of Foxboro: their two daughters, Mrs. W. Cornelius, of Toronto, and Mrs. Geary, of Bethel Valley, and three grandchildren, Mrs. Rayner, of Toronto; and Bryant Casey and Harold Wilbert, of Bethel Valley.

The bride and groom were the fairest of them all; as they graciously received many friends who called to see them during the day, some with choice gifts to show their love and esteem.

The former pastor and his wife, Rev. J. and Mrs. Butler, celebrated the wedded august with them. A very pleasing event took place in the evening when baby Harold Willett Casey, the youngest grandson, was christened by Rev. Butler.

The multitude friends of Mr. and Mrs. Bryant join in wishing them many more happy years of life in which their christian characters may continue to blow their sphere of influence upon all. Mr. and Mrs. Butler expressed their golden wish to them in the following lines:—

THE GOLDEN WEDDING.

Through fifty years of wedded life
Love's golden chain has bound us.
We'll enter once the pearly gates,
It's links still clasped around us.

For though, perchance, an angel band
Escort one first to Heaven,
We still may grasp love's golden chain,
And not one link be riven.

And when adown the golden streets
We wander by the river,
We'll gather from the tree of life
The golden fruit forever.

EMBARGO RAISED ON COAL

Coal Shipments For Ontario Consumers May Now Proceed En Route

On Sunday night the embargo on coal and coke shipments on portions of the transcontinental railways was lifted. It had been in force for several days last week and gave rise to many misgivings in the mind of coal consumers in Ontario. Coal will now be accepted from the mines in the bituminous field of Pennsylvania for shipment to Buffalo and Canadian points. Many hundreds of coal which have been held up will now be released for Ontario consignees, and in this way the hardships occasioned by the shortage of anthracite will be to some extent alleviated.

American Supreme Court of Fashion Announces Spring Styles For Men

Cincinnati, Jan. 26.—The members of the American supreme court of fashion, which has been in session here in connection with the International Designers' convention, which closed its sessions today, have spoken for home after handing down its verdict on what the men of the American continent shall wear next spring and summer. The fashion arbiters, just before leaving, decided to hold their next annual session at Toronto.

The fashion edict reads: "We shall hereby declare that American manufacture for the summer season of 1923 will be distinctly of the sport type with Norfolk type predominating. No baby effects will also have the call. the Norfolk coats will be cut in full flare, with low belt and low pockets. Back cuts close for young men will be high-waisted, with shoulders and lapels of more width. There will be no change in the length of tweed-buttoned coats. Backs will have the deep-vented effect."

It is said that there will be a deep slit at the bottom of the back of every coat.

For conservative men the trend may will be toward a coat cut alongpeaceful lines," the verdict continues, "double-breasted coats will have two bottoms, but only one of these bottoms is to be buttoned." Trousers for the young men will be of knee-length size in seat, legs and bottoms than for the past two seasons. The vest will have short sharp bottom open-

SCENE OF ANIMATION IN VALLEY OF KINGS

Many Curious Visitors at Pharaoh's Tomb—No One Allowed to Enter

Luxor, Egypt, Jan. 26.—Never, at least in modern times, has the valley of the kings presented the scene of animation it does today. The discovery of King Tutank-hamen's tomb by the expedition financed by the Earl of Carnarvon has converted the desolate ravine into a veritable caravan for many historians and archaeological students.

Streams of visitors are arriving here in anticipation of the coming next week of the Earl of Carnarvon, and all are anxious to be present at the momentous unsealing of the inner chamber in which the Pharoah's body is believed to lie.

The lords are filled nightly to capacity; there are insufficient boats to transport across the Nile all those waiting to visit the tomb; and extravagant prices are being charged for any sort of conveyance from Luxor to the tomb.

The British, United States and French archaeological colonies which hitherto have enjoyed undisturbed quiet, are immediately in receipt of urgent requests to enter the royal treasure house. No permits are being granted, however, and even the newspaper correspondents are barred from the place, being forced to satisfy themselves with glimpses of the rare objects brought from it.

THE FARMER

The farmer is a man of wit,
There's simply no denying it.
He loads a life of pampered ease
And is as happy as you please.

At nine o'clock he's ready for
His morning rolls and cups of joy,
And when the gourmet rises is fed
His valet helps him out of bed.

From ten to one he reads the news,
The markets tips and trade reviews.
He has a little snooze for two hours
For 'tis by these the farmer lives.

So, having figured for the day
Which way the market he will play,
His batch of daily bread is made
By flatting out the board of trade.

His daily labors being through,
The farmer takes his lunch at two;
Then, donning riding garb, he'll call
His favorite motor from the stall.

He rides about to view his farm
And feel the restful country's charm.
His wife with visits and shedding pad
And all the trinkets of her fad.

Her easel sets beneath a tree
And paints the view from two to three.
At six o'clock they dine in state.
The farming life is simply great!

The products of the earth and air
Are on the table groaning there.
Sweet milk is always at their hand,
Bought by the case, all neatly canned.

The trolley line that rattles down,
It brings them their mail from town,
And eggs and luscious chicken fries,
The best the city's mart supplies;

Green truck and fruit all crisp and nice,
Just taken from cold storage ice,
And jolly, luscious ham, oh, my,
The feet the packers can supply.

No wonder life upon the farm
Has always held so rare a charm!
The cry of "Back to the land" is heard
Is only cry lost to

Kansas City Star.

Here and There

Fort William.—E. G. Noble, first aid instructor on the Canadian Pacific railway, has for the past seven years has been instructor on the eastern division, but in the fall proposes to take charge of the whole western division, from Fort William to Vancouver, and in connection therewith will assist the employees of the railway company in organizing the emergency treatment of accidents.

St. John, N.B.—The Canadian Pacific railway, for the year 1922, shipped more than two million bushels of grain more than during the corresponding period last year. This amount, it is said, will have already totalled 4,857,164 bushels as compared with 2,857,341 bushels for the same date last season. The outlook is for a continued heavy movement.

London, England — Shareholders of the Canadian Pacific railway here have been officially informed that a measure of relief is to be granted them by the British income tax for the fiscal years 1919 and 1920 for the amount of income payment of the Canadian income tax. This is the first direct word on the subject of Canadian Pacific shares. For the year ended Dec. 31 1920, however, all British subjects resident in overseas dominions were granted for 1920, in some cases for 1919, and in one case particularly interesting—the British income tax as though assessed on the basis of Canadian. This affected Canadians derriving income from sources in Britain, income tax had been deducted. It is estimated that the amount saved by Canadians, including if they did not neglect to file their claims under the Act, would be over $1,000,000.

Quebec, P.Q.—That the provincial government will commence work on the Quebec-Leanchoil road early in the spring is announced by J. E. Buchkan, M.L.A. A survey will be made this year, and the actual road work will be done by contract. The road is estimated at $34,000. The portion of the road to be constructed by the Parks branch of the Dominion Government will also be got under way as soon as is spring.

The completion of this road will open a large amount of tourist traffic through Quebec, and will also afford a loop whereby local cars may go to the Laurentian resorts in Alberta, and return over the newly completed Banff-Windermere road to Golden, passing some of the most magnificent mountain scenery on the continent.

Ottawa.—The "Ottawa Evening Journal" has the following editorial which is good reading for autumn bills driven by motor vehicles:—

This is the season of the year when "Jaywalking" is most frequent. Among them will be those dealing with pedestrians crossing the road. It will probably be found that the rail-ways have provided for the safest and fastest location for traffic mishaps of carriage and motor accidents. At this time of the year may also be a favorable one for considering the matter of safety for the motorist crossing, especially in this locality. Ottawa has a number of railway crossings, although not more than the average Canadian city. Automobile accidents frequently happen at these crossings, and they are usually caused through negligence on the part of car drivers. An obligation to use reasonable care rests upon all users of the highway, whether they walk, drive a wagon or drive a motor car. Most people do exercise that care, the more cautious ones even going to the extreme of stopping, look and listen. But there are others who do not. Official records of accidents at the railway crossings in Ottawa prove this beyond doubt. There are actually on record cases where men have driven their cars into trains at a standstill and in a crawling pace.

There is an illuminating case. On December 18th an engine was going towards Bank street on the railway tracks with four cars and a crew. When approaching Preston street crossing the whistle was sounded, and the bell was being rung loudly. A motor car, to quote the official report, "crossed the track in front of the locomotive and the engineer had just barely time to apply the brakes in emergency. The automobile stopped right in the middle of the crossing and the engine came to a stop and it pushed it a few inches, leaving a small scratch on the car. The driver would not give his name, but drove off, remarking, 'Oh, I'll get even with it.'" That is not all. Automobile accidents have been frequent at the crossings which are protected by watchmen. Between the months of November 8 to 27, 1922, on the crossings at Booth (corner Pretoria), Queen and Main streets, there were ten instances, four of which were on one day, of motorists either disregarding stop signals or getting out to the track with the gates down. To most persons this sort of recklessness is almost inconceivable, and seems to warrant the most drastic punishment for the guilty parties. Fortunately the railway company observes the strongest condemnation. To prevent accidents, it is essential that motor drivers should co-operate with the railway officials. The great majority do so, and the method upon to do this. And the drawing of attention to the crossings fairly may induce the minority to think a little more deeply on the subject.

Angels Can Do No More.

A smiling Irishman dropped into a restaurant the other morning.

"Waiter," said the Irishman, "have you any whale chops?"

"Goodness, no," replied the waiter. "Can you give me an order of tenderloin of octopus?"

"Not a chop," was the reply.

"Perhaps fricasseed starfish?"

"Not even that."

"Then I'll have some nice roast beef. God knows, I asked for fish."

QUEBEC IN WINTER TIME

(1)—The Chateau Frontenac stands sentinel over Old Quebec. (2)—The Petrogeas slide on Dufferin Terrace, Quebec. (3)—Ice-boating is a popular sport at Quebec. (4)—Snow-shoeing is a delightful way of keeping fit in winter.

OVER all the world there's not another place like Quebec. Its beauty is unique, and it has been made it famous everywhere. Three hundred years have passed since first it began to be, and each one of those years has left its mark upon the town until it has become a storehouse of Canadian history. It is a place for all the world to visit, and yet it is, perhaps first well known to Canadians than it is to Americans or even to those from north to see it when summer sun bathe its hold streets, and when winter snow crown the lofty citadel and the town's many spires. It is in winter that Quebec is at its best. At no other time is it so characteristically Canadian or yet tonically French and it is in winter that Quebec most invitingly throws open its doors to invite the world to see how joyously splendid winter is Canada can be.

Since last year the famous park and overlooking the wide sweep of the St. Lawrence, which is known as Dufferin Terrace, always a fitting crown to the splendid scene is now made still more so by the addition of a tower that will double the accommodation of this famous hotel. On a winter night there is no more perfect scene. The thousand lights of the upper and lower town glow on the snow and above them all hang the graceful outlines of the chateau, every lighted window telling of the comfort and gaiety that waits within.

The interior of the Chateau is in perfect keeping with the riotous charm of the ancient city, while its cuisine and cuisine are the last word in comfort and modern excellence. It is one of those places where home comforts are combined with the conveniences of the up-to-date high class hotel.

Arrangements have been completed for Quebec's program of winter sports and as the season has set in with plenty of snow the programme may be said to be already under way. A triple chute toboggan slide has been erected in existence from the foot of Garden street down to the terrace and along to the main entrance of the Chateau, and night after night it is crowded with happy parties of tobogganers. The same holds true on the terrace with its warm dressing rooms in a convenient corner of daylight to guests and not a few at the time have already left the winter sports program of curling on the covered rink. The snowshoe and skiing clubs of the city have their regular runs and tramps under way, and there are endless opportunities for the guests to participate in the outdoor sports. Snowshoe tramps, skiing events, and curling matches are daily occurrences and these are organized under the direction of sports-master whose business it is to see that visitors in the city have every opportunity of taking an active part in the sports if they so desire. Curling will be a special feature this winter, partly as a result of the visit to the city of the visiting Scotch Curlers several years ago, and partly as a result of the very fine number of snowshoers and a favorite pastime. Quebec will form an outstanding event.

"There Were Many Things Which I Could Not Eat"

Mrs. H. Robert Wells, English Harbour, Trinity Bay, Nfld., writes:

"I was troubled with severe dyspepsia and much sour that there were a great many things I could not eat at all or only a little without suffering afterwards. I used many different remedies, but they did me little good. Finally I tried Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills, and was surprised at the relief this combined treatment gave me in such a short time."

GRAIN COULD BE MOVED WESTWARD FOR EXPORT

Elevator Facilities Should be Made Adequate at Western Ports to Handle Crop

REVIVAL OF INDUSTRY

Rural Agriculture Predicted —West Needs Immigration—Much New Money in Circulation for Record Crop.

Calgary, Alta., Jan. 26—If there is anything that prevents the movement of grain from Alberta via Vancouver is the lack of handling facilities of the latter port and I entirely concur with those who are endeavoring to remedy this condition," remarked M. E. Lanigan, of Montreal, general freight traffic manager of the C.P.R., who accompanied George Stephen, of Winnipeg, A.F.T. Mgr., was in Calgary on a business visit. Mr. Lanigan on the course of an interview said there was no reason in the world that the route westward should not be utilized. "It is a question of facilities," he remarked, the first shipment of grain via Vancouver took place in 1921, when freight rates were their apex. I have not a particle doubt that the Dominion Government will take steps to increase the elevator facilities of the Pacific. For the past two years a very grave condition of affairs has occurred at Vancouver to the detriment of the route, the shipper, and the carrying companies. The one experience would be to remind now had not the carriers brought a permit system regulated the flow. Mr. Lanigan said there was no discrimination between east and west bound rates on grain. The only question so far as westbound rates were concerned was one as to whether they were reasonable in view of the character of the country through which the traffic was handled.

The chairman of the Hon. John Oliver was that "it is just as cheap one way as the other," but fails, however to explain why the over one-fifth higher than the C.P.R., or the G.T.P., and the physical conditions on the P.G.E. are much the same as on the Grand Trunk.

Nor does he explain another standpoint, the cost of the legislature in British Columbia amounted to $7.67 per capita as against $2.4 in Alberta, $.76 in Saskatchewan or $.18 in Manitoba, or how the general administration of the province should cost $29.84 per capita in British Columbia as against $16.60 in Alberta, $14.89 in Saskatchewan, $13.75 in Manitoba.

The railway companies, he added, were suffering however from similar conditions. It had been proclaimed that the administration of the Canadian National had been taken "out of politics, but Sir Henry Thornton should be given a fair show by taking freight rates out of politics and leaving them in the hands of a board constituted for the purpose of holding the scales equal between the carriers and their patrons. Every Canadian, no matter what his employment, was wanted a solution of what was called the railway problem and everyone regardless of politics or occupation would like to give the new management of the Canadian National an absolutely free hand in making the enterprise they are charged with success.

There is no enterprise in Canada that depends so much for its success on the development and prosperity of the community they serve as the Canadian carrying companies. It is unthinkable that men who have been admittedly shrewd, capable and efficient, would endeavor to handicap in any way their own progress which depends entirely upon the prosperity of the country. We cannot expect to recover in a year or so from the effects of abnormal circumstances. The whole country has been suffering. But I am safe in making this prophecy, that this year will witness throughout Canada a revival of industry and agriculture.

No matter what may be said the resources of this country in minerals and in the fertility of its soil has not been appreciably touched and it has been inadequately advertised. The province of Alberta has its agricultural facilities, its wealth of coal and in my opinion, the water power of its streams and hills need only population to bring these possibilities into wealth. How any person can survey all the natural conditions and still remain a pessimist is something I cannot understand.

"Providence in 1922 gave us the largest crop in the history of the west," he added, "It is true that it is claimed there was little set money in it for the farmer, but there is no doubt it brought into the country a tremendous sum of money and this money which is new money must eventually find circulation.

HEAR SERMON ON 7th COMMANDMENT

Motion Pictures, Jazz Dance and Motor Car Blamed for Prevalence of Conditions Which Caused the Downfall of Rome.

Speaking on the "Seventh Commandment" last Sunday evening in Mannis Street Presbyterian Church, Hamilton, Rev. Beverley Ketchen said that the commandment was given to safeguard the sanctity and integrity of the home as well as to preserve the purity of the marriage ties. "There is no other evil perhaps more prevalent today than adultery," said the speaker. "Among the causes contributory to that evil can be named the automobile, the war, the moving pictures with all their allurements and suggestive intimacies, and the jazz dance, which calls up all the sensual nature of the sexes. So serious has the practice of adultery become that it has been found necessary to employ organized opposition to those things that tend to weaken not only the happiness of the home life, but the stability of the nation as well.

"I will be remembered that the Roman soldiers were at one time invincible, but that was in the days when the white-robed virgins kept the fires of purity burning on the altars of Rome. But there came a time when the purity and sanctity of the marriage ties were not regarded in Rome. Many reasons have been given for the fall of Rome, but the true reason was the prevalence of adultery," opined the divine.

"But the definition of adultery was interpreted in a much broader sense by the prophets of old than it is today. It reached into the inner consciousness, into the imagination of man. Of all the gifts of God none is more precious than that of imagination. All lives an inner life much different than the outward life. What a blessing the imagination is to the little child! It plays all day in a world which the imagination clothes in beauties and wonderful adventures. A man may live an outward life of godliness, but in his imaginations he may be a criminal of the worst type. That great truth was forced on by Christ when He referred to the inner man, the whitened sepulchers. The imagination," said the speaker, "is a powerful and potent force. These inner thoughts, when rightly controlled, can lift us above the sordid and the degrading. Christ said 'As a man thinketh, so is he.' Not until every effort is made to direct thought to higher planes can there be hope of lasting reforms," said the speaker.

Vindicate Man Shot as Traitor First Year of Great War

Pet Pigeons Released by German Shell Aroused Suspicion Unjustly

SCENE OF TERROR

As Man Pays Penalty Truth Now Told by His Widow to Neighbors at Smithy.

Paris, Jan 26—Guy de Maupassant as his most powerful tales of the Franco-Prussian war of 1870 does not attain the heights of simple tragedy of the pitiful story of Jules Strimelle, the village blacksmith, of Bousseau, who was wrongfully shot as spy on the outskirts of Maubeuge, in 1914, and whose innocence was proclaimed twenty-four short long years of sorrow by his widow.

It was September 14, on the very worst of the fall of the fortress that stampede fell from the hollow of his eyes countrymen, who believed he was a traitor to France.

A Village Bombarded

Strimelle's smithy was situated in the little village of Bousseau, on the outskirts of Maubeuge, close to the fort, bearing the same name. On September 7 the village was bombarded heavily by the enemy. All the boys of military age were gone amongst Strimelle, who became head of his utility to the military, was kept working at his forge. Women, old men and children were hiding in cellars. Suddenly the soldiers from the fort saw amidst the bursting 77's five pigeons rise from the smithy.

That was enough for them. A few moments later three soldiers rushed the smithy and seized Strimelle and dragged him between the military clothes. Strimelle was a spy. They had seen the pigeons released from his house while he was the only living being about the ground. Only one conclusion was possible. He must die, the tremendous death of a traitor.

Washed By Populace.

While Strimelle was being dragged through the streets of Maubeuge by the excited soldiers three

PIG SMOKING

PLUS ARRESTED

New York, Jan. 31—Patrolman Daniel Wirthberg, of the West Thirtieth Street station, happened to be on a police phone box yesterday and in response to a demand to speak with Lieutenant Martin Nolan, he said:

"I've found a pig," he said.

Lieut. Nolan knows his district well, as befits an officer in his position.

"Blind?" he asked.

"No," was the reply. "It is a real pig, and he's wearing a nightcap and smoking a pipe."

The lieutenant despatched a patrol wagon to 363 West Twenty-Fifth Street. There in a basket covered with paper in gay colors sat an absurdly young porker, arrayed in a night cap and sack. The pig was airy as a pipe.

At this point, comedy received itself into tragedy, for when the patrol wagon arrived at the station it was found that the pig had expired. Wherein may lie another story on the evils of smoking.

territorials who had lost their heads completely under the strain of events—the furious populace fell upon Strimelle, and when he reached the military headquarters it was as a shattered, man-handled wreck, bleeding from countless wounds, hardly able to stand up and with one of his eyes gouged out.

Stunned and hardly conscious of what was happening, Strimelle was unable to say a word in his own defence, even to deny the accusation brought against him. His silence was considered admission of guilt, and three days later, on the eve of the fall of Maubeuge, the unfortunate smith fell, riddled with the bullets of the firing squad.

Big and Simple

But the truth he was unable to tell then is being told today by his widow, who has opened proceedings to have her husband's memory freed from the shameful verdict and proclaimed an innocent victim of those terrible days.

CRUISING IN THE WEST INDIES.

(1)—Esperite Il Arbon at St. Pierre, of Martinique, the scene of the volcanic eruption in 1902, when 30,000 people lost their lives. The main shown was once a busy street. (2)—Headquarter Palace of Cuban Republic, Havana. (3)—Statue of Empress Josephine, first wife of Napoleon, on Martinique Island, West Indies. (4)—Morro Castle, Santiago, Cuba.

SINCE ocean liners have been made as comfortable as the best city hotels, cruising has become very attractive to those seeking a rest. The luxury of the ship, the fresh sea breezes, the trips ashore at the places visited, the meeting of new acquaintances, the experiences gained only by travel make an ocean cruise an incomparable delight.

In former winters many Canadians and Americans escaped from the severity of the home winter by taking a cruise. Cruises to the West Indies are very popular not only on account of the mildness of the climate and the beauty of the scenery, but because of the romantic history attached to these places. The buccaneers roamed the West Indies were the headquarters of large numbers of British pirates who preyed on Spanish trading ships. These islands were a large way responsible for depriving the mother of Spain of few of the interesting sights of the West Indies are banana plantations, sugarcane groves, sponge fishing fleets, and woods of coconuts palm trees.

Two cruises to the West Indies, and islands of the Spanish Main, Panama and Venezuela, will be made by the Empresses of Britain this winter. The most special features that contributed to the popularity of these Canadian Pacific cruises have been retained and new ones added. The Empress of Britain was again selected by the Canadian Pacific for the cruises to the West Indies by reason of her great popularity as a luxurious ocean liner of the most modern and comfortable type and size, being of 22,000 tons displacement. The Empress of Britain is also the only steamship making cruises to the West Indies burning fuel oil. This important feature appeals to passengers who have travelled in the Tropics as coaling or shifting coal at the various ports is eliminated and passengers are assured of spotless promenade and ocean spaces, with no noise, dirt or ashes.

The Empress of Britain is devoted entirely to the purposes of the cruises, and no cargo is carried. In addition to the comforts to be found usually at only the best hotels ashore the food and service are of Canadian Pacific standard. The passenger accommodation is most attractive, and not more than two passengers are berthed in a room unless it is desired to accommodate a family party. Those who desire to travel alone will find a good proportion of single cabins. Other attractions include a gymnasium, swimming pool, veranda cafes and large decks for games and dancing. An augmented professional orchestra is carried for concerts and dancing.

The itinerary of the first cruise, starting from New York on January 20th, includes the following ports of call: Havana, Cuba; Port Antonio, Jamaica; Kingston, Jamaica; Colon, Panama Canal Zone; Venezuela; Port of Spain, Trinidad; La Brea Point, Trinidad; Bridgetown, Barbados; Fort de France, Martinique; St. Pierre, Martinique; San Juan, Porto Rico; Nassau, Bahamas; returning to New York, covering a distance of over six thousand miles during the 27 days of the cruise. The second cruise will start from New York on February 20th, and will be similar in most details to the schedule of the first cruise, Hamilton, Bermuda, being substituted as the final port of call.

There are excursions ashore at the various ports, conducted by representatives of the Canadian Pacific, allowing unusual opportunities for visiting ordinarily points of interest during each cruise. Two days will be spent ashore in Havana and five days in Jamaica, including trips to many scenic points. An additional day is provided this year at Panama and a journey will be made from Colon through the Culebra Cut to Pedro Miguel Panama City and Balboa. In Venezuela the trip includes one of the most fascinating rides in the world from the port of La Guayra to Caracas, the capital, 3,000 feet below the Caribbean Sea. The Panama trip is one of the prettiest spots in Jamaica, has been included in the itinerary this year.

New Republic's Former Soldiers Profitably Employed

Demobilization Plans Working Smoothly—Men Being Gradually Absorbed Into National Life

War Invalid's Cared For

Large Estates Expropriated and Distributed to Veterans of the War

Prague, Jan. 26.—Czecloslovakia has been successful in solving a serious problem, that of disbanding her armies and at the same time returning her soldiers again to normal life, but with the preferential treatment it was universally felt these men should enjoy. Cooperation between the soldiers themselves and the government was the keynote to the happy outcome.

After the revolution of October, 1918, the new-born republic had on its hands an army consisting of two groups of fighters. One came from the old Austro-Hungarian army, called the internal group, and the other was composed of the Czechoslovakia legions which fought against the central powers in France, Italy, Russia and Serbia, called the external group. The latter was recruited from Czech and Slovak war prisoners, and from Czechs and Slovaks who remained abroad at the out break of the war, including the element in the United States, and who came home to fight.

BOATS DELAYED

RATES UP

Steamship Man Comments on Government's Action

Toronto, Jan. 26.—The freight rates were high last fall, but this was not the result of any combine, but because of delay in getting them unloaded," said local manager Grant, of the Canada Steamship Lines, when asked about the Government's proposal to appoint a royal commission to investigate the alleged combine among steamship companies operating boats on the great lakes.

Between eighty and ninety boats were held up at Montreal, the company claims, and large numbers at Georgian Bay ports, owing to the elevators being full, making it impossible for boats to unload without considerable delay.

THIRD ANNUAL GET-TOGETHER--COUNTY COUNCIL, BELLEVILLE CITY COUNCIL AND CHAMBER OF COMMERCE AT BANQUET BOARD

Interesting and Instructive Event at Hotel Quinte Last Night When Warden Walsh and Councilmen Were Jointly Entertained

PROF. W. F. MacCLEMENT OF KINGSTON SPEAKER

Delivered Forcible Discourse on Forest Conservation and Bird Life—Illustrated with Lantern Slides—Toast List and Musical Program—Warden-Elect Speaks Despite Indisposition

If a get-together spirit means co-ordinated effort in civic and county affairs, and if complimentary banquets are any criterion of the achievement of harmony and legislative smoothness, the principles of such a final condition were successfully and truly laid last evening at Hotel Quinte when a banquet was jointly tendered to the County Council of Hastings by the Belleville City Council and the Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

The feature event of the evening's entertainment was the highly educational and interesting comprehensive address on Forest Conservation and Bird Life, delivered by Prof. W. F. MacClement, of Queen's University, Kingston. It was strikingly obvious from the manifestations of the audience that the subject-matter revelations of the fact concerning this exceedingly vital national problem was thrilled up the most instructive, interested and eager minds. The Professor strikingly illustrated his address with a series of hand-[illegible] depicting the dreadful and criminal devastation of our forest resources together with seven pictures of our feathered friends which is most instrumental in retarding timber destruction by the natural insect family.

Despite other important attractions there was a large and representative attendance of citizens, including the newly elected Warden of the County with his Councillors, Mayor Bennett and the City Aldermen, President Roberston, of the Chamber of Commerce, members of the Chamber, County and Municipal officials, the clergy and many other gentlemen.

The proceedings were enlivened by the rendition of community songs led by Mr. Stephen Burrows with F. T. M., Little at the piano, and the chairs were fairly rang with those frequent outbursts of male melody under the direction of that veteran director of song. The jocular and burlesque features of the music were well attended to by some of those present who were induced to become temporary soloists which they accepted with good grace. "Hallelujah by the Bay" and the proverbial "There's a hole in the bottom of the Sea" as rendered by W. C. Mikel, K.C., and Chas. Ballard, Town of Meaford, and Herschel, proved most captivating. Jamieson Bone and the C. of C. quintet were also much in the limelight during this interesting section of the program.

In excellent voice and with splendid fullness and tone Mr. Harold Barrett sang "The Vagabond" and Mr. S. Burrows delighted the audience with his old favorite selection "Rule Britannia". Both gentlemen were obliged to respond with encores. It was regretted that Mr. J. D. Bankier, who was scheduled for a vocal solo on the programme, was unable to be present. Mr. C. H. Reed found instant favor in his typical readings from Dr. Drummond's poems. Mr. Reed's delineation of the quaint French Canadian habitant tongue was well nigh perfect in accent, stress and general quality of delivery.

There were but two toasts during the evening, that of the King and the County Council of Hastings. MacKenzie Robertson very appropriately proposed the toast to the Legislative body and Warden Walsh responded.

Mayor Bennett who delivered a brief address of welcome to the County members, acted as toastmaster and Rev. F. F. Maloff delivered the invocation. Following the dinner, the courses of which were interspersed with community singing, the Mayor introduced the speaker of the evening, Prof. MacClement, who spoke in part as follows:

PROF. MacCLEMENT.

The speaker apologized for his presence at the banquet and said that he had reluctantly came owing to the fact that the speaker initially arranged for was unable to be present. Everyone should be vitally interested in the question of forest conservation. It should be preached and broadcasted both in and out of season and although he was more or less of a faddist relative to this matter, he realized that he was pressing the surprising a most influential body of men who were able to form intelligent decisions. Most of us are constituted like sheep and it was a virtue for them to cut trees in the early settlement days, as standing timber prevented production of crops and it was necessary to clear the land. Forest conservation today is largely regarded as a spirit of apathy but it should be taken most seriously as the last of our great forests are rapidly disappearing. There are 418,000 square miles of lands in Ontario, 75% of which are crown lands. Only a fractile more than 10% of our land is cultivated at present, not more than 56% can be cultivated and

FUR CASE IS LAID OVER

Montreal Witness in Fur Trial, in Argument with Lawyer Over Rat Skins

What is the difference, if any, between an Ontario born muskrat and a Quebec rat, a Michigan rat and a muskrat, and a Western Canadian rat and a Quebec rat?

Mr. E. J. Butler, counsel for Harry Yanover of this city, charged with having muskrat skins in his possession without the necessary, legal permit stated Friday that this morning, that like finger prints, there are no two rat skins exactly alike.

Reuben Hecks, of Montreal, Warden of the Province of Quebec, and an authority on furs, believes that two skins may be almost identical in shape, color, shape, etc.

Rat skins from Western Canada are lighter in weight and color than those of Quebec, however,

Mr. Butler—"Could you tell the difference between a rat caught on the American side of the St. Lawrence river and the Canadian side?"

Witness—"No, they are positively the same."

Yanover is charged with having 100 rat skins (one bag full) in his possession illegally.

Case was adjourned until February 10th.

CIDER OVER STRENGTH.

One keg of over-strength, discarded cider, found on the premises of a Front Street, second hand dealer, was the subject which occupied the court's attention this morning for a time.

Col. E. D. O'Flynn, counsel for accused, stated that the cider was made from the wrong kind of apples and tasted badly, hence was discarded.

Olliwn Attorney Carnew felt it was not the duty of the crown to determine the solvency or insolvency of the accused.

His Honor Judge Wills found accused guilty of being intoxicated in a public place, and fined $25, the more severe penalty having been inflicted.

Two other important cases will come up this afternoon.

BAFFLING MYSTERY MAY SOON BE SOLVED

CLINTON CASE GOES TO SUPREME COURT

County Will Carry Appeal to Ottawa for Final Decision

At this morning's session of the County Council the matter of appealing the case of Dr. Clinton vs. the County of Hastings to the Supreme Court of Canada was considered. As was shown, the cost of the appeal to the Supreme Court will be between $2,000 and $3,500.

UNITED STATES POLITICS A SNAG IN SETTLEMENT OF BRITISH DEBT

England's Financial Ambassador Finds Difficulty in Adjustment of War Accounts When all Factions of U.S. Nation Interfere

Southampton, Jan. 27.—On his arrival here to-day from America, Stanley Baldwin, Chancellor of the Exchequer, declared that the settlement of the debt question in the United States was "in the hands of politicians" and that this situation constituted "the great difference between America and this country."

Dealing with the powers of the executive, he said, "In the early days the Secretary for the Treasury could undoubtedly have arranged terms with the British Government but the situation is now complicated because the matter is in the hands of the American Congress. You are not settling in America with a cabinet at one end or with business men at the other, you are settling with a Congress and a Senate which represents the people of America from one end of the country to the other. In Britain if any terms are agreed upon regarding the debt the Government takes the responsibility."

POINT ANNE SCRAPE ALL CLEARED UP

Only Man Fined $10 and Costs in Case of Other Accused is Dismissed

Jack Southerby of Point Anne, charged with being intoxicated in a public place, appeared for his trial on Friday afternoon at police court and was fined $10, after the casket had been placed in the hearse, and the funeral service had concluded.

It appears that deceased passed away rather suddenly from heart trouble, and that his death was unexpected. An endeavour was made to secure Dr. Ward but when he could not be located Mr. Cook, K.C. H. of this city was then called, and is said the death certificate.

Coroner Conway Bayes heard of the death however, he ordered Mr. J. Tickell, undertaker to hold the funeral until his arrival. The casket was taken back into the house, and after an examination, and the filling out of a death certificate the interment was allowed to be made, as deceased had undoubtedly died from natural causes.

FUNERAL DELAYED FOR CORONER'S CERTIFICATE

Body Ready for Burial When Casket Was Re-opened and Examination Made

All sudden deaths must be reported to the Coroner for investigation. This fact was brought to light on Friday afternoon, when the funeral of the late James Clapp of Corbyville was held up, after the casket had been placed in the hearse, and the funeral service had concluded.

MUSIC and DRAMA

GREAT OUTDOORS STORY TOLD IN "THE SILENT CALL"

Reel stars Jack London created the demand for outdoor animal stories with "The Call of the Wild" and this picture is a worthy successor in general theme of entertainment, fans have been asking why the producers of motion pictures do not give them more vigorous, satisfying this demand on the screen? They have answered it and showing "The Silent Call," a First National Picture, which was exhibited at Griffo's last evening. The story is one that will satisfy the heart of every one who feels within it any remarkable measure of red blood. There is an abundance of outdoor life, Kashrya Nizimire and John Bowers appear in the leading roles. It's a real story, such as would please Jack London's fans. The motion picture producers are waking up to the fact that this element of appeal is shared by thousands of film fans through out the country.

HERBERT RAWLINSON AT REGENT TONIGHT

In leading a leading woman to play opposite Herbert Rawlinson in "Dora Thorne" his latest starring vehicle showing at the Regent Theatre, Tuesday night, Universal wanted an actress who could dance well, in fact, one in whom breathed the very spirit of the dance. Edna Murphy was chosen, and with her Irish personality and grace, fairly dances her way into one's heart. It's the story of a penniless man crook who becomes a gentle man dancer without losing a thing but a lot of sleep.

Pathe News, a new Vodevil Review, "Yes Dear" and the amusing Western Christie comedy and a Kinogram are being exhibited on the same program.

"A CASE OF IDENTITY" ONE OF CONAN DOYLE'S MOST FAMOUS STORIES

Ethel Clayton in new Offering

"A Case of Identity," the latest of The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes, made in England from the original story by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, is being exhibited on the program at Griffo's this Monday to Wednesday. This crucial story, an Educational picture, presents the same noted English actors in the two leading roles, Sherlock Holmes and Dr. Watson, who have played these parts in the other two pictures of this popular series, each story being complete. Hills Norwood plays the part of Sherlock Holmes, and Hubert Willis is Dr. Watson.

"A Case of Identity" is a gripping story of a young woman, possessor of a modest income, whose stepfather has forbidden her to associate with others of her age. In spite of this she falls in love, and the wedding date is set. But fate thrusts mysteriously dis appears, almost at the altar. Holmes solution of the mystery of this disappearance and of the identity of her prospective husband makes a picture of fine dramatic interest.

Mabel Clayton appears in the feature offering a six-reel Paramount picture titled "Over the Border," which reveals a powerful story, has been produced on a very lavish scale, and follows Ethel Clayton to give one of the finest performances of her whole career.

Harry Sweet-pastiche" a highly amusing Mack Sennett comedy, and Pat News are being exhibited on the same program.

TURKS GET SCATHING RESUKE

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Lausanne, Jan. 27.—Marquis Curzon, the British Foreign Secretary speaking at this morning's session of the Near East Conference delivered a scathing criticism of the Turks because of their demand that the cemeteries containing the bodies of British soldiers slain in Gallipoli campaign be reduced in size. 75% will never produce any crop but grass.

Prof. MacKenzie then briefly explained the many striking changes in the prices and supply of grain, stating during the last half century and quoted figures showing range of prices in N. Y., state, Peoria and winter wheat was formerly considered useless is now valuable for timber purposes and the varied uses of timber were then detailed.

At one time there was no finer white pine in the world, than that growing on the northern shore of, Lake Ontario, but it is a new game from us. One saw in this locality, the Trent Valley region, has been six times burned over by settlers.

Introducing the lantern slides, many striking pictures were projected upon the screen. The forest resources of the United States and Canada were compared and it was stated that the U. S. had from three to five times as much forest timber as Canada. We are on the brink of a timber famine and are using it fifteen times as fast as it is growing. The Professor then explained the length of time required for good quality timber to grow. Pictures were recently in Ontario and Quebec tended to correct our erroneous idea relative to timber supply and we are supplied with far less than we thought. We have been uncertain of our facts.

LAWS AT FAULT

The lumberer is not entirely to blame for present conditions in our forests. Under existing laws the timber had to be removed within a certain period of time, leaving promiscuously scattered heaps of inflammable brush, following which the lumberman was not interested. We have not kept faith with our forests. Pictures were shown of the ravages of the northern bush fires, causing grave loss of life and resources. Carelessness was to blame in most of the conditions of this most destructive agency. Within one year's time from the original blaze, burned timber is of little value as the borers commence work and destroy it for economic purposes.

In Canada we use nine times as much forest product as Europe where stone and brick is largely used in construction. "We have one of these buildings in Kingston" said the speaker. Continuing, Prof.McClement stated that the floof of the forest was composed of carpeted soil and leaf mould which completely burns owing to dryness and a desolate waste is the result.

WATERSHEDS

The efficacy of timber in providing water for our streams was thoroughly explained. The soil is held together by the roots and where there is forest cover the reserved basins we are assured perpetual in waterflow, non-variation of land area by gullying and, the resultant water power purposes. It was stated that the spring floods on the Moira were the result of forest destruction and we have allowed timber to be cut from lands which are non-produtive for any other purpose.

WASTE IN CUTTING

There is wanton waste and too much stumpage is left in cutting our forests saks only a perennial crop and only that mature trees be cut. The ground should be left covered and by and the resultant brush systematically and practically piled. We can take lessons from Germany in forest conservation and in reforestation, where a highly scientific program is in vogue in these matters.

CAN WAIT FOR REVENUE

In urging the planting of white pine seedlings from reserve stock which has already been successfully done in Norfolk County on 4,500 acres of abandoned farms which were purchased by the Ontario government at $5.00 per acre, the speaker said, that a government can afford to wait for revenue. The immediate planting of seedlings would be good for posterity and he would recommend that be destroyed. More than 95% of white pine planted has thrived in white sand and in twenty years' time produces.

INSECT AND BIRD LIFE

In comprehensive and instructive charts and pictures thrown upon the screen, Prof. MacLement reviewed the depradations of insect life. There are $50,000 known kinds of insects which are much better suited to their environments than man. The U.S. leads the world in the investigations of insect life. Insects cause the waste of $150,060,000 per annum is occasioned to our field crops, and over $60,000,000 is damage done to our forest resources owing to the direct destructive operations of insects—borers, bark beetles, saw flies, spruce worms, peach borers, pea weevils, wheat weevils, European corn borers, wheat, straw worms, cabbage worms, onion maggots, potato bugs and other creatures are destroying our resources. Bird life was alluded to in the Turks, however, adhered to their stand.

LORD BIRKENHEAD

Who is said to have been named as Opposition leader in the British House of Lords.

Sheep, typhoid flies, mosquitoes, etc. We are learning to combat these creatures but we are tremendously assisted in the fight by the devouring appetites of our varied bird life. The birds work without charge and with enormous these menaces if given a chance. Gulls, loons, white pelicans, wood ducks, etc., are great scavengers with voracious appetites and the government should be petitioned to have more protective game laws to prevent the wanton killing of our birds.

Divers, loons, mud hens, plover and other birds which live and feast in the water were traced through to the land birds such as woodcocks, partridge, quail, etc., and we are showing extreme lack of forsight in not adequately protecting our feathered friends. Birds of prey such as owls, hawks, eagles, while gluttonous are, with few exceptions valuable as they feed upon field vermin such as crickets, field mice, etc. The cuckoo makes a meal of the tent caterpillar and three hundred having been fouled in the crop of this highly carnivorous bird. The high-bodder which feeds largely of thirty different species, names abortions the population of ants and we should extend him a vote of thanks for the work his thoroughly honest lives as Canadians but create havoc when they go South and feast upon our crops. We can afford to feed them a few days when they work for us the rest of the year.

The birds are our allies and should be respected and preserved. In Canada we do not know what a full crop is, because insect destroy 10% of some each and every year. The whole sparrow family is beneficial feeding on weed seeds except the English house sparrow.

The City of St. Thomas has been amply repaid in fouriet movement by the expenditure of $1000 to erect bird houses.Bird life should be encouraged and public opinion will do it and if the Government is prodded into action.

The Professor held the utmost and rapt attention of his audience and it is sincerely trusted that he will again be induced to visit our city for the enlightenment and instruction of the citizens. Every point in his address was well taken and clearly and forcibly explained and the audience was completely absorbed for the whole tenure of his remarks of over one and one half hours.

Rev. F. M. Malott appropriately moved a vote of thanks to the speaker which was seconded by R. Tannahill and acknowledged by the speaker.

At the instance the result of the forward hockey game was announced by Secretary J. G. Herity and there was vociferous cheering.

In proposing the toast to the County Council, MacKenzie Robertson stated that he was pleased to acknowledge that he had been born on the farm as he appreciated the many advantages of that life. A fine address by Mr. Robertson served to brighten up the evening's entertainment.

Warden Wallbank, who explained that he was suffering from a severe cold, stated that he was pleased to be present, that his duties therein prevented a spirit of unity in affairs. A precedent had been created. He announced that a publicity committee would be appointed by the Council to study the resources of the County and to encourage settlement and tourist. It would be funds well invested and mutual benefit would accrue. He hoped that the same gathering about his festive board some time during next December and the only reason that he came was to be privileged to meet the citizens.

One of the most successful evenings in the annals of recent local history was then brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

BELLEVILLE GETS NO SCHOOL GRANT

The Ways and Means committee of the County Council reported unfavorably in the request of the School Board of the city of Belleville for a county grant toward a new Collegiate Institute here. The city hospital was granted $1,000, and the Trenchford school matter will be decided at the July session.

COLDS REACHED INSTANTANEOUSLY BY NOVEL METHOD

EXTERNAL APPLICATION WHICH IS ABSORBED AND AT THE SAME TIME INHALED AS VAPOR.

DOUBLY DIRECT ACTION GIVES QUICK RESULTS

Here is one of those simple but startling discoveries which makes you say "Why didn't somebody think of that before?"—a salve, composed of the best known, time-tested remedies for colds that acts externally and internally at the same time.

External—it acts like a liniment, poultice or plaster—is absorbed through and stimulates the skin.

Internally—its vapors of Camphor, Menthol, Eucalyptus, Thyme and Turpentine, are inhaled directly into the passages, relieving congestion and loosening phlegm—often breaking up a cold over night—relieving croup in three minutes.

This salve, Vicks VapoRub, is now here, but old in the States, where 17 million jars are used yearly. A word wiser to introduce it into the larger cities of Ontario and Quebec, the druggists in this town put 12 free jars to as many good customers on condition that they would report results. Families who tried it for head and chest colds, croup children's colds, tonsilitis, bronchitis and sore throat are making splendid reports.

Some of Their Experiences

Mrs. R. Simonds, of 30 Bolsotpot St., Montreal, writes: "My daughter got a jar of Vicks for her grandmother and, next day she was in school three times on the chest she felt such a relief that she recommended it to some of her friends. She says for tightness of the chest and difficult breathing and she says it has done her lots of good."

Mrs. MacDonald, of 62 Islington Ave., Ottawa, Ont., writes: "My little girl, three years old, had a dreadful cough and cold and was in bad shape one monia. I rubbed her chest with Vicks VapoRub and put hot cloths on it. In a remarkably short time there was a change for the better. I have great faith in Vicks VapoRub."

Miss Irene Robertson, of 138 Colborn St., West Brantford, Ont., says: "I must say that I have found VapoRub especially good for colds on the chest. I gave part of a jar to a friend of mine and the mother said to her little boy, who was very sick with a cold on his chest. He was wonderfully quiet. I can highly recommend your VapoRub to do all you claim to it."

At all drug stores, 35c per jar.

FAILURE OF FARMERS' CLUBS

Washington, Jan. 27.—The failure of 300 of the 343 farmers' buying and selling associations in the U.S. which have ceased to function since 1913 was due in part to insufficient business, according to a survey made public today by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Other reasons for the failures were given as inefficient management, affecting 148 organizations; insufficient capital, 73; overexpansion, 39; lack of interested management, 39, and concentrated control by a few members, 12.

CORNWALL SIX DEFEATED IN THEIR OWN ARENA

Belleville Intermediates Upset the Dope Once More and Defeat Cornwall in Factory Town Last Night 4-2 — Have Five Wins and No Losses and Are Group Leaders—Outclassed Opposition and Crooks Was Invincible—All Set for Tuesday's Big Battle Here With Kingston Frontenacs

The Belleville Intermediate aggregation now perched on the top rung of group number one, by virtue of their win over the high-flying Cornwall contingent in the factory town last evening. The score was 4 to 2 for Belleville. The locals have now a five point lead over the leadership with five starts to win. Last night's victory was gained a famous one as the Easterners were conceded to cut a big figure in this section. But they certainly overlooked the fact that Belleville possessed in Len Crooks a goal-keeper of the highest calibre. Len's work was marvellous, and there are very few goalers in these parts who could have surpassed him.

Those Kingston folk who figured that Frontenacs still had their fingers on the ice will have some explaining to do. The Limestone fans figured that Belleville would receive a trimming when the two Kingston teams would turn around and hand them another Sarnia beating Tuesday. In fact there were a few people in this district who thought that Belleville had a chance to beat Cornwall at home. But we did not and with Kingston's victory and surprised them all. Those few loyal supporters, who accompanied the lads, were indeed a happy crowd after the battle was o'er and victory perched on Belleville banner.

The game was featured by close checking all the way through. The Cornwall players seemed to live up to their reputation for close checking. Both teams resorted to combination play and when passes were not accepted, an opposing player would pick up the loose puck, and with one or two fast bits bounce into the opponents' territory. Both goals had some narrow escapes and Lady Luck favored, possibly, the better of the struggle. Some beautiful chances to score were lost by players missing or pass go uncatched. The style of the Belleville lead long-range methods while Cornwall generally attempted to break through the defence. For the simple reason that this was the only way in which they could score. Very few possibilities were noted at the Cornwall end, these being for illegal checking methods and giving an opposed the benefit of the doubt. Cornwall themselves considerably by circling at centre ice in an endeavor to work an opening. The Bellevillites merely had to wait at centre ice for the attacking forces to break away. The game was fast lightning fast all the way through and the Cornwall fans were treated to a real exhibition. Spectators who have followed hockey in all its stages claimed that it was on a par or even better than a great many senior games staged at the Toronto arena. The Cornwall team were not spiteful and peppered Crooks until the final gong. The play shifted first from one end then to the other. Both lines-men were kept busy between the puck and no such tactics as Queen's used were in evidence. The game was practically devoid of body-checking. Cornwall forwards have all mastered a pretty poke-check and many of the Belleville attacks were nipped in the bud.

Jack Mark's boys have been improving steadily and should now have no trouble in copping the remaining games of the schedule.

The Cornwall ice-surface is somewhat longer than the local ice-coop. About two thousand spectators went home disappointed but satisfied that they had seen a good fast game.

The penalty-box has been rebuilt since last year and it is a big improvement. Some of the home fans demonstrated that they were poor sports. Towards the close of the struggle they began throwing snow onto the home ice. Crooks, the latter continued to wear the mask and from the manner in which he watched goals were scored, thinks that it does not impair his vision to any extent. The smoke was so thick that it was difficult for spectators in the balcony to distinguish one player from another.

A number of Belleville supporters remained in Cornwall all night with the good intention of visiting Montreal today.

Picking out any individual star on the winning six would be a practical impossibility with the probable exception of Crooks. They are a bunch of workers through and through. Playing all the time, going well into the corners and passing the puck perfectly.

Len. Crook's work in the nets was beautiful. The Cornwall players rained in shot after shot without result. Finally they discovered that the only way to score was to work inside. Judging from the scores they were not very successful at this means of rallying, either. He saved a dozen by stopping down directly at the goal mouth. Some of his saves appeared utterly impossible to a spectator.

But Crooks was not the only player on the Belleville team. There were five other boys out there in front of him who can justly claim a big share of the victory.

The Holway brothers proved a veritable stone-wall. Time and again when Cornwall managed to get through "Tester" and "Boomer" were right there to block or body them.

Both boys also figured prominent-ly on the offense as well as the defense.

Verne Weir scored two goals and was right on his check. He worried the Cornwall forwards considerably by his sweeping check. Welly is a sixty-minute man and takes the bumps with a smile. His two goals were the result of accurate marksmanship.

"Doc" Mallen is rapidly coming into his own. His stick-handling is pretty and he passes the puck. Both of his goals came when badly needed.

Bunny Frechette turned in a nice game. His man very seldom got away and when he did Bunny out-skated him. The nose-checking hindered him from getting his trusty shot working but he had Gallinger worried a few times.

Frank Goyer played a remarkably good game. He is always ready for a rough-and-tumble. His shooting was good on the net.

Stanley Hagerman is one of the hardest workers on the team. His points every ounce of energy into the game, lots of pep and game to the finish. His shadow—the "Admiral" Mr. Gallinger had to keep his eye on him.

Kinghorn showed up well at left wing but Frechette kept him well in tow. He is a speedy skater and combines nicely. Tilton performed on defence ice. He is tricky, fast and pass on the line. He always attempts to work inside the defence. He was probably the most effective player on the Cornwall team.

Guy Smith is well-know to Belleville fans. He was closely watched last night. He received a shaking-up in the initial period but returned to the ice when he was attended to. He was given a hand by the crowd.

Larose was hampered with a bad stake but did not show much during the first part of the game before the accident happened.

Gallinger was in goal and saved a few times but his mask-frame was a swelled-head. If he was really as good as he thinks he is then Gohn Rose Montreal or Benedict Cowdy have to seek a new job. His stories about his $1200 offer from Saskatoon got him in bad with the sporting public of Cornwall.

Belleville play Frontenacs on Tuesday here. And Kingston how to win and were planning to bring up some rooters but may change their minds after last night's game.

Walter Smaill of Montreal referred a very impartial game although some of his decisions did not meet with the approval of the Cornwall fans.

FIRST PERIOD

Charlie Monroe warden faced the puck.

Play opened fast Cornwall rallying but Belleville 1st. Weir scored unassisted in two minutes of play. Play was getting fast and was shifting from one end to the other. Tilton drove in on Crooks but he saved in fine style. Smith was injured when he hit Tester. James rubbing. Cornwall used the poke check to good advantage. Hagerman and Soup went on. Kinghorn got off Belleville 2nd. Weir scored unassisted on rebound. Gallinger nearly let one in. Both goalies were called upon. James had an open net and didn't tally. Tilton passed to Penny who got the avenger. Mallen went thru but Gallinger was there. Hagerman got the gate for giving a man the shoulder. Period ended 2-1. Both Larose and Smith were injured in this period.

SECOND PERIOD

Larose and Smith both came back. Play opened with Belleville invading. And Gallinger was lucky. Kinghorn tried to trip Holway and was injured himself. Mallen scored number 3 from the wing. Belleville went down three abreast but missed the net. Kinghorn passed from the corner and Tilton batted it in. Bouncer penalized for tripping. Tilton went in the cooler for tripping Mallen. Bunny's minute later followed. Mallen got number 4 for Belleville on a beautiful shot. Tester missed a pass with nobody to beat. James penalized for boarding. Bouncer failed to pass with nobody to beat. Score 3-3 for Belleville.

THIRD PERIOD

Weir scored the fourth after two minutes of play. Mallen was laid out when Tilton bodied him. Hagerman was hurt when he hit the boards. Offsides were numerous at this stage.

Trenton Team Trounces Local Sextette 4 to 1

Hard, Fast Game—Hunter and Kerr Best for Belleville—Barre and E. Allore for Visitors — Penalties Galore

When the Trenton aggregation of puck chasers journeyed to Belleville last evening they came with a determination to win just as strong as our local boys was to cop a Trenton out. The game was a hard fought battle from beginning to end, and the winning team deserves credit for their good work. The game was fast and there were without the support of Hagerman and Cook, who played in Trenton some days ago when the locals trimmed them up there. This greatly depleted the strength of the local six and at times some erratic playing was indulged in that lessened the strength of the whole team. Trenton played a good game. Barre, who played right wing for the Trenton sextette, was undoubtedly the most dangerous man on the ice. Wee Eddie Allore was also a star and wicked and his back checking and body checking was a treat to see.

The score certainly does not do credit to our own little goal tender, Jimmie Hunter. All last night they rained on shots at him from all corners and he stopped them all. He was as calm and cool as a cucumber. Kerr for the locals played a stellar game. His stick handling was a treat, and he plays his clearest game at the whole team. Belleville indulged in a trifle too much individual play to make an effective game, and the superiority of co-operative play won the game last night. Trenton have a goal man in E. Allore. His best skating was well worth witnessing, and his rushes were good. He was the fastest man on the ice. Shannon, who subbed for Trenton, was right there when on the ice and scored two of Trenton's hard-fought goals.

Glen Smith of Toronto refereed.

Trenton—Goal, Lamore; defence, Allore and Allore; centre, Bernard; wings, Blakely and Barre; subs, Shannon and Lamore.

Belleville—Goal, Hunter; defence, Kerr and Strachan; centre, Hibbard; wings, Hall and Cummings; subs, Bazard, Arnoli and Lloyd.

Smith shot wide on an open net. Len went to his knees to save wonderfully Belleville were checking them up to perfection. Crooks made two impossible saves. Both goalies had close shaves. Game ended with Cornwall leading Final score 4-2 for Belleville.

HOLD KNOCKOUT RECORD

It is not always the best fighter that scores the most knockouts. The greatest knockaround in the ring today is George Chaney of Baltimore, a veteran who has been at it for many a long year. Chaney is not a first-class fighter, He has been toppled over many times himself and outpointed on many other occasions. Yet he is the most feared of all the lightweights. His left-handed slams in the middle are likely to put the best of them to sleep. Chaney has scored 76 knockouts during his long career. It is his ambition to make it an even hundred before he tosses the gloves aside. Chaney says is the only thing that will keep him from realizing his ambition if he that so many refuse to fight him.

34th Battery Trim Napanee Squad in Game Last Night

By Score of 8-4 Symons, Finkle and Canning Play Stellar Hockey — Teams Played Well Together

The 34th Battery team of this city visited Napanee last evening, where they trimmed the Quinte League team of that town by a score of 8-4. Seeing Symons played a star game. Scoring five goals of the night. Hibbard kept the nets well guarded. Finkle and Canning formed a stone-wall defence that was practically impregnable.

If Kingston Irish had Napanee both defeat Point Anne, then the locals will be back in the running. The Napanee boys are taking a special train to Napanee. Dave Whalen did not play last evening.

The Belleville line-up was as follows: Goal Hibbard, Defence Finkle and Canning, Centre Whalen, Wings Armstrong and Symons. Sub, Goyer.

SCOTCH CURLERS GUESTS OF ROTARY

Visitors Grateful to Canucks For Excellent Hospitality Accorded Them

As guests of the Lakeview curlers, the Rotary Club entertained the visiting Scotch curlers at their luncheon at Toronto yesterday.

Rotarian Tom Bennie, in welcoming the Scotchmen to the luncheon stated that the visiting curlers had endeavored to live up to all the traditions of the Caledonian Curling Association on his cost.

Col. Robertson Aikman in reply said: "Each banquet we attend seems to get bigger and bigger, and we are grateful to Canadians for the way you have looked after us.

Rotarian Ronald McLeod proposed the toast to the visitors. Mr. J. Y. Joyce, who replied, said he had heard more Scotch songs since he landed than he had heard in the last ten years. He said he was coming back to Canada again—but that he was going to leave his little curling stones at home.

NIAGARA IN WINTER

The countless thousands who annually visit the Cataract of Niagara pronounce it the greatest natural wonder on the continent of America. Those see in sublimity and grandeur than the waterfall itself is the gorge through which the waters rush onward to Lake Ontario after their awful plunge over the cliff. For a little distance from the foot of the falls the stream is comparatively placid; but gathering momentum as its channel narrows it fills the gorge and tumbles over the rocks in foamy resistless, breaking into delicate spray, and there springing up into the air as if it dashes against some rocky obstacle in its mad race for the calmer reaches of the bed below. Never are the features falls more gloriously beautiful than during the winter months. Every conceivable form the surrounding shores. The trees and shrubs, bathed perpetually in the mist of the rushing stream, wear garments of glittering hoar-frost, marvellously wrought and trimmed with loveliest lace. The rocks and boulders along the shore become huge blocks of gleaming ice, and mammoth icicles form before the very doors of the Falls and line the sides of the gorge. But no power can check the mighty flood, whose unceasing roar rises as a deeper, duller hue from the whiteness of their setting. In subdued volume they onward majestically along, tossing high in the air their rainbowed sprays as it in proud disdain of the tyrant Ice-King—iron rule. The Grand Trunk Railway System offers exceptional facilities to reach "Nias-ara the Glorious."

PROVINCIAL ASSESSMENTS AND THE EMPLOYMENT OF COUNTY OFFICIALS

The "over-paternal" attitude of the Drury Government, relative to the salaries and appointments of County officials has caused considerable excitement, flurry and discussion in many Counties Council throughout the Province. This matter was dealt with editorially in these columns some weeks ago and the suggestion was made at that time, that the position adopted by the Provincial Government was manifestly unfair. Vigorous protests are now emanating from many councils now in session and some bodies are memorializing others to become interested in the matter.

The continually increasing financial burdens with which our County bodies are being saddled by the Drury Commission Government are proving unjust and extremely onerous. There is real financial distress.

Expenditures on education and highways are two of the chief causes of dissent in regard to the comparatively large assessment levies made from Queen's Park. Good education, of course, is a prime necessity in modern life and the more general it is made, the sounder becomes our democracy. Good roads, civic and social improvements of every kind are signs of progress. They naturally are not cheap and their cost must be borne by all to derive benefit, but it would seem that, as far as highways are concerned, Hon. Mr. Biggs has not particularly insisted on rigid economy in construction cost. Many local instances may be cited where rights of way have been purchased from farmers at absurd prices. The County Council of Hastings does not object to settling with the Provincial Government for road building, provided that lavishness has not been predominant in the construction of the highways. We cannot stand still or let up in our progressive efforts. We do not desire to make retrograde suggestions, yet it must be admitted that the strain is becoming severe.

Our duty to our children and posterity is not to be defeated and it is not desirable that the march of progress be halted along educational lines.

There are apparently only two alternatives, either to lower our standards, or pay the shot, and we are certainly adopting the latter method under pressure from Toronto.

The County Council is paying the shot concerning their employees and it is only fair and reasonable that they should make the decision in the matter of County appointments.

SCHOOL GRANTS

Yesterday's appeal of the strong deputation representing the City Board of Education which interviewed the County Council relative to a more liberal apportionment of County grants for High School purposes, is one that should not fail to favorably impress the members of that legislative body.

Words are often too inadequate as vehicles of expression, especially when one has a great, transcending, fateful truth to express, and while the necessary argument was most intelligently presented yesterday, the fact cannot be denied that the difference between the ratio of per capita cost per county pupil attending the City High School and the cost per city pupil is far too great and is decidedly out of proportion.

A new collegiate in this city would appear to be an immediate necessity and, because of its economic character and affiliated consequences, it should be constructed at once.

Large borrowings and special expenditures covering various other proposed civic works, should of course be postponed until the cost of this more pressing construction is provided for.

Councillor Vermilyea made the statement in Council yesterday that the County had always settled any similar accounts rendered from the City of Belleville and the general feeling was that the matter of a new collegiate would receive careful consideration. This sentiment would appear to be sympathetic with the wish of the City Board of Education to meet, in order that the civic taxpayers may be thoroughly acquainted with the proposition.

It is distressing to think that the Corporation was obliged to forfeit the usual Government grant to the High School this year, owing to the fact that the building was inadequate and did not fulfil governmental requirements. Belleville, however, is not alone in this precarious situation as the town of Campbellford also suffered.

The appetite of the Board of Education for a new collegiate must be immediately appeased and necessary financial arrangements completed at an early date to finance the undertaking.

Let the building of a new collegiate be the repository of the hopes of a very substantial majority of Bellevillians. Let the present distress be assuaged and it is to be hoped that in their final deliberations the County Council will see, that in the proper and just apportionment of educational funds, the requirements of the City of Belleville will be provided for.

PASSING COMMENT

One almost suspects that the Rev. Dr. Percy Stickney Grant, the heretical rector of the Church of the Ascension, New York, is qualifying for a star part in a movie film.

Attention of the police should be at once directed to the removal of icicles from buildings on the main streets. They are a positive menace to the lives of citizens.

Old-fashioned youngsters spent the evening holding hands; the moderns spend it complaining about the hands they hold.

The manager of the local rink says that he is always busier in winter than in summer.

Thrift week slogan this week "Save young man, and become respectable and respected."—Benj. Franklin.

A lot of work will be done in 1923 along Ontario's highways, but there are some people who will have it that the Drury Government is trying too hard to pave them with good intentions.

HERE AND THERE

A NEW CANADIAN HIGHWAY

The highways of a country are as important in some respects as its railways. It was the well-built Roman roads of England and the south of Scotland that did so much to develop and popularize beautiful country long-before railways were known. One of the greatest obstacles in the way of opening up our new country for settlement and making farm life attractive has been the lack of good roads. This disadvantage, however, is being overcome in most of the provinces by systematic and scientific attention to road building. A desideratum now for the attraction of tourists, and the advertising of the country is a system of national highways through the most picturesque sections of Canada, linking up with a transcontinental road which would available for a large part of the year. Such is the Banff-Windermere motor highway through the Canadian Rockies whose official opening has been set for June 30, of this year. On that date the last link in the great 6,500 mile tour throughout North Canada and the United States will be thrown open to traffic, making the national parks of the two countries accessible for motorists from Mexico to Western Canada. The opening ceremonies will take place at Vermilion Crossing, a point on the road midway between Banff, Alberta, and Windermere, B.C. The road is built through the heart of the Rockies, 73 miles of it being through virgin mountain and forest country and crossing the mountain passes. The main range of the Rocky Mountains is crossed via Vermilion Pass, in which an altitude of 5,660 feet is reached. The grades, however, are stated to be remarkably low, the average being 3 per cent. with the maximum 400 feet of 9 per cent. The new highway is 93 miles long, of which the 30 miles lying in Rocky Mountain Park had previously been constructed by the Parks Branch, and another 10 miles by the British Columbia Government. The road gives a standard wheelway of 16 feet, surfaced with screened gravel.—Presbyterian Witness.

A RADICAL CURE.

"What ails the lad?" his father said,
"He goes to lots of shows;
He's never bustled off to bed—
When we go out he goes.
Yet there he sits, a sight to see,
Nursing the largest hump—
Why can't you laugh like me and me,
You great big senseless lump?"

They persevere, these parents sound;
Resolved to see him roar,
They lug the sombre infant round
To movie shows galore.
Now fast and free the howls of glee
Resound throughout the hall;
Alone the child is unbeguiled—
He never grins at all.

At last as they return one night
From some prodigious draw
The boy emits, to their delight,
A loud and long guffaw.
His shoulders shake; beyond disguise
His chuckles follow fast.
"By Charlie's feet," the father cries,
"He's seen a joke at last!"

"Now tell me, boy, what brings you joy
In all that you have seen?"
He chokes, he speaks: "Oh, pa," he squeaks,
"Twas nothing on the screen.
But, pa, I almost busts in half,
It fairly knocks me flat
To think that all those folks can laugh
At hopeless stuff like that!"

PRESS OPINIONS

ABOUT COLD AND COLDS.

(Woodstock Sentinel Review)

This being the season of colds, it may be worth while to pay some attention to what the medical authorities have to say about them. And, first of all, we are told that in the majority of cases colds do not come from cold, but from chills; that is, from people who have colds. Arctic explorers may suffer from cold, but not from colds, at least while they are in the Arctic regions. It is only when they return to civilization and encounter people who colds that they are liable to catch cold.

If you want to escape catching cold, and you probably do, the authorities advise you to keep away from people who have colds. Colds are spread by means of discharges from the mouth and nose. This will probably not be news to many people. What may seem strange is that colds are spread by the hand; but now they tell us that there is more spreading of infectious diseases by the hand than by any other means. This means, we suppose, that if we are to keep ourselves in a state of health we must give up holding hands and even shaking hands.

This health knowledge is a great thing, no doubt, but it has its highcost-of-living feature. We have already been ordered to give up kissing as part of the price.

NOT GOOD BUSINESS

(Buffalo Express)

It would be impolitic to cut off Canada' share of the meagre supply of hard coal. We may want to sell coal in quantities next year and in all other years when there is a normal supply. We might find it difficulty to re-create a market which we had deliberately destroyed. According to a London despatch to the Natural Gazette, Welsh colliery interests are planning to open two depots in Canada for the crushing, grading and storing of coal from the British Isles.

Moreover, it should not be forgotten that Canada has products which we need. A good many factories in Buffalo are operated by power obtained from the Canadian side of Niagara Falls; a good many factories and towns east of Niagara Falls get their power from the Canadian side. If we cut off Canada's supply of coal, Canada would have to use this power to replace the coal which she could not get. And if Canada retaliated we were resorted to we might find life more uncomfortable in other ways.

"BEATING THE BEAR."

The performing brown bear had escaped from the menagerie, and he roamed eagerly around the countryside in search of prey. Suddenly he espied a sweet maiden standing beside a tree waiting for her sweetheart. Stealthily creeping up behind her, the bear seized her in his tremendous paw and pressed her to him in a mighty hug. For five minutes he held her thus, and was about to drop what he thought was her lifeless body to the ground when he heard her murmur:—

"I don't think you are quite so strong as you ought to be, Harry."

That night a miserable bear crept back into his cage. The modern girl had broken his spirit.

Everybody's Business
THE Ford Motor Company has made a genuine attempt to give the public automobile transportation at a price within the reach of all. It has carried out the ideals of the inventor of the Ford car, Henry Ford, and has placed the Ford Motor Company in the position of performing a public service to the people of Canada.
It has definitely made Ford products a national institution—being such, the Ford Motor Company believes it is justified in telling the public it serves how the present low price of Ford Cars can be maintained in 1923.

How the Present Low Price of Ford Cars Can Be Maintained in 1923
We are absolutely frank with the public when we say that the present low prices are not justified by present production but only by the production it is hoped will result from them.
The present low prices for Ford Cars are based on maximum production only. To-day's market on steel and other raw material that goes into the manufacture of Ford Cars will not warrant these prices except at peak production. Ford prices must go up unless they are justified by increased production.

I understand that Mr. Ford and the Ford Motor Company have reduced the price of Ford Cars to a point never before conceived to be possible, and that these prices are not justified by the present volume of business, but that they have to bring about a larger volume of business to justify these prices.
While I am not immediately prepared to buy a car, I will want a..... about..... and as I desire to get it at these reduced prices, this will authorize you to inform the Ford Motor Company that I intend to buy a Ford unless something unforseen happens and am advancing this information so that the Ford Motor Company may proceed and manufacture this car during the winter months so that I may have prompt delivery at time I desire it.

HE QORTH BY ME AND I SEE HIM NOT.

Who knows His name? Himself hath written it.
In vibrant light against an awful sky,
Where blushing sands their changing forms dry,
Against the towering waves that swell and die,
In crystal snow, in globes of dew and rain,
A name is there, but who can read it plain?
Thunders and lightnings pass me by; no wrath
Of human wisdom fathoms their design.
Seeds fall and drown themselves into the strength,
The soaring peace of steadfast oak and pine.
A flash—and living light has felled the thatch-palm's crest.
The night was there, but He—where does He hide?
When Crime and Malice wage their wasteful war
Within the frail and foolish hearts of men,
And, somehow, latent God comes to the fore,
And truth, unconquered mounts her throne again.
Here too, He passed, and made his presence felt
Through men who asked with tears "Where Justice dwelt!"
His truth found voice when waking it could interpret
From inarticulate, unthinking state,
His wisdom through their ignorances merged
And laid their strivings to a worthy fate:
Truth— Wisdom— Guidance; these
His will proclaim—
These are but letters of His mystic name!

LIFE WAS MISERY !

"I was reading the other day about Neurasthenia, about the large number of people who were troubled with this disease. It is just what my wife had. She felt miserable all the time and was constantly depressed. She would awaken in the morning and tell me that something dreadful was going to happen that day. Life was nothing short of misery for her. She was so depressed that I suspected she would lose her mind and have to be a subject for care and I kept wondering how I should get the money to pay for her. She could not eat and had no appetite for food. She was irritable and cranky most of the time. If she was crossed in any way, she would immediately work herself up into a violent temper. This worried me because she had always had a kind and gentle disposition and nothing which was said or done seemed to bother her. I spoke to our family doctor about her and he said that her trouble was imagination and that if she would buy and spend freely her depression and look on the bright side of life she would be all right. Of course I didn't dare tell her this because I knew she would get into one of her tempers. When she got over these fits of temper, she was always weak and ill and more depressed than ever. The doctor left a tonic might help her and gave me a prescription but this did not do her any good. She tried all kinds of other tonics with the same result. Perfect was recommended to me and I drink to state that it is the leader of all tonics. Since taking it my wife has changed completely. Now, she is always ready for her meals and work is no burden. It is a pleasure for me to recommend Carnol to anyone who is in need of a tonic and help building. Excuse me for writing this letter but I want you to accept my thanks for that wonderful tonic known as Carnol." — Mr. J. M., Toronto.

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it doesn't done you any good return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money. 1-623

SOLD BY DOLAN THE DRUGGIST

DO YOU KNOW THE VARIOUS COTTON MATERIALS

The housekeeper is the forman of the home. It is therefore, her duty to become a good buyer. Most of us know good values in such things as rugs, china or kitchenware. But when it comes to purchasing materials for dress or upholstery, many of us fail. If you do not know all of the following cotton fabrics by sight, it will be worth your while to stop at a cottongoods counter, next time you go through a drygoods store, and ask to see them.

Chambray: This is woven in a plain weave with a white selvage and is used for dresses, men's shirts, little tots' rompers and aprons. Galatea: A heavy, firm cotton weave with a design printed on one side. Fine for children's clothing and cutting suits when a cloth of unusual strength is desired. Cotton Damask is used for tablecloths and doilies, but in buying it, the house wife should understand that after a few washings it will have a fuzzy surface—although when bought it has the same appearance as linen damask. When sold, it has a mercelization which soon wears off, so the cotton fibre is short and the ends of the fibre cannot be held in place like the ends of the linen fibres. The result is that the short cotton fibre will not take a good polish with a hot iron.

Velveteen is an imitation of velvet, but lacks the quality of cotton. Sheeting, if good, will have round, firm thread closely packed together with the warp and filling threads perfectly balanced. Very little sizing is used on a good quality of sheeting—so make sure that the sheeting you buy is not full of sizing. Unbleached sheeting will give the best service. Unbleached, however, fewer chemicals are used in finishing it. As it will become white in time, after many washings and a few nights on the line for night air bleaches) it is equally as desirable as the white.

Long Cloth: This is a soft, firm fabric with a close weave made of a fine grade of cotton yarn of medium length. Unbleached long cloth, is dulled in finish and has a rather fuzzy surface, making it undesirable for outer garments, but makes the best underwear. It will also be found durable and satisfactory for sprouts.

I have mentioned at length the above named cotton fabrics because they are the varieties which are most confusing to buy. But there is also a little trouble in securing a good grade of the following: Cambric, Nainsook, Batiste, Percale, Lawn, Dimity, Dotted Swiss, Canton Flannel, Albatross, Bedford Cord, Buckram, Canvas, Chambrette, Crepe, Domestic, Drill, Duck, Dotted Gauze, Khaki, Lawn, Linen, Mull, Muslin, Organdie, Percaline Pique, Poplin, Sateen, Silesia, Turkish.

Timely Household Hints

If you are tired of plain cranberry jelly, try adding one and one-half cups finely cut celery before molding.

Treat children the proper care of their books by having low bookshelves around the walls of their room and insisting upon their putting their books in place after the study hour.

Apple and Earth Apple.

Pare and boil as potatoes, and when done mash them very smooth, add pepper, salt, a good-sized lump of butter and a cupful of last apple sauce that has been rubbed through a sieve, beat well, then have in a buttered deep pie plate. Sprinkle the mixture with fine crumbs and brown it quickly in the oven.

Oatmeal Raisin Bread.

Three cups oatmeal uncooked oats; one cup seedless raisins; one quart boiling water; one yeast cake; one fourth cup molasses; one tablespoon salt; two quarts flour.

Wash the raisins and mix with the rolled oats, distributing thoroughly. Pour the boiling water over them and add the salt and molasses. Stir well and allow to stand until lukewarm. Dissolve a yeast cake in the lukewarm water and add to the mixture with as much flour as to make a dough that can be kneaded. If a break-mixer is used, the dough should have the side in a good firm ball. This is necessary, as it grows less still on standing.

Let the dough rise until double in bulk (about one and a half hours in a warm place), then form it into loaves and let rise a second time to double in bulk. Bake in a moderate oven for one hour. This bread is apt to become quickly than the usual white bread.

Chicken Souffle—Two cups scalded milk, 4 tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon pepper, 1 cup stale bread crumbs, 2 cups cold chicken, chopped fine, 3 eggs, yolks and whites beaten separately.

Make sauce of milk, butter and flour; add bread crumbs and chickens. Cook on top of stove for two minutes, then add yolks of eggs. When cold add the beaten whites of eggs, turn into a well-buttered mould and bake 25 minutes. This can be prepared in the morning and baked later.

GIRLS! BEAUTIFUL HAIR AT ONCE

Try This! A Gleamy Mass of Luxuriant Hair

In a few moments you can transform even plain, dull, flat hair. You can have it abundant, soft, glossy and full of life. Just get a 25 cents bottle of "Danderine" at any drugstore. Then moisten a soft cloth with the "Danderine" and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. Instantly, yes, immediately, you have doubled the beauty of your hair. It will be a mass, so soft, lustrous and so easy to do up. All dust and dandruff is removed. Let "Danderine" put new life, vigor and brightness in your hair. This stimulating tonic will freshen your scalp, check dandruff and falling hair and help your hair to grow long, thick, strong and beautiful.

Virginia Waffles—Boil half a cup of cornmeal for thirty minutes in a cup and a half of water. Add a cup and a half of milk, two tablespoons of sugar, a pinch of salted butter, two cups of flour, two heaping teaspoons of baking powder and one well beaten egg. Fry on a well greased waffle iron.

Jellied Fruit—Fill a mould with any kind of good cooked fruit; apricots, peaches, plums or pineapples are among the best. Melt a packet of lemon jelly in rather less water than usual, pour it gently over the fruit, letting it sink in well, and put in a cool place until firm.

Beefsteak Stew—Take one and one-half pounds of round steak, remove all fat and cut in pieces about three-quarters of an inch square. Cover with one pint of cold water and cook very slowly for three hours. An hour before this meat is cooked put in three carrots and three potatoes cut in dice. Add salt and pepper before serving. Cook to the lowest flame possible.

Boys' and Girls' Corner

SHORT STORIES FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

SAVED BY SCISSORS

The great city church was packed to overflowing. It was the night when the Saint James Boys' Band was to make its first appearance. Out in the Sunday School room thirty fine-looking boys excitedly whispered among themselves as they scrambled into their new white uniforms.

Only one boy stood undersized in the midst of the group. He looked from right to left in a dazed fashion. It was Dean Boynton, considered by all the finest singer among the boys. He had been chosen soloist of the new choir. In a few minutes his clear voice would be filling the great church with its flute-like tones.

But what was the matter with him now? The boys all regarded him queerly. Why didn't he get ready? It was almost time. "Dean, it's time to go," his best friend, Bob Hand, rudely shook him by the arm. "Where's your vestment?"

"I forgot it!" Dean gasped at last. "What shall I do?"

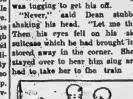
"Here, take mine." Already Bob was trying to get his off.

"Never," said Dean stubbornly shaking his head. "I'll go home." Then his eyes fell on his sister's suitcase which he had brought in and stored away in the corner. He had planned to hear him sing and he had to take her to the train to go home.

Then he remembered. Hastily he ran across the room and grabbed the scissors. Then he ripped off the white sleeves and the white collar from his sister's dress. Then he ran to his own room and put on the white coat. Then he ran back to the church.

Everybody was in their places. Dean's choir filed slowly into the choir loft.

Dean's voice faltered a little as he started. His mother, father, and Bess sat on the front seat. "I wonder if they'll notice," he thought, and then he forgot everything but solo. His voice rose and fell strong-er and clearer than ever before.



It wasn't till after the services when the audience was slowly filing out that Bess said to her mother, "Dean looks so funny. His vestment was different from the others". I think it's a prettier style, don't you? It's a shame he has to have the soloist dressed a little differently, don't you think so?"

LINKED LIVES

By

D. Kinmount Roy

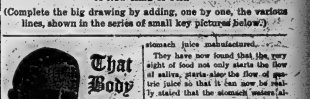
"Now, see how easy it is," said Hardcastle, "I might the picture not awaken some firm, childish recollection, and that slight sight will mercifully forgotten? And Ched, had he say right to win her for his own heart's treasure, if all men, with the solemn vow laid upon him? And who dare tell her of Ched's crimes and cruelty? Not he, certainly!

Would it not be enough if this miserable tool of Hardcastle's could be found and extinguished in his guilt, in the land suggested, and let Hardcastle keep his ill-gotten wealth? Why should she ever know of his evil fame? And then —and then—might he not win her, and spare her all the pain and misery of a history so bitter?

Through the long night, the young man battled with a great wonder, a great renunciation and a great love, until the witchery of the dawn turned the grey meadow of the river in the distance into purple and gold and opal; and the splendour of a new Heaven and a new Earth, in higher and nobler purpose filled the soul of Clifford Aynsworth.

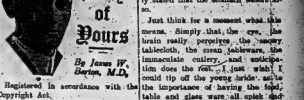
CHAPTER XVII
WATERLOO.

Meanwhile, great events of world-wide importance were being enacted with supreme indifference to the hopes and fears of individual men. Aynsworth knew full well that Napoleon would not yield meant, and knew that at such times of stress and turmoil the little world of men's private woes counted for nothing before the great juggernaut of war which now moved on with solemn terror and ruthless relief in blood toward the final agony.



It was the evening of the day of Waterloo. Aynsworth had come to the full retreat and hopeless confusion after in vain performing prodigies of valour at the head of the remnant of his troop. What need to recount the oft-told tale? It is sufficient to know that on this eventful day the Great War Wizard who had at last staked his fortunes upon a single cast and had perforce to henceforth naught but a broken and beaten man. All resistance was over before the sun went down, and the brave army of France had, for the most part, become a mere panic-stricken mob, flying wildly from the field, before the triumphant foe. Wellington, with a few officers, rode forward in the fast-gathering darkness over the hard-won field, the confused murmur of the fleeing host greeting them on the still air, as they picked their way among the abandoned cannon, muskets, ammunition and baggage-waggons, dead horses and dead and dying men. It was a scene never-to-be-forgotten. The moon had risen before their return, and the some fight in him yet!"

Fight was weird and appalling, even to men cnured to carnage. The roar of the artillery, the rattle of musketry, that followed, the soft shadows of the moon fell upon many a white face marked with the grime of battle, and stamped in their last stillness with the fierce passions of the fight. It was a field glittering with scarce upon which the stars of that June night looked down.



They soon picked their way with singular carefulness over the human wreckage left upon the field. It was here, someone said, that the Guards with the Greys and Inniskillens defeated the Cuirassiers, "And somewhere here Picton met his death!" said a young officer, whose sense of personal loss could not be obliterated by a great victory. "Willingly would I have changed with the stars of that June night looked down.

DOES YOUR MOUTH REALLY WATER.

Yes. Your mouth really does water at the sight of good. Good Dame Nature has so arranged it so that she is always just a little ahead of your needs, and so at the very sight of food the saliva in the mouth begins to get ready for the food. Another wonderful thing is now known to physiologists. Until recently all text books stated that not until food entered the stomach was any gastric or stomach juice manufactured.

They have now found that the very sight of food not only starts the flow of saliva, starts also the flow of gastric juice so that it too can be ready. It is stated that the stomach waters also.

Just think for a moment what this means. Simply that the eye, the brain really perceives the beautiful tablecloth, the cream tableware, the immaculate cutlery, and exclaims this does the food look, what! I could tip off the young bride and tell the importance of having the food, table and glass ware all spick and span.

You see the cooking food be only fair if she can induce a flow of saliva, gastric juices by the above methods...

You may remember, that at some time you have regretted entering a certain restaurant when you discovered the condition of the tablecloth and tableclothing.

Hunger has departed from many a man because of unclean table cloth, dishes and glassware.

It's worth thinking about, isn't it?

Questions are Piling Up

For Government to Answer Member for Riverdale Places Sixteen on Order Paper—O.T.A. Squad in Limelight

Questions, some of which will no doubt prove exceedingly embarrassing to the Government, still continue to be placed on the order paper of the Legislature by the Opposition members.

J. MaNamara, Riverdale, heads the list with sixteen questions which he is anxious to have answered. He wants to know how much revenue the amusement tax produced in 1920, 1921 and 1922, in Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa, and Windsor; whether the Ontario Board of Censors has permitted the release of Rosco (Fatty) Arbuckle pictures, and if so on whose authority; and the amount of deposits in the Ontario Savings Bank, along with the amount of withdrawals.

AFTER MARRIED WOMAN.

He also wants to know who composes the board of directors of the bank, their salaries and experience in that line of work. He is also curious as to the number of married women employed by the Government who have husbands in the service. He also asks whether or not the exercise men who hiked to Ottawa recently to attend the concert to be held in the evening.

AFTER MARRIED WOMAN.

He also wants to know who composes the board of directors of the bank, their salaries and experience in that line of work. He is also curious as to the number of married women employed by the Government who have husbands in the service. He also asks whether or not the exercise men who hiked to Ottawa recently to attend the concert to be held in the evening.

One curious feature of the opening affair was the community singing led by Mr. Harold Barrett. The popular songs which are sung at all local gatherings and with which the people are familiar, were sung. In the singing of "Smiles" the word was omitted, and the songsters forgot about it at intervals and put it in, causing much merriment. The choir (the men on the platform) were asked to sing several selections alone, and speaking modestly, they scored a tremendous success.

Evidently is also evident as far as the liquor question is concerned. Mr. McNamara asks how many bonded warehouses there are in Ontario, and wants to know if they are carrying on a trade over which the province has jurisdiction. Coal purchases for the T. & N. O. Railway are also to be surveyed. Mr. McNamara is asking for the number of tons purchased in the past three years and who was the contractor.

O. T. A. SQUAD IN LIMELIGHT.

Evidently the O.T.A. squad is in for another hazing in the House. The Riverdale member is asking for the number of officers of all ranks employed in the Provincial Police and O.T.A. squads. He also wants to know how many women operators are used by the various bodies of the legislature and other Government offices.

M. M. MacBride, Bradford, also one of the "Independents" of the Legislature is anxious to ascertain how many appointments W. D. Gregory has held since the U.F.O. came into power. He also wants to know how much Mr. Gregory has received from the Government, and what amounts are yet due him.

LABOR GETS A RUDE JOLT

Picketing Illegal—Sentence Suspended

Edmonton, Jan. 27.—Eighty-eight striking coal miners arrested at the Standard mine on a charge of unlawful assembly were yesterday convicted by Justice Simmons in Supreme Court after a trial lasting nearly three days during which the defence maintained that the miners were merely "peaceful picketing" and that no violence was used. Sentence was reserved until today but the Judge intimated that enforcement would be suspended for one year depending on the defendants conduct.

MERCHANTS DOWN SPRINGERS

The Lock boys fell down badly from their game of a week ago with the consequence that the Merchants won by over a hundred pins. This puts the Merchants in first place in the league with four wins and no losses, followed by the Wanderers who have played one game less than the Merchants; therefore they have three wins and no losses. Barlow had the highest score of the evening.

Tonight there will be two teams from Ottawa play two local G.T.R. teams.

Merchants' total, 3475; team average, 869.

Springers' total, 3333; team average 833.

A WOUND IS AN OPEN DOOR

Absorbine Jr. enables you to shut the door quickly.

The skin is Nature's own protection against germs. When it is bruised, broken or cut, that protection is withdrawn. The door is open. As quickly as possible Nature closes it by forming what we call a scab and renders you comparatively safe against infection. But this scab sometimes takes days to form and until it has fully sealed the wound, even until the wound has thoroughly healed again you must furnish the required protection yourself.

A few drops of Absorbine Jr. in the water will give you an antiseptic wash that will kill all possibility of infection and help nature to heal the wound. As well as being a very powerful germicide, Absorbine Jr. will draw out the inflammation and bring instant relief.

Absorbine Jr. is antiseptic, germicide and liniment in one container—handy to keep always in the home; easy to carry around if you travel.

THURLOW TOWNSHIP SCHOOL DEDICATED

school section to the school and said that in having Dr. W. J. Waugh with them they had one of the foremost men of education in Ontario present. He referred to an unique event in his inspectorate, namely, he was fifteen years inspector for West Hastings and in that time had opened fifteen schools, and had another one to open next year.

H. E. Denyes, M.P.P., on rising to speak said he was proud to live in Ontario and referred to the fact of having told the Minister of Agriculture last evening of the opening of this school. He said that School Section No. 8 was referred to as a poor section, but he did not agree with that as they had about two hundred children in attendance at school and that any section which could boast of that many children was by no means a poor section. He said that the Minister of Agriculture had promised him that at any future date the Prince of Wales School would be putting on an entertainment he would send down one of the best movies in his Department of the Provincial Government.

Dr. Waugh was heartily received and said that he did not know why he was asked to speak so much as it certainly was not on account of his oratory, but it must be his good looks and proportion. He was sent down by the Minister of Education as his representative. He referred to the fact that the handling of a rural school was a much more difficult task than that of a city school. He said he noticed that the school was not of pretentious appearance and urged that the lives of the pupils be moulded after it in that respect. At this point of the meeting Dr. Waugh declared the school formally opened and christened it "Prince of Wales" School. Dr. Waugh said this was the children's century. Dr. Baker pronounced the opening prayer.

Mr. J. O. Herity, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, congratulated the School Board of Thurlow on the completion of so fine a school. He eulogized the principal, Mr. Sharpe, saying he was a fine man who was a conscientious teacher, and in closing wished the school every success.

Mr. Simmons, of the Frankford School Board, said he was pleased to have been asked to the opening, as the people of Frankford were contemplating the erection of a new eight-roomed school, and thought the new Thurlow school was a beautiful structure.

Inspector Smith of Prince Edward county congratulated the members of the School Board on the completion of so fine a school.

Rev. Mr. Sharpe, principal of the school, showed a map he had planned on the laying out of the school grounds, and if it is carried out it will add greatly to the utility and beauty of the school.

Dr. E. N. Baker, Principal of Albert College, said they had a fine new school in that section and congratulated the architect, builder and principal of the school in attaining such a magnificent structure.

Mr. H. W. Ackerman, Chairman of the Belleville Board of Education, congratulated the Board of Prince of Wales school on the completion of the new school and wished them every success with it. Ex-Mayor Chas. Hannah, in the unavoidable absence of Mayor Bennett, represented the city, and said that the Thurlow school had better water for drinking purposes than the city schools, but he understood that a new system for bringing water to Belleville was under way, namely, bringing it in from Corbyville. He said he thought the reason for putting so many members on the Belleville Board of Education was on account of its tardiness in completing the new King George school. The meeting closed with the singing of "God Save the King" and a cordial invitation to attend the concert to be held in the evening.

C. N. RAILWAY HEADQUARTERS WILL BE OTTAWA SAYS DRAYTON

Government Has Reached Decision, Quietly, Says Former Minister

Inspector for Toronto

Settlement There, Sympathetic With Policy of Nationalization—Montreal Is Criticized

Toronto, Jan. 27—Talk among "politicians" at Ottawa was to the effect that the Government had decided quietly to move the headquarters of the Canadian National Railway to the capital, declared Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance, and former chairman of Dominion Board of Railway Commissioners, to the National Conservative Business Men's Club of Toronto.

"This," said Sir Henry, "would mean the surrender of the views of the politicians." Toronto was the idea location for headquarters of the system, in the opinion of the Railway Minister o finance. He believed the Sir Henry Thornton, president of the railway, also favored this city as head quarters, and he urged public ownership enthusiasts of Ontario to lend every support to the new president to the end that the publicly-owned system may be directed from a city in which sentiment is sympathetic with the policy of national ownership.

Sir Henry Thornton endorsed the stand taken by Sir Henry Thornton in connection with the electrification of the steam railways owned by the nation in the Toronto district.

Sir Henry Drayton said in part "In my view the Canadian attitude insofar as Sir Henry Thornton is concerned, ought to be that of hopeful expectation. I know it is mine, as this period of experiment may be a very long. Great improvements in organization, long determined on, are upon. The savings to be made in the consolidation of the Grand Trunk with the Canadian Nationals is still open to question.

WHEN NERVES ARE NEAR EXHAUSTION

The Ring Thing To Do Is to Take Tonic for Blood.

When you become so exhausted after a day's work that you cannot sleep, or sleep fails to refresh you, it is time to look after your health. Failure to act at once means a steady drain on your health reserve, which can result in but one thing—a nervous breakdown.

Do not wait for a breakdown. The treatment is simple enough if you do not let your condition become too far advanced. The treatment is one requiring an effective tonic to enrich the blood and feed the starved nerves. The most effective tonic known is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills which act directly on the blood, and with proper diet have proved of the greatest benefit in scores of troubles and all conditions due to impoverished blood. Mrs. Mary Hartman, Bromide, Ont., has proved the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and says:—"I was taken ill with what doctors whom I had consulted called neuralgia of the tissues of the system. I was a complete wreck from constant pains in my body and limbs, dizzy headaches, fainting spells and constipation. So intense were the pains that at times I caused vomiting and I would have to go to bed for five or three days, only to get up so dizzy and so weak that I could not cross the bedroom without aid and while these spells lasted I could keep nothing on my stomach. I doctor ed for almost a year, but with no beneficial results. Finally the last doctor who attended me said medicine would not benefit me, but that a perfect rest and spend most of my time in the open air. He gave me some nerve strengthening ment. Knowing t hat the mother of four children could not a pend all her time in idleness, I told my husband I was through with doctors and was going to try some other remedies. I got one, but after taking it for a month I found no benefit. Then I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and at the end of two weeks I found there were what I needed. With nerves worn threadbare from all the suffering of the past, I continued the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for three months and by this time I was able to do most of my own housework. In fact I felt well and was able to do any kind of work without feeling tired. Since that time I have continued to do all my own work and have had no return of the dreadful pain I suffered before. I have recommended the pills in many cases and have always seen good results from their use."

You can get these Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

40 P.G. OF PUPILS NEVER SAW SHEEP

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 27.—Following suggestions that a cow and a pig be installed in the municipal zoo because many St. Louis children have never seen either, Superintendent of Instruction Maddox instituted a poll of sixty grade pupils. Today he announced that of 5,376 children questioned, 40 per cent. had never seen a sheep and 17 p had never looked upon a pig. Twelve children out of every hundred had never seen a cow.

the most ardent wisher of failure o the Government enterprise can not ook longer offer any excuse for his ad policy. We now in the 15th month of accuse why the consolidation as not when planned, but I am persuaded that in the very near future Sir Henry Thornton will be telling the overnment that the fusion must be ade.

Asking Ottawa the headquarters of he Canadian National Railways said Sir Henry, would mean the practical urrendering the surrender of the system to the politicians.

"If Sir Henry Thornton thinks otherwise he is a poor pupil and a bad observer of Canadian conditions," he continued, "politics of necessity dominate Ottawa. The great thing is not that this city or that city is made headquarters, but that the wisest man s selected which will give the very best opportunity for the success of the undertaking."

Discussing the relation of interests f the C. N. R. with those of the Canadi Pacific, Sir Henry Drayton said: "The est present that could be given Mr. eatty would be the selection of Otawa and the delivery of the whole eprise to the politicians, necessarily resulting in gigantic failure. The best best would be the selection of Montreal as the National headquarters. Once in Mr. Beatty's web, Sir Henry Thornton, a fly as he may be would be speedily digested. He was decide whether he comes to Canada s a man with executive administrative s the undertaker of a great system the repository of the hopes of a sanguine majority of Canadians.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor of The Belleville Intelligencer:—

It would seem to be almost an agreed thing in Ontario, at even Cabinets, as well as Great Britain, are asking up to the need of more thorough Bible knowledge among the young people of our day.

Now sir, if the study of Holy Writ could be carried out in the public schools of our country with unity of purpose, and controversy cast aside, much good would be accomplished and many difficulties would be overcome; but seemingly there is strong enough opposition to Scripture teaching in our public schools to compel each denomination to bear its own burden, and leave it to the young people the fundamentals of Scripture knowledge.

Granting the premises already stated, would it not be expedient to approach this great undertaking with some practical form of "Curriculum of Bible Study," covering specified work and attaining definite ends? The practical teaching of any such course should be more preferable than the tendency of grouping of children and the specialist of teaching among the young people's organizations obtaining in the churches today; the latter is more for instruction or such broad and varied conditions.

Such work would of necessity form part of Sunday school teaching, assisted from time to time by the pastor at the Sunday morning service, by so doing a great number of young people would be influenced and brought in contact with these Bible studies.

The outstanding need of such instruction and study is that Scripture is striking emphasized in a recent report on "The Reading of the Bible" by a committee appointed by the Board of Education, in England, and whose Chairman was no less than Sir Henry Newbolt, and associated with him were Sir Arthur Quiller Couch, Professor C. H. Pitt and others of equal excellence. In this report the following facts were made plain:

1. The Authorized Version of the Bible through translation from an Eastern original is a true part of England's literature, and under such unique thing in our literature—the most spiritually literary thing we inherit.

2. It is historically the book that has left a strong mark upon the mass of our literature.

3. At the present time the Bible is probably less widely read and less directly influential in our life and literature, than it has been at any time since the Reformation. (What a discomforting commentary.)

With his interesting data before us, equally true in Canada as in Great Britain, would it not be wise to compile a "Practical Course of Bible Study" for the young people of our land, with the requisites of church membership running through it?

A curriculum like this would above definitely what would have to be accomplished in each year's study, whether living in New Brunswick, Ontario or Alberta, and when completed certificates would be presented to all successful scholars bearing the signatures of the officers of their respective church course, i.e., Confederation, Presbytery, Conventional Synod, for each year's work.

Now when the whole "three years' course" has been completed, then a diploma bearing the names of the highest church dignitaries, would be presented to the successful candidate, together with a Discipline, Confession of Faith or Prayer Book, with all the solemnity and impressiveness worthy of such occasions; assuring at once a more intelligent church membership, and a people practically knowing the essentials of true religion; moreover these very people would have imbibed some lasting acquaintance with one of the richest works of literature to be found in the English language.

It would reasonably mean a hearty and continuous co-operation of home, church and Sunday school in an educational cause and incidentally it might contribute much in the preserving of the home life of our nation, which is so dangerously threatened in this age of invention and organization.

Such a task is worthy of our most earnest endeavor.

Yours truly,
THOMAS WICKETT.

Gland Operation Did Not Revive Kaiser

Means Are Reduced and is Living Under Unhappy Circumstances Since His Marriage

London, Jan. 27.—The correspondent of the Yorkshire Evening Post, writing to his paper from Doorn, says:

"In spite of elaborate efforts to hide its truth, I have discovered that the second marriage of the former German Emperor has been a complete failure, and that at the present moment he is living in one part of the castle, while his wife and her children are in another. I am told that a very few weeks sufficed to bring about the breakdown.

"Those who are near the ex-Kaiser have been struck by the grave alteration not only of his mood, but in his character. He is said to have been affected very unfortunately by the operation for gland transference he underwent before his second marriage. His own children have not forgiven him for the second marriage, and his step-children avoid him.

"His means are reduced, and his private expenditure strictly limited. He is living under most unhappy family conditions. He can command neither service, affection nor companionship, and the break down in his domestic arrangements is painfully apparent to the very few who visit him."

To Revise and Shorten Six of the Ten Commandments

Committee Makes Recommendations — The First, Sixth, Seventh and Eighth Left Unchanged

London, Jan. 27.—A movement has been launched to thus pencil the ten commandments.

Members of the churches of the National Assembly were presented Wednesday with a draft of the revised liturgy by the Ritual Revision Committee. The assembly is to debate the committee's recommendations at a convention next week and already there is much opposition in evidence. The Revision Committee advocates that six of the commandments be changed.

They are the 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 5th, 9th and 10th, and in their revised and curtailed form they would appear as follows:

2.—Thou salt not make unto thee any graven image, nor any likeness of anything that is in heaven above, or that is under the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth. Thou salt not bow down thyself to them, nor serve them.

3.—Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain.

4th.—Remember the Sabbath Day to keep it holy; six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work, but the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God.

5th.—Honor thy father and thy mother.

10th.—Thou shalt not bear false witness. .

7.—Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's house, thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's wife, nor his man servant, nor his maid servant, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor anything that is thy neighbor's.

SOCIAL, and PERSONAL

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Carter, Isabella street, a miscellaneous shower was held last evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. William Oliphant (nee Marguerite Green).

A number of young friends of the happy young couple were present and enjoyed themselves playing cards, dancing, and later also at refreshment hour.

Last evening, Mr. E. Gaw Porter and Mrs. Roger Porter together with invited guests went out to Mr. A. Gillen's farm, where a jolly campfire was burning to greet them. Refreshments were served and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

MRS. COFFMAN ILL SEVEN YEARS

Saved from an Operation by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Slidell, Ill.—"I was nervous wreck. I was suffering from a pain in my left side which was so severe at most unbearable, and I could not even let the bed clothes touch my body at night. I had been sick for seven years, but was afraid to have an operation that I knew would be the last slightest hope left me. Then I got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begged me to take it. I have taken fourteen bottles of it and I feel ten years younger. I can do my housework, do the washing and had a large garden this year. I tell my friends to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for it will do them good." —Mrs. Ida Coffman, R. R. 2, Slidell, Ill.

Could you ask for stronger proof? If you would rather have a woman's letter, you couldn't do any better. Write to her, and the doctors told you that an operation was necessary, they were mistaken. Don't submit to that, no matter what they say. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped more women than it could be counted, to escape operations, to go through the crisis of change of life, to go through it without help

Harter Hard on Baby

The winter season is a hard one on the baby. He is more or less confined to stuffy, badly ventilated rooms. It is so often stormy that the mother does not get him out in the fresh air as often as she should. He catches colds which rack his little system; his stomach and bowels get out of order and he becomes feverish, and cross. To guard against this the mother should keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house. They regulate the stomach and bowels and break up colds. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

COUNTY COUNCIL CONCLUDES SESSION

County Council Closes Session Saturday Afternoon

School Inspectors Get Increased Allowances—

Publicity Committee

Freight Rates on Wood—School Trustees Appointed—Will Appeal Clinton Case

FRIDAY AFTERNOON SESSION.

A considerable portion of Friday's afternoon session of the County Council was occupied in a discussion on a communication from Mr. G. D. Acworth, County Engineer, who complained that he had been unfairly treated and as he alleged, ignored by Mr. Moore, Chairman of the bridge committee.

Mr. Fox, superintendent of Roads and bridges, Mr. Peter McLaren assistant superintendent and a number of the Councillors took part in the discussion.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Moved by G. B. Airhart, seconded by Mr. S. B. Rollins, that this County Council after hearing, read the communication from the County Engineer for 1922, Mr. Aylsworth and then after hearing the discussion in defence of the investigation as laid out in the communication have come to the unanimous conclusion that the charges against Mr. Moore and Bridge Committee as laid out in the communication are mostly unfounded and we do find that the chairman and Bridge Committee have carried on the County Council's business in a very careful and satisfactory manner. We find no evidence of wilful misdemeanor on the part on the Chairman of bridges in any way, we wish to express to Mr. Moore our appreciation of his services as Chairman of Bridge Committee. As to the claims in the communication respecting the remuneration received by the Chairman of bridges we find the treasurer's report on the cost of committees for 1922 disproves any irregularities in the pay entered by Mr. Moore, the Chairman of the Bridge Committee for 1922.

A report was presented that the School Inspectors of the three inspectorates of the County should be allowed expenses as follows: East Hastings $420; Centre Hastings $420 and North Hastings $500 with $420 added to the inspector o North Hastings for 1922.

The report was adopted.

SATURDAY MORNING.

Moved by Mr. Clare, seconded by Mr. Richardson, that in future tenders and contract, entered into by any committee on behalf of the County be opened by the clerk and clerk keep record of the same, also that the clerk be present and keep record of committee meetings where there are any financial interests of the County are effected.—Carried.

After some discussion relative to the filling in and removing the old bridge on a road in Madoc Township, a motion prevailed that the matter be left in the hands of the G.T.R. authorities to deal with.

Moved by Mr. Wiggins, seconded by Mr. Dr. Embury, that a publicity committee composed of Messrs. McGuire, C. Ballard and the Warden be appointed relative to advertising the County.

Some of the members suggested that the Finance Committee should act in this matter and the above motion was amended to that effect.

Mr. S. Rollins spoke of something being done relative to getting better freight rates for the shipping of wood to Trenton or Belleville. The freight rates some years ago was $1.25 per cord, whereas at present it is $2.00 to $3.25 per cord to Belleville. At present it is almost prohibitive to ship wood. He hoped this matter would be taken up and considered.

The Council went into committee on the whole on Bylaws. Mr. Clare in the chair.

A Bylaw to borrow $235,000 to meet current expenditure was passed; A

Found Dead In His Home

Demise Had Taken Place Some Time Previous to Finding of Body—Heart Trouble and Exposure Caused Death

Mr. James Charlesworth, aged 81, a bachelor, who had been for some time living alone at Chisholm's Mills, Hastings County, was the latter part of last week found dead at his home and he had apparently been dead for some time. The body, we are informed, was frozen stiff when found. On Saturday Dr. Boyce, coroner, of this city, was called to the place and after an examination of the body gave a certificate that death was caused from heart trouble and exposure. An inquest was not considered necessary.

Deceased was a son of the late Mr. William Charlesworth, of England, but was born at Ivanhoe. For many years he had lived in Tyendinaga township, Two brothers, John and David, survive.

DANCING A GRAVE PROBLEM

Ottawa, Jan. 20.—A declaration in favor of dancing, provided it is hedged with proper protection for the youth by the proper public guards at dances, was made by the Right Rev. Felix Couturier, Bishop of Alexandria, addressing the Knights of Columbus here. Dancing was a problem that all must face. It was ruining lives and sending souls to hell because of the lack of proper protection, he declared.

FARMER MEMBERS' ROUGH PASSAGE

Edgar Watson, M.L.A. For North Victoria, Has Caused Disruption in Constituency

IS CHALLENGED

Former U.F.O. Companion Who Helped Elect Him, Turns Upon Him Publicly on Prohibition Issue

Mr. Edgar Watson, M.L.A. for North Victoria, and erstwhile, Baptist preacher at Fenelon Falls, Ont., is in "dutch" with a number of his U.F.O. constituents.

The mash contained in the trouble pot of public opinion, recently "worked" itself to a degree where the lid was blown off on Tuesday evening, Jan. 16.

Dissatisfied with the views and accomplishments of their parson "farmer" representative in the Provincial Government, in his work as Chairman of the Hotel and U.F.O. Investigation Committee, appointed by said Provincial Government, to investigate the condition of the standard Hotels of the Province, a U.F.O. club of at least one section of his constituency recently passed a resolution of disapproval of his suggestions and plans in this connection, and published the resolution of dissatisfaction in the Victoria "Post". The most unkindest cut of all however, was inflicted by Mr. Watson when he made a lengthy speech at Lindsay on Friday evening, January 12th, the occasion of the visit to that town, of Hon. Henry Mills, Minister of Mines. Two statements of that speech, sound like the knell of Mr. Watson's popularity, among his former champions.

STRONG STATEMENTS.

Speaking of the apparent degeneration of the bootlery business in the Province, Mr. Watson explained that the refusal of many people to associate themselves with any business using the name "hotel", on account of the former association of that word with "King Booze", contributed largely to the dissipation of the Standard Hotel service.

Mr. Doherty's Co-operative Schemes Rejected

Cheese Market Plan Not Approved in Some Sections Of Western Ontario

OXFORD SAYS NO

Four Factories Will Sell Product as Before—Object to Three-Year Clause in Contracts

Woodstock, Jan. 29.—The patrons of the different cheese factories in Oxford county are not unanimously behind Hon. Manning Doherty's proposed co-operative cheese marketing organization. At meetings of the patrons of Dunlop, Salford, Norman and Banner factories held during last week it was decided to turn down the proposition and continue marketing the cheese as formerly. A number of other factories are to meet during the coming week to consider the plan. The patrons in some of the factories are against signing up with the co-operative buying scheme on account of the three-year clause, which would eliminate competition, instead of staying in the open market and selling where they can get the highest price. According to reports received here a number of the factories in Middlesex county have also rejected the proposition.

Quebec Liquor Law to Stay Says Premier Taschereau

No Government at Ottawa Strong Enough to Dictate

Bids for Worker's Vote

Thinks Government Doing Splendidly—Profits From Liquor Sales go Into Public Treasury Instead of a Few Bootleggers

Sherbrooke, Jan. 29.—Speaking before a crowd of some three thousand people gathered at the Sherbrooke Rink, Hon. L. A. Taschereau, prime minister of Quebec, reviewed the legislation which had been enacted by the Government in favor of the laboring classes and made a strong appeal for the workingman's support.

Touching upon the decision of the Government to assume full control of all the provincial highways, Mr. Taschereau stated that this was founded only as a result of the large revenues derived from the Liquor Commission.

A comparison was made of the amounts spent in 1897 and in 1922 in connection with roads, agriculture, education, colonization, iron bridges, hospitals, etc. The debt of the province of Quebec was then at $33,000,000 as compared with $111,000,000 in the province of Ontario.

QUEBEC LIQUOR LAW.

Dealing with the liquor law, the Prime Minister remarked: "The whole American continent has been swept by a temperance wave, and, with the exception of British Columbia, there is not a province or state between Hudson Bay and the Mexican frontier where temperance laws are not in effect. An attempt was made to have temperance go into effect in this province, but Quebec like their liberty and do not want the Government to tell them whether they will have a drink or not.

"If the Government had not taken the step of controlling the liquor situation the federal Government would have interfered, but I am glad to say that there is no Government at Ottawa which is strong enough to dictate to us along these lines. Never has the power been of greater importance as it is today. Referring to federal statistics, we find that in Montreal there were 1,-200 arrests less than the previous year, in Quebec they average three arrests a day, in Three Rivers one, in Sherbrooke two, and so on."

After a slight interruption, the Premier dealt with the high cost of liquor, adding: "Liquor is dear, yes, it is very dear, but is is not our fault. When you compare prices today it is generally with those prevailing before the war, but since then the value of the liquor has doubled, because of the great up and many other items having a direct bearing on the ultimate cost to the consumer also. The tax to the federal Government is from $1 to $1.20 a bottle, and while last year, with all the troubles, the rise and the seizures, we made $4,000,000, the federal Government received the big sum of $8,000,-000 without incurring any risk or being involved, in any trouble. The profits last year were $7,000,000, and of the profits go into the public treasury instead of into the pockets of a select few. Today, I think the Government is doing splendidly, inasmuch as the larger portion of this surplus is being used for the advantage of the country at large."

SING SONG HELD AT Y.M.C.A. PARLORS

Two-Minute messages and a Happy Hour of Singing Last Evening

The second of a series of jolly sing songs, was held at the Y.M.C.A. last evening at 8.30 p.m., when an hour was spent in a very informal manner, about the piano in the "Y" parlors.

Two minute messages were given by Rev. W. P. Fletcher of Toronto, and Miss Bertha Kaine of Toronto. Mrs. Elizabeth Peter presided at the piano.

Next Sunday evening, the society will be under the auspices of the Tabernacle church, under the supervision of Mr. Cecil Lent, President.

AN ATTEMPT TO ASSAULT KING AND QUEEN

London, Jan. 29.—What is described by the Evening News as an attempt to assault King George was made to-day by a crippled ex-soldier when King George and Queen Mary arrived at St. Pancras Station from Sandringham this morning. The newspaper says that the soldier, who had been hiding, dashed towards the royal couple waving his crutch threateningly and had got to within a few yards of the King when he was stopped by the police. Other accounts by News Agencies described the incident merely as an attempt of a soldier to attract the King's attention, and the soldier himself placed this construction upon the affair.

Upon a vote being taken the major ity of the members present voted in favor of an appeal being made to the Supreme Court of Canada in the case of Dr. Clinkett vs. the County.

Mr. Chase spoke rather strongly in favor of the County appealing to the Supreme Court to get a test case.

Mr. Vermilyea was opposed to spending any more of the Count money in the matter.

Warden Walsh was of the opinion that the County would win in an appeal to the Supreme Court and he was in favour of it.

A motion prevailed that the Ward ns, County Clerk, C. W. Thompson Jrs. Haigerty and Jas. Moore be appointed to attend the Good Roads Association meeting at Trenton.

Farmer Members Rough Passage

Then come the crash. In speaking of the O.T.A. which designates all Standard Hotels, and dictates their regulations, Mr. Waiser stated that The O.T. A. was the most cantankerous piece of legislation on the Calendar, and that their Attorney General admitted that fact, if you please. Continuing, he stated that too rigid curtailment of personal freedom would be a popular measure in the province.

THE CHALLENGE.

The following Tuesday ever Mr. Watson was the chief and only speaker at a U. F. O meeting held at Woodville, 22 miles west of his home town, and they gave the member a merry ride. At the conclusion of his speech, he referred briefly to the O.T.A. and the Standard Hotels, and gave the angry fans an opening.

Steven Sweet, merchant in the town, arrived with a "Lindsay Post" containing the report of Mr. Watson's speech there, and referred from W. E. Raney, the Attorney General, opened the verbal barrage. The newspaper contained Watson's allegation that the Attorney General admitted that the O.T.A. was the most cantankerous act on the statutes. The letter contained the Attorney General's emphatic denial that he ever admitted such a thing, and further pointed out that while a trouble some act, it was a good act. "Any law that is passed for the purpose of suppressing evil is always unpopular and difficult to enforce", was the Attorney General's manner of explaining the working of his Ontario Temperance Act.

Mr. Watson looked up, then down, then straight at a good many faces and finally speaking he passed the buck on a pond on Scott's farm. The cross on the lower picture marks the spot where Scott fell.

MUSIC and DRAMA

DIVORCE EVIL DOMINATING THEA OF ETHEL BARRYMORE'S PHOTOPLAY "THE CRADLE"

Following the recent divorce of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Harvey, well known members of local society, comes the announcement that Dr. Harvey is to wed Lois Forbes, who was named by Mrs. Harvey in her divorce action, while Mrs. Harvey is to marry Lawrence Webster the well-known attorney who prior to her marriage to Dr. Harvey several years ago, was one of her warmest admirers.

According to the judicial decree granting Mr. Harvey her divorce, little Doris Harvey is to spend six months alternately with her father and mother. This child is said to be extremely precocious and students of the divorce problem will watch her future with interest. Will parental love for their child awaken memories of a once happy past and result in a reconciliation in the end?

The foregoing applies aptly to the story of Ethel Barrymore's latest Paramount picture, "The Cradle", which is the feature offering at Griffin's tonight and to Wednesday. This is a picture that provokes the question, "Is it fair to a child for a husband and wife to separate? Financial worries and too much mother-in-law, cause the husband, a young doctor, to yield to the charms of another woman—a wealthy daughter of the idle rich, A Divorce. The husband marries the other woman and the wife a lawyer who was a former admirer. Then follows many interesting incidents. Charles Meredith is leading man and lends an excellent supporting cast of players.

"The Reasonable" an amusing two-reel Mack Sennett comedy, "A Case of Identity" is the title of the Sherlock Holmes detective comedy, the third of the series, and each one a complete story. A Mutt and Jeff Cartoon comedy will be exhibited on the same program.

THE WOMAN HE MARRIED" NEW ANITA STEWART PICTURE

"The Woman He Married," a First National attraction starring Anita Stewart, will be the attraction at the Regent Theatre, where it opens in a three day engagement tonight with a matinee daily. The production has been considerable time wherever it has been shown as one of the most unusual pictures of the year.

The picture has an appeal that grips the heart and wins the sympathy of the spectator for the heroine, struggling against heavy odds for the sake of the love that fills her heart. Miss Anita Stewart gives the role of the artists' model an interpretation that characterizes her as one of the great screen actresses, and the supporting cast is fully adequate.

Fred Niblo, the creator of "The Three Musketeers," directed "The Woman He Married," and to his genius is due the clever handling of the story and the skill displayed in making it flawless.

Miss Stewart plays the part of Natalie Lane, a beautiful model, who resolves the advances of Philip Bruce, a famous artist, to whom all pretty women appeal. She marries Roderick Warren, son of a wealthy tobacco. Both love each other, passionately, but when Roderick's father tries to get his son to give up his wife, on the plea that she is below his station in life, the girl determines to fight for his love.

The manner in which she overcomes all odds, and in the end thwarts her father-in-law's opposition gives the story a "punch" that is interesting and thrilling.

An amusing Bamboo comedy, Carol Meyers and Wallace in the Third Chapter of the gripping adventure play "Breaking Through", and a novelty reel are being exhibited on the same program.

England Might Benefit by Eating Less of Former—Other Nations Eat Little Meat

London, Jan. 29.—Roast beef still deserves to be regarded as a typical English dish, according to information gathered by Dr. Josiah Oldfield. Dr. Oldfield thinks we would be better if we ate less of it, and more cereals, fruit, milk, butter and eggs. To show that people can thrive on vegetarian foods he has written 15 various cookbooks to find out what is eaten by the peasant classes in other countries. These are the replies he has received:

Australia: Stamina of the nation built up on a vegetarian basis.

Norway: Little meat eaten.

Portugal: Meat seldom eaten by poorer classes.

Russia: Meat consumption insignificant. Eggs, milk and butter the staple foods during the four lents (total fasting eighteen weeks), and one the two weekly fast days.

Rumania: Meat seldom eaten by peasant classes live on boiled beans and other vegetables.

DISTINGUISHED EDUCATIONIST ARRIVES IN CANADA

To Lecture on Literature From Coast to Coast

Montreal, Jan. 29.—Sir Henry Newbolt arrived at St. John today on board the Canadian Pacific steamer Marloch en route to the national lecturership on English literature. This lecturership system has as its object the uniting before the public of a constant source of information and inspiration concerning the wider aspects of education. A definite part of the program of the National Council of Education, its actual projection, has been made possible through the co-operation of the Canadian universities and the initiative and support of Sir Robert Falconer of Toronto and Sir Arthur Currie of McGill.

Sir Henry Newbolt is a distinguished poet author and educationist. He was chairman of the special committee created by the British Board of Education, which recently issued its report on "the teaching on English in England", a report of far reaching importance, because it deals with the relationship of the teaching of the mother tongue to the whole educational process and its purpose. Sir Henry Newbolt will tour Canada from coast to coast.

Premier Bracken of Manitoba promises a vote on the modification of the liquor laws.

G.T.R. Staff Team Beat Senators

Visitors From Capital Are Defeated by Local Hockey Squad by 4-2 Score

Members of the Grand Trunk staff here, on Saturday, entertained their fellow employees of Ottawa at hockey last Saturday. Both sports furnished a spirited, friendly rivalry. A good time was enjoyed by all and it is likely in the near future that the local teams will visit the Capital to try further conclusions.

The hockey match at the Arena proved to be fast and exciting from start to finish. Ottawas trotted out a lusty aggregation and had it not been for the heads-up checking and Charlie Baker's good work in goal, the score might have resulted with Ottawa on the long end.

Two periods only were played, and just what set by both teams was extra speedy. Most of the players had played badly when the final gong rang. About the middle of the last period after the locals had the score safely tucked away 3-0 the Ottawa team came back strong and clicked with a couple of fast in quick succession making the count 3-2. It looked then that they might do the trick, but Ottawa's attack was hard they could not put the tieing counter behind Baker. Just before the close Bowlen scored the locals' fourth goal leaving the finish 4-2 in favor of Belleville.

For Ottawa Johnston stood out well and played a nice game, while Manery a sub also showed some nice work. On the local team the whole forces all evening goes the credit for both of Ottawa's goals. He played a nice game and was closely watched by. With who played centre for the home team. He was easily the pick of Belleville, along with Sammy Seymour. The "kids" do to the fast pace all right. Lefty Williams on defence showed up well, and Bowlen on the right wing covered him excursions into the enemy territory, played a good on defence while Hall was on the ice. Substitutions which helped to slow up the attack.

The goal Baker put up a stellar game and saved the locals in fine style. The other members of the team were not far behind most of the outstanding players and it was a game worth watching.

Toots Holloway handled the ball, and only one penalty was handed out an Ottawa player doing the time.

The line-up was as follows:

Ottawa—Goal, W. Frith; Defence, R. Johnston, L. Sammon; Centre, A. Ray; Wings, A. Gray, H. Adams; Sub, H. Ashdown, H. Murray, Mc-Guire, R. Mahley.

Belleville—Goal, C. Baker, Defence Lefty Williams, H. McIlrath, Centre F. Weese; Wings, S. Symons, C. Grove Subs., H. Hurley, G. Bowlen.

Although the other games were more closely contested Belleville succeeded in taking three straight wins. Mubley was high man for Ottawa with 329 single and 552 three string.

SECOND GAME

For the occasion, Gerald Lynch and Dan Doran of Belleville joined the Senators to round out a team and Ottawa the locals in order that the game could be played. Some of the Ottawa Boys were attracted by the Belleville young ladies and desired to Asts. Weir feeling very tired after his games in Cornwall and against Shelburne have also won out. Tac Wiarton Redmen, now being coached by "Billy" Breen, of Toronto, are said to be exceptionally strong, and gossip has it that the winner of the Big Four group—likely Stratford—will just about meet Wiarton in the final. Of course that is a long step, but Bridge have won their group.

Stratford Have Edge

Stratford kept up their good pace in the Big Four group last Friday by defeating Galt right in Galt 8 to 6. At the same time Kitchener won at home 10 to 4 over Preston. Had Galt beaten Stratford it would have helped out Kitchener's chances. On Tuesday night Preston play at Stratford and the same teams play back in Preston on Friday Galt play at Kitchener. If Kitchener beat Galt and Preston take a fall out of Stratford it would help some At any rate here is the present standing:

Teams—	W.	L.	T.	F.	A.

Kitchener	6	4	0	40	24

PORT HOPE SWAMPED

Port Hope, Jan. 29.—The Oshawa intermediates won the championship of the district here tonight, when they defeated Port Hope by 12 to 2. The visitors displayed much better form and deserved their victory.

Oshawa(Goal, D. Smith; defense, Fair and Heffernan; centre, J. Smith; wings, Rowden and Lowe; subs, Blanchard and Oliver.

Port Hope—Goal, Mix; defense, Jex and Carter; centre, W. Hills; wings, Richards and A. Hills; subs., Crossette and Harwood.

Port Hopers Are Outclassed

Sandy Lockington Admits Oshawa Six are Clever, and Very Sportsmanlike— Wishes Them Luck in the O.H.A. Race

It is a bitter dose to swallow but those optimists from Oshawa handed it to us last night and to make sure we got it they held our noses and forced it down. They revealed how we made them take their medicine for the past two years and how we made the leader hand it to Kingston when they were trying to get it down. Reverse is sweet and Oshawa must be thirsty the way they enjoying it to the full. They deserved their victory; they were a faster team, better conditioned team and on the whole showed better class than the Ontarios. They have shown a great reversal of form since the opening of the season and with a little better defence work they would be a hard team to beat. The Oshawa boys outguessed the defence several times but their inaccuracy at shooting kept them from scoring during the game. Port there has been some hard jibes handed out by both towns, but it was never done in an unsportsmanlike manner; but rather to create an interest and that the object was accomplished was shown by the bumper crowd of both Oshawa and Port Hope. We have the most friendly feeling to the Oshawa team and in their future fights for the championship honors they will find Port Hope behind them to a man. When we can't do the job then our conquerors will always have our support. Here's hoping that Joe Welch's hospitality before will be observed by the old mug, emblematic of the intermediate O.H.A. championship.

WHAT TEAM WINS INTERMEDIATE O.H.A.

Friday night saw several group winners declared in the O.H.A., and with a few games remaining over until next week, the winners will soon start on the first round games.

Of course there are bound to be some group ties to play off, but as an ordinary thing the various groups are expected to declare a winner by the first of February. That, however, does not apply to the senior series, which carries on all February practically, and with a number of teams in the running, there should be plenty of good games.

Belleville and Oshawa

Down in the eastern section of the O.H.A. intermediate series. Belleville and Oshawa are pretty sure of being a part in the next round. In fact, Oshawa are sure, and Belleville can hardly be beaten. At Cornwall Friday night, Len Crooks, former Argo goalie, helped greatly for Belleville to defeat the hometeam 4 to 2 and by doing Belleville put the clamps on their group. Either Cornwall or Ridgetown Frontenacs will win here, which isn't likely. Frontenacs have improved since early season.

Oshawa Improved

The real surprise of the night was the victory of Ed. Donald's Oshawa team at Port Hope by 12 to 2. Now it was figured that the Ports had a grand chance to win on home ice, but that Oshawa, too, had a good chance to win, it was never figured the Ports would take by 10 to 2. Oshawa were always better, and there was no argument. They have gone through Kingston without any defeat, are well balanced, and will take some beating. At the first of the season, Port Hope were figured a cinch to the group. The Ports won it last season.

North Toronto have of course won their intermediate group and Victoria Presbyterian Church can hardly be counted from the top rung in the district circuit. Brampton are making a bold for honors with Guelph, and have already had both before them. Monday night at Milton. They must win or the group will go to Guelph. Woodstock are champions of Western and Shelburne have also won out. The Wiarton Redmen, now being coached by "Billy" Breen, of Toronto, are said to be exceptionally strong, and gossip has it that the winner of the Big Four group—likely Stratford—will just about meet Wiarton in the final. Of course that is a long step, but Bridge have won their group.

IRISHMEN WIN FROM HABITANTS

Clean Game Won 4-2 by St. Patricks at the Arena at the Time When it was Needed Too

St. Patrick's once again demonstrated that the leaders are their favorite opponents and on Saturday night they defeated the Canadiens by 4 goals to 2 in the opening game of the second half of the N.H.L. season. They had a considerable edge on the Frenchmen in the first two periods and in the final session with a four goal lead they eased up slightly and played safe. The losers scored two goals and tried hard for more in the last ten minutes, but the Irish presented a strong defence and were satisfied to check to lead.

With Dye out of the game the relief work fell to Randall alone and the utility man turned in the best game of the season. Several times he displayed great stick handling and it was only by the hardest of luck when on top of Venino that he failed to get at least two counters. The Montrealers tried to get his goal several times and he was subjected to a rough deal, but handled strictly to his knitting and was as effective as any other forward on the ice.

SUBMIT CONTRACTS TO TWENTY PLAYERS

Dan Howley is Making Ready for the Spring Opening on March 4th

Manager Dan Howley, Knotty Lee and Secretary Arthur Leuman finished on Saturday sending out contracts to some odd twenty ball players, who will go into camp about March 4 to prepare for the coming baseball season. But these twenty contracts do not represent the ball team the genial Dan expects to go through the season with. He has been promised only some twenty by major league clubs, also considerable help by Detroit, and it may be Manion, who is being held up by Mr. Grove via the waiver route. That of course will be known when the time of change along another receiver, also an outfielder. The Jays' roster at present is made up of eight pitchers, two catchers, six infielders, three outfielders, as follows:

Pitchers—Taylor, Reis, Eastman, of last season's team; Red Lynch, a welcome gift from New Jersey; Dick Gaillard who played with Jack Barry's indentynic; Summer from Bay City, Glaser from Port Huron; Sam Hyman and Schemanski from the Detroit American case.

Infielders—Eddie Onslow, Mike Gonsales and Harry Sunpp. The latter will probably be handed over to another club before the training season opens.

Albert College and Quinte Quad Play Tie Game

Slow and Listless Match Except for Occasional Rushes—Score 2-2

On Saturday evening the Albert College hockey team journeyed to the Arena to play their second game in the city league series. None expected to see the hockey that was seen just a week previous, as the College boys did not have the opposition to face, when they did upon that occasion, but the fans were expecting to see a better brand of hockey than that to which they were treated, in any the least, it was disappointing.

The puck was faced at 8.30 and the College boys for the first five minutes of play looked like real champions, they carried the play well, the combination and stick handling of the forward line was beautiful to watch, and then like useless ships in running to even matters they played listlessly and inconsistently during the entire game with the exception of the first few minutes at the opening and had it not been for the stellar game played by their goal tender, Corporal McMahon on the forward line there might have been a worse story to tell. Curry in goal for the Quinte boys turned in a nice game and stopped what seemed to be certain goals, but had Neville played his usual game he would have been an easy man to beat. Neville played his usual game for two periods, he managed, however to beat Curry twice, and it is a sure guess that had he been in proper form Curry would not have stood up under his terrific bombardment.

The right wing forward tried repeatedly to improve the score, but he was weak and lacked that condition and speed that usually characterizes him when following the puck he appeared to have difficulty in keeping upon his feet at times and he failed to display good chances to shoot, he can usually be depended upon to play his position well, but appeared to be off his form last night.

On the defence, Guthrie and Turnbull were, seemed to be playing individual games, in the game a week ago, their play was a success, and every player did the institute lads beat them, but in Saturday's game they were beaten without number. Terryberry refused to be drawn out and when there was any danger used his weight to good advantage but many times was all alone. Guthrie got away several times but was usual by beaten at short centre ice, and he was just this individual play on the part of all, that accounted for the several shattered rushes and allowed the loss to score but the method of procedure chosen upon proved to be very close.

Brown was given a couple of chances and promises to make good he is heavy, shoots nicely and with practice will become an efficient sure-handed scorer.

The rushes by McMahon and the brilliant saves by Nash were the only features of the game. He had a busy time to pass in Hurley, who tried to work him to the boards but succeeded only once, and that shortly after the first. It was a game at which two might play.

Nash is a real good tender, there being no element of luck in his saves, he has that best thing were from right in close, giving him no chance whatever of clearing.

Their promises to be an exciting race for the city league honors with Albert College and the Ontario School for the deaf, as the strongest contenders, for the championship. Undoubtedly there will be some real hockey dished up to the fans, that will indeed be worth watching.

Leo Barrett handled the game in a very capable manner and both teams were satisfied with his decisions.

THE PLAY

Albert had the first shot on the net which was handled nicely, but Neville came back again and shooting from outside registered the first counter 1-0.

SECOND PERIOD

Russel made some attempts, his range was excellent, but his shots were easily stopped, play now removed and through some fine team work combined with good stick handling Kerr bulged the twine, with two minutes to go. Cox secured the puck score and Albert was in possession at the close of play. The game ended 2-0.

Quinte Quad—Goal, Curry, Defence, Hurley, Cook; Centre Kerr; Wings Barker, Lawless.

Albert College—Goal, Nash; Defence, Terryberry, Guthrie; Centre Neville, Wings; McMahon, Russell; Sub, Brown.

Referee—Leo Barrett.

OLD BALL GAME CAUSES TROUBLE

His Honor Judge Ward and a jury heard the case of J. W. Roraback against S. J. Massie, a police constable of Belleville, arising out of collars damages received in a collision between Roraback's Bazon runabout and Massie's fire department McLaughlin car on the Port Hope-Peterboro highway on Friday, October 13th, the scene of the Belleville-Hillcrest playoff. The evidence of two constables showed that Massie had just been previously warned for over speeding, and that he was hogging the road. The jury brought in a verdict in favor of Roraback for $100 and costs. The amount of this claim while the counterclaim of Massie's for $1710 was dismissed.

MIDGET LEAGUE GAMES

Canadiens and Tigers Play Hockey Saturday Afternoon

Two teams of the Midget League provided an interesting hockey match on Saturday afternoon from 5 to 6 o'clock. The contesting teams were Canadians and Tigers. The former consist of the following players:

Midget League serves the purpose of developing young players, some of whom are destined to be in Junior City League next season. Leeback, Truesich and Barbers played for the Tigers, and Frenchmen, while Donahue Mullins and Kelly starred for the Bengals.

Harold Buskard refereed.

Belleville Ready For Frontenacs Tomorrow Night

Record Crowd Anticipated For Crucial Game— Bitter Rivalry

GROUP MAY BE TIED

Kingston Strong Team— Locals Will Be at Full Strength—H. Parlow To Referee

Belleville's ancient rivals, Kingston Frontenacs, visit Belleville tomorrow night for the second hockey match. For many years the Kingston game has found the local arena jammed to the doors and no doubt to-morrow night's game will not alter that record in the least. The Frontenacs are fighting with their backs to the wall and a loss will put them out of the running. The local, cannot afford to drop this game unless they are leading the group, there is still a chance that either Cornwall or Kingston may overtake them. Queen's play in Cornwall to-night and the factory town team visit Belleville to-morrow night. Kingston come to-morrow night and they play the University next Monday. Should Cornwall and Kingston win both these games, then the group will be tied up.

The Kingston fans are depending on Lloyd Brown to do the bulk of the work for Frontenacs. He was on a kick-about with Belleville played the time-stone city. The bitterest of rivalry has always prevailed between these two teams and certainly this year is no exception. Those fans who fail to witness to-morrow night's game will be missing the thrill of the season. Kingston are undoubtedly a strong team. McNeil is goal, Lloyd Brown and Hubert Peel, form the nucleus of a fast team. The locals still be at full strength and are now going at top speed from the Cornwall game. Harold Farlow of Toronto, will referee.

THE NEW COLLEGIATE

The fact that the County Council during its Saturday session refused to take action relative to the request of the Belleville Board of Education for assistance towards the construction of a new collegiate institute, will occasion considerable surprise and comment locally.

It is of course, recognized by everyone that expenditures of practically every sort, should be pared to the limit. Such undertaking as the proposed new bridge from Deseronto to the Prince Edward shore may well await a more opportune time, as such a structure is more or less a public convenience, but such a vital necessity as adequate collegiate accommodation for the education of the youth of the County, cannot be hastily dealt with or postponed.

The proportionment of per capita charges covering county pupils will have to be increased to meet existing costs and it is decidedly unfair that the city should expend corporation funds in the education of pupils resident in the County. Possibly a more equitable basis of distribution will be arrived at, and the County authorities may be induced at the June session to reconsider their decision.

Meanwhile the erection of a new collegiate is of paramount importance and construction plans should be proceeded with immediately. We cannot afford to lose government grants year after year and besides our children must be afforded adequate educational facilities.

FREIGHT RATES AND WESTERN COAL

This question of freight rates both by water and by rail, is of supreme importance to the people of Canada as the scarcely grain, but other necessary commodities come into the consideration.

When Sir Henry Thornton was speaking in Alberta recently, the coal producers there endeavored to obtain some definite promise of a revision of the railray freight rates, so that the enormous resources of the Western mines might be brought to the consumers of Eastern Canada. It was pointed out by these representatives that $50,000,000 of Canadian money went yearly into the pockets of the United States coal operators, and the argument was advanced, that with a reduction of carrying charges eastward, the fuel situation in that section would be considerably relieved and the supplying of Alberta coal, which is said to be a superior article. The question of national independence in the matter of fuel supplies is one which becomes more and more urgent and with the gradual exhaustion of the shipping United States Coal across the border together with the troublous labor situation at the mines there, should more deeply impress upon us the fact that ways and means must be discovered to assure adequate fuel supply for our factories and homes.

The Canadian Nationals are now operated by the people and if freight rates covering coal shipments were lowered considerably, and if shipments of carloads were made during the seasons of the year when car movement would not be required for the transportation of wheat, it would seem that Eastern Canada could take advantage of the resources of the Alberta coal fields. There are doubtless, many economic features inconnection with a cheaper coal freigh trate, which would not be practical in railroad operation, but an exception could be made even if a loss were incurred in the movement, which could be balanced up through other channels.

In the meantime while transportation charges remain what they are, both by water and land, there is little prospect of relief for Eastern Canada from Western sources.

There is much food for thought in the representations of the Western coal operators and Sir Henry Thornton would more firmly establish himself in the hearts of Easterners if he carefully investigate their proposals and take action.

THE WHEAT BOARD

During the Lanark election, Premier King claimed as a part of his work "The passing of legislation providing for the establishment of a wheat board." That his legislation was to be for the institution of a wheat board was known when it was conceived, and proven in practice. Now the Alberta farmers clearly show the failure of Mr King's legislation when they unanimously adopted this resolution:

"Whereas the present grain marketing system does not secure to the producer the full value of his wheat, and,

"Whereas there is a persistent demand by the farmers of the three prairie provinces for the establishment of a wheat board to handle the 1923 crop,

"Be it therefore resolved that we renew our demand for a Wheat Board with as nearly as possible the powers vested in the 1919 Board, and ask our Provincial Government to make every endeavor to co-operate with the Provincial Governments of Saskatchewan and Manitoba to that end; and we request our Federal members to put forth every effort to secure such legislation as may be necessary from the Dominion Government."

If Mr. King passed legislation to establish a wheat board, it was unworkable, for the west ern prairie did not get such a board, and are now urging action to permit them to accomplish this purpose.

HERE AND THERE

BRITAIN'S TINIEST RAILWAY.

The only railway station without a staff in England is the High Rocks station, between Tunbridge Wells and Groombridge. It has no station-master, booking-clerk, booking office, or waiting room. The trains serving it are worked by one engine, and the guard acts in the manifold capacity of a complete station staff.

But one need not go out of London to find stations run on almost similar lines, says an English writer. The Waterloo-City Railway, known to tens of thousands of business men, consists of two tormini, one at Waterloo, the other in the City, and at least a third of its length runs under the River Thames.

At neither station is there a station-master, porter, or ticket clerk, for you buy your ticket on the train as you do on a bus, and throw it away when you get to the other end.

There is a railway station in Derbyshire where trains stop only one day in the week to enable the inhabitants of the village of Blackwell Mill to go shopping to Buxton.

What claims to be the shortest passenger line in the world may be seen at Groudle, not far from Douglas, Isle of Man. It is only a mile long, and the guage is only two feet. It was made to convey passengers from the entrance to Groudle Glen to the seashore. The coaches looks like a toy, but is powerful and well made, and the open cars carry ten passengers.

The smallest fully working line is probably the Eskdale Railway, which runs over the seven miles which separate Ravenglass, on the west coast of Cumberland, from the foot of Schafell, the highest mountain in England.

If the engine fails to take the points and runs off the lines, passengers help the driver and guard to shift the body back on the metals as usual. This novel railway carries large quantities of goods as well as passengers, reducing the cost of road transport in a very difficult country by one-half.

SUSAN READS A ROMANCE

When Susan's work was done she'd sit
With one fat guttering candle lit,
And window opened wide to win
The sweet night air to enter in;
There, with a thumb to keep her place,
She'd read with stern and wrinkled face
Her mild eyes gliding very slow
Across the letters to and fro
While wagged the guttering candle flame,
In the wind that through the window came,

And sometime in the silence she
Would mumble a sentence audibly,
Or shake her head, as if to say,
"You silly souls, to act this way!"
And never a sound from night I'd hear,
Unless some far-off cock crowed clear;
Or her old shuffling thumb should turn
To another page; and rapt and stern,
Through her great glasses on me
She'd glance into reality;
And shake her round old silvery head,
With—"You!—I thought you was in bed!"
Only to tilt her book again,
And rooted in Romance remain.

PRESS OPINIONS

R. ON TRIAL.
(Vancouver Sun.)

Proportional representation is to be electrically tried in Vancouver if sufficient signatures are attached to a petition that is now in circulation.

Vancouver's experience with P. R. has not been happy.

The system lacks color. It stultifies the popular imagination.

Few electors understand it. More than 20 per cent. of the ballots cast at last civic election were spoiled. Electors did not vote at all, with the result that out of a population of 117,000 only 43,000 voted.

Difficult, at explanation, the system leaves too much power in the hands of the election man in charge of counting the ballots.

And the supreme folly of all was apparent, at the first election, in the sleepless arithmetical orgy of many hours, deputy returning officers at the end of the count, had to manipulate in the same order as they were according to the first straight count.

P. R. does scant justice to the mental attitude of the electorate that is typified in the action of the puzzled old man in charge of counting the ballots.

BOOK REVIEW

By PERSEUS

NEW AND POPULAR FICTION

"BLACK OXEN"—Gertrude Atherton.

A well written story of the manipulated passing of New York society life. The author treats somewhat elaborately of the varying grades taking as her standard the rigid and relaxing stern principles of the Victorian era. The contrasts between the thoughtful extremely up-to-date "petting parties", telling of the "debutantes" who are truds in speech and manners, with the days when the use of cosmetics and half drunk, having a riotous time trying to enjoy life as they knew it. The several grades of social sets dealt with adds a piquant charm to the book and if makes excellent use of the re actions of different types of human nature and unfolds interesting comments upon contemporary manners and theories.

"PREADVENTURE"—Robt. Keable.

The sequel to Simon Called Peter" and "The Mother of All Living" writes another, but not quite so successful, story in "Preadventure." His many readers who took so much delight in reading his late success will be disappointed in his latest book. Theology enters into it and a superficiality predominates throughout that makes the book rather very uninteresting. No one cares about his theories of religions as expounded in his book, and the one or two love affairs entering into the story do not free the work from its hollow feeling.

"MY LADIES' BARGAIN"—Elisabeth Hope.

The setting of this book is laid in England during Cromwell's period and describes in detail and somewhat elaborately the love affair of Mary Williams with a Royalist lady of high standing. The book has many flaws, when giving it a historical and literary view, but the charming manner in which the story of Peter is woven into the book makes it a pleasant, appealing book.

"MAN'S COUNTRY"—Peter Clark Macfarlane.

In this book Mr. Macfarlane speaks straight out—he hits straight from the shoulder. He doesn't beat the words and ideas in the least but lets the reader have them pointblank and then proceeds to the ragged edges and clean up any pent up emotions of distress that he has left behind. The story is about a young man who is so immersed in his business that he cannot pay as much attention to his young bride as he should. She asks, "Did I marry a man—or a business?" It is the heartbreaking tale of a high-souled young business man who owns a great business and marries a social butterfly of the conventional fiction type.

"THE SHADOW ON THE GLASS"—Jean Webster.

The mystery story where the train of events is told by a personal friend of the principal actor in the drama who seems to be finding favor with many of the writers of that class of fiction of late. Considered as a mystery tale this thriller let his imagination roam at random, and the well written story contains many interesting, swift-moving and entertaining events follows, as of course

"THE MAN WHO SAVED FOR A REAL thrill will find it here, but the book does not belong to the same type that "Dracula" and "The Beetle" and "The Morgue" and Sherlock Holmes does, in being a solution obtained by the reader, before the denouement of the great master mind. The end can be seen too readily, the solution too plain.

"THE STEP ON THE STAIR"—Green.

A mystery story that will hold the reader's attention until he has reached the end. The book is of the same high standard as the author's other electrical usage, posterity will enjoy the full benefit. Many incredulous people scorned Sir Adam Beck's prediction, when the Hydro Electrical Commission embarked upon the Chippewa development, that within ten years the people would be clamoring for more power than that colossal enterprise could deliver. That development is not yet complete, and yet every power-user of energy is in demand before it is generated; and already the commission is planning vaster enterprises.

TEN YEARS HENCE WHAT?

In the coal shortage this winter electricity is doing much to replace coal for household purposes and cooking. It is difficult even now to find a home that has not its electrical range or hot plate for cooking, and its heater to supplement the coal supply. Such usage will become more general as greater efficiency and economy is attained in electrical household appliances. The next generation of citizens may be pretty well freed if not entirely delivered from the thraldom of coal shortages.

coverys, appalling novels of mystery. It will keep the reader guessing until the climax is reached as many side issues are quick and irrelevant incidents which partly obscure the mind of the reader and get him all the more perplexed.

"THE PAINTED TOWER"—Vance Thompson.

Another mystery story that has numerous dark twistings and turnings that keep the suspense of the reader at a high pitch. The book opens with a shocking catastrophe and then leads up to the events which precede and follow it and which finally gives the solution in no mean way, where the innocent stand exonerated after being wrongfully accused and the guilty receive the punishment that is rightfully theirs.

"HOW JUDGE HIGGINS"—James L. Ford.

A cheery tale of harrowing events. A story well told of gamblers' dens, crooks and human derelicts of the lower wards of New York city.

"MODERN AUCTION; 2023"—Grace Denny Goldsmith.

A new and thoroughly revised edition of an authoritative book on the subject. This is the 42nd edition of the book.

"THE BRIGHT SHAWL"—Joseph Hergesheimer.

The scheme of this book wrote "Cytherea", which has been selected by Buch Walpole as one of the six best American novels of the year. It follows this remarkable achievement in his present book. His style is unique, combining a touch of both Henry James and a Joseph Conrad. "THE CAPTIVE HERD"—G. Murray Atkin.

"TUMBLEWEEDS"—Hal. G. Evarts.

An epic novel of vast importance. It more nearly approaches in excellence A story of the great Crooke Run of 1893 where a wild and unsettled region was transformed into a peaceful, law-abiding country over night. "MAN AND THE TWO WORLDS"—Dix & Ballinger.

A philosophical treatise of religious as carefully studied by these two men of letters. They bring their many opinions of the "Lawman's Idea of God." "REPELLING ALL ARMIES"—Arthur Land YARD"—Sir Basil Thomson.

The man who so recently tells us in his press and conference of his war experiences as head of that great detective bureau, Scotland Yard, narrates in a free, easy style some of his amazingly interesting experiences.

"NIGGER"—Clement Wood.

A novel of great literary worth that shocks the reader with its honesty and significance. One of the highest literary books of value of the year.

"THE SEVEN AGES OF WOMAN"—Compton Mackenzie.

The author gives as a book that will be read as widely by the men as by the women. It tells in 1600 the life of a woman into seven periods and ideals with each one with an interesting variety. A real good book written about the eternal feminine.

"THE LIFE OF SIR ROBERT MORRAY"—Alexander Robertson.

The life of a soldier, statesman and courtier who lived from 1608 to 1673. A very complete and interesting story of a varied life.

"ENGLISH GODS"—AND HEROES"—Barnett.

A series of studies of the many religions and gods which the writer has considered and this last makes the book quite complete and explains a great deal that everyone with an authentic work of reference.

As two men were walking along the street, one man said: "What do you do in business?"

Second Man—"I'm a life-saving soap-seller."

Second Man—"I'd throw in a bar of soap and wash her back."

FOR U.F.O. LADIES

IS THE WORLD OVER ORGANIZED?

Alleged That Women Have to Attend so Many Meetings, They Never Find Time to Practice What They Hear Preached

Does anyone remember a front page story about a meeting of the U. F. O. ladies when that party came into office only four years ago? It was in the U. F. O.'s daily official organ, so it must have been true!

According to this story the U. F. O. ladies declared that they were going to "go home" and that a shorter and better week all that U.F.O. stood for, which even to pass Parliament.

But there just must be some frivolous germ or other in the air around Parliament Buildings. Here is what the U.F.O. Cabinet ladies were at their fourth appointment since: Mrs. Drury very odd blue charmeuse veiled in rich French lace with large black hat wreath of a million plume that fell to her shoulder; Mrs. W. E. Raney was in grey chiffon and lace with big grey hat with French flowers and carried a muff. Mrs. Manning Doherty was in dark blue Russian embroidered in steel beads with big sleeves lined with grey duvetyn, grey suede shoes and big grey velvet hat with touches of blue. Mrs. Biggs was in black velvet with sleeves of bright blue chiffon. Mrs. H. C. Nixon with blue velvet gown with small bolero of crepe and black hat. Mrs. H. C. Mills, handsome gown of nigger brown broadcloth velvet over nugget colored with brown velvet hat. Mrs. Peter Smith had blue beaded georgette with jade velvet hat. Mrs. Robertson from Parliament - wore a grey chiffon velvet gown trimmed at the wide sleeves in with amethyst, and grey hat with shaded amethyst, pearl and amethyst ornaments, and shoes to match. Mother Hen!

Though the vogue for black velvet and dark browns made the floor of the hall look somewhat as though it was a rags for jades and reds and flame millinery helped to make it gay. Now that afternoon dress is the order of the day spring hats at the opening show steal a march on Easter. Many of the new horsehair models were trimmed with and feathers of all sorts remain a favorite trimming and the ever-colored flowers hangings were seen on some hats models. A woman noted for her smart toilettes was in black velvet and crimson with black hat with sweeping crimson plumes at the back. Another modish woman had the attitude of black and the had the effect of an exquisite grouch mouse.

Particularly effective were the costumes of the three Governesses House ladies. Mrs. Cockshutt's brown costume was the last word from Paris, of dark brown velvet, the long bodice of brown and gold embroidered net had the coat of steel effect. With it she wore a brown velvet hat with sweeping plume across the crown and a fisher sable neckpiece and muff. Mrs. Sinclair hosiery completed a striking costume. Miss Cockshutt was in grey georgette with black hat and cross fox scarf and wore grey hosiery with black shoes. Miss Margaret Cockshutt was in robin's egg blue with bead embroideries, a small black hat and white fox fur.

ONE OF THE LARGEST ORGANIZED?

One of the feminine speakers at the recent Washington Labor conference actually referred to herself and others as "we professional delegates to meetings!" Many of the women spoke of it afterwards and said they often felt like that.

I'm beginning to feel that life is just one meeting after another, and one white-haired woman. "We all spend so much time going to these meetings that we don't seem to have any time to put into practice the things we hear about.

Another feminine femora woman editor in a speech at that conference said: "It seems to me there's a danger in organization becoming so big they don't function!"

"We're getting too lazy as individuals," said another. "This motor car has got us out of the way of being self-starters. We seem afraid to do anything of ourselves any more. We've all developed into somebody. So we all join organizations to get something done and then we spend most of our time sitting in the audience, asking about the things we should do, but no one seems to have the time to do it!"

Well, anyway, a true word said in jest, according to a proverb familiar in every land and language. We have a suspicion that the politician should be the man who had no time to attend to his business because he took so much time to look after the business system, prescribed for him by an efficiency expert. Now that joke has classification. "A production expert" tells us that over-organization is the prevailing flaw in American industry. In the words of the reactionary expert quoted: "We see many cases where there is so much organization that there is no one left to do the work." An industry so manned may be described as being "all dressed up and no place to go."

"One of our most highly accredited 'industrial engineers' has observed that there is great danger in an organization chart—someone might mistake it for an organization." There probably no small number of business men, whose experiences is that after confiding their organization to experts, they discovered that the fixed system instead of running the business was running away with it and was on the threshold of a consulting efficiency era!"

It is usually the girl who never has proposal who boasts of having jilted a number of men.

LEARNING NEW TRICKS.

Do you remember when you were learning to ride a horse how tired you became?

Perhaps it was learning to dance or to ride a bicycle, and how easy that same thing became in a short time.

Why did it become so much easier? Well, when you were learning to ride the horse, you had to obey the instructions—body erect, lines in a certain position in left hand, right hand at side, knees pressed into the side of the horse and so forth. Similarly with the dancing and cycling. In other words not only using your body but your brain also throughout and so physiologists tell us that where the brain enters into an exercise fatigue comes sooner.

Just as soon as you know how to ride the horse or bicycle, or to dance then you can do those things for almost hours at a time. Why? Simply because the brain is not used any more, all the work being done automatically. The gray matter of your brain is not disturbed in any way, so that there is not the tired mental feeling either.

Before this principle was understood it was very puzzling to physiologists as to how people effected with Chorea or St. Vitus Dance were able to undergo all the movements to which their bodies were subjected.

One scientist answered to follow with his own body all the movements of a Chorcic patient. He found himself exhausted in a few minutes. Why was he exhausted? Because he had to study every movement, and then exercise it with that of his body.

The Chorcic performs all his diverse motions unconsciously and it thus enabled to do them all day long without fatigue.

Now, what is the lesson? Do not attempt to learn how to do anything any kind when you are tired mentally.

Light exercise and simple games are indicated when tired mentally.

LINKED LIVES

By

D. Kinmount Roy

"I hope your expectations may be realized! Pottinger answered as he peered in the darkness at every object near them. 'Listen!' he said. The stillness was broken, as he spoke, by a piteous, and then another, a wounded animal, and presently by voices, for others, like themselves, were searching for friends, not knowing how they might find them. Another faint whinny guided them to the spot—yes, it was the sorrel, cruelly wounded and dying, and Hardcastle near by, apparently dead, with a French colour in his grasp, and the colour-bearer dead by his side him.

Pottinger raised him tenderly in his arms, and tried to get a little brandy between the clenched teeth. It was useless, but the effort roused the dying man, like one falling asleep being called back a moment from the land of forgetfulness. In the uncertain light, it seemed as though his eyes opened wide in wonder, as if he were about to a speak, but speech and thought I all alike passed from him to another state of being. Whatever complaint or protest he might have made against the hardness of his fate or his lot remained unspoken. Taken all in all, it was a brave ending to a brief and stormy career, and perhaps not all others he would have chosen, had the choice been offered him, under the cited circumstances, to live his life.

Be that as it may, the calm look of content which made beautiful his face in death was also spoken of by those who saw him reverently laid to rest, with other brave men, on the field of Waterloo.

But all this belongs to a far-past time, and the hand of nature for whole generations has healed the scar, and the grass with the best blood of many nations, into smiling and fruitful fields; even the wild flowers, in praise especially, growing in their most serene loveliness where once man's wrath wrought terror and desolation.

News travelled slowly in those days as compared with our own; and life pervaded the whole land, in the very ignorance of the blight which had fallen upon the hopes of the Squire in the death of his son.

That a great battle was imminent all the world knew; that would be decided great issues for many years to come; and thousands of homes waited with trembling hope for Wellington's despatch. MacAlpin, like others, was uneasy, for the hush and tension was felt everywhere; and Alan Graham had even ceased to discourse on the proper tactics of battle, and waited with stern composure for the great event. When the battle-psalms of David were sung in the kirk, the old soldier seemed to grow visibly larger. 'Let God arise,' and let His enemies be scattered!' was an unfailing inspiration, and Janet, possessing her soul in patience, waited and in former times, would croon softly to herself the familiar words:

"Kings of great armies failed were,
And forced to flee away,
And women who remained as house
Did distribut the prey.'

MacAlpin had fallen into the habit, on these long summer days, of taking his crippled boy out in the early morning to hear and see the birds in their own haunts, and watch the shy wild creatures at play. But however early they were, old Martin, the aged keeper of Fosseray, was out before them, adding in his accustomed zeal, 'taking,' as he said 'the morning air.' His son reigned in his stead, and knew all matters of the place, but the old man's interest in all things was as keen as ever. He had come to Fosseray with Reginald's mother, and his devotion to her son never failed: his great sorrow was that no son of his had gone to the wars to look after the son of his dead mistress. It was a misfortune which he often deplored.

The day was glorious, and the grey turrets of Fosseray rose clear and handsome against the morning sky, flecked with the magnificence of the dawn behind and already gemmed with a thousand changes of exquisite colouring.

'Father! father!' Sandy said, in a startled whisper, 'the flag is not flying at Fosseray this morn. Has it broken down, father?'

Donald looked, and pulling off his bonnet, stood uncovered, gazing at the great tower, and the half-masted flag, hanging limp in the stillness of the newborn day.

'Has it broken down?' the boy still asked.

'No laddie, it has not exactly broken down in a way, and yet there is a sad trouble somewhere, for assuredly Mac-Alpin spoke slowly, moved by many conflicting thoughts. 'The flag has been hoisted half way on purpose, laddie, because someone is dead.'

'But who is dead?' the boy asked. 'Can you not tell, father?'

'Dead!' the boy echoed to himself, with great awe. His thoughts of Fosseray had never been associated with death; the great house was the type of the things that lived and continued always. 'Dead!' he said aloud, 'who could die at Fosseray, father?'

'Anyone, laddie,' Donald answered gently, 'may be the. Squire—may be Master Reginald, who is away, fighting for the king! But let us go on, and ask old Martin.'

The old man was in his usual place, but oddly-looking. He was erect, and was himself to and fro, muttering in misery.

'Yes, yes, Mister,' the old man mild; 'the young Squire is dead—killed in a great battle, and the Squire is away, and the great house is empty and desolate—empty and desolate! Master Reginald was all his father left, all he had! He lived for him, and for his great wealth, and the honour, and respect and devotion he had always had, and soon, dead and gone! Old Martin has known him since he was a little boy, and he was always a favourite with the young Squire. Yes, I am an old man, and the little Squire is dead and gone, dead and gone! Most like there will be changes, yes, there will be changes! That is what death does for the living. It makes changes, changes! But that is naught now, I am an old man, and Master Reginald, the young Squire, is dead and gone, dead and gone!'

SHORT STORIES FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

The 'Twins' Tonsils

The twins planned a neat little trick by pretending the wrong one was sick. Then mother found out.

Tonsils are a nuisance about

And ended their schemes pretty quick.

They looked so much alike that even their mother sometimes got them mixed. What one did the other always did, and what one had the other always had. That is, what it should not the tonsilitis.

Doctor Bell Wighted, and then Mrs. Bell Wighted Joe gave Don a new five-dollar bill for being sick, he felt slighted still. But the climax came when the doctor said that Donald would have to have his tonsils out as soon as he was well enough.

"I don't want to," complained Donald. "It'll hurt."

"Aw shucks! It won't hurt. I will if it was me. I'd like to have mine out!" boasted Douglas.

"I wish it was you, too," Donald replied unselfishly. "Say, Doug, I have it. If you want your tonsils out so bad why don't you go in place of me? The doctor would never know the difference."

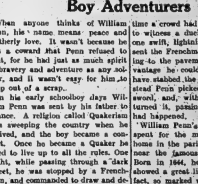
Douglas had not expected this. "But mother would," he said.

"We could work up some way so she wouldn't go along. Come on! Let's!"

You know you want to have yours out."

It occurred to Douglas that Donald was almost too eager. He would have to think. "Well, what will you give me?" he asked.

"I'll give you that five-dollar bill that Doctor Bell gave me," Don offered. This was more of a temptation than Doug could stand.



Luck was with the boys, Mrs. Ferguson was nervous to go with them, said. He was sent with the nurse, who was quite blank in admitting that Donald was not. Which was which, she could not tell.

"Well, well, you look better already," greeted the doctor. "This isn't going to be as bad as I thought. Climb up there and let's have a look."

He thrust what looked like a shoehorn into the boy's mouth. "Great! Both! I must be dreaming," he said.

Just then the door burst open and a very white mother rushed in dragging a second boy. "Oh, you haven't done it, have you?" she gasped. "You've got the wrong one!"

And Douglas dragged from the operating room Donald set up a loud wail. "He's got to give me my two dollars first," he howled.

Boy Adventurers

When anyone thinks of William Penn, of his name means peace and brotherly love. It wasn't because he was a coward that Penn refused to fight. He had just as much spirit and of bravery and adventure as any soldier, and it wasn't easy for him to keep out of a scrap.

In his early schoolboy days William Penn was sent by his father to France. A religious called quakerism was sweeping the country when he arrived, and the boy became a convert. Once he became a Quaker he tried to live up to all the rules. One night, while passing through a dark street, he was stopped by a French man, and commanded to draw and defend himself. He asked what offense had been given. The Frenchman protested that in passing Penn he had saluted him by lifting his hat and bowing. Penn, he claimed, had refused all this politeness with contempt. In vain the young Englishman declared he had not seen him. The Frenchman would hear no reason, but instead said he would "cut him down."

At this insult all the blood in Penn's veins boiled, and he let loose his principles against fighting. If a flash he drew his sword. By this time a crowd had gathered, expecting to witness a duel to death. But in one swift, lightning-like stroke Penn sent the Frenchman's weapon clattering to the pavement. With like advantage he could, of course, easily have stabbed the Frenchman, but instead he picked up his opponent's sword, and, with a polite bow, returned it, passing on as if nothing had happened.

William Penn's boyhood days were spent for the most part about his home in the parish of St. Catherine near the famous Tower of London. Born in 1644, he early in his life showed a great liking for the sea. In fact, so marked was this inclination, that at the age of ten he was placed on one of his father's ships—a Mediterranean trader—and in five years he was considered a capable seaman. He succeeded so rapidly that at the age of twenty-one he was made captain in the Royal English Navy—the youngest captain that the English Fleet has ever boasted, even up to the present day.

What made Penn famous, however, was his settling and founding of the city of Philadelphia, which was developed through his admirable ability he make friends with the Indians.

THE WHEAT MARKET.

To a large extent the course of the wheat market reflected developments touching Germany's ability to obtain funds for the importation of foodstuffs. Prices were weak most of the time, but were rallying at the last.

The close on Saturday was unsettled as the net decline to a like advance, with May $1.17¾ to $1.17¼ and July $1.15-8 to $1.13-4. Corn gained 5c to 5c; oats finished a shade off to 5c up and provisions unchanged to 12c lower.

Downturns in the price of wheat began at the opening, with sellers taking advantage of a statement Secretary Hoover made suggesting that French occupation of the Ruhr was likely to diminish the purchasing power of Germany and to bring about curtailment of wheat exports from the United States. Rainy weather in the domestic winter wheat belt, especially Kansas, and Oklahoma, tended further to make values decline, and so, likewise, did word of heavy exports from competing countries, indicating that world shipments this week would total as much as 150,000,000 bushels.

On the other hand, gossip that Germany was feeling out American interests as the prospects of the financial aid in obtaining American foodstuffs, gave the bull side of the wheat market some renewal of courage during the final hour of trading. Closing out spreads between Chicago and Winnipeg, with the buying being done here, counted also as a price uplifting to finish.

Corn and oats rallied with wheat and as a result of news that contrary to earlier despatches, the Argentine corn crop outlook was still adverse, no moisture having been reported except light showers.

INDUSTRIAL ALCOHOL OFF 1-8 IN LIGHT TRADING

Industrial Alcohol was off ⅛ to 12⅞ in the light trading in the unlisted department of the Montreal Stock Exchange yesterday.

MINING COMMENT

Nipissing Starts Year with Aggressive Operations.

The Nipissing Mining Company is starting out the current year's operations on a scale that offers promise of the production being well maintained.

A force of 200 men, together with fifteen machines are engaged on this leasing silver mine of Canada, while of a total of over 200 tons of rock are being handled every twenty-four hours, approximately 250 tons are being sent through the mill.

Although the Nipissing has shown a desire for the past several years to secure additional mining property with prospects of perpetuating the profitable existence of the organization, the company has no new property in this country under exploration at the present time, but has a long and prosperous life ahead on its Cobalt properties.

PROFESSIONAL OPERATIONS

Transactions on the Stock Exchange today were not much above the daily average of the last inactive week, and nearly one-fourth of the total business was in half a dozen industrial shares, evidently reflecting the energies of a few groups of professional speculators. The bond market was generally steady, but the French Republic bonds went lower. Thus far these bonds have shown more sensitiveness to the "Ruhr rumors," and the pessimistic predictions than anything else in the market.

WINTER CRUISES

BRITISH LABOR WANTS EARLY DISCUSSION

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

London, Jan. 29.—The parliamentary Labor Party today decided to ask Prime Minister Bonar Law to convoke parliament earlier than February 13, the date set for its reassembly, in order to give consideration to the situation which has arisen in the Ruhr Valley in consequence of the French occupation. The decision was taken at a meeting held under chairmanship of J. Ramsay MacDonald.

Above are shown the officers of a London branch of the Order of the Crusaders, a British secret society which has been likened to the Ku Klux Klan.

ROTARIANS HEAR FINE REPORT

means confined to Rotarians. The Association known as the Ontario Association for Crippled Children was formed one year ago in Western Ontario, and this was the initial convention of the Association under this name. The delegates promised their entire and whole-hearted assistance to the movement, and the clubs of the United States are into the project 100%.

Charlie explained that in the U.S.A. there are as many as 300,000 crippled children, 50% of which number can be totally cured, and 90% of which number can be greatly assisted. Mr. Edgar Allen, of Ohio State, was one of the speakers at the convention. Mr. Allen is President of the International Society for Crippled Children, and has devoted the whole of his life to this work. Mr. Allen accepted an invitation to visit this city and address the local club on this subject.

What is required is first, Financial assistance, secondly medical assistance, and thirdly the "personal touch" influence. Dr. Smith, of Hamilton, gave a report of the excellent work which is and has been accomplished. The cooperation of doctors, hospitals and the Shriner's in this connection has been wonderful.

The case of a local boy who was recently operated upon in a Toronto Hospital and who will soon return to this city, and walk with out even a cane was cited as an example of the work done. This boy was a cripple formerly.

Bill Seward reported that owing to counter attractions, the Indoor night at the club would have to be laid over for an indefinite period.

Mr. Paul Labonde, well known by reason of his connection, in bygone years, with the minstrel show business, will co-operate and work with the committee of Rotarians, who are making preparations for the big Minister Minstrel show which will be put on by the Belleville Rotary Club, it said of the local Cripple Children's Fund, in the near future.

This was officially announced at the Rotary club meeting Monday, by Rotarian Charlie Dolan, who is in charge of operations. Charlie says that the show will be the biggest and best ever here in 25 years, as the club have signed up some five or six of Belleville's best soloists to assist the brass rock exponents with their work. "Charlie" solicited the whole hearted co-operation, and undying energies of the dies wheel boy, so that the show would be a howling success; firstly as an entertainment, and of course as a financial undertaking.

Seeing the worthiness of the cause, all that can be said to "Charlie" and his co-workers is "more power to your elbow."

CHURCH NO PLACE FOR FOX TROT MUSIC

When They Play Jazz, This Church Organist is Not "There"

Toronto, Jan. 29.—Because he refuses to play "religious ragtime" T. Morley Harvey, organist and choirmaster of Parkdale Methodist church, Dunn avenue, has resigned that position.

"Fox trots may be all right in their place, but their place is not in a service to the worship of God," says Mr. Harvey, and he holds that much of the music and the songs used in connection with the recent revival meetings in Parkdale church were just so much jazz.

RETIRING FROM SERVICE.

After having been for 48 years continuously engaged in railway service, Thomas Stack, section foreman for the Grand Trunk Railway at Mallorytown and one of the veteran employees of the sixth district, will retire on pension at the close of this month. Mr. Stack entered the service as a trackman on May 1, 1875, was promoted to be foreman at Mallorytown on May 1, 1883, and to be roadmaster at Richmond, Que., in 1885. Three years later he resumed duty as section foreman at Mallorytown, where he has since remained.

COST OF ADVERTISING

Questions Are Being Asked By Members of House

And now it is stated that the Province of Ontario Savings Office advertising is being handled by a firm with which W. M. Chisholm, a brother-in-law of Hon. H. C. Hocken, is connected. It is said that some $50,000 has been spent in advertising, but J. M. Govenlock intends to find out definitely, and is asking for returns showing the amounts paid through various agencies.

HOW FRANCE WAS USED BY GERMANY

A Short Review of the Terms of the Bismarckian Treaty of 1870 Under the Burden of Which France Groaned

In view of the 1923 action of France in occupying the Ruhr to enforce the payment by Germany of stipulated war indemnities, it will be of interest to intelligencer readers to recall the 1871 terms demanded by Bismarck from Thiers, and subsequently embodied in the treaty of Frankfort, which terminated the Franco-Prussian war.

The relative value of monetary indemnities over half a century ago and now should, of course be recognized in any comparison, while it will be noted that under the terms of victorious Germany in 1871, France was required to maintain and could submit to her conqueror's troops of occupation until her penalties were paid in full.

The Bismarckian terms were as follows:

The cession by France of Lorraine and of Alsace.

The payment by France of five milliards (5,000,000,000 of francs as the indemnity—one milliard in 1871 and the balance in installments extending over three years.

The evacuation of French territory by German troops to begin upon the ratification of the treaty as regards Paris and some western departments, the rest of the country to be evacuated gradually as the indemnity was paid.

German troops of occupation to be maintained at the cost of France.

In habitants of the annexed territories to be allowed to choose between the two nationalities.

Prisoners of war to be released immediately.

Negotiations for a definitive treaty of peace to be opened at Brussels after the ratification of this treaty.

The administration of the departments occupied by the German troops to be entrusted to French officials under the control of the chiefs of the German corps of occupation.

NEW PENITENTIARY AT PORTSMOUTH

Will Be Used Entirely For Female Prisoners of The Dominion

It will be a matter of particular interest to the people of the city of Kingston and of the village of Portsmouth, also the Kingston Standard, and of general interest to the country at large to learn that a magnificent new Federal Penitentiary is to be built as an adjunct to the present Portsmouth Penitentiary.

This new Penitentiary is not to be built within the present enclosure, but will be erected outside, in the rear of the warden's residence.

It will be a fine, imposing building and sufficiently large to accommodate all the female prisoners of the Dominion, should it be decided to transfer them here. As might be expected, it will be thoroughly modern in every respect, and built according to the most advanced ideas of penalogists.

It is a very interesting fact that the building of this new penitentiary—suggested by Brig.-Gen. Hughes, superintendent of Penitentiaries, and adopted and approved by Sir Lomer Gouin, Minister of Justice—will be along lines suggested by a well-known Kingstonian, now dead and gone.

TO X-RAY TUTANKHAMEN

Unwrapping of Pharonic Mummy Will be Filmed

Luxor, Jan. 20.—Pharaoh Tutankhamen, the mightiest king in the world 3,000 years ago, whose tomb was recently discovered in Egypt, is to be X-rayed if his mummy still lies in the tomb.

When the archaeologists now at work on the tomb open the alabaster coffin, take off the lids to cover of gold and carry the shrouded form into the sunlight, it will be photographed from every angle. The hundreds of yards of bandages will be unwound, and for the first time in history a film of the weird sight will be made.

It has been decided that the mummy is to be x-rayed before the bandages are removed, as it is expected that this will throw an important light on the ritual of embalming as practiced by the ancients.

CALLED BY DEATH

DAVID FRANKLIN ROSE

The death occurred Saturday at his late residence, first concession of Ameliasburgh, after an illness of one week with pneumonia, of David Franklin Rose, one of the most highly respected and best known residents of the county.

Deceased was born in Rednersville 83 years ago and has been a resident of Prince Edward county all his life. He was a member of the Canadian Order of Oddfellows and of the Asbury Methodist church. Besides his sorrowing widow, Mr. Rose is survived by one son, Harry F., of New York, three sisters, Mrs. W. Urquhart, Belleville; Mrs. J. Reinhart, Peterboro, and Mrs. A. Weese, Carrying Place. Also two brothers, William J., of Bainaw, Mich., and Albert, of Belleville.

J. C. CLARKE

After a few days' illness Mr. J. C. Clarke, teacher of classics in Belleville High School, passed away in the hospital at an early hour on Sunday morning. An attack of pneumonia was the cause of death. Deceased, who was about 45 years of age, came to Belleville from Rockland, taking the place on the High School staff of Mr. Affleck who resigned. Only since the first of January had Mr. Clark been upon the teaching staff and during that short period had endeared himself to the pupils coming under his supervision. Deceased came to this city highly recommended, and he certainly was a first-class teacher. Mr. Clark was a member of the Presbyterian faith. A wife, who is also seriously ill at the hospital suffering from pneumonia, survives, but no family. After death the body was removed to Tickell & Sons' undertaking establishment where it was prepared for burial. This morning the body was shipped to Toronto where some brothers and sisters reside. Mr. G. M. James, a teacher in the High School, accompanied the body. A number of the school teachers of the city and some pupils of the High School were at the C.N.R station when the body was placed upon the train.

MRS. MARY E. CARR.

An aged resident of the city in the person of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Carr, wife of Mr. Tobias Carr, passed away on Sunday morning after being ill for some time. Deceased was a United Empire Loyalist and was born at Adolphustown, being a daughter of the late Mr. Stephen Robbs. She was in her 80th year. LOST 15 POUNDS THEN GAINED 20

Castle Declares Tanlac Ended Long Suffering From Indigestion, More Than Restoring Lost Weight and Strength

"The best I can say for Tanlac is not good enough," declared A. J. Castle, 228 Second Ave., South, Saskatoon, Sask., care taker of the Royal Bank Bldg.

"I had suffered from stomach trouble until I was almost a physical wreck. I had no appetite or relish for food of any kind, and what little I did eat hurt me. I would bloat up with gas so badly I could hardly get my breath and feel so miserable for hours after meals that I didn't know what to do. Many a night I suffered so with indigestion I couldn't sleep a wink and simply got out of bed and walked the floor. My work is light, but I had lost weight and strength and felt so badly it looked like I was going to have to give up entirely.

"Since taking Tanlac I have gained back the fifteen pounds I had lost and five pounds besides, making a gain of twenty pounds. All signs of indigestion have left me and I am eating just anything I want and plenty of it. I am able to sleep in five minutes after I go to bed and I get up in the morning ready for a hearty breakfast and to fall day's work. In fact, I have never felt better in my life than I do since taking Tanlac. As a medicine is certainly has no equal."

Tanlac is sold in this city by good druggists.

Over 35-million bottles sold.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE VISIT THE CHILDREN'S SHELTER

Members of Bayside Organization Dispense Cheer to the Kiddies

On Friday evening some forty-five members of Bayside Women's Institute had a visit to the Children's Shelter of this city and gladdened the hearts of the children there. Mr. Ferrill Reid was chairman and gave an address to the children, which they enjoyed. A program consisting of recitations, readings and vocal selections was carried out to the satisfaction of all concerned. The visit was brought with them vegetables, apples, pies, etc., which gifts were much appreciated. At the close of the delightful program a Bingo game was opened up and toys were given to each child by the institution. The last bats to be drawn from the pond by the children contained popcorn. It was an evening of rare enjoyment alike to the children and those who participated in it.

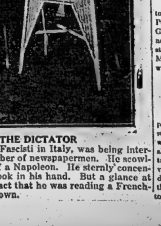
Washington's Social Set is Implicated ..... Arrested Man Has Made a Confession

Washington, Jan. 23.—Prohibition agents and the police to-day claimed they had cut off one of the main sources of supply of choice embassy liquor, which during the last few months has been "bootlegged" among the elite of Washington's official society.

Much of this liquor was said to have found its way to prominent officials here. It caused Representative Upshaw, of Georgia, to declare that some building responsible government positions take an oath "not to lift the devilish cup to their lips."



After a thorough investigation, the police have arrested John J. Lynch, who is said to have admitted obtaining large quantities of the finest liquors from servants of a legation here. The matter has been placed in the hands of the prohibition bureau, which is expected to ask the state department to take up the matter with the minister of the legation involved.

Lynch is said to have made a long statement, naming persons prominent in Washington society and official circles as being among his best customers. On his list were several women of high social standing. Lynch did a thriving business," kept three clerks, and his receipts averaged $200 or $300 a day. Most of this was said to be profit, as he is said to have obtained most of his supply at about $3 a quart, and sold it for $12 to $15.

His customers used a code for their orders. "Leaving for Charleston at 2 p.m." for instance, was an order for two quarts of rye. If you told him you were going to Savannah at 1 o'clock you got a quart of Scotch.

Lynch is believed by police to have obtained from employes of more than one legation, as he is said to have supplied other bootleggers, fashionable hotels and clubs in addition to his elite clients with liquor.

While eating dinner at a local Chinese restaurant at noon today lady from the country was taken ill Luck as soon as she was taken out of the fresh air she revived and was able to resume her meal.

MUSSOLINI THE DICTATOR

Mussolini, leader of the Fascisti in Italy, was being interviewed at Lausanne by a number of newspapermen. He scowled. He struck the attitude of a Napoleon. He sternly concentrated his attention on the book in his hand. But a glance at the book itself revealed the fact that he was reading a French-English dictionary—upside down.

BEER AND WINE RESOLUTION

Efforts of Hon. W. E. Raney to Stave Off Attempt Futile

In spite of Hon. W. E. Raney's denials and Premier Drury's protestations, the members of the Legislature are going to have an opportunity to line up on the beer and wine issue within the near future. Some time ago it was stated that a resolution calling for a referendum would be introduced in the Legislature by Government members, and it has now been confirmed. Hon. Mr. Raney, it is said, is doing his best to stave it off.

FRANCE RULES RUHR UNDER MARTIAL LAW

FRANCE QUELLS DEMONSTRATION AGAINST ARREST WITH RIFLE FIRE

German Sabotage in Ruhr Area Makes Railroading Difficult—Equipment of Lines Damaged

TWENTY GERMANS KILLED

Expulsion Measure Rigidly Enforced by French—Teutons Must Obey Occupational Government—Terms of French Ultimatum—Trouble Envisaged

Paris, Jan. 30.—A report unconfirmed during the night, that twenty Germans had been killed in a collision with the French troops at Boppard, and the announcement that General Weygand and Minister of Public Works Le Trocquer had gone to Brussels to discuss the Ruhr situation with the Belgian Government, were the leading topics of public discussion here this morning. The Boppard incident was reported by the Echo de Paris, which asserted that firing resulted from a demonstration by the Nationalists in protest against the arrest of the City's Burgomaster.

—TRIED TO WRECK TRAIN

Duesseldorf, Jan. 30.—An attempt to wreck a train on which General Weygand and Minister of Public Works Le Trocquer were travelling to Duesseldorf from Paris is reported to have occurred at Dueren last evening. Other incidents of sabotage, such as the wrecking of signal boxes on the Ruhr railroads have also come to the attention of the officials of the occupation.

CRIMINAL ATTITUDE OF WORKERS

Berlin, Jan. 30.—German rail workers sent eleven huge engines rushing at express speed through the station at Coblenz to-day to halk French attempts to requisition them. The French then tore up 300 yards of track stopping all traffic.

TELEGRAPH SERVICE INTERRUPTED

Essen, Jan. 30.—Practically no telegraph wires were in operation in the Ruhr to-day except those controlled by the military.

ZONES OF OCCUPATION EXTENDED

Brussels, Jan. 30.—The policy to be followed in the Ruhr in the future was discussed here to-day by high officials of France and Belgium. The conference, which lasted two hours, is said to have resulted in thorough accord on measures to be taken. The Belgian government is declared to have held the opinion that these measures should be on a larger scale.

Berlin, Jan. 30.—The zone of martial law has been extended until virtually the entire Ruhr and the most of Rhineland is under martial law.

STRINGENT LAWS TO BE ENFORCED

London, Jan 30.—The imminence of the state of seige throughout the Ruhr is indicated in a Duesseldorf despatch to The Times which says that General Degoutte has distributed to the police a proclamation forbidding any civilian activity in the streets between the hours of 10 p.m. and 6 a.m. The maximum penalty afforded by French law—five years' imprisonment or ten million marks fine—is the punishment for any violation of the order which is to be promulgated shortly.

EXPULSION MEASURE

Duesseldorf, Jan. 30.—It was expected the carrying out of the expulsion measure would be completed by six o'clock to-night, at which time probably about 100 persons a larger number than had been expelled during the entire three weeks of the occupation, would have been escorted into unoccupied Germany in a single day.

The French have invoked the Hague convention as authority for the expulsions, quoting the passage reading: "Officials of the state, officers and functionaries of occupied countries must obey the orders of the defacto Government." The Germans reply that The Hague convention refers only to a state of war which does not exist between Germany and France.

Turks and Hellenics Sign Treaty—Greek Army Class Notified to be Ready

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Lausanne, Jan. 30.—Two conventions growing out of the deliberations of the Lausanne Peace Conference were signed to-day between Turkey and Greece, one provides for the mutual return of prisoners of war and hostages. The other puts into effect the compulsory exchange of populations as arranged.

Geneva, Jan. 29.—The Greek Minister at Berne, through the newspapers has notified the Greeks of class 1923 to hold themselves in readiness for the call to the colors. He said that there would be no exemptions.

WAS SLEEPING SICKNESS CAUSE OF DEATH?

Welland, Ont., Jan. 30.—Christina McGruer, aged eleven years and five months, died at her home here yesterday from what is believed to be sleeping sickness.

This is the first appearance of this comparatively rare disease in this city.

The death certificate was put in as inflammation of the brain, but the doctors in attendance consider it is a case of sleeping sickness.

Grand Dance at Arcadia Last Evening

Belleville Council, Knights of Columbus, No. 1068 Hold Annual At Home in Arcadia

Three Hundred Present

Guests From Surrounding Towns—Good Crowd—Enjoyable Night of Dancing to Moderate Music by a Modern Orchestra

Those who attended the At Home, given at the Arcadia last night, (and there were some three hundred people present), were loud in their acclamation, that last night's affair was one of the most delightful, and successful events ever held by the Belleville Council Knights of Columbus and was one of the outstanding and finest dances held in this city this season.

The dance was given by the officers and members of Belleville Council No. 1068 Knight's of Columbus, and although the majority of those present were from this city, yet there were several out of town guests present for the function from Trenton, Marmora, Deseronto, Madoc and other neighboring towns. Many and varied were the fine evening gowns and the spectacle presented, as the young people danced about the spacious Arcadia, was certainly a gala one.

Al Wilson with his six piece orchestra, supplied the music for the dancing, and this formidable musical organization by the way, is rapidly becoming to be appreciated as Belleville's leading dance orchestra. Mr. Wilson and his musicians rehearsed the dance program for the dance, and the music supplied last evening was of the first order.

The Arcadia was tastefully decorated with blue and white streamers, and presented a homelike and pleasing

"Scobie, Dan" McDonald Tells of Slaying—Plays Pool After Doing the Deed

"I DID IT"

Said the Accused According To Evidence of Witness —Aftermath of Northern Tragedy

Kincardine, Jan. 30.—"Scobie Dan" McDonald, charged with the murder of George Kay, appeared before Magistrate Wash here yesterday afternoon on an adjourned preliminary hearing.

Dr. W. Foote, who had attended Mr. and Mrs. Kay, said that in post-mortem examination of the deceased he had found eight small, rounded wounds and three pieces of lead in the body. The immediate cause of death was a wound in both lungs and through the heart.

BORROWED BOY'S RIFLE.

Mrs. Ann Rutherford said that on the evening of January 5 "Scobie Dan" McDonald had come to her home and borrowed a rifle belonging to her son. He did not say what he wanted it for, and he returned it about 12.30 a.m. Next day, she said, Thomas Rutherford, gave evidence that McDonald had borrowed the rifle

WEATHERMAN IS PLAYING WITH US

Mercury is Nearly Frozen Here, but is Lower in the West—Will be Cold To-morrow

Sure proof was given this morning to all "Doubting Thomases" in the City, who were sure that the weatherman would give us milder weather, when the mercury dropped a fifteen below. Old Sol is doing his best today to brighten the snappy air and he is expected in the City tomorrow again and the temperature may be a little higher.

Pressure is high throughout the northern portion of the continent and light snow has fallen in many localities. The weather is decidedly cold over the greater portion of the Dominion, and ever in balmy B.C. it is below freezing. Mr. Fahrenheit nearly froze himself in some centres where the mercury was several degrees below during the night but a little mild weather is promised for tomorrow.

Sunbonnet Susans are wearing fur caps today while the Tom and Jerry boys have to be content with Borrii.

WHAT OTHER CITIES ARE DOING TO ATTRACT INDUSTRIES

BRANTFORD

Formed Brantford Industrial Realty Co., Limited, capitalized at $100,000 of which $20,000 is paid up.

The city of Brantford, by private bill, guarantees bonds of a company for an unlimited amount, on the affirmative vote of the ratepayers.

Bonds guaranteed to the amount $500,000.

The city subscribes $5 per cent. of the cost of building, and the Realty Co. 15 per cent., from capital.

The city owns 300 acres of ground on the waterworks, which has been set apart for industrial expansion.

The agreement with them erect a new factory for manufacturers, on a chosen site, and turn over this factory on a organization 2 per cent of the first year's pay roll.

NIAGARA FALLS, ONT.

Contributes grants, but has no fixed arrangements; other than an agreement that in the event of the Chamber of Commerce locating an industry in Niagara Falls, the city pays the organization 2 per cent of the first year's pay roll.

City contributes $4,000 per annum to the Welland Board of Trade, and also furnish an office in the city hall for its use.

PETERBORO

The city clerk is the Industrial Commissioner of Peterboro, and he works with the Chamber of Commerce in every possible way.

WINDSOR

Border cities paid $5,000 per annum to Chamber of Commerce, to be used in securing new industries.

TORONTO

Assists in every way possible the Industrial Commissioner, and there is the greatest of harmony between the civic officials and the Commissioner.

Much publicity work done in Toronto is evidently paid for by the civic authorities, as it often bears the recommendation of the mayor.

HAMILTON

City maintains an Industrial Commissioner, who devotes his entire time to the securing of new industries. All expenses in connection with this office are paid for by the city of Hamilton.

The Industrial Commissioner cooperates with the Chamber of Commerce, and when needed the Chamber of Commerce will send representatives to outside cities to interview prospective manufacturers.

WHAT BELLEVILLE IS DOING

This city contributes $1,500 per annum to Chamber of Commerce, and also subscribed for four memberships for civic officials.

The Mayor of Belleville is elected a member of the Industrial committee of Chamber of Commerce, and he visits American cities as both a member of the Chamber of Commerce and as Mayor of Belleville.

Toronto Dentist Sued for Fifteen Thousand

Big Action Brought by Toronto Woman Against Professional Man Who Denies Negligence

Malpractice Alleged

Mrs. Sweetman Avers Pieces of Hypodermic Needle Left in Jaw Cannot be Removed

Dr. F. G. Law, a Toronto dentist, is defendant in an action brought before Mr. Justice Kelly in the Non-Jury Assizes yesterday by Miss Aleta V. Sweetman, who claims $15,000 damages for alleged malpractice. The plaintiff avers that while Dr. Law was administering a local anaesthetic on Jan. 19th, 1922, preparatory to extracting two wisdom teeth, pieces of the hypodermic needle were broken off and left in her jaw. Doctors who attempted to remove the pieces at General Hospital, she alleges, found that they could not do so without destroying the facial muscles and causing the loss of one side of her face. She says that as a result of the needle being left in her face, she has suffered pain ever since that her health has suffered and she cannot open her mouth properly.

DENIES NEGLIGENCE.

The defendant denies negligence and avers that if the needle broke it was an accident and not the result of carelessness, and that he knew nothing of its having broken.

T. G. H. Bradford, K. C., her lawyer, Miss Sweetman said that she had visited Dr. Law several times after the treatment and that he had told her that she was suffering from contraction of the muscles. He prescribed massage and painting with iodine, but she obtained no relief. A letter of her family physician there was an "X-ray" examination and the fragments of needle were disclosed.

Westerners Keep Name Grain Growers

Saskatchewan Association Turns Down "United Farmers"

Saskatoon, Sask., Jan. 30.—Delegates to the convention of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association to-day refused to change the name of that organization. By an overwhelming majority a resolution which proposed to change the name to "United Farmers of Saskatchewan" was voted down.

There was considerable discussion over a proposal that membership in the association be restricted to "bona fide farmers and agents of their organizations," and an amendment that only those whose "principal interest" was farming be admitted on a two-thirds of the locals.

Delegate opposing both resolutions declared there were thousands of persons in Saskatchewan in sympathy with the organization who would be ineligible under such provision. "We seem to be narrowing up rather than broadening out," said one.

On the other hand, it was said that co-operative trading stores had been killed by local merchants boring from within the organization, and that instances had been known of politicians using the same method.

Resolutions and amendments, alike were voted down almost unanimously.

ACTIVITIES OF CHAMBER OF COMMERCE REVIEWED AT ANNUAL MEETING LAST NIGHT

Officials Present Comprehensive Reports Covering Matters Pertaining to Welfare of City—Important Concrete Suggestions—Achievements of Year Analyzed

HEALTH CONDITIONS TO BE INVESTIGATED

Public Meeting Arranged to Discuss Milk and Water Supply—Undoubtedly Better Understanding in Civic Problems—Chamber in Necessary Adjunct Toward Progress of Belleville.

The annual meeting of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, which was held at the Chamber of Commerce building last night, was dominated by deep interest and enthusiasm to undertake the work at hand.

President Mackenzie Robertson occupied the chair, and submitted the following report, and supplemented it with a verbal statement.

Belleville—Belleville is doing things. Just visit our good neighbouring towns and cities and you will hear it mentioned often.

We have secured real industries at a time of depression in the industrial world. We have secured these industries without bonking and bonusing. They have come because our Chamber of Commerce, with its capable secretary, was able to show them that it was good business for them to locate in Belleville.

Yes, and you can hear the good tidings Belleville is doing right in Belleville. Tis said, a man—or a town—has no honor at home. Belleville is being honored in Belleville. The wielders of the tack and sledge hammer are getting fever and fever. They are "busy."

Belleville is being boosted off of its foundation by day, by day, by optimism. It is being pried and boosted up on to a foundation of which the structure and stones are composed of optimism and sound business judgment.

Belleville is a real place in which to live. Let's all boost it.

HAMILTON POLICE ARE INVESTIGATING WOMAN'S STORY

Have No Further Word From Edmonton Authorities Regarding the Matter

FACE IS FAMILIAR

Hamilton Men Saw Woman Somewhere but Cannot Place Her—Doctor Who Was First in House After Murder Speaks

Hamilton police authorities have little to say with regard to the statements about the Klarade murder, said to have been made by the woman, Irene May Christensen, at present under sentence of death at Edmonton, Alta. Inferring however, to Inspector Piper's criticism of the local police for having made the contents of his communication known to the press, a high official said today: "There was nothing in the letter received by us to indicate that the contents were in any way confidential. Certainly no request was made in this connection. It seemed to us that the western police were desirous of obtaining any possible clue to the identity and past of the woman referred to."

TEXT OF STATEMENT

With regard to the communication received by the local police the exact text of Inspector Piper's reference to the Klrade murder is as follows: "To a man she cohabited with she stated quite a lot about the Klarade murder that happened in Hamilton, Ont., several years ago, even going so far as to tell where the victim stood when she was shot, giving facts and particulars, how it was done, etc. Probably she was in Hamilton about that time."

It will be noted that the Klarade murder referred to occurred in 1919.

ARE INVESTIGATING

The detective department is making inquiries in that city with regard to the matter.

KNEW THE FACE

Coroner (Dr.) W. J. McNicol, of Hamilton the first person to enter the Klarade home after the discovery of the tragedy, partially recognized Mrs. Christensen from the photographs of her published in the Hamilton papers on Saturday. "The face seems like one I have seen somewhere before but I can't just place when or where I saw it," said the doctor.

FIRST IN HOUSE

However, Dr. McNicol is certain that there was no person in the Klarade home when he hurried in immediately after the alarm was given And in that conviction he is upheld by D. M. Brown, butcher, Herkimer and Caroline streets, and Luke Oppie, grocer, Main and Province streets, who followed him into the Klarade home that day in the order named. Neither Mr. Brown nor Mr.

Campaign of Murder and Destruction

Ireland Suffering Under Disorder — Republicans Destroy Waterworks, Postoffices and Railway Lines—Southern Districts Face Starvation

London, Jan. 30.—A despatch to the Daily Express from Dublin says rebels have destroyed the water works in Waterford in reprisal for the execution of two men for the possession of arms. Six thousand inhabitants of the city are stranded, as only one day's water supply is left.

The despatch adds that practically all the post office in West Ireland has been destroyed, and that it is almost impossible to buy stamps or to send or receive a letter. The plight at Killarney, with its 8,000 inhabitants, is such that all food and coal must be conveyed seventeen miles under armed escort.

Dublin, Jan. 30.—The rebel campaign of murder and destruction continues unabated, and, although these activities are mostly in the provinces, Dublin itself is not exempt. At 11 o'clock last night Governor-General Healy's residence, the old viceregal lodge in Phoenix Park, was attacked by men concealed in the shrubbery, who maintained a heavy revolver fire which the guards around the building vigorously returned. It was nearly half an hour before the attacking party retired.

About the same time the Marlborough barracks was similarly attack. Incendiary and other attacks on railways and stations are of daily occurrence, and the whole railway service has become precarious.

Cobb

Cobble recognized the photograph of Mrs. Christensen when shown it to-day.

All three men think the woman's story is a crazy tale. They place no credence in it.

MUSIC and DRAMA

NEW SNITA STEWART PICTURE PACKS BIG DRAMATIC PUNCH

We enjoyed every moment of "The Woman He Married" at the new Palace bill at the Regent Theatre. It began a little dry but from there yesterday and we were thoroughly surprised at it does not bring comedy hours at every performance.

The illustrious Anita Stewart is the star of this Paul National attraction, and it has been directed by Hobart Henley, the genius who made "The Three Musketeers". Their combined talents have produced another big film one of the best photo pictures it has been our good fortune to see in many months.

The theme is anything but the love a wife failed for her husband and what happens her to make every minute possible for the wife. Miss Stewart as the wife of the young millionaire, who sticks to him through thick and thin, and will break soon after their marriage, makes an appealing figure. Darrel Foss in real as the young husband, and none could have portrayed the difficult role better than he.

The story contains some sharp contrasts between the "classes," and has been developed with such suspense and dramatic interest that it holds the interest until the end.

We are glad to place "The Woman He Married" at the category of "better pictures."

A new chapter of the "Breaking Through" series and an amusing Sunshine comedy and a Travelogue were exhibited in addition to the feature offering.

STRONG VITAL THEME HAS "THE CRADLE"

Presenting a big and vitally important problem in a manner which makes it at once as entertaining as it is instructive, is the accomplishment of the Paramount picture "The Cradle," Ethel Clayton's latest starring creation, which was exhibited at Griffin's last evening.

Here, woven into a thrilling and dramatic story, is the problem facing every married man and woman who, tiring of the marriage tie, seek to find a solution to their troubles in divorce. But with this novel they find that no matter what their will may be, there is a power higher than divorce, one which cannot be after will being dissolved, a couple together again. Just what this power is forms the theme of the picture and its nature is strikingly divulged as the story unfolds. Of its truth and importance it is surely to be conceded that none will be found to deny it.

Eugene Brieux, author of the internationally-famous "Damaged Goods," wrote the play from which this picture was adapted. Paul Powell directed, and a popular cast includes Charles Meredith, Anna Lehr and the child-wonder Mary Jane Irving.

"A Case of Identity" is the title of the third of the "Sherlock Holmes" series, each story complete, which held interest greatly throughout, and amusing Mack Sennett comedy, and Mutt and Jeff Comedy cartoon proved amusing.

YOUR FILTRATION PLANT

A mother brought her young daughter to see me one day and they were both in a very excited state.

The cause of the anxiety was the presence of a large lump on the youngster's thigh just below the groin.

"What is it Doctor? Will she need an operation? Is it very dangerous?"

These and other questions were buried at me whilst I was examining the hard lump.

The daughter was about ten years of age, and as she looked like an outdoor youngster I made a rapid guess at the trouble.

"Did you stub your toe?" I asked the child.

Mother and daughter looked at one another and then at me in perfect amazement.

And I had guessed rightly. Removing the shoe and stocking I found a nasty festered toe. I ordered the mother to bathe the toe in a hot boracic solution—a teaspoonful to a basin of hot water—a half a dozen times a day and to keep a clean dressing on it.

The toe cleaned up in a few days and the lump gradually disappeared requiring no surgical interference. Now what had happened? The filtration system in the lymphatic system has glands along its course which resemble a sponge. As poison attempts to enter the body these sponge-like glands absorb it in large quantities but permit it to enter the general blood system in very small amounts. The general system absorbs these small amounts very slowly and gradually and usually no great harm is done to the system.

In the process of filtering the glands swells up with the poison and it becomes hard and thus we find these large lumps in different parts of the body. If you have a lump under the armpit, look for a scratch or sore on hand or finger. A lump in the neck is from teeth or tonsils, and so forth.

Look for the spot where the poison entered and clean it up as any regard above. There is a filtering system in the intestine also, but that is another story.

ONE DAY A WEEK FOR EARNING TAX MONEY

Before War Taxes Were only One-tenth of National Income Now One-sixth in Canada

The Canadian business man is in the same boat with the United States business man in that he works one day in the week to pay his taxes, says The Financial Post. Taxes paid to the Federal government, the provincial governments and the municipal governments amount to about one-sixth of the national income.

If the average business man would put a red chalk ring around every Thursday (for instance on his calendar and consider that every cent he earns that day goes directly or indirectly for taxes he would get some idea of the situation that has developed.

The national per capita income is $500. The Dominion government takes about $40 a year in taxes from each individual in the country. The provincial average is another $10—some less and some more. Then the municipalities also $50 per capita or $100 per national income. Total taxes—$100; that is the record.

No comfort can be had from considering "Taxes ever than." For it was not ever thus. In the year 1914 the Canadian business man worked only one day in five to pay his taxes. The national per capita income is up about 25 per cent. But taxes have more than doubled.

Here is the comparison:

Per capita national income	$471	$500
Taxes, Federal	20	40
Provincial	8	10
Civic	20	50
	$ 48	$100

Of course all of these taxes do not hit the individual directly. But he pays them indirectly. When he buys any American automobile or a British woollen overcoat as he pays Federal taxes. When he rents a house he is directly pays city taxes. When he buys an insurance policy he pays provincial taxes. Taxes are a standard of certainty. They cannot be avoided. And when day by day is every way they grow and become more weighty some they put a load upon individual effort and business development that impedes national progress.

ESKIMOS NOT LIKE SCHOOL BOOK KIND

Medical Missioner Paints Pleasing Picture of Tribes in the Alaskan North

Buffalo, Jan. 20.—Certain tribes of Eskimo bloom eat blubber and live in ice igloos, but are they short, stout squat, according to Dr. Frank H. Spence, head of the missionary hospital at Point Barrow, Alaska. Dr. and Mrs. Spence are here on a visit from Point Barrow, where they opened the furthest north institution of its kind.

"The pictures in the school books are wrong," Dr. Spence says. "The Eskimos of Point Barrow are as large as the average American. They do not eat blubber, but burn it for fuel. Neither do they live in houses made of ice if they can help it. At Point Barrow their shacks are of three thicknesses of wood with much building paper in between.

"They are the happiest people imaginable; they laugh much more than the white man. They are very polite and show many characteristics of the Christian. Because of their crowded living quarters many of them contract tuberculosis, but we are combating this. Three Eskimos are blind to their cripples, sick and old folks. They use modern weapons for hunting, rarely using bows and spears. They make wonderful mechanics."

INSTALLATION CEREMONIAL

Thomasburg Lodge No. 223 I.O.O.F., held their annual installation of officers last Friday night. District Deputy Grand Master Bro. John F. Hanson, assisted by Bros. Albert Porter, L. Fetherston, and Fred Kennedy, Frank Blakely, M. R. English, being the installing officer.

After the completion of the ceremony Bro. J. A. Ranson, who had resigned the position of financial secretary after holding that office for many years, was escorted to the front by Bro. Albert Porter, acting D.D.G. Marshal, and presented with a purse, accompanied by the following address:

Brother Ranson,—

We, the officers and members of the Thomasburg Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, desire to convey to you our high appreciation of your services in the capacity of financial secretary. You have ever shown an interest in the working of the Lodge in general and in your own office in particular, and the details of your office have been well attended to, so that as members we have been perfectly satisfied with the service you have rendered us. As a Lodge we want to tell you that in the future as in the past we will ever have expressed the things for which, as an order, we stand. For no friendship is grounded, no love exists, no truth eternal that does not concern itself with the faithful discharge of duty and obligation. But in no other fully have you done your work that we hardly think it has been to you an unpleasant task. Thus the bond that bind us together have been strengthened by your faithful service, and all this has been true of our work for no less than twenty-four years. We will ever believe that brotherhood is a grand thing, and wherever it exists we not only like to appreciate it, but also to express our appreciation of it. Thus as you vacate the office that you have held so successfully and so long, in this brief way we want to say to you that we are thankful for the work that you have done. To express that thanks we might easily multiply words, but rather than do that we would like to show it in a more tangible way. So we ask you to accept this purse from us, not as a payment of the work you have done but as a friendly token of what we think of your splendid services.

Signed on behalf of the Lodge,

Henry Mulvey, Rec. Sec.

Bro. Ranson, needless to say, was taken completely by surprise, but made a very suitable reply.

Bro. Ranson also received a note from the Grand Secretary, Bro. W. Brooks, stating he had received word from the D.D.G.M. and from other sources that he has given most careful and faithful service through the term which is about a quarter of a century.

A note also was conveyed to Bro. Ranson from the Grand Master and officers expressing their appreciation for three years of faithful service.

"Possession Nine Points"—Is the husband or the wife the rightful owner of their marriage certificate? This question was too much for Magistrate Rytenberg, New York, who declined to take action in the complaint of a woman, now living apart from her husband, who charged that the man forcibly took the certificate from her home.

HELP FOR YOUNG WOMEN

Mrs. Holmberg Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Viking, Alta.—"From the time I was 13 years old I would get such sick feelings in the lower part of my abdomen that I would have cramps and vomiting. This kept me from my work (I was employed on the farm) as I usually had to go to bed for the rest of the day. Or at times I would have to walk the floor. I suffered in this way until I was induced to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have had very satisfactory results so far and am recommending the Vegetable Compound to my friends. I am sure glad I tried it for I feel like a different person now that I do." — Mrs. Ollie Holmberg, Box 83, Viking, Alberta.

Letters like this establish the merits of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and today holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills in the history of the world. Thousands of voluntary testimonials prove the fact.

If you doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for free advice. Mrs. Pinkham's private text-book and learn more about it.

During the affair, presided with a pencil, Mr. Beardsley got very boisterous and concluded the festivies by inviting his friend wife "to go to——."

Junior City League Game At Arena

Grand Trunk Midgets Blank Redwings — Score 5-0— Game Played Under Protest—Some Good Hockey Exhibited

The Grand Trunk Midgets emerged victorious over the Red Wings in a Junior City League fixture at the Arena last evening by a score of 5-0. The game was played under protest as Jim Hayes, manager of the defeated team complained that the railroaders entered the fray with three substitutes instead of the legal two. The matter will be discussed at a session of the Junior City League at the Y.M.C.A. to-morrow evening. The Grand Trunk justly deserved to win on their combination shooting, and defensive work was superior to that of the red wingers.

Albert Cuhaz and the O.R.D. may yet meet better opposition before the season closes. A week ago it appeared as though the race might rest between these two teams, but some of the managers are rounding out faster squads than was anticipated. The merger of the Junior League are this year playing a faster brand of hockey than ever. No holds barred have been declared and the scores are generally speaking very close.

The Red Wings were handicapped by having only one substitute and taking into consideration the fact that they have not played together before they made a decidedly good showing.

Manager Follwell, of the Grand Trunks, trotted out a greatly improved team from the last appearance. "Punk" Wardhaugh a brother of Alex. was probably the best man on the ice. He is a clever stick-handler, fast, tricky and passes the puck. His playing contains all that goes to make up a good hockeyist. He will probably be heard from later.

"Chummy" Bunkard of the High School team together with young Alex Weir of the same aggregation did the built of the work for the losers.

"Chummy" Gerow and Harold Bunkard formed a strong defence for the Trunkers but the latter spoilt his good work by his rough tactics. Rizzo who subbed for the winners has the makings of a good player. Symons and Follwell, wing men of the Midgets both turned in excellent games. Don. Carmichael between the pipes made many unusual saves. He is developing fast for a newcomer at the game.Anderson made a great come back after several months from the game. With a little more practice he and Page could make a fine defence. Although Wallbank is a little short on weight he is a nice skater and stick-handler. Stark worked in well in the centre ice role. Bill Gregg made his first appearance in uniform after a lengthy illness and did fairly well.

The Red Wings will no doubt do better next time.

All teams of the Junior League are requested to have a representative present at the meeting on Wed. night at the Y.M.C.A.

Leo. Barrett is handling all of the Junior League games to the satisfaction of every team.

SCOTCH CURLERS NOW DOING VERY WELL

Are Winning Games—Becoming Accustomed to Canadian Atmosphere

The Scottish curlers have evidently become climates. For some time after their arrival in Canada they were beaten with regularity, but they have been more successful recently. The visitors left Toronto with several wins to their credit and they practically cleaned up her on Saturday. Against three rinks of the Ontario Hospital curlers and three representing the Victoria Club they won the forenoon matches by 25 shots. The Thistles, Grimsby and Dundas held them to a two-shot lead in the afternoon. The Scots' performance is a very creditable one in view of the fact that Hamilton is rated high as a curling center.

Hamilton Tigers Trounce Granites on Toronto Ice

Bengals Step Into Hogtown and Administer the K.O. by Score 5-1

Helpless in the tight grip of the Tigers' checking the Granites, Allan Cop holders got leaden in the O.H.A. senior race here defeated at Toronto last night by 5 to 1. The win was as decisive as the score indicates, the Bengals always having the better of the argument. They used the Ottawa defense system, showed that they have been well drilled by Coach Art Ross and the famous Green and White were made to look foolish. Defensively and offensively the visitors had the advantage, and Charlie Stewart, star goalkeeper on the Hamilton team, had one of the easiest nights in his career.

It is a matter of record that the Granites have beaten the Tigers on Toronto ice on only one occasion in the last four years, although they win rather consistently at Hamilton. This let one of the local players to remark following last night's game, that hereafter the Queen should play their home games in the Ambitious City.

Tigers have everything necessary for a championship team. The experience, weight and ability are there in abundance and now that they have defeated the Granites and University of Toronto here they appear to be reasonably sure to figure in the play-off series. At Varsity they lost to the Granites by 2 to 0, but even the locals admit that the home team did not get the breaks, Hamilton will qualify for the final series also if they do not play as poorly again as they did last night. It is quite likely that the hard game played by the Argyle last Friday took away much of the locals' enthusiasm and from the beginning to the end they never looked like champions.

POOR GATE RECEIPTS AT KINGSTON GAMES

Kingston, Ont., Jan. 29.—The gate receipts for the Queen-McGill game played on Friday evening at the Harty Arena were almost the largest amount collected at any game so far this season. The receipts for the Frontenac-Belleville game were about $500. Although nothing official is given out, it is understood that the attendance at the games this Winter is lower than last. Whether the reason for the falling off is that the teams are not playing as good, the hockey, no persons is in a position to say.

COBOURG SWAMPED

Bowmanville, Jan. 30.—Bowmanville O.H.A. juniors had little difficulty in defeating Cobourg here by 12 to 1. The decision was never in doubt. McMurtry and Bernier starred for the winners, while Martyn a brilliant playing in goal saved his team from a much larger defeat.

Cornwall Colts Defeat Collegians In Home Fixture

Weakened Canal Town Six Outplay Queens and Win Game 8-5

Cornwall, Jan. 30.—Playing their fourth game in eight days and their last home match of the season, Cornwall last night defeated Queen's University by 8 to 5 in a fixture which, after the first period, left little room for doubt as to the outcome. Cornwall was minus the services of Larow of the regular team, who had not recovered from injuries received in Friday night's encounter with Belleville. In the first period each team scored twice, but in the second Cornwall held Queen's scoreless and scored five. Queen's opened the final frame with a burst of speed and landed two goals in the first few minutes, Cornwall made it 8 to 4, and Queen's got the last. The play was clean, and, while several penalties were handed out, none were for serious infractions of the rules.

Cornwall—Gallinger, James, Somerville, Titus, Smith, Kinghorn; subs. Penny and Ellerbroom.

Queen's—Brown, Fiskin, Tittchie, Hansen, Emery, Stewart; subs. Nickle and Cleland.

"BILL" BURCH SIGNS WITH HAMILTON PROS

Former Aura Lee and New Haven Star Centre Man Makes Jump Monday Morning

Billy Burch has taken the long leap from which there is no return, and is now a professional under the colors of the Hamilton Club of the National Hockey League. Burch signed with the Tigertown team at Hamilton yesterday morning after a conference with Owner Thompson, and will be in camp with Wednesday's game at centre. He has been playing with the New Haven team, but the split with the United States Association and the barring of New Haven evidently had a lot to do with his decision to become a professional.

Burch learned the sport in Toronto, first coming into prominence with the Aura Lee O.H.A. junior team in 1918, the year the De la Salle C. I. won the championship. The next season he performed with Aura Lee juniors again, and in 1920 played for the Toronto Canoe Club aggregation, which made a wonderful record in winning the O. H. A. title. He rejoined the Aura Lee team as a senior in 1921, and also played with them last year, being captain and the regular centre player.

As a junior Burch gave great promise. It was thought that he would be one of the best skaters and all round performers in the O.H.A. and although he partially lived up to expectations the all-star defensive system resulted in loss of speed, and this winter he was moved back on the defense. Hamilton may decide to use him in this position, but it is likely that they will try him out on the forward line.

Vernon Forbes, goalkeeper of the Hamilton team, was a teammate of Burch's with the Aura Juniors. Rosie Denford and Scott of St. Patrick's are also ex-members of the Aura Lee team.

Kingston Fans Coming En masse For Game To Night

Have Chartered Special Train to Accommodate Supporters — Will Be Strenuous Game—Local Line-up

Kingston fans have chartered a special train and will invade the city to-night in the hope that the Frontenacs will take a fall out of the local intermediates. The Kingstonians are looking their best to the limit and it is understood that from four to five hundred supporters are leaving the Limestone City about 5 p.m. If the Frontenacs lose to-night game they can hang up their sticks for another year and this it can be easily seen that they will be in there fighting from gong to gong. The area should be packed to the doors for the big battle. Belleville will probably line-up as follows.

Goal—Crooks.

THE DAIRY STANDARDS ACT AND CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING

The Hon. M. Doherty has through Geo. A. Putnam, Director of Dairying, recently issued a circular letter to the different cheese factories relative to the operation of the Dairy Standards Act. In this communication it is stated that cheese factory instructors will be available to do the milk testing this year upon the same basis and conditions as prevailing last year.

The different advantages which have accrued under the D.S.A. are also set forth in the letter, viz., marked improvement in the case of milk, the almost entire elimination of watering and skimming, the increased interest on the part of the producers in the butter fat content of the milk from the individual cow, the increased yield of cheese per hundred pounds of milk and the overcoming to a large extent, of undesirable flavors and other developments in cheese through the pasteurization of the whey.

It is not clearly understood just why the increased yield of cheese per hundred pounds of milk should be entirely attributed to the operation of the new Act, or why this legislation should have almost entirely eliminated the watering and skimming of milk. Transgressors of the law covering this latter feature have frequently paid the penalty for their sins years and government inspectors have always been on watch for watered milk, prior to the enforcement of the Dairy Standards Act by the Drury Government.

The Dairy Branch of the Department of Agriculture is making a special drive for quality in cheese production this year. It is generally conceded that while this condition is par amount in cheese marketing, quantity is a vital issue. Just a few days ago it was reported from Great Britain, that there is a shortage of Canadian cheese on the English market. Why is this? One outstanding reason is that the enforcement of the Dairy Standards Act has caused a quantities of milk to be turned into cheese factories to butter creameries and condenseries where the quality test of milk is not necessary under Government supervision. Butter business, is of course, most desirable, but it should not be allowed to supplant the cheese industry, which has been our leading agricultural industry for many years.

The marketing of Canadian Cheese has been firmly established in Great Britain for a corresponding period of time as that enjoyable that New Zealand's product is supplying the Canadian article—Not because of quality but of quantity. The English taste for cheese is extremely fastidious and exacting and the dominant exporters who have been catering for that trade for years are well aware that the quality fo cheese shipped must be of prime importance. The system under which cheese inspection has been carried out throughout these years have adequately met with demands and the quality of cheese shipped during this time will compare favorably with the product exported, which was manufactured under the provisions of the Dairy Standards Act.

One thing that probably will secure more uniform high grade cheese is governmental insistence that milk be delivered to the factory at a properly low temperature, during the hot weather, and relatively, that it be kept at a given temperature by the producer before it is so delivered. Mere figures of goverment test for butter fat at the delivery point will not necessarily assure quality milk at proper temperature.

This year the cheese grading legislation enacted by the government will come into effect and Mr. Doherty states, through Mr. Putnam, that this provision, together with the assurance of more effective marketing facilities, will benefit the producer to a large extent in dollars and cents.

The Minister cannot forget his pet co-operative marketing idea in his departmental circulars. Judging from the reception this plan received in Western Ontario last Friday, the scheme is not meeting with the anticipated prodigious success in that section. Numerous cheese factories flatly rejected the proposal and will continue to market their cheese as usual, through the local boards.

The long established British connections held by the cheese exporters in this country will be difficult for any co-operative company to surmount and debts instead of dividends might possibly be incurred. If cheese is going to b emarketed co-operatively, about the only successful way to achieve satisfactory results will appear to be Federal control similar to that of the late Wheat Board. Governments can afford to wait for dividends when individuals cannot and the marketing of cheese involves far too much capital, which a few shareholders in a co-operative scheme cannot collect together.

Just now in Ontario, Mr. Cowan of Peterboro has a co-operative company and Hon. Mr. Doherty comes along with another one in opposition. Dairymen should ask themselves before deciding—Who is supplying the funds? The Dairymen are being asked to invest their own money in the marketing of their own product. Mr. Doherty evidently has the proverbial "something up his sleeve." He should let it out.

In the meantime his representatives and co-operative ambassadors are coming into Hastings and Prince Edward next week to organize this section. What are dairymen in this district going to do about it?

IF HE ASK BREAD—WILL YE GIVE HIM STONE?

Hon. W. S. Fielding and Hon. Ernest Lapointe have returned to Ottawa after a five months' tour of Europe and will be in their seats when the session opens for business this week.

These honorable gentlemen have brought home trade with France and Italy and citizens of Canada, particularly the unemployed, will be greatly cheered and tremendously heartened to learn that there is a prospect that they may save ten per cent. on purchases of stationery, macaroni, silks, perfumes and brandy. This will doubtless bring exceeding joy to the foodless and fuelless homes and there is a possibility that these proposed tariff changes may at once check the exodus of our artisans to the United States and the ruin of childhood. The artisan wants steady work with adequate food and Mr. Fielding practically offers him a plaster of paris bust of himself at a discount of ten per cent. over last election prices. Instead of fuel the finance minister offers cheaper brandy and perfumes. If his children need flannels he cannot have them but he can get French silks at $2.99 per yard instead of $2.95 as before. These political misnomers had a cheerful time in Europe, it was said, on the floor of the House, they are called to explain the direct results of their travels there, that feeling may be superseded somewhat.

They possibly may be inculcated with a troublous feeling of deep anxiety on the way to Ottawa, partly in the House. Hon. Mr. King evidently is similarly worried as he wishes to fill the late Hon. Mr. Kennedy's seat without delay, a bye-election writ having been issued only yesterday for North Essex which is unwilling will take place on the first day of March, and bye-elections have not been going any too good for the Prime Minister lately.

PASSING COMMENT

But how many "horns" did it require to enable those Simcoe County sportsmen to discover well-developed horns on wild rabbits?

It is doubtful if the banished Greek prince, who is spending his banishment in Florida, feels that his punishment is greater than he can bear.

Deeply pathetic was the situation of the Scotch curlers who found themselves on anniversary of Burns' birthday in a land where the great day could not be celebrated in the wonted manner, as Rab himself would say.

Two classes don't worry: Those who are intelligent enough to know that everything will turn out all right, and those who haven't sense enough to realize anything is wrong.

For those who find it a strain to pay the local income tax once in a year, it must be distinctly reassuring to learn that there is no possibility of their being asked to pay it twice.

HERE AND THERE

FAMOUS AUTHORS' SCHOOLDAYS.

Mr. Rudyard Kipling was in the habit of selling his old school-books to a dame who kept a curiosity shop at Bideford. In recent years many people have visited the shop, hoping to pick up a volume with an early composition of the great man scrawled in the margin. They have been disgusted to hear that the old dame rubbed out everything of the kind.

"No," she said on one occasion, "Master Kipling was always fair to me, and he may have written things not so good as those he has sold since. I wasn't going to have them poking fun at him." Which shows the popularity Mr. Kipling enjoyed in his schooldays.

Another great writer, Sir James Barrie, has a good story to tell of his young days. It was at the time of his first success, and an old townswoman of Kirriemuir, Barrie's native place, was asked what she thought of it.

"Well," she replied, cautiously, "it's a guide thing the laddie can mek something at his writin'; he could never have made a levrin' at the mills!"

"Well, boss, you see George he's been tellin' me every day for a week that he's gwine to lick his wife fob wastin' him. Well, yestiddy she done orshaun him."

The doctors were holding a consultation beside the bed of a man who had been poisoned by drinking a diseased bichloride.

"It's clear," said one of the surgeons, "that we should wait and let him get a little stronger before cutting."

But the other prospective operators could not keep the patient turned his head and remarked to the latter: "What do you take me for—a corpse?"

PRESS OPINIONS

APPLES AND HONESTY.

"A Toronto customer bought a box of Ontario Northern Spys for $3, the highest price. The apples were sound and good, but were bruised by the packing and presented a poor appearance. Grocers receive daily complaints of the competition of U. S. and B. C. apples should take the hint."—Toronto Star.

(Ottawa Journal)

An Ontario woman saw a box of Red Mackintoshes at Byward market last fall. They looked fine—on top. She asked if the apples were of the same quality to the bottom of the box. The farmer said yes. The apples were bought, at a fancy price. Towards the bottom of the box, the apples proved to be small and some of them bruised and decaying. A week later the woman saw the same farmer on the market. She remembered. He laughed at her. She bought British Columbia apples after that.

In Ontario we can grow the best apples in the world, as we grow the best peaches. But we have to grow honesty too if we are going to make the best of our apples or anything else we have.

A MISSION THAT FAILED
(Hamilton Herald)

It cannot be said of the Hon. J. A. Faith, Minister of Trade and Commerce, that he is returning from Australia "bringing his sheaves with him." He will return emphatically empty. He went to Australia for the purpose of negotiating a trade arrangement based on the principle of reciprocal preferences. He was ready to grant to Australia the benefits of our tariff preferences in Britain's favor in return for concessions from Australia. But it appears that the Australians were unwilling to grant to Canada the special tariff advantages which they extend to imports from Britain.

Mr. Robb did right in declining to agree to a lop-sided trade arrangement with our antipodean friends. If they want preferential tariff treatment from Canada, they will have to grant preferential tariff treatment to Canada. Let there be reciprocity or let there be nothing.

It is nothing to Mr. Robb's discredit that he has failed in his mission to Australia.

THORNTON'S JOB
(Montreal Witness)

It may sometimes be his distressing duty to sacrifice the lesser for the larger interest. Each part will ultimately benefit from the welfare of the whole. So far as he works without fear or favor for the greater good of the whole, all special interests must loyally accept his decisions. He has not shown any tendency to be inconsiderate. He is practical dictator but only that he may without interference apply the principles of railway economy to the most effective service in linking place to place at the lowest possible cost and greatest expedition and convenience of the owners, the public. And surely the public will see that the only way Sir Henry can achieve such success is by giving him a fair chance to show what he can do.

MODERN WINE SAUCE

Brown 4 tablespoons butter in saucepan, add 2½ tablespoons flour, stir to a smooth paste and continue browning; add gradually while stirring constantly 1 3-4 cup brown stock; ½ teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper and 2 teaspoons Madeira wine. Pour around larded fillet of beef and serve with pimiento strained, dried and cut in fancy shapes with vegetable cutter; made for the purpose or cut them in narrow ribbons using a pastry jagger.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Look over your preserve shelves and decide what canned delicacies of your own making you will present for Christmas. Dainty parchment paper tops and ribbons may be added at any time to avoid the Christmas rush.

Fresh applesauce jelly may be made in small batches and is delicious with winter meats.

The peanuts season is now open. Panacea are perfectly wholesome if light and tender, and if they are not cooked in fat in the baking and not washed down with an undue amount of syrups or other sweets.

Try baking beans with small sausages instead of salt pork. When baked beans are left over from a meal, use them in sandwiches or timbales.

Remember by cook strong flavored winter vegetables in boiling salted water, uncovered. Do not cook cabbage more than twenty or thirty minutes. Leaks or onions cooked with potatoes are a tasty combination for snappy weather soups, scallops or purees.

Watch the vegetables in storage to see that the ventilation and moisture are right. Remove at once any that show signs of spoiling are.

Use cold cauliflower, beets and cabbage left over from one meal in salads for another.

Cranberry Nectar.

Place in a saucepan 2 pounds of cranberries, 2 quarts of water, 4 pounds of sugar. Stir well, and heat slowly to boiling point, then cook for 20 minutes; strain through jelly bag or filter; place when cold in the punch bowl; add 3 bananas cut in thin slices, 1 pound of marshmallows cut in tiny bits, 2 quarts of crushed ice. Stir to blend and serve. This is a delicious but economical punch.

Fate, slay your hand,

Ah, yes, my eager spirit
Asks so much—
There are so many things I long to do;
There are so many heights
That I would reach—
So many ways to go—I know so few!

Ah, no, I have not
Had enough of Life!
The world is wide—is wonderful, and sweet;
But I have only trod
The narrow ways,
The far, strange places have not known my feet!

There is so much of Beauty
I would see,
That I may miss . . . I beg this boon, O Fate!
And Death—hold off!
Give me a longer time!
Life, lift the cup, I am insatiate!

"IT'S WORTH FETCHING"

LINKED LIVES

By D. Kinmount Roy

MacAlpin turned away, trying hard to swallow something in his throat, the old man's words, empty and desolate ringing in his ears, and the pitiful refrain, "Dead and gone, dead and gone, dead and gone, following him upon the still morning air.

Among Reginald Hardcastle's belongings, which in due time reached his father, there was a letter, the drift of which can only be surmised, but be that as it may, the Squire was never the same man again.

Old Martin was right; the Squire had lived for his son, he had acquired wealth for his son, he had sinned, and cheated, and plotted other men's destruction for his son; and this son had died cursing him, flinging in his teeth his wealth, which, living or dying, he disdained to touch.

It was the kind of blow from which the Squire was not likely to recover. His son was mad, he said to himself, mad and he had thrown away his life for sheer nothing! He had piled up a mass of romantic fiction without reason. Why, in Heaven's name, should he, Reginald Hardcastle, forego his own best interests for any man's friendship? Why should a pretty face and a form of words bring him to poverty when he might have wealth and honour? To think that a man of his genius, who only needed a good safe start to show the world what brains could do in the splendid art of money-getting, should be foiled at last by his own son, pulled down like a stag at bay by senseless hounds.

The news smote him as a hurricane might smite a mountain oak—fearless and strong, but when it passed. That his son was dead was terrible enough, but it came at the bitterest moment of his life; the moment when, man of iron as he was, he craved for one human touch of fellowship; some sympathetic appreciation of his motives and genius in achieving success. And instead—bitterness for him, for whom he had achieved so successfully had not only thrown his life away, but died cursing him—cursing his own father, with his latest breath!

He had ever been a man of keen mind, unscrupulous in his methods and unrelenting in his hate; and yet with such an impressive veneer of suavity that most men that encountered were deceived. But now the merciless wind of adversity blew upon him; and the purple fell from him, the soft clothing in which he had so long wrapped himself, was torn to shreds, and the real man, naked to the very soul, shivered in the bitter blast. His instincts had never been high, but his wit was far too keen and calculating not to see the advantage to be gained by the careful observance of certain forms. Such small moralities as were required were got only perfectly easy, but distinctly useful in business, and he was highly becoming in a man of his position.

Recent events, however, had played with his mind to a most unwholesome, and with the character which he had so long sustained. It was, in truth, a desperate, stunning moment of extreme bitterness to such a man.

He was no longer young; and cultivated men whom he had despised for their dullness had baulked him in all his interests, robbed him of the distinction he coveted, robbed him of his son, and laid his honour in the dust! Yes, his honour! He would dare any man to deny that he was entitled to honour and respect, upon a hundred or more solid grounds! He was rich, in spite of all men's malice, so rich that he could afford to pay back every penny Maitland would pretend was due for his client, with interest, and still be wealthy beyond many men's dreams! He rubbed his hands, with a touch of his old satisfaction, and smiled, well-pleased, for the moment, with his own thoughts.

But the dark mood changed, and the weary look crept back into his keen old eyes. A puzzled, bedraggled sense of something unanswerable and terrible touched him. What, in Heaven's name, is sense, he asked himself? Ah—he knew full well that it had been his at times, in lightning flashes of terror which chilled his whole being. "And yet," he said, in a voice of weariness, "war!—of course business is war, war on other men and other interests when they clash with your own. It is a game of brains—the finer enough game to entice for that reason. You look after yourself; that's all it means! You plan your success and you work out your plans; it is only fools who expect a man to pause to let lame dogs pass.' He had never been a fool. And yet; somehow, things were not right—in short, they were wrong, very much wrong; and hence the perplexity which haunted Eric Hardcastle. The very dead seemed to rise before him, until the room appeared peopled with accusing forms. A man, he whispered, should be able to forget at will. 'It is the very devil of a thing, to have to remember, whether or not!'

'It should not be—should not be!' said, raising, he shood himself as though to free his person from some actual touch of compulsion.

It was a glorious night. The moon was at the full, and not a breath stirred a leaf. He passed through the open window on to the balcony of the villa which he had rented in the neighbourhood of Naples. The prospect, in the soft moonlight, was one of marvellous loveliness. The bay was like a sea of glass, on which ships,—phantom ships they might have been,—passed under full sail to their unknown haven. Vesuvius rose grandly in the distance with all its fund mystery; and beyond, the mountains stood out in faint outline; the whole making a picture to treasure to one's dying day. But the man who now paced up and down the narrow space was seeing other things.

SHORT STORIES FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

Madge's Dimple Ecar

Madge Walker was very shy and reserved. She seldom went out in a crowd, and when she did she was always embarrassed and ill at ease. All her friends knew why, but they never mentioned it, as that would only have made matters worse.

When Madge was a little girl she had been in an accident. The automobile turned over. Madge was thrown through the windshield, and a big gash was cut in her right cheek. When the wound healed it left a deep scar of which Madge had always been very sensitive. She knew all the girls pitied her. Sometimes she felt that she just couldn't stand the unspoken pity in their eyes.

One day she heard the doctor's wife say, "Isn't it a shame? She would have been such a pretty girl, too, if—" Madge waited to hear no more. Running home she threw herself on the bed and sobbed until her mother found her there some hours later.

Mrs. Walker was worried about her daughter. Madge was thin and pale and had no appetite. "How would you like to go to visit Aunt Kate?" she asked one day. Madge said she would like to go. Aunt Kate lived in the country, so she would not have to be facing people every day.

"I'm afraid you'll find it rather dull here, Madge," Aunt Kate said, "but there's a family of young folks about your age down the road. I'll have them up tomorrow so you can get acquainted."

"I don't mind it being dull," Madge hastened to say, "I don't like meeting strangers. I'd rather not, truly."

"Well, speaking of angels," laughed her aunt, "here comes Dick after the milk now. He's one of the boys."

Dick grinned as he shook Madge's hand, and Madge smiled timidly back at him. "I've heard all about you from your aunt," he said. "I know the color of your eyes and your hair, but she never mentioned your dimple!"

"Dimple—" Madge gasped. Could it be that he did not know it was a scar? It didn't seem right to deceive him.

"A scar!" Dick exclaimed. No! really! Gee, my sister would go through half a dozen accidents to get a dimple like that!" Madge laughed. "Say, do you suppose your aunt would let you go to the church social tonight with us " he added. "You could meet all the kids and we'll have a lot of fun."

"I'd li'e to," smiled Madge. "I just love to meet new people."

First Steps in Acting

FIRST STEPS IN ACTING:

Stage-Speech.

(Mr. Charles T. H. Jarvis, president of the American School of Opera, and known throughout the country as one of the most prominent stage directors of light and grand opera, gives in this article some valuable hints on the art of stage speaking.)

One way to be sure of your play being a success, is to which closely the pronouncing of the "lines" or words. There are many faults in stage-speech that must be guarded against. The first and most important is not to let your voice drop at the end of sentences. Those sitting outside, who go to make up the audience, want to hear what you have to say, and they will be disappointed if you fail to utter every word in a firm, clear voice.

To avoid this fault, take deep breaths and then begin to talk. You will soon see that in order to utter some of the longer sentences of your part you have to breathe quickly, and through your mouth. The simple training will prevent your getting out of breath towards the end of a long speech.

Often you have heard people talking in the dark, and it is easy to tell whether they are smiling or not, just from the tones of their voices. So it must be with your speech. If you are supposed to be surprised, or delighted, your eyes should be wide open. Or if you are in deep thought or pain, the eyes should be partly closed, and your voice should rise or fall with these different expressions. If you feel what you say you will soon notice that your voice will rise and fall in the same manner.

Mumbling, of course, is a bad fault, but by following the breathing exercise you can overcome it. While really means the sound of your voice is the air you breathe into your lungs reaching out. And it follows that if you take a deep breath and start to talk your voice will be loud, or if you breathe easily your voice will be soft and full of tones. So it is easy to something that makes your stage-speech good or bad. Most great actors take breathing exercises, and you should do the same.

Shiny Clothes.

When pressing clothing that show shiny places add a little vinegar to the water in which you dampen the cloth you put over the garment while pressing.

Better Fruit Cake.

Brown the flour before using it in fruit cake; it will give it a most delicious flavor. Use an aluminum frying-pan for this purpose, adding care not to burn the flour.

When Poaching Eggs.

To poach eggs successfully, grease the pan, have the water boiling, stir vigorously and drop egg into the middle of the swirl. Eggs never separate when prepared in this way.

Sweeten whipped cream by adding a teaspoon of strained honey instead of sugar. It not only gives the cream a delightful flavor but causes it to stay whipped and firm all day.

ACTIVITIES OF CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

residing district being the stated objects of the Belleville Board of Commerce, its activities include a wide range of promotional work. General direction and administration of these activities is entrusted to a board of nine directors, all of whom are elected by the whole membership.

With a definite and recognized mandate from the members as adopted at the time of the first organization in 1918 and reaffirmed by the reorganization of 1922, the Chamber of Commerce is striving to work WITH the community as well as FOR the community to build here an ideal and well-balanced city in which all citizens may find scope and opportunity for the highest form of development.

The following summary is submitted to justify continued and increased support from all citizens who believe that concerted and co-ordinated effort is the most powerful factor in civic advancement; that in fact, it is only there is a recognizable difference between what we as a community have, and what we should have, that there is plenty of work for a thoroughly representative, non-partisan community organization such as the Chamber of Commerce.

Industrial Development.

Municipal expenditures that have more than doubled in Belleville within the past few years and the low density of our population, occupying 1,800 acres of land, or less than 7 persons to an acre on the average, clearly indicate that one of our greatest needs is more population, profitably employed, to reduce our per capita expenditure, share the burden of debt and help pay for the many services.

The quickest way to do this is to establish large added more industries to provide employment. More employment in industry means the evolution of new trade from the local industrial products which through the channel of pay-roll, salaries and retail trade or capital, invested increases the city's total wealth and municipal revenues.

Best Industrial Year in Our History.

Notwithstanding the fact that conventional methods are for a better word, Belleville has had, in regard to new industrial establishments, by far the best year in its history. More than nine new manufacturing organizations have either been developed or have located here in the past twelve months.

Three of the new industries are controlled by American interests, one firm, and are the first American manufacturing plants to find a home in Belleville. These have without one dollar having been paid out by way of bonuses or special concessions of any kind and no bonds have been guaranteed.

No other town or city in our class in this province or in Eastern Ontario can if we include cities with double our population, can show so excellent an industrial record as has been established by Belleville.

Made-in-Belleville Exhibition.

Belleville's industrial importance was fittingly demonstrated last October, when seventy of our manufacturing concerns co-operated with the committee to hold a made-in-Belleville exhibition. The total number of admissions exceeded 17,000, and it is no exaggeration to say that every visitor was amazed by the wonderful variety, scope and extent of the products on display.

A great impetus was given to local patriotism and civic pride by the completeness by this spectacular proof that Belleville was fast rising to a position of true importance in the world of industry.

Presentation to Mr. Robb.

The Chamber of Commerce joined forces with the City Council to recognize in an adequate manner the long and conspicuous services of D. Robb, a former townsman, who had been promoted to become vice-president and general manager of the Grand Trunk Railway System.

The visit of Sir Henry Thornton, Sir Joseph Flavelle, Mr. Robb and the other high officials of the Grand Trunk and Canadian National Railways, the presentation of the freedom of the city, accompanied by a golden key, and the culminating success in the grand banquet at Hotel Quinte are events that will not soon fade from the memory of those who were privileged to take part.

Get-Together Spirit.

In January, 1921, the Chamber of Commerce also co-operated with the City Council to give a complimentary banquet to the Hastings County Council. For a number of years prior to that time there had been a succession of events that had been the cause of petty irritation and the good relations that should subsist between country and city were being somewhat seriously disturbed.

The first Get-Together banquet in 1921 was the beginning of better things, and since that time the utmost harmony has prevailed between the various representative bodies and representatives themselves, and the good feeling there created has spread out among the general body of citizenship.

In January, 1922, the second Get-Together banquet was held with Hon. Nelson Parliament as principal speaker of the evening. The event was on a more elaborate scale than it was the year before and pronounced by all to be an evening of rare enjoyment and good fellowship.

The Council, but to be outdone in this spirit of accommodation, and the members of the City Council, the representatives of other civic bodies and leading citizens, as guests of the Warden's banquet in December, when Warden Kells was host to a jolly company of about 150 persons to say, harmonious relations were further promoted and cemented at this splendid function.

Renewal Campaign.

The three-year contracts for membership secured in 1920 by the original promoters of the Chamber of Commerce expired for the most part on Nov. 30, 1922.

A general meeting of members was called early in November and there was a unanimous expression of opinion in favor of continuing the organization as already established. It was felt that the work accomplished, in spite of some unfortunate experiences the first year and the most serious commercial depression and disturbance of business since the time of the Napoleonic war, had been of such high value to the promotion of the civic welfare that to call for a cessation of effort would be an act of supreme folly.

A Renewal Campaign was therefore undertaken and entered upon in November and in spite of bad business conditions and several other campaigns for funds during the same period, the canvassers emerged with a total of 361 membership applications. The result was most gratifying under the circumstances, but further support is needed to bring the membership up to a total it is felt would give to the organization an adequate working fund.

This renewal campaign was entirely organized and carried out by the staff of the Chamber of Commerce without outside assistance or suggestions, the entire cost of the renewal campaign, including printing, advertising and all other expenses, was less than $350, a very modest amount as compared with the cost of the original campaign, three years ago.

Out of Debt.

When the present manager first entered upon his duties in November, 1920, there was a debt hanging over the Chamber of Commerce of $4,000. Of this amount $2,500 was in the form of a note at the Union Bank, and there was, in addition, $500 in open debts. At the time of writing this original indebtedness has all been cleared off and the Chamber of Commerce has, for the first time in its history a clear sheet at the bank. It is believed that there is now a sufficient reserve of quick assets in the ship does to carry the organization through the year without further borrowing. Only the most rigid economy and careful financing has enabled the directors to make this excellent showing.

Permanent Exhibition.

A satisfactory beginning has been made in the establishment of a permanent exhibition at the Chamber of Commerce building of the natural resources of the mine, the forest, the farm and the fisheries.

Through the kindness of Bancroft Marbles, Limited, a beautiful pedestal, composed of nine varieties of marble from the company's quarries near Bancroft, was placed in the manager's office at the Chamber of Commerce and has been the scenes of many pleased compliments and many inquiries.

A number of other fine mineral specimens have been received from various donors.

It is the intention now to procure show cases for a proper display of the specimens and these will be purchased as soon as sufficient funds are in hand.

Boy of Quinte Navigation.

Strenuous and repeated efforts have been made by the Chamber of Commerce to secure a restoration of the regular steamboat passenger service to the Bay of Quinte route.

Partial success has at last crowned our work, and it is believed that a full attainment of our hopes will later be realized.

A definite promise has at last been obtained from Canada Steamship Lines to place that beautiful and prosperous steamer, "Cape Trinity," on the Toronto-Prescott route with a triweekly western service through the Bay of Quinte.

Belleville's Enhanced Reputation.

No other town or city in Ontario, east of Hamilton, maintains a Chamber of Commerce, along modern lines, similar to that established at Belleville. The various beneficent effects on our community life that have been so conspicuously shown in the last few years have excited much curiosity in neighboring urban municipalities. As a result the manager has received a multitude of requests for information pursued here. The manager has also been asked to address various civic bodies in a number of towns and cities and has within the last few days received an invitation to deliver a series of lectures on modern methods of commerce work to the students in the Department of Commerce and Administration of Queen's University, Kingston.

Well Supported.

The manager expresses his personal gratitude to the Board of Directors for the loyal support and co-operation they have extended to him the past year. The utmost harmony has prevailed, and there has never been a disagreeable word in the board since the time of his first engagement. The manager is particularly indebted to the retiring president, Mr. H. F. Ketcheson, than whom the Chamber of Commerce has no more devoted friend. Our directors are among the best of our leading citizens, and the way they have given of their time and means from week to week in the city's service affords a fine evidence of civic patriotism.

Multifarious Activities.

In the brief confines of this report it is manifestly impossible to touch upon only a small fraction of the multifarious activities of the Chamber of Commerce. Thousands of letters have been sent out and thousands received and answered. Deputations have been sent out, journeys have been undertaken, conventions have been attended. A multitude of matters, have been shown courteous and entertained in various ways. In brief, the directors, officials, committees and members have been active during to make of Belleville a city and community of which every citizen may feel justly proud, with confidence and pride and in which loyalty and devotion to the common weal are the outstanding characteristics of every dweller within the civic bounds.

J. O. HERITY,
Manager.

The following new applicants for membership were voted upon and unanimously received into the membership with the association: D. G. Bleecker, E. T. Cherry, J. A. Cokers, W. A. Elliott, R. M. Hall, Thomas Holland, R. Oliphant & Son, D. W. Hollins, J. S. Cook, H. H. Hastings, William Seward, George J. Forbes, John Elliott, T. W. Brignall, Dr. H. Connor, Thomas Manley, J. W. Lill, Dr. C. Ramsay, T. C. Rose, and R. L. Zufelt.

Considerable discussion took place as to plans for general meetings for the coming year. Mr. H. J. Clarke suggested that they engage Dr. Hastings, M.O.H., Toronto, to address a general meeting of the members. Mr. Clarke represented that the death rate in Belleville, 2.05 per 1,000, was altogether too high. Belleville, in this respect, was the second highest among the towns and cities of Ontario. Other cities established a record of only about half that of Belleville. Such conditions call for an investigation particularly of our milk and water supply.

Mr. J. A. Cokers kindly offered to supply several moving picture films to assist in the entertainment.

Mr. John Elliott suggested that general meetings of the membership should be held at least once a month.

After considerable discussion which was taken part in by Messrs. G. A. Reid, W. C. Reid, C. St. Greenfield, Charles Hanna, Arthur McGie, Norman Turner, Fred Smith and a number of others, a motion was carried to hold a general meeting of the members to which the public would be invited to discuss local conditions in the city. On a motion of Messrs. H. J. Clarke and O. A. Reid, a cordial vote of thanks was tendered to the directors and Manager J. O. Herity for their efforts during the past year to promote the welfare of Belleville.

GAINED 65 POUNDS!

"Five years ago when I was first married, I had wonderful energy. I could be at it all day long and without feeling the least bit fatigued. I had a good appetite and could eat anything. I weighed 140 pounds. I used to be very busy minute of the day and every day was over. I could go to bed and never waken once during the night. Thirteen months ago my first baby was born. After that my energy seemed to leave me. I was tired all the time. I had to force myself to do my household duties. Instead of being pleasure as formerly, it became a real task. I lost all energy for food and nothing would tempt me. I had to make myself eat. I would get up at night and toss from side to side for hours at a time. And while I would doze off only to be awakened by some trifling noise or even afternoon time. Naturally every morning came, not having rested, I started the day completely tired out. I was shaky and nervous, would startle at the slightest noise and make my heart race terribly. I could see that my husband was worried. I was losing weight steadily and in a few months I had lost 30 pounds. I tried all kinds of tonics, but they didn't help me. One night a night I called never forget because it marked me on the way to health. I had come home early my husband brought in a box of Cascarets. A friend told him that Cascarets had helped his wife's fix, so he hastened them my trying it. Six weeks after I began taking Cascarets my weight increased from 93 pounds to 105, an increase of 65 pounds. And, oh, I feel those days I Every morning I fairly jump out of bed ready to tackle anything and every minute of the day is a joy to me now!"

Cascarets is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money. 8-222

CROUP, YIELDS TO TREATMENT WITH VAPORIZING SALVE

Canada Mothers Are Delighted With a New Discovery that Avoids Unpleasant Dosing

REPORTS OF TESTS IN 15,000 CANADA HOMES

Belleville mothers who are nightly haunted by fears of croup attacks will be interested in reports of the tests of Vicks Vapo Rub made last winter in Ontario and Quebec homes.

Vicks is the famous external treatment for colds, recently imported here from the States, where over 70 million jars of it were used in the last four years.

Each druggist in eight big cities in Canada and the Province gave out in twelve of his customers a full sized jar of Vicks, to be tried—on the sole condition that the recipient would report the results of its use.

Specimens of these reports are available for inspection in the form of hosts in croup and other cold troubles.

Has a Direct Double Action.

Vicks is a clear, white, spirting salve, the invention of an obscure druggist of a little town of North Carolina, U.S.A., who discovered how to combine Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Thyme and Turpentine, in such a way that when the preparation is rubbed on over throat and chest not only does it penetrate thru and thru as no salve can, but at the same time the action of the body heat vaporizes the ingredients and their medicated vapors, when inhaled with each breath, directly into the affected air passages.

In bronchial croup, you just rub Vicks well over throat and chest until the difficult breathing is relieved, then cover with a flannel cloth.

Relief should come within 15 minutes. One application at bedtime will prevent night attacks.

For common colds, sore throat and sore, stuffy heads, spread Vicks over a hot, flannel cloth, leaving clothing or bedcoverings loose about the neck and chest, so that medicated vapors arising may be freely inhaled.

For deep chest colds, or threatened pneumonia, apply Vicks freely and open the skin pores and then use Vicks.

For catarrh, asthma and head colds, you melt a little Vicks in a spoon and inhale the vapors. Also insert some in the nostrils and snuff well back.

For cuts, burns, stings and other skin inflammations or congestions, apply Vicks as a salve.

Child Has Double Attack.

Mrs. F. Hall, of 273 Grey St., London, Ont., says: "A few days ago my little boy, three and one-half years old, had first bronchitis then croup, so I thought it a good chance to try Vicks Vapo Rub. I used it exactly as your directions said and the treatment seemed to relieve him greatly. I think the treatment is splendid."

Mr. Keeling of 1106 Newmarch St., Verdun, Montreal, says: "I found Vicks very good for colds on the chest. My boy suffers with a croupy cough and on his chest well with it and I get very good results. It is also good for colds in the head."

Mrs. H. Mulholland of Grandview Brantford, Ont., writes us: "We tried your Vicks Vapo Rub for sore throat and colds and found it excellent. Many others in this neighborhood that we know, have tried it and found it extra good. We can recommend it to anyone to have in the house where there are small children."

MINING COMMENT

The strength in Hollinger, which accompanied reports of its acquisition of a new waterpower, is due in part to reports that the company is about to place an order for two of the largest crushing machines in the north. Replacement of the steam batteries is likely to begin shortly and the company hopes to be treating over 9,000 tons of ore daily within eighteen months. This would give it production around the 800,000 a month and necessitate the employment of another thousand men.

WALL STREET.

The week opened with the international situation very little changed from this time last week. The signs continue to be a long-drawn-out one. The markets at the end of the week hold a very strong tone, although activity is not wide, and trading is to a large extent professional.

REVIVED FROM TRADING

The committee on securities of the New York Curb Market announced today that it had removed from trading all international issues of German marks, Austrian kroners and Russian rubles, which are payable in the currency of these countries. Curb market officials stated that there was no provision handling German, Austrian and Russian securities payable in currency of those countries, their values being so much in the vanishing point, and no business was being done in them.

Several of the Russian government current issues, payable in currency other than rubles, were still being traded in, it was said.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Wheat prices showed firmness today in the early dealings, the market being upheld by reports that Germany had arranged for credits through private German firms and individuals having deposits in America and England. Commission houses were buyers to a fair extent and there was no aggressive selling. The fact that world's shipments of wheat were smaller than had been predicted was a handicap to bears. Opening prices, which ranged from 1¼ cent decline to 1 cent gain, were followed by slight gains all around and then something of a reaction.

previously to go hunting, though "Scobie Dan" borrowed an ammunition. When he brought it back on Saturday he brought some shells with it. McDonald had shown no signs of emotion when he was returning the rifle, said Rutherford.

Mrs. John Stuart, who was lying sick at the Kay home when the tragedy occurred, said:

"I was lying in a bed downstairs and could see the kitchen. I saw Mr. Donald there. I saw him with a pe. In his hand, arguing with Mr. and Mrs. Kay."

Mrs. Stout explained that she was hard of hearing and could not hear what McDonald and the Kays were saying.

CELLS OF HEARING SHOTS.

"Then I heard a shot," she continued. "The little girl, Mildred Kay only child of the deceased, came running into the bedroom; then I saw Mr. Kay run from the dining-room to the hall. I heard another shot. Mr. Kay, near the hall door, threw up his hands and yelled 'Oh!' I heard four steps rushing upstairs and another shot."

Robert Ross then told how on Saturday McDonald had been in the poolroom playing pool and two came in and asked Ross if he knew George Kay was dead. "Then," said Ross, "McDonald said 'I shot him.' I said 'What is that?' 'Yes,' said he, 'I shot him.' Then he went on play ing pool for some 15 minutes and

"California Fig Syrup" Is Child's Best Laxative

Hurry mother! Even a cross, sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup" and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful today may prevent a sick child tomorrow. If constipated, bilious, feverish, fretful, has cold, colic, or if stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good cleansing of the little bowels is often all that is necessary.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

an environment for the guests. The K of C. Council Chambers were suitably furnished, and reserved for card games, and many snappy exhibitions of Euchre, Bridge and Five Hundred were played. The winners in the card contest were Mrs. Carroll, Mrs. Lloyd and Frank Corrigan, Mrs. J. Foits and Mrs. G. Tice. Mr. Lynch received a shaving mug; Mr. Dunphy, an ash tray, Mrs. Foits, one hair dosen cut glass wine glasses, and Mrs. Tice, a cut glass cake plate.

During the progress of the dance, several specialties were introduced, and possibly the stellar attraction of the evening; was the first time that the "Gallagher and Sheehan" novelty, when paper hats were issued to the gay dancers, and serpentine streamers which were thrown about, not only caused much merriment, but also added the spice of revelry to the affair. On the inside of one of the hats named, there was a number, and the wearer of the hat, won the 5 pound box of chocolates. Mrs. O. A. Lee was the lucky winner. The dances and the extra added contented the first half of the program, after which the guests were served a delicious cooked supper. Officers of the Council were in charge of the supper, and everything was carried out admirably. Mrs. Wilson and Co. are to be congratulated upon their selection of numbers for the dance, choosing to render the latest hits, rather than delving back into the music cabinet, for the song and dance hits of yesteryear.

Sewer Foreman Trapped By Gas Was Found Dead

Cried for Help to Companion Who Was Almost Overcome

TRAGEDY IN MONTREAL

Firemen With Gas Masks Attempted Rescue—Body Recovered Nearly Four Hours Later

Trapped by gas in a sewer beneath St. Catherine street, near Delorme avenue, Outremont, Alphonse Pare, foreman in the Montreal city sewer department, was suffocated to death by deadly fumes late yesterday afternoon while his comrades made unsuccessful attempts to rescue him. Marcel Emery, companion of the dead man, reached the street level in a fainting condition after he had made a vain effort to succor the stricken man, power gas of choking density driving him to the surface.

In spite of attempts by men of the city fire and sewer departments who were quickly on the scene, Pare lay there and a half hours before Pare was brought to the street level, and life was ebbing out of him. Pare left a wife and seven children. He had been employed by the city sewer department for over ten years, and resided at 2224 St. Andre street.

Marcel Emery, who accompanied Pare on the trip through the sewer, said they had descended a man-hole some nine hundred feet to the eastward of Dumont avenue, when Pare, overcome road. Pare led the way, crawling through the sewer about two hundred feet ahead of Emery, and pushed about until he had passed some six distance beyond the man-hole at Sumet street. Suddenly Pare stopped speaking, and as the same instant heard a cry from his foreman in front, "Come to me, Marcel, I am faint-ing," called Pare, and Emery, answering, "I am coming," crawled with all possible speed towards his comrade. But the gas fumes quickly became denser, and before Emery had gone many feet he was enfeebled that he would be overcome before he could reach Pare. He made his way back as best he could to the manhole at Sumet street, where he was lifted to the surface. Restoratives were administered and he soon recovered.

The city fire department was notified to send help and left at once for the scene, bringing with them respirating gas masks, while more masks, together with lighting equipment.

Although the manhole at Sumet street was opened immediately after Emery had reached the surface, in order that fresh air in the sewer, gas, it assisted for some time in sufficient quantities to make attempts at rescue impossible. More masks were then secured, and advising their gas masks made their way down the manhole and formed a chain, each man in front nearest to the place where Pare was trapped. But a new trouble developed for it was found that the masks were lowering to pass through the sewer, whilst it approximately three feet by two feet in size, and the rescuers were forced to return to the surface.

At eight o'clock, as soon as the fumes had cleared away sufficiently to make another attempt possible, Capt. Quinet, Dupras and Dube, together with Joseph Dubois, Chief Bonchers' chauffeur, without masks, entered the hole once more equipped with a long rope, and crawled towards the spot where Pare's body was known to be lying. About 250 feet from the hole the rescuers came upon the body. Pare lay on the two or three inches of slim that covered the bottom of the sewer, and with the gas fumes rapidly before the face as if to ward off blow. The rope was passed and the body quickly hauled and quickly carried to the manhole, where it was brought to the surface after some difficulty. It was then 8.30.

It had been realized for some time that Pare could hardly be alive after so long a period, over three and a half hours, in sewer gas, and that a cure from the body and pronounced life the morgue was in waiting. Dr. Tinct.

George E. Laris, of 16 Chabrol avenue, who had been examined, examined the body and pronounced life

GERMANY'S MORATORIUM EXPIRES TO-NIGHT

Preliminary Organization of Co-Operative Methods

Organizers Met Here Yesterday to Formulate Marketing Plans—Meetings Arranged

Must Sell Shares First

County to be Canvassed. Doherty Organizer Does Not Send Milk to Cheese Factory

The aims and objects of the Ontario Co-operative Dairy Products, Limited, was outlined yesterday afternoon by Mr. E. H. Bronsdon, of Toronto, who is one of the directors of the organization. The meeting was held in the Council Chamber of the city building and was sparsely attended, there being present but two or three residents of cheese factories and a few men who are interested in cheese production. It was termed a committee meeting for the purpose of laying out plans whereby meetings could be held in Hastings County at convenient localities, where the value of the Association could be thoroughly discussed.

Mr. Bronsdon explained quite explicitly the organization. It was, he said, purely a co-operative association of dairy products and for the marketing of dairy products. It was a farmers' organization and was non-political.

He contended that by a united effort for selling purposes they could maintain an effective sales agency that would prove beneficial to all concerned. In reference to the Association itself, Mr. Bronsdon stated that the directors were patrons of cheese factories or creameries. To assure that the directors will be democratically elected, the Province was divided into districts and each section is represented by a director. All were deeply interested in the development of the dairy industry. Something, the speaker said, must be done to retain the British market for our cheese and butter, also to have more cheese consumed in Canada.

We have in Canada a population of nine million, and only 52 million pounds of cheese is consumed annually—less than three pounds for each inhabitant.

Another thing, the speaker said, that should be encouraged, was the putting up of cheese in small packages, which was preferable with many. We are, he said, on the dividing line of going ahead or backward, in the cheese trade. In trying to make our business more profitable we must increase the value of our product, and the marketing of the product in a proper manner was essential.

We have in the past been content in handing over our product to the other fellow to market it and sell to the highest bidder.

In referring to how the association was being carried on, Mr. Stonehouse said that working capital would be provided by sale of stock to members. Stock subscription would be in proportion to the amount of product marketed through the Association. Each factory would therefore finance the Association according to the amount of business done through it. This arrangement makes the financing equitable as between large and small factories. The shares are $100 each.

In concluding his remarks Mr. Stonehouse stated Hastings County was a large territory and it might be well to divide it for organization work, south and south, Mr. Bronsdon's central places could be held and information given in an intelligent manner.

In answer to an inquiry Mr. Stonehouse said he did not send any milk to a cheese factory, but was a dairyman.

Mr. Campbell, who is president of a cheese factory, stated that Hon. Mr. Doherty had hurt the cheese industry through the imposition of the Dairy Standards Act.

Mr. Stonehouse—We are discussing the marketing of our cheese and endeavoring by this means of cooperation to make it more profitable to the dairyman. The question was: Are we going to take charge of our own business and carry on our own business methods?

Mr. A. Moore—Many are opposed

Girl Mistaken For Rival Lover Disfigured For Life

Quebec Woman Hurls Powerful Potash in Girl's Face at Church Door

"I Have Been Blinded"

Victim Said as She Staggered From Church—First Aid Rendered by Nuns —Mistaken Identity

St. Hyacinthe, Jan. 31.—Prompted by jealously and misled by mistaken identity, a woman, who has not yet been arrested, threw a box of powerful potash in the face of Miss Eglantine Reeves, as the latter was leaving the cathedral, after saying her prayers. The right side of the victim's face was burned and scarred, so thoroughly did the deadly caustic do its work, and she was temporarily blinded. A rich fur coat which she was bearing at the time was completely ruined.

Miss Reeves, second daughter of Prosper Reeves, a well-to-do citizen, had just left the church by the main entrance, when she noticed a young woman leave the side door. When they were on the road the woman threw the potash squarely in the face of Miss Reeves, then turned and fled.

Miss Reeves staggered back to the church, shouting "Help! I have been blinded," and Father Richards and Lacasse, priests, in the sacristy, to where first aid was rendered by nuns from the Hotel Dieu.

For hours afterwards she suffered agonizing pains and for a long time it was doubted is she would regain her sight.

The Chief of Police claims that he has the suspected woman under close supervision, saying her arrest will follow shortly. The theory commonly held is that the assailant mistook Miss Reeves for a rival for the affections of a man and threw the unusual weapon before she had discovered her error of identity.

Mr. J. G. Henly, on behalf of the Lion's Club, presented Dr. Norman Neilson, Secretary of the Lion's Club, with a writing portfolio on the eve of his departure from Belleville for London, England, where he has received an appointment in a clinic in that Metropolis.

Dr. Neilson is so, since arrival in Belleville some five years ago, made many fast friends, always being willing to serve others, and never dominated his profession, but by his business and professions are built, by the community surrounding them, and Dr. Neilson has ever vindicated his interest in this community, never being too infersted in personal work, to aid community work.

SHARP EXCHANGE IN LEGISLATURE BETWEEN FERGUSON AND RANEY

Ferguson Charges Attorney-General Suppressed Re-timber Limits—Raney Enters Denial

TIMBER PROBE

Commission of Judges Scored—Hurt Lumbering Industry—Plenty of Repartee at Toronto

Hon. G. H. Ferguson, commencing his address in reply to the speech from the Throne in the Legislature yesterday, said the speech was the most attenuated and anaemic specimen of its kind he had ever heard, containing not a single constructive suggestion from the Government.

Passing at once to the Timber Probe, he was surprised at the parsimony of the Government in paying Commissioner Riddell and Latchford so little as $12,000 each for their services.

"I think it was not enough, and I can only explain it by suggesting that they did not do all that the Government wanted and expected them to do," laughed Mr. Ferguson.

"It was a sort of smelling committee, raving about the provinces seeking for abuses in the timber industry."

When its report was brought in it was a whitewash for the Government, and the Prime Minister, at great expense, brought his friend, Dr. Judson Clarke, from the United States. In a very few pages Dr. Clarke reversed the report of the commission. He said that not a dollar had been lost through lax administration, and he reported against the commission's report in other respects.

ACCUSES ATTORNEY-GENERAL

Mr. Ferguson stated that Mr. Raney had deliberately suppressed the expressing a letter that would have assisted The Evening Telegram in the Backus vs. Telegram suit.

Mr. Ferguson stated that a letter was on Mr. Raney's desk dated Oct. 4, in which it was stated that the limit was ready to be put up for sale.

"I say" said Mr. Ferguson, "that Mr. Raney succeeded in suppressing this letter at the Telegram trial. The files were open to Backus, and departmental officials had them all nicely tabulated for his (Backus') counsel, while counsel for the other side did not have the same opportunity."

Mr. Raney—"The Hon. member's statement is a deliberate lie, or deliberately false."

SHARP EXCHANGE.

Mr. Ferguson—"Before I get through this session, I'll show that suppression is a habit of this Government."

Mr. Raney—"Take the hides on the fence you are still hunting for."

Mr. Ferguson—"The successful hunter is a man who has the genius and brilliance of the Attorney-General" could not succeed. Dr. Judson Clarke had made a better report than the Riddell-Latchford Comission's findings, which, he pointed out, that the Province had not lost a single dollar under his administration. He strongly condemned the action of the Government blackmailing method in forcing the lumbermen into line with their way of thinking.

HURT LUMBERING INDUSTRY

"Although the Prime Minister of this province is a lumberman, and has his own opinion, he does not know very much about the lumbering industry," said Mr. Ferguson, who pointed out that lumbering was a peculiarly seasonal industry being carried on only in the winter. The Government's methods of administration was driving capital out of Canada, and that both the U.S. and Canadian lumbermen were very much alarmed.

When Premier Drury had learned of a meeting of the Canadian Lumber-

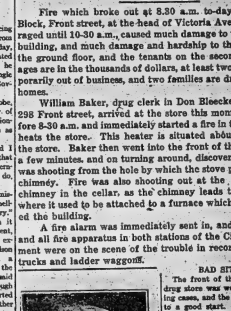
DISASTROUS FIRE RAGED TO-DAY IN FILLITER BLOCK

Thousands of Dollars Damages Suffered by Front Street Stores Owing to Smoke and Water, Resulting From Early Morning Fire—Bleecker's Drug Store, Where Blaze Originated, Was Greatly Damaged



SICK MOVED TO SAFETY BEFORE RUSH OF SMOKE

Firemen Make Good Fight Against Flames in Zero Weather—Caused From Defective Chimney Flue—Dense Volumes of Smoke From Blaze Witnessed by Large Crowd

Fire which broke out at 8.30 a.m. to-day in the Filliter Block, Front street, at the head of Victoria Avenue, and which raged until 10-30 a.m., caused much damage to the three-storey building, and much damage and hardship to the merchants on the ground floor, and the tenants on the second floor. Damages are in the thousands of dollars, at least two stores are temporarily out of business, and two families are driven from their homes.

William Baker, drug clerk in Don Bleecker's Drug Store, 298 Front street, arrived at the store this morning shortly before 8-30 a.m. and immediately started a fire in the stove, which heats the store. This heater is situated about the centre of the store. Baker then went into the front of the store, for but a few minutes, and on turning around, discovered that the fire was shooting from the hole by which the stove pipe entered the chimney. Fire was also shooting out at the bottom of the chimney in the cellar, as the chimney leads to the basement where is used to be attached to a furnace which formerly heated the building.

A fire alarm was immediately sent in, and every fireman, and all fire apparatus in both stations of the City Fire Department were on the scene of the trouble in record time with all trucks and ladder waggonfi.

BAD SITUATION

The front of the basement of the store was filled with boxes, and packing cases, and the fire was soon away to a good start. Volumes of dense smoke poured out from the front of the store, and also at the rear of the block. The fire fighters immediately stopped operations at the cellar, and began to pour water into the basement. Eight lines of hose were attached to the hydrants in short order, two of which were extended down the drive way to the rear of the building, where, a detachment of the brigade were placed in charge of the fire at the rear of the block. Great crowds soon gathered to watch the work, were attracted to the trouble scene, and remained to see the firemen, and watch with the hose in zero weather.

FIREMEN WORK HARD

Fire Chief Brown was right on the job, and was in the thick of the battle against the fire, directing the men and working hard all the time. The firemen also worked indefatigably, though their clothing was coated with ice, and their work was anything but pleasant, and favorable comments on their work were heard on every side. Had the firemen not worked so rapidly and consistently the damages would not have been so quickly extinguished.

City officials had their men on the scene and were busy cut a hole in the snow and ice on the road, and set a box fire where the fire fighters and spectators could get warm.

SMOKE CAUSES DAMAGE

Although the flames were never much in evidence, and were outside at least, yet great volumes of smoke continually poured from the building, and caused the major portion of the damages. Water of course also caused considerable damage to the stock, and also to the floors and walls as well as the furnishings of the apartments above.

STORES DAMAGED

Don Bleecker's Drug Store was the store which suffered the greatest loss the entire stock being badly damaged, and much of it destroyed to the extent that it will be of no commercial value to them. The stock in the drug store was valued at from ten to twelve thousand dollars, much of the stock is a total loss. The floor of this store is picked and damaged, and the joists were so badly burned that they gave way, and the floor sagged some six inches in the center. The front and rear entrance of the hardwood floor, however, sliced greatly in keeping the flames from breaking through, before they were smothered by the volumes of water shot in upon them by the fire hose lines. So what was the floor it was deemed not advisable to attempt to take the heavy show case, containing

TRAGEDY OF DIVORCE SHOWN IN NEW ETHEL CLAYTON PICTURE.

The tragic angle of divorce comes to light when little children of the estranged parents are involved. Chastity of the love of one parent, or both of the parents, is shown to the child is depicted as the birthright and of the parent of which either for happiness and future character. So said a well-known juror after viewing Ethel Clayton's latest Paramount picture, "The Child," which is being exhibited at Griffo's tonight for the last time, a picture in which the problem referred to constitutes the absorbing theme. Charles Meredith, Mary Jane Irving, Anna Lehr, Walter McGrail and Adele Farrington are in the cast of the photoplay, which is adapted from the French play by Eugene Brieux.

"It Repeateth" a funny Mack Sennett comedy, the third chapter of the Sherlock Holmes series, each story complete, the title of this story being "A Case of Identity", a Metz and Jeff Cartoon is also being exhibited on the same program.

"THE WOMAN HE MARRIED" PROVES STEWART SUCCESS.

The large crowds which have been the rule at the Regent Theatre during the three days run there of the Fred Niblo-Jack Pickford production starring Anita Stewart, attests the extreme popularity of this picture. The engagement will end tonight.

Fred Niblo who made "The Three Musketeers", directed "The Woman He Married" and he has turned out one of the most powerful dramas in months. It is one that appeals to all ages and all classes, containing subtle comedy, human interest, romance and a touch of tragedy.

The cast which supports Miss Stewart is most capable one and includes, Darrel Foss, Donald MacDonald, Charlotte Pierce, Shannon Day William, Conklin and Charles Belcher. The story is from the play by Herbert Bashford.

An amusing Sunshine comedy, a new chapter of the popular adventure play, "Breaking Through", and a novelty reel are also being exhibited.

"HAIL THE WOMAN" GREATEST CLASSIC FILM CRITICS SAY.

Declared by critics to be one of the greatest photoplay classics of all times, a human epic of triumphant realism—"Hail the Woman", Thos. H. Ince's super drama of America's life, is coming to Griffo's tomorrow to Saturday, with matinee Saturday.

"There are so many different opinions as to what constitutes a "good picture" in the filmed world of its work, as there are colors in a rainbow! Yet all opinions agree on the subject of "Hail the Woman". One critic, who prides himself on having seen every production of note in the realm of motion pictures, is spellbound through the preview of "Hail the Woman".

At the conclusion of the picture, the critic walked out of the theatre in silence and deep in thought. Then he turned to his companion and said:

"I do not know why some people call a 'good' picture; yet, if a picture that makes you leave the theatre with tears in your eyes, and a large lump in your throat, a desire to contemplate an indefinite something, and a good reason then 'Hail the Woman' is one of the best pictures I have ever seen."

One of greatest casts ever assembled appear in the leading roles of this photoplay and include, Florence Vidor, Theodore Roberts, Charles Meredith, Madge Bellamy, Edward Martindel, Gertrude Claire, Charles Meredith, Lloyd Hughes, Matilda Brundage and Vernon Dent.

"Tomorrow Blues", another of those popular Pathaine Pictorial Classics "Trolley that meets all Trains" comedy series, a Travelogue, and a new chapter of the supreme serial story "Buffalo Bill" are being exhibited on the same program.

"The great thing which has impressed me in the west, "said Mr Anson, in the course of a brief cinter view, "is the pressing need for more population. He stated that it was many years since he had been 'this before and that he could not understand why vast stretches of land h had seen should be so very scarcely settled. "What a glorious country the west would be if it had adequate population, he said. In reply to a question he stated that there would be no advance in the price of news print. Practically all contracts for the coming year was made from 33-4 to 4 cts. Those who know Grant Hall li the olden days in the West recall his remarkable prowess with the gun. Although he now has little time for hunting expeditions he has by no means lost his well known aim. HONORS EVEN FOR SIXTY MINUTES
LAST NIGHT BETWEEN BELLEVILLE INTERMEDIATES AND FRONTENACS

In Overtime Period Home Town Team Simply Galloped With Visitors and Won Going Away—Locals Showed Reversal of Form in Third Period

SCORE 6-3

Many Penalties Dispensed by Referee Farlow—Brown of Kingston Suffered Broken Collar Bone—Weir's Play an Outstanding Feature—A Crowded Rink to See Old Rivals Clash on Good Sheet of Ice

Showing one of the greatest exhibitions of sheer gameness witnessed on local ice for some time, the Belleville Intermediates downed Kingston Frontenacs last evening in a hard-fought overtime battle. They are now in a favorable position to win eight straight games and thus go through the group without a single defeat. Going into the final period trailing on a 3-1 score, they managed to tie up the count, and in the first five minutes of the overtime ran in three goals in rapid succession and put the game on ice.

For two periods they were clearly out-classed; the Frontenacs excelled in combinating, checking, and if last in every department of the game. But the third frame saw the return of the old fighting spirit. They literally dusted the Frontenacs into the ground and kept up a constant bombardment on McNeil until finally they belted the twine behind him. Condition played a very prominent part in Belleville's victory. When the Frontenacs were ready to drop from exhaustion and overwork the locals crept in on McNeil three shrewd times to leave Lady Luck or the goalie to deserve.

Lloyd Brown was the only member of either team to be seriously injured. He, unfortunately, had his collarbone broken in the third period and was forced to retire. His absence cost a cog in the Frontenac machine as he is the mainstay of Jack Powell's team.

It was indeed a great game to win and a hard one to lose. It was not until the middle of the third frame that the Red and White secured the second goal. This seemed to spur them to greater efforts, and a few minutes later Weir bulged the twine for the winner. Previous to the scoring of the second and third goals the local fans and fanatics were nearly ready to throw up the sponge. Despondency was written on every countenance, but a hopeful feeling still prevailed and generally all fears were cast aside and our fondest hopes were realized.

Upon gaining the two-goal lead the Frontenacs relied on defensive tactics, content with their scant lead. When the puck drifted into their ranks no combination of carrying the puck took place; a mighty lift and away it sailed toward the Belleville net. As one prominent fan remarked, probably more games have been lost through reliance on this style of defence than any other.

It was absolutely one of the most exciting games witnessed on Belleville ice for some time. The Belleville supporters yelled themselves hoarse after the homesters had tied the score. As usual, the Kingston game was no pink tea affair, but Farlow kept the play well in hand. Plenty of good clean body checking was indulged in and it kept the fans on their toes from the start. A few offsides missed his watchful eye, but he managed to call the most of them. At one time Kingston were playing four men to Belleville's six, but they managed to keep the "banker point" from scoring. Kingston were fighting with their backs to the wall and put up a plucky battle, but when Belleville let loose with everything they had the Limestone boys were forced to accept defeat at the hands of a better-conditioned team.

There is still a small chance that Cornwall may tie up the group, but this is very unlikely and improbable. With six straight victories the locals are in a commanding position on the top of the heap, and a win either here on Friday night against Cornwall or in Brockville on Monday will assure this loop of the O.H.A.

The Kingston stalwarts seemed to have it over Jack Laughlin by the proverbial; tent during the first and second periods. The winsive rubber was in Kingston possession most of the time and Belleville players were chasing it hither and thither but without any apparent result. The third period saw an entirely transformed team skating on to the ice. Playing four men up and digging away soon brought the desired results. It was truly a grand finish for a team that was disorganized. This is the spirit that wins games and it will no doubt assert itself in future games.

The crowd of twelve hundred was well handled by a capable police force, no rowdyism of any description marring the exhibition.

Jim Crooks was not kept nearly so busy as in Cornwall, but at the same time he was not by any means idle. He turned aside some shots that were labelled goals.

To Vern. Weir goes a lion's share of the credit. He scored for three of the goals and worked like a Trojan the whole seventy minutes, never subsided once. His great flank checking kept the enemy from breaking away on numerous occasions. He is a plugger, through and through.

Stan. Hagerman, the youngest member of the squad, played a whale of a game. His lanky stick was responsible for two of the goals. Stan; is in the pink of condition and can go the route if necessary. He fits in to perfection in the substitute role. The Holway brothers form a defence line that is second to none. Both used their weight to excellent advantage. Dexter's pushes are always dangerous, and it was he who passed to Hagerman for Belleville's initial goal. Bouncer assisted into Frontenac territory for a few late rushes. He was he who first jarred Lloyd Brown with a heavy body check, but it took one of Soup's beauties to finish him.

Bunny Frechette was rewarded for his hard work by one goal. It kept McNeil busy picking off Bunny's terrific drives.

Mallen is a pretty little stick handler and shot. He failed to break into the score column last night. He combines nicely with the remaining forwards.

It was "Soup" Goyer who finally laid Lloyd Brown low with aids of his body checks. Soup is one of the old reliables who can be confidently depended upon to turn in a good exhibition at every appearance.

Lloyd Brown's good work was the shining light of the Frontenac team. He is one of the prettiest skaters and stick-handlers who have made an appearance here yet this winter. When he was injured and forced to retire his absence weakened the Kingston clan to a considerable extent. Brown is slightly inclined to be rough, Joe Smith played a nice game on the wing. He was particularly effective in the first period. Smith has been prominent in Frontenac hockey circles for some years. Bellringer, a graduate from junior ranks, scored Frontenac's initial counter and played a fair game. Fred Brown, a brother of Lloyd, played cleverly and turned in a good exhibition, McNeil was in good form between the posts and was called upon on numerous occasions. The former Tripolor star experienced a very busy session. Referee Farlow and Timer Chesebro handled affairs to perfection.

Brouse has lost some of his old-time cleverness since with Belleville intermediates some years ago. Panet paired off with L. Brown on defence. He is a newcomer to Kingston ranks, but one was not given a chance to perform.

The band kept the crowd in good humor by playing some popular selections when things were going badly. Fans were waiting anxiously in Cornwall tonight office for the returns. Rather discouraging to them.

The Game By Periods

FIRST PERIOD

Farlow called the game at 8.25, Belleville defending the east end. Farlow called all offside penalties. Play went through with nobody to beat, but McNeil saved beautifully. Lloyd Brown penalized for pushing Crooks. Mallen also for hitting McNeil with his stick. Crooks made a nice save of Joe Smith's drive. Hagerman scored for Kingston after 10 minutes of play. Hagerman scored for Belleville on a pass from Tootes. Belleville fans went wild. Play continued to be fast, with Crooks saving nicely. Bunny passed in front, but nobody home. McNeil was as cool as a cucumber in saving them. Play ended with Belleville in possession—1-1.

SECOND PERIOD

Play resumed at 9.05. L. Brown scored for Kingston on a beautiful shot after two minutes. McNeil had some close saves. Weir penalized L. Brown for boarding Tootes, Brown for tripping Weir went off. Panet a minute later tripping. Bouncer penalized for sandwiching a man. Bellringer to Joe Smith for Kingston's third goal. L. Brown off for tripping. Bouncer penalized. McNeil saved Weir's shot nicely. Bouncer missed the puck badly. Period ended 3-1 for Kingston.

THIRD PERIOD

Kingston came in but couldn't score. L. Brown and Bellringer injured but stuck to their guns. Play ranged up and down the ice with no result. Both Teeter and L. Brown got the gate. Weir scored old No. 9 for Belleville and play livened up considerably. Crooks stopped some hot ones. Hagerman penalized. Lajoie replaced L. Brown, who injured his shoulder. Joe Smith was hurt. Belleville with four men up couldn't score. Bellringer penalized for tripping Bunny. Weir scored and the fans went mad. Belleville sent the regular defence back. Full time score 3-3.

FIRST OVERTIME PERIOD

Belleville kept the Frontenacs bottled up in their own end. Frechette broke the tie when it rebounded off McNeil's pads. Hagerman and Soup came on. Hagerman scored the second goal for Belleville in the overtime. Weir got No. 3 a minute later, when he batted it in from a scramble.

SECOND OVERTIME PERIOD

Play was fast and furious and Belleville bombarded McNeil. Game ended 6-3.

RUMPUS REPORTED IN OTTAWA CLUB

Team Threatened to Strike When Nighbor Refused to Play in Hamilton Owing To His Condition as Result of Injuries Received

Ottawa, Jan. 20.—Secretary Tommy Gorman of the Ottawa Hockey Club denied today the reports that Frank Nighbor, famous centre man of the Senators, has been suspended, but admitted that there was a rumpus in the Ottawa Club over the refusal of Nighbor to go to Hamilton. He explained that some of the players, who are also on the injured list, had threatened to strike when they learned that Nighbor had declined to make the journey, and that it was with difficulty that he would play against Toronto Wednesday night if his condition warranted it.

Nighbor, Gorman explained, however, is out after local amateurs, and may sign Roger Smith, a defence man, and Harold Maxwell, forward. They say that Georgs Boucher will continue on the line, and that Clancy will probably be in the defence, with the latter position, hence the inference is that they are paving the way for the retirement of Nighbor, rather than the condition of the rest of the team.

"Dunneny Boucher and Gorman are all nursing injuries, yet they played almost throughout the game at Hamilton," said Mr. Gorman tonight. "There is not a chance in the world of Nighbor being traded to any other club. If he does not play with Ottawa he is through for good," he concluded.

Prince Edward Town Double Score on Local Juniors

A Listless Game Last Night in Picton; Small Crowd in Attendance to Witness Match Between Two Teams Out-of-Running in League

Belleville Juniors were trounced by the Picton kids in the Prince Edward town last evening by a 6-3 score. Neither team played up to form and it was rather listless hockey all the way. Boyle starred for Picton, while Kerr, Hibbard and Scott looked the best of the local youngsters. The latter scored two of the three goals. Hunter played an average game between the posts. Both teams were out of the running and consequently a very poor crowd was on hand to witness the struggle.

Line up:

Picton—Goal, Yanover; defence, Henry and Hughes; centre, Boyle; wings, Fillmore and Safford; subs., Bonisteel.

Belleville — Goal, Hunter; defence, Kerr and Arnett; centre, Hibbard; wings, Cummings and Scott; subs., Lloyd.

Referee—E. C. Hodgin, Picton.

SOO TEAM STAYS IN N.O.H. LEAGUE

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Jan. 21.—After a prolonged meeting of the Northern Ontario Hockey League executive here last night, which concluded late last night, it is reported that the Ontario Sault "grayhounds" will remain in the N.O.H.A. for the present, and not form an additional league with the St. Paul, Duluth and other United States hockey teams as suggested yesterday.

The executive decided that the disputed Soo-Sudbury game of Jan. 23 was forfeited but that this did not constitute a default of the whole of the unplayed games. Four remaining games of this series are to be played, if P. F. Charlton, secretary of the N.O.H.A. handed out this official statement at the conclusion of the meeting:

PIN BOWLING.

The alley record for five pin bowling in this city was broken last night when Mr. Harry E. Post in one game at the Y.M.C.A. alley, obtained a score of 426. Mr. Post started with a spare and made 9 strikes in succession.

The previous high score was 254, which was made on the same alley by Dr. O'Callaghan. Mr. Post's score is one that will remain in force for some time.

WHITBY HIGH SCHOOL DEFAULT.

Oshawa, Ont., Jan. 21.—Whitby High School defaulted their game with the local students in the Central Ontario inter-school hockey group scheduled for yesterday. This gives Oshawa five wins and one loss. Post Perry plays in Bowmanville, and a win for the later will make them tie with Oshawa and a play-off to be staged at Whitby.

A.L.I. Rifle Shooting

The Argyll Light Infantry Rifle Association Commence their matches to hold the Dominion Cup won by them last year.

First match in the Dominion of Canada Gallery Rifle competition fired off last evening, the scoring was good although not so good as last year in the same match, the was due to a great measure to an absentee in the Target and also the unavoidable absence of four of the most dependable shots.

Lieut.-Colonel W. E. Ketcheson was appointed as Umpire and range officer.

Silver spoons were offered by the Association to all young shots who compiled a total of 90 points or over, also to the young shot who made sufficient points to gain a place in the team.

Frank Symons was successful in falling both of the above conditions and is the winner of the first spoon offered in these competitions.

Great credit is made for all the remainder of these matches which take place on the dates as shown on the notice hung in the Shooting Gallery—i. e. one each month.

The highest possible score obtainable 100.

The following were the scores of the team:—

Lieut. W. A. Elliot	86
Major D. T. McManus	88
Private R. Wenn	92
Sergt. H. Gosnell	90
Sergt. A. R. Symons	91
Corpl. M. Cummings	91
Sergt. J. F. Symons	94
Pte. E. Storey	93
Sergt. A. J. Sewart	89
Pte. F. Symons	91
Total	910

Last year the team averaged one point per man more in the same match, it is thought that the alteration in the sights, it is opened that the Ontario and Sault "grayhounds" will remain in the same manner as the Belleville Rifleman.

TRENTON JUNIORS WIN GROUP.

Trenton, Jan. 21.—Campbellford juniors went down in defeat by 1 to 0 before Trenton juniors in the local rink last night. This game ends the struggle for Group Two title in favor of Trenton. The game was hard played but fast and clean throughout.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE REPORT AND ACTIVITIES

The thoroughly explicit and assuredly gratifying report of the manager of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce not only amply justifies the existence of such a necessary institution in this city, but reflects the fact that the peculiarly distinctive requirements of a Chamber Secretary have been truly exemplified in the present incumbent of that office.

In competition and rivalry with other aggressive cities, nine new industries were permanded to locate in Belleville last year, and this important feature alone leaves no justification for complaint. It is quite clear, that in these industrial efforts, the very first opportunities that can be opened up, have been taken advantage of.

Bellevillians have endured an industrial situation for years, which no other progressive section would have tolerated for a single day. The inactivity, silent contentment and satisfied spirit of the majority of citizens was not conducive to the solicitation and infusion of new blood into business and industrial concerns. The employment of a commissioner of industries was not regarded favorably and some years ago when a Board of Trade was deemed unnecessary. The influence and activity of the Chamber of Commerce, particularly within this last year, have more than converted these civic lapses into civic benefactors, and it has been a happy transformation indeed, because we are now working together and are feeling our way with a spirit of co-ordination, which hitherto was practically dormant, and unfamiliar. "Three heads are much the matter when good friends get together" is an old saying, but it has applied to civic affairs lately, as well as to individuals, so that when common difficulties incidental to municipal matters arise, those handled by the Chamber of Commerce (which are civic affairs in extenso) were discussed, it was possible to arrive at a common understanding and as a result, overcome at least some of the barriers in the way of progress.

Competition is becomingly very keen in the securing of industrial plants. Other cities are becoming equipped with such necessary machinery of a Chamber of Commerce and Industrial Commissioner. This competition must be overcome if new factories are to be secured for Belleville and if we are to participate in the tide of immigration which will shortly be diverted to this country. Some inducements, just a little better than the other communities, must be offered if new industries are to come here. We must make some extraordinary bid for them to come here. The fact that Belleville is advantageously geographically and residentially situated is not of supreme importance to some concerns. Something more than those features is necessary, such as fixed assessments planned on a sliding scale of tenure which would gradually eliminate themselves without working undue pressure on a manufacturer getting nicely on his feet, and other inducements.

Yet we desire no epitaphs in our industrial graveyard. Sometimes, the promoter of a new concern has an idea and the capital and every other adjunct is "home-brewed", then the inevitable crash comes and there is much municipal moaning. Cities are being baited continually by promoters who hold out tempting promises, angling for concessions and generally terminate their venture in a stock selling campaign inviting local support.

The taking of precautionary measures against such expensive schemes and the warning of the city against rushing ahead and listening too intently to gilt promoters who promise all sorts of good results, which do not materialize, is a dutiful function of the Chamber and this feature has been well attended to.

The budgets of valuable information collected in the past by the Chamber are indeed valuable data for the members, in which our future course in the industrial field may be charted.

The detail contained in the secretary's recent report proves conclusively that every factor relative to the future progress of our city has been carefully investigated with a great deal of analytical foresight. The industrial development to Belleville has been considered from every angle and the duties of the office have been administered with due care and economy.

Let us hope that one outstanding result of last year's activities of the local Chamber of Commerce will be the creation of a whole-hearted desire to co-ordinate and work together for the securing of new industries and a bigger population. Both will help tremendously to keep down the tax-rate.

THE BANK ACT.

There appears to be no reasonable excuse for the postponement of the Bank Act Revision at this session of the Dominion Parliament which opened at Ottawa to-day. It is a fact that in 1912 Sir Thomas White secured a postponement for one year, but the circumstances were entirely different. Then, a new government and inexperienced finance minister had just taken office and there was in addition no pressing necessity. Mr. Fielding has been in office a year, has also had fifteen years experience at the head of the finance department. There has also been the notorious Merchants' Bank failure and deal which in itself would be cause for an immediate revision of the Bank Act. It is said that certain banks are pressing for a postponement and no doubt, owing to the close connection with the government, will succeed.

The Province of Quebec interests this year appear to have stored in reserve a tremendous pressure to exert upon the King administration in times of necessity and need.

PASSING COMMENT

In Mr. King's hesitancy to commit himself on the subject may be discerned the influence of the Quebec interests which are working against the St. Lawrence waterway project.

Where Germany made a mistake was in not having a royal commission appointed to go into the question of reparations. She could then have stalled the payment off indefinitely.

HERE AND THERE

AUSTRALIA'S WILD TROPICAL COAST.

Australia's wild northwest is Australia's tropical country where the temperature often reaches 158 degrees. Huge tides sweep the shores, some of them as high as forty feet. Millions of crabs swarm on the beaches, and the waters are filled with strange creatures, including tremendous turtles and ungainly seacows, who suckle their young. The northwest region comprises a territory of about 400,000 square miles, in which not more than 7,000 white people live. Several times as many black aborigines are in the country. Some of these men are seven feet in height.

Yes, to the very end.
Will the day's journey take the whole long day?
From morn to night, my friend.

But is there for the night a resting place?
A roof for when the slow dark hours begin?
May not the darkness hide it from my face?
You cannot miss that inn.

Shall I meet other wayfarers at night?
Those who have gone before.
Then must I knock, or call when just in sight?
They will not keep you standing at that door.

Shall I find comfort, travel-sore and weak?
Of labor you shall find the sum.
Will there be beds for men and all who seek?
Yea, beds for all who come.

The Drury Government might be said to be one of commissions, for wherever it came to a subject which for various reasons it did not wish to handle, a commission was appointed to deal with it. GRADUATE NURSES MUST REGISTER

(Acton Free Press)

The legislation at the last session which provided for the registration of nurses in Ontario became operative January 1. This simply means that each graduate nurse files in an application form, signed by the superintendent of her school, pays a small fee, and when her claims are investigated and satisfied, she may hold the distinctive title "Registered Nurse." Any persons posing as such without having properly qualified are made liable to a fine of $100. This form of registration is the one used in every State of the United States, and Ontario is the last Province in the Dominion to pass such legislation.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To The Editor of The Intelligencer.

Dear Sid:—Having been repeatedly asked for opinion re Tuberculosis in cattle and pasturization of milk by several of our farmers of late, and having been interviewed lately by one of our farmer milk vendors, I have decided at their request to publish such information Two Boss Farmers.

When I first took up the veterinary profession forty-five years ago Tuberculosis was practically unknown. A very little indeed was heard about it until about fifteen years ago since which time it has increased rapidly.

Now there must be a cause for this and what is it. The cause for the increase in this malady in cattle must be the same as that which has increased the prevalence of this disease in the human family namely lack of fresh air and sunshine. No animal can remain in a healthy state long that is deprived of these two essentials.

Why was there so little Tuberculosis in cattle years ago? because in those days the farmer had wooden stables which were dry and not damp and were also well ventilated with numerous cracks in the lumber, and also from the fact that each barn had a large shed attached where the cows were allowed to run during the day to get the fresh air and sunshine.

About twenty-five years ago the stock man commenced to build the basement barn and the cattle were then kept in the night and day and kept too warm for remember it is not natural for an animal to be too warm all the time, it is bad for their health because each animal has a fur coat covering every part of the body and we know how uncomfortable we would be sitting in a warm house with a fur coat on. These stables are almost air tight—boxes so to speak and until very recently were not by ventilated so the cows were breathing the same air over and over again until such air became vitiated or loaded with poison. These are ideal conditions for the growth and multiplication of disease germs also these cows are deprived of that sunshine so necessary to health and to the prevention of the breeding of germs.

Now in the human family when the disease is detected with Consumption what is the method adopted to get the patient next to nature two remedies the south in order to get fresh air and sunshine. Consequently we must reason that that must also be the way and the only way to combat Tuberculosis from the cow bred. In order to do this there must be a large shed open to the south in connection with the barn where the cows can spend most of the day in fresh air and sunshine and while they are out in the shed the stable is being thoroughly ventilated and the foul air deplaned of oxygen replaced by fresh air.

The American stockman has the right method in barn building. He builds his foundation cost and then and not very wide and when he builds his barn on top of it he allows the barn to project over the foundation to the south at least 13 feet and frequently more. I have one built this way now with a 16 foot projection. This makes a nice comfortable shed with the cracks enclosed where the cattle can be turned out during the day and bask in the sunshine.

Now when we talk of milk pasturization to get rid of the harmful Tubercular germ in the milk we are working at the wrong end entirely, we are taking the bull by the tail instead of the right end. To take the bull by the horns we must first give the cattle all the fresh air and sunshine they require and wait for the cow will take the warm shed until bedded with straw with its fresh air and sunshine and then we will have no occasion to pasturize milk, no milk fever. Under these conditions the cow will not have to be driven out in the cold air in the morning but rather the reverse, she will have to be driven in in the evening.

The next step is to get the cattle tested, and those that react destroyed. If these means and conditions are properly carried out in a few years there will not be one Tuberculous cow in a thousand. If these points are not observed and the laws of nature disobeyed thereby the disease will keep on increasing and all the pasturization that can give the milk will do no good. "Will simply be a farce and the work of benevolent faddists of whom I am sorry to say there are altogether too many these days and they are boosting the cost of living considerably as their numbers increase" for the milk will be tested, with disease germs and the cattle dying from the loss of increasing numbers or slaughtered, under the condemnation of government experts.

"Therefore I say again take the bull by the horns and attack the disease with nature remedies "Fresh Air and Sunshine" and keep the germs from getting into the milk by making the cow test healthy and free from germs instead of pasturization of the milk and kill the germs that should by no rhyme or reason be allowed to get there.

This article out to interest our city residents for two reasons, namely—Pure milk at a reasonable cost of 8 or 10 cts per quart as against higher than pasturized to kill the disease germs and 16 cts per quart for milk that is not paying for it in Toronto.

Yours truly
D. H. EKERSLL, V. S.

To the Editor,
The Intelligencer,
Belleville, Ontario.
Dear Sir,

On making over the splendid report of the opening of the new Prince of Wales School, in the Township of Thurlow, just outside of the City limits, I noticed this statement, "That owing to the unavoidable absence of Mayor Peaman, Reeve Hanna was requested to address the gathering on behalf of the City."

Some of your readers may think of the opinion that the Mayor and aldermen were showing very little interest in educational matters for the welfare of the children. In order to place matters in a right light, I would beg to state that possibly from that reason right, I, myself, nor any of the Aldermen were favored with an invitation to be present, and I feel it is necessary to show my interest in educational matters.

Thanking you, I beg to remain,
Yours truly,
O. A. Bennett,
Mayor.

THE MESSAGE

One time on the hills of Judah
When weary of sin and strife,
There came to waiting prophets
A vision of better life.

Two-the voice of Prophecy spoke
Of the promised Kingdom of Peace,
And a King whose love and power
Would make all nations cease.

And on the plains of Judah
That night the shepherds lay
Where strife and confusion reign,
Let us tune our voice with the angels
And herald that news again.

That the balm for a world at weary,
The gift of her soul's unrest,
Is the good will and kindly stirring
Of a Friend in the Prince of Peace.

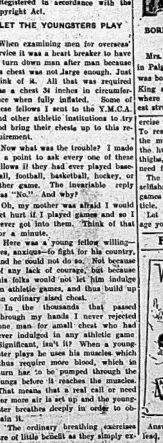
SHORT STORIES FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

The Kidnappers

"By George!" Mr. Bryce gave his desk a resounding bang with his fist, completely knocking over the calendar which he was regarding lustfully. "I almost forgot Mr. Tomorrow is Margaret's birthday and I haven't a thing for her." Quickly he looked at his watch. "There's just ten minutes left the store close, too." Grabbing his hat he hurried out of the office and down to the street three steps at a time. He tore across the street to the big toy store on the corner. "Here!" he called to the clerk, who was putting away her stock for the night. "I want a big doll, the best you have."

"Here is a very nice doll, just what you want, I am sure." The clerk held up the most expensive doll in the store, a big flaxen-haired beauty. "Any child would be pleased with this. See, if you bend it down like this it says 'Mamma.' and if you lay it down it cries like a baby." She suited the actions to her words, and the doll showed off beautifully.

"All right, I'll take it. Wrap it up well."



By this time the experienced wrapper was gone, so the inexperienced clerk had to wrap the doll. Consequently, it was a very bulky and queer looking package that Mr. Bryce carried out of the store a few minutes later. He felt embarassed. "Anybody would know it was a doll," he thought. "I hope I don't meet any of my old friends." He thrust the package under his arm and started quickly down the street. Unfortunately he was startled by a lusty cry from under his arm. Mr. Bryce turned an angry red as he noticed the smiles on the faces of the passers-by. He snatched it out and held it up right in front of him. Angry and disgusted he stalked along, holding the big doll in his arms like a baby. Soon he discovered that people were laughing at him. Quickly he thrust the package under his other arm.

"Mamma! Mamma!" squealed the doll. Desperately he turned it over and was rewarded by loud whimpering and crying as from a baby. By this time the poor man was getting desperate. He dashed into a door way and shook the offending creature roughly. "If I can only break the works!" he muttered, shaking harder.

Suddenly he felt a heavy hand on his shoulder and turned to look into the eyes of a tall policeman. "You're pretty slick," he said, taking a lighter hold on Mr. Bryce's collar, "but we've got you now. Caught with the goods, you are. Kidnapping crying babies isn't so easy, is it? Come on! We've been laying for you for months."

LET THE YOUNGSTERS PLAY

When examining men for overseas' service it was a keen breaker to have to turn down man after man because his chest was not large enough. Just think of it. All that was required was a chest 34 inches in circumference when fully inflated. Some of these fellows I sent to the Y.M.C.A. and other athletic institutions to try and bring their chests up to this requirement.

Now what was the trouble? I made it a point to ask every one of these fellows if they had ever played base ball, football, basketball, hockey, or other game. The invariable reply was "No!" And why? Why, because they all were afraid I would get hurt if I played games and so I never got into them. Think of that for a minute.

Here was a young fellow willingness, anxious—to fight for his country, but afraid to play a game. No knowledge of any lack of courage, but because his folks would not let him indulge in "rough" games and thus build up an ordinary sized chest.

The fact remains that passed through my hands I never rejected one man for small chest who had been initiated in any athletic sport. Significant, isn't it? When a youngster plays he uses his muscles which thus require more blood, which in turn has to be pumped through the lungs before it reaches the muscles. That means that a real call or need for more air is set up and the youngster breathes deeply in order to obtain it.

"The ordinary breathing exercises are of little benefit as they simply exercise the first muscles about the ribs. To really increase the lung capacity the muscles of the body, especially the large ones on the legs and thighs, must be used, when a real need for air is created.

"Courage, self-control, and unselfishness developed by athletic games is too long a story for this article.

"Let your child play. Yes, encourage your child to play.

Other Worlds

JUPITER, THE GREAT WORLD

JUPITER—VERY COLD

(This is the seventh of twelve stories about the mysteries of the skies by Dr. H. M. Dent, National Field Commissioner of the Boy Scouts, and writer of two of their handbooks. Dr. Dent has studied the stars for many years, and at one time was in charge of the Yerkes Observatory in Williams Bay, Wisconsin, where the largest telescope in the world is located.)

Jupiter is so far away from the sun (483 million miles) that it now and then may send out its rumblings, we would receive only one-twenty-seventh as much heat as you would on the earth. Indeed, it has been figured out that the normal temperature there would be 221 degrees below freezing (Centigrade).

How would you like a ten-hour day instead of a twenty-four? This is what you would have if you lived on Jupiter. Jupiter takes nine-five hours of day and five hours of night. Its year, however, is twelve times as long as our own.

We are practically certain, however, that Jupiter has below and within his heavy blanket of dark cloud some heat. We have reasons to believe that life, such as we have on our earth, would not be possible there.

It is hard to think of how really big Jupiter is. It is as large as 1,300 earths put together. If these 1,300 earths were placed so as to make it would reach to our moon 48 times. In fact, this giant of the planets is so large that it has a large set of the other planets combined.

LINKED LIVES

By

D. Kinmount Roy

A man should be able to forget at will, he had said;—but he could not forget. The memory of the afternoon he had desecrated, the Holy of Holies which he had profaned, returned now with relentless insistence, and he could stand it no longer, and throwing himself down on the balcony floor he moaned out his misery in the solitude his crimes had made for him. Had not even his own son recited him, and the fulness of the young manhood counted death to hide himself from the odium of bearing such an inheritance of shame!

"Oh, Reginald!" the writched father cried, in the bitterness of his anguish, "oh, my little lad, my little lad, my joy and hope! come! come! your father needs you, your father needs you my boy, oh! so much. Come child, come! Your father can explain everything, you are too young to understand, far too young to understand, child,—but father can make it quite clear, quite clear!"

His face twisted fearfully as he spoke, and his hands plucked with nervous haste at imaginary objects. He passed his hands across his eyes, and with a puzzled look of extreme perplexity upon his keen face "How dark it is, child, how very dark! and they would have it that it is full noon! Ah, Reginald, they cannot deceive your father, can they my boy? Come," he said, "we must go in now!" and he held out his hand to lead the child inside. "It is not dark, Reginald, we must have light, yes, light! and he turned to enter the room he had left, but stumbled and fell, as he did so, and overturning a chair which stood in the way.

His man came this way with letters which had just come in, and the noise quickened his movements.

"Letters!" he muttered, passing in wonder to look at his master.

"Ah, letters indeed! I was just going to send for them. Reginald, you are faltering, as one groping for his work. "The lights are all burning, sir!" the man said, respectfully.

"No, no, Williams, the lights are not burning!"

"Yes, sir," the man said, gently—fearful of he knew not what.

"Burning, are they? Hardenstle said, pointing with his hand, trembling, to feel for some support; "I think you are mistaken Reginald, I don't think you are mistaken! It is pitch dark, you know, pitch dark, and time is it Reginald that you have got to bed? Is aught to have been asleep long ago!"

"Yes, sir," the man said, touched to pity by his master's confusion.

"Then why do you not attend to the boy, Williams: it is no time for him to be about!"

"He is asleep, sir!" the man said.

"Asleep, did you say? Why he was here just now! Williams, you are my fault, Williams. I should not have called him, he needs rest, see that he is not disturbed!"

"Yes, sir!" Williams replied, with a catch in his voice which his master was far from noticing.

"I will also retire. Another time let there be more light, Williams, the darkness is so disturbing—so very disturbing!"

For many weeks Eric Hardenstle hovered between life and death; and when the crisis had passed he was still shook the village.

DARKNESS.

The doctors gave it as their opinion that it was developing up for some time, and that the shock of his son's death had precipitated the inevitable. He might never see again. They could not tell. The case was peculiar, and an absolute opinion was impossible. Time might do something, and furnish some grounds for hope, but no man could say anything more definite.

It was in truth a grim outlook indeed for the master of Fosseray Hall.

CHAPTER XVIII.

LOVE'S YOUNG DREAM.

The young Glenmore had long ceased to be a terror to Janet McLean, for much had come to light since that first Sunday morning long ago. She had learned, for one thing, how to possess her soul i n patience and hope. The drift of things between the two young people was becoming clear to her, dimly or perhaps than to themselves, all of which filled her with wonder and thankfulness. "Who' would have thought it, she said to herself, as she laid her hero gratefully upon the open page she had been reading, "who would have thought it, the old lord, with all his wild ways, would have chosen between the two, and with the other—the other—pure lamb. The Lord has mercy upon us!' and throwing her apron over her head, as was her wont when deeply moved, she leant back in her arm-chair to have it out with herself.

Like many others, she had considered that the old lord had committed a great crime. It was their respect for the old name, as much as t heir homeliness, which moved them to shelter and protect the unfortunate child of the Maitland was 'now well assured. Now that the tide had turned, and the dark cloud was evidently becoming clear, as was proved by something above and beyond the power of worldly or human ingenuity, something for which she had quite other name. Putting on her spectacles she turned over the pages of the family her home: 'Because he did poman his brother with the sword, and did cast out his brother from his father's house, and sadly, and he kept his wrath for ever, he shall wander from sea to sea, (pointing his finger into her) and your mine hand take him; though he climb up into Heaven, thence will I bring him down.'

"Woe unto him that striveth with his Maker!' she murmured softly, reply a book; 'woe unto the man who build nth up his prosperity upon the ruin of other men unto pass away like unto a man!'

The annual statement of the company will make its appearance in a few days now, and its quarters close to the organization it is expected that the balance sheet shows the will eliminate doubts which have been spread, presumably by bearish interests, with regard to the position of the company.

PAPERS REMAIN INACTIVE

The pulp and paper shares continue to be neglected, even Abitibi and Belgo-Can failing to furnish leading in the shares in yesterday's market. Little news is coming from the commission, although heads of the industry here by the convention last week expressed themselves as very well satisfied with the outlook. All still seem to handling their energies toward achieving their maximum production. In this respect it is stated that the Spanish River Company hopes to retain a daily average of 700 tons before the end of its current year.

BRITON OUTCLASSED; "THE GUNNER" STARRED

Stratford, Jan. 31.—Stratford interprovincial champions defeated 14 to 5 at Preston here last night, outclassing them all the way, and if the Stratford defence must face the same calibre of opposition themselves Preston would not have got into five.

Preston started fast, and Arnott notched their first count after three minutes' play. Carson evened the score. From then on it was a one-sided session, with the play mostly at Preston's end. The first period ended 5 to 3, the second 9 to 4.

Arnott was best for Preston. He scored twice and played good hockey until he was hit in the face with a stick half-way through the last period, and forced to retire.

REFEREE LEAVES LAKEFIELD AMID SHOWER OF SNOWBALLS

Peterboro', Ont., Jan. 31.—Lindsay defeated the Lakefield juniors, 7 to 1, in a stormy game at Lakefield this evening, and Referee Bowden, of Port Hope, left the village in a shower of snowballs. The victory puts Lindsay on even terms with Peterboro' for the honors of Group A.

The game was fast and furious from start to finish with considerable rough checking and a well-filled penalty box. Lindsay scored 4 in one time Lakefield had but three men on the ice, including their goalminder, but in spite of a rather lumbersome team, the latter's field goalie held his opponents to but two goals for the period. The Lakefield fans were very disappointed at many of the decisions handed out by Referee Bowden. As a result, a good referee is looking for the first job he left the village, and he took his departure from the village in a snowball barrage.

KITCHENER BY 4 TO 3 WINNERS IN GALT.

Galt, Ont., Jan. 31.—Kitchener Green Shorts still have a chance to be in Stratford for the Big Four honors as a result of their 4 to 3 victory over the Terriers here last night in a game which, while it did not furnish good hockey, was most interesting, because of the closeness of the play. It was a hard fought contest, marked by close checking, but still was clean.

C.O.C.L. GAME.

TEXT OF GOVERNOR-GEN. SPEECH TO-DAY

Ottawa, Jan. 31.—In the speech from the throne, read by Mayor Bland of Vimy, Governor General, at the opening of the Dominion Parliament this afternoon, considerable stress is expressed that in a period of world wide trade depression, following the Great War, Canada has made substantial progress towards recovery. The speech refers to the trade conventions reached with France and Italy. The appointment of new board of directors of the Canadian National Railways, to commission to inquire into freight rates on the Great Lakes, and the agreement reached with Great Britain

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION

A goodly number of neighbors and friends gathered at the home of Mr. Maitland Sine on the evening of Tuesday, January 19th, and presented Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Hutchinson with a miscellaneous shower.

The address was read by Mrs. Carman Proctor.

ADDRESS.

Dear Wilfred and Grace:

We have again revealed to us the consummation of many long hours spent together, considering the advisability of undertaking the establishment of a new home, and with these evidences in mind the purpose of our gathering together this evening is to show our appreciation of your friendships and the good will you have always manifested in the development of the social life of this community.

Grace, owing to your vocation in life, you have not always been in our midst, but yet we always considered you one of us. Now that you have taken upon yourself a new responsibility, we hope you will still find time to renew acquaintances formed in years gone by.

We know Wilfrid the endeavour which you have made to capture one of our best girls, and we regret you have obtained, more than compensates.

Signed on behalf of the community,

Mrs. Carman Frost,

After the address and presentation refreshments were served and the remainder of the evening was spent in music and games.

Essen---A Boom Town

Washington, Jan. 31 (United Press).—Essen, home of the great Krupp works, now in the hands of the French as the result of the reparations difficulty with Germany, is a "boom town" of mushroom growth as familiar to this country, the National Geographic Survey stated today. From a town of 10,000 in 1850, Essen leaped ahead until now it has a population of more than 500,000.

Germany's vast armament Adventure of the power and dumping-the-war days and the stimulous for the rapid growth Essen was founded in the ninth century and remained dormant until the genius of Krupp and the inordinate demand for armament from a Germany bent on conquering it life, the survey stated.

"Here every form of iron and steel article is made, from boys' skates to giant marine engine shafts," the survey stated. "Curiously enough, even some of the smoke or the fumes from the smokestacks is caught and conveyed into a gas that furnishes more power to run the mills!

"And to the 80,000 or more men on his payroll, the name of Krupp is above that of kings. And indeed no industrial enterprise everywhere has ever shown more astonishing development, reflected more dramatically the result of human organization, or achieved a wider fascination among the nations of the world.

START OF THE KRUPPS.

"More than a hundred years ago the first Krupp set up his small, crude shop and began to make by hand the tools, the drills and chisels, used by tanners, blacksmiths, and carpenters along the Rhur and the Rhine. He also made tools dies for use in the mint of the government. Within 30 years, due to the old ambition for expansion, Krupp began to be known and used as far away as Greece and India. Here, about this time also, appears the first rolled from one solid block of metal by an odd-looking machine invented for that purpose.

Then came the great era of mass production in steam-engines, hammers, steel tires for railway cars, cast-steel shafts for river and ocean steamers, and finally that astonishing output of guns and armor plate which brought the millionaire nations of the world to buy at Essen.

"The daily roar of artillery at the proving ground is often even louder than was tested, added to the din of whistles, rushing trains, and rattling gears, made pre-war Essen probably the noisiest industrial city.

"It is noisy enough now, but the great guns are silent; Krupp makes them no more. The big lathes that once made guns now turn out shafting, locomotive and other engines. Boxcars for Belgium, car wheel for South American railroads, whole train-line systems for the Dutch East Indies were some of the orders being filled.

"Even in miniature the size and scope of this colossal plant when it is brought home that, literally, the coal and iron come in at one end of the back of for series and emerge at the other in the form of finished locomotives, with steam up for testing, or as plows, all painted and ready for the farm, or as the finest nickeled instruments and tools.

SHORTAGE OF CHEESE IN ENGLISH TRADE

Supplies of Cheese Available on Spot Market Smallest for Some Time Past

London, Jan. 30—The new year has opened with a truly remarkable position in regard to cheese. Excepting two steamers from New Zealand in dock and discharging, there is practically no stock of New Zealand cheese in the country, and only some 2,000 tons of Canadian of which a large proportion is for immediate consumption. In regard to cheese to come forward the stock of Canadian cheese in Montreal is 25,000 boxes, but of this quantity about 8,000 boxes are expected to be available for export. The shipments about from New Zealand total 170,000 tons, and assuming that the average voyage time is about six weeks, this gives an arrival quantity of about 8,000 tons per month. As regards quantities likely to come forward subsequently, it is reported that the transactions so far related to export for imported cheese averages nearly 11,000 tons per month. The situation is fairly bare and there will not for a long time be any accumulation of stock unless there is a temporary cessation caused by the docking of three or four steamers together, which may cause brief fluctuation in the market.

It would also seem fairly clear that there must of necessity be some curtailment of the consumptive demand which can only be brought about by an increase in the retail price. The present retail price is 1s 2d per lb. does not seem to have checked the demand to the extent of the shortage of supply, and an advance to 1s 3d or 1s 4d per lb. would appear inevitable in the near future; in fact it would seem that there can be no decline in price until demand grows more falls below the quantity available to meet it. Whether an advance to 1s 4d per lb. would cause a sufficient falling off of demand to counteract the shortage of supply is a matter for conjecture, but it is thought to be the whole secret of the future. Another factor which is an important one in connection with the demand, is quality, which is exceedingly good for both Canadian and New Zealands. Although the margin of profit available for the distributor at the present time is far from attractive, it would appear unstable that retailers should carry a certain amount of defensive stock in order to avoid having to pay fancy prices in an emergency.

Tired, Nervous Mothers

are the direct cause of much unhappiness in our homes; their condition irritates and upsets their little children and often ruins a child's disposition. This condition of the mother is often due to anaemia—thinness of the blood her entirely unfit to perform her duties and bear the strain upon her nerves and growing children. Remember Every woman who finds herself in this condition should remember that statistics prove that 7 out of every 100 women who suffer from female ills are helped by Dodds E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—no use no time in giving it a fair trial.

Declares Tanlac Overcame Long-Standing Intestinal Trouble and Is Worth More Than Money

Daniel McFadden, a prominent contractor, of the Richmond Court Apartments, Rockville, Md., is enthusiastic when relating the fact that Tanlac "makes you eat better, sleep better, work better, and feel better." Mr. McFadden has been identified with the people of Rockville for eight years, and is one of the founders of the Sanitation Construction Society, Ltd., and his standing and influence is too well known to require further comment. In relating his experience with Tanlac, Mr. McFadden said:

"I've been using Tanlac to be sure, for a remarkable medicine and tonic. For a number of years, I had been bothered with intestinal trouble and was in a general run-down condition. I was nervous, weight, couldn't sleep well at night, and felt tired and worn out all the time.

"Well, nothing seemed to reach me, and I got so I just kept getting worse. Really, I don't think I could have worked much longer if it had not been for Tanlac. It has done wonders for me. All the money to me. My appetite is not only good, but I have gained, built up until I feel like an entirely different man, and am enjoying splendid health."

NIAGARA IN WINTER

The countless thousands who annually visit the Cataract of Niagara pronounce it the greatest natural wonder on the continent of America. Limitless in solidity and grandeur and in the waterfall itself is the gorge through which the waters rush onward to Lake Ontario after their awful plunge over the cliff. For a little distance from the foot of the falls, the stream is comparatively placid; then gathering momentum as its channel narrows it fills the gorge and rushes over the rocks in foamy rapids that breaking into delicate spray, and there springing high into the air as it dashes against some rocky obstacle in its mad race for the calmer reaches of the bed below. Here and there the one falls more gloriously, beautiful than during the winter months. A silvery mantle covers the surrounding shores. The great shrubs, bedad perpetually in the mist of the rushing spray, was garnered and glittering boar-frost, marvellously wrought and trimmed with loveliest lace. The rocks and boulders along the shore become huge blocks of gleaming ice, and mammoth icicles form before the face of the falls and depend from the sides of the gorge. But no power can check the mighty flood, whose emerald waters flow ever deeper, darker flow from the whiteness of their setting. In unabated volume they sweep majestically along, tossing high in the air their rainbowed sprays as if in proud disdain of the tyrant Ice-King's iron rule. The Grand Trunk Railway System offers exceptional facilities to reach "Niagara the Glorious".—adv.

ALCOHOL PRESERVES HEADS OF ROYALTY

Act of Russian Revolutionists Towards Late Czar Heads Were Cut Off and Bodies Burned

Manila, P. I., Jan. 31.—The head of the late Czar Nicholas of Russia, and those of his family, met death with an ax at Ekaterinburg at the hands of revolutionists are being preserved in alcohol in the Kremlin at Moscow, according to Captain Firmin, chief of staff of the Russian Refugee fleet stationed at the Manchester station meet here. Captain Firmin, who served with Admiral Kolchak's anti-bolshevik army in Siberia, asserted that documents captured by Kolchak troops at Ekaterinburg revealed that the heads of the murdered members of the Russian royal family were cut off and preserved in alcohol and the trunks of the bodies burned.

PRODUCED APPLES WITHOUT ANY CORE

Montreal, Jan. 31.—A. W. Buzzell of Abbotsford, Que., works one morning to find himself unexpectedly the originator of a seedless and coreless variety of apple.

This accidental Luther Burbank exhibited his freak apples at the recent exhibition of the Pomological and Fruit Growing Society of Quebec where they created a sensation. Seedless and coreless apples, it is said, were never produced by science or accident in the world's history.

The apples are of the Fameuse variety with the typical coloring and shape of their family except that, at their end, they have a slight nose instead of the usual depressions that indicate the core.

"I had been scraping a block of 100 Fameuse trees in my orchard that had not come into bearing," said Mr. Buzzell. "All the trees had been uprooted on Rabka seedlings. In grading the apples, I noticed that a large number were similarly marked and cut of curiosity, I set them aside. I found all of them without core or seeds.

"Unfortunately my apples had been placed in piles and I was unable to determine which particular tree had produced the abnormal fruit. I will now have to wait until next year to learn the parent tree. Then by grafting, I shall undertake to develop seedless and coreless apples as a commercial fruit."

Prof. Seers of Amherst Agricultural College in Massachusetts who inspected the specimens said he believed Buzzell will be able to evolve this unique fruit after he has discovered the trees which produced it.

DOHERTY IS SANGUINE -- END OF CHEESE BOARDS

Provincial Member of Agriculture Says Will Cease to Function

For Grading Purposes—Says Most of Dairymen Are Signing Up

Toronto, Jan. 31.—Cheese Boards which for generations have been the machinery by which the cheese products of the Province of Ontario were sold by representatives of the farmers to the agents of exporting companies will soon pass out of existence. This is the expectation of Hon. Manning Doherty, Provincial Minister of Agriculture as expressed when explaining the progress made by the new Act to encourage co-operative selling of their produce.

"Before the end of February or or 70 per cent. of the dairy farmers of the province who produce milk for the cheese will have linked up with the co-operative association which will export the cheese, to Britain," he explained. The work of securing the signatures will begin in a day or so. Present indications are, the Minister stated that the response of the farmers will be so nearly unanimous that cheese boards will cease to function.

There will be two large cold storages, one in Toronto in which cheese for domestic consumption will be stored and one in Montreal to take care of the cheese for export. It will be graded by Government agents much as it is graded at present with the exception that instead of four grades as at present, namely, "Special fine," and "Number three," each of these will be divided into sub-divisions to cater to the varied demands of the different sections of the United Kingdom where Canadian cheese is sold for there is a marked difference in the tastes of the people in the several markets.

One of the principal objects of the co-operative association will be to increase the consumption of cheese in this province and one of the first steps will be to ensure that a higher quality is offered on the home market.

Greek Republic is Doomed Says Late King's Brother

Prince Andrew and Prince Christopher of Greece in Montreal—Former Emphatic on Return of Royalty

Princess Dislikes Bobs

Princess Alice Says Long Skirt is Graceful but Modish Flapper Bobs Hair -- Family in Mourning

Montreal, Jan. 31.—Republicanism in Greece with its baptism of blood is already doomed, Prince Andrew of Greece, brother of the late King Constantine, told here today.

Prince Andrew, accompanied by his wife, Princess Alice and Prince Christopher, reached Montreal on Saturday evening to attend the memorial mass at the Greek Orthodox Church for the late Greek King held yesterday.

Princess Alice of Greece has very determined ideas on coiffures. She does not like bobbed hair and does not hesitate to express this opinion even although it disagrees with the views of her husband.

Prince Andrew is willing to admit he likes bobbed hair, but this is no no subject with which he has personage than passing acquaintance.

Rather he is interested in the political life of his country from which he has been exile.

FAMILY IN MOURNING.

Owing to the family bereavement the party wears deep mourning, but they do not carry their hearts or their heads in the gutter as in their exile at the Windsor Hotel today it would.

Tall and slender, about six feet two inches high, the exiled Prince Andrew looked rather indifferent to the modern cut of his clothes. He has none of the characteristics of an Englishman rather than a Greek. Speaking faultless English, this said: "I have seen in Canada appeals to me, and you know the cold, brilliant invigorating. But probably I might be different if I were more accustomed to it. At any rate, the snows seem ideal."

Switching the subject to Greece and its present-day worries, the Prince is optimistic that things will be all right there after the election.

"The present Ministry will be united because they do not represent the group or party feelings of the people of Greece. I am confident that the re time will not last long."

In connection with the execution that have taken place there since the monarchy has been deposed, he said: "The army was stands out in red blood a blot on the glorious history of the country, the most horrid I have ever heard of. It is un-Greek, unSpartan, the work of assassins cannot say much, however, but I think the trouble will shortly en there."

Asked if he was returning, he replied in the affirmative, most emphatically.

Prince Christopher, however, believes that it will be some time before the party returns. They will be in the States for at least three months yet to visit England and France, staying some length of time in the former country.

PRINCESS DISLIKES BOBS.

Princess Alice looked strikingly Anglo-Saxon in type, Princess Alice was attired in deep mourning with heavy black veil dropping down her back and white fringe across her brow beside bouquets of roses, pale, crimson and yellow, which she smiled. "Not interested in, or a follower of the fashions, I can say little," she said.

Rather unfamily-like, however, she disagreed with her husband about bobbed hair and long skirts.

"I have not bobbed mine," she said, "I don't like it."

AMUCK WITH GUN

Crazed Man Shot Restaurant Diner—Suffering Delusions

Buffalo, Jan. 31.—Between 75 and 100 midnight patrons of Chiffo restaurant in the Main street were thrown into a panic early today when two shots from a revolver rang out, followed by a shrill cry: "I got that fellow."

Frank Radice, 30, a hotelman, said under a dining table, probably fatally wounded, while patrons of the place grabbed and disarmed Edward Brandel, 42, alleged to have fired the shots.

After Brandel fired the shots there was considerable confusion in the restaurant as the crowd surged towards the door. The crazed man stood up and started to make a speech. "They're getting everybody!" he shouted, "but they'll not get me!" Patrolman Quiley placed Brandel under arrest. According to his wife, Brandel has been under the delusion that he was being pursued by the Kuklux Klan.

Brandel is at the Columbus hospital in a critical condition.

A BUTCHER'S BILL
4,000 YEARS OLD

Lancaster, Pa., Jan. 31.—The history department of Franklin and Marshall Academy has acquired five Babylonian tablets more than 4,000 years old. The tablets were found in Fokha, the ruin of the ancient city of Umma, by Professor Edward Chiera, Curator of the University of Chicago and presented to Dr E. M. Hartman, principal of Franklin and Marshall.

Tax lists and temple offerings dated about 2,000 B. C, a re inscribed on the brick tablets. One inscription has been deciphered as a butcher's bill for "one large fat kid, two lambs, and two sheep, killed for market."

The expense account of a temple messenger on another tablet shows that the messenger collected for oil, dates, wine, bread and meat.

men's Association in Montreal he had sent a wire to the meeting suggesting further co-operation between the Government and the lumbermen.

Premier Drury has done his best to further the false idea that the lumber barons were rolling in wealth. The actual record was that 56 had gone to the wall, and of the rest only six were able to pay dividends.

This attitude of lining up the lumbermen as timber pirates was aided and abetted by the present Government. The whole course of the Government was destructive and not constructive.

A FIXED SALE.

While the Government criticised the lumberman who possesses a few feet, the Premier was busy signing a private agreement to give an empire of timber to a Minnesota millionaire. It was given to him in advance and afterwards he was invited to tender for it. The deal has all the elements of a fixed sale.

"It is the largest pulp area in the province. Mr. Drury and Mr. Raney may smile while I say this, but they are the two men who stood open to the man and engineered the deal," charged Mr. Ferguson.

"I believe that it was done designedly, I don't blame Backus for making friends with Drury, for he made $25,000,000 out of it."

The Government had closed up the sole water power in favor of a Minnesota millionaire and thus prevented other companies from bidding. Some "phony" bids had been received by the Government, but they were all of them associates of Backus. The Government knew that this was the case.

"This will be your monument when you are gone, this piece of Backus impudence," declared Mr. Ferguson.

DISASTROUS FIRE RAGED TO-DAY IN FILLITER BLOCK

the irony, out over it.

The famous "Lucky" Wood store, second door south of this store was badly smoked, especially on the upper floors, but no estimate of damage was given in dollars, when the Intelligencer enquired this morning.

The Jas. Dickens Confectionery Store, next door south of the drug store was badly damaged by smoke and water, and immediately after the fire, the store was closed up and turned over to the insurance company. How much stock of candy is practically a total loss, as it was ruined by the smoke and water.

Mike Sukanek's Billiard Hall, next door north of the Drug store, also suffered some damages from smoke and water.

The George Thompson Furniture Store, next door north of the Billiard Hall also received a share of the smoke.

The hardware store conducted by Redmond & Hyde, was also filled with smoke from cellar up.

HOLD INSURANCE

There is $30,000 insurance on the Filliter block which is managed by Mr. James J. B. Flint, formerly of this city and now of Los Angeles, California. The fire department officials in conversation with The Intelligencer this morning stated that he held insurance to the value of $1,250 on the Drug store stock, but it is believed that some $5,000 insurance is held on the stock by Mr. Hooper.

Four fires have occurred in this block, and in each case the fire originated in the drug store. The Holden Drug Store was burned out several years ago, and the L. W. Yeomans Drug Store was burned out a few years ago when Mr. Yeomans was burned to death. The Geen Drug Store was also burned in this block and this morning the Bleecker store was made the fourth fire.

FAMILIES LIVE ABOVE

The first floor of the Filliter building is occupied by the Watts brothers, Mr. Arthur H. Watts and Mr. Jack A. Watts. Their apartments were badly smoked by the dense volumes which poured up the stair, and their furnishings were damaged as a result. Much of their furnishings were taken from the building and stored at neighboring houses.

Mrs. A. Watts and her son, Gerald, who have been living here for the past two days were forced to arise from their beds and vacate their home in the same weather.

Mrs. Mary J. Watts was taken to the barber shop, conducted by her son-in-law on Front street and was later removed in a taxicab to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jas. S. Skinner. Mr. A. Watts was permitted to reach some important papers which were in his apartment, but was forced to give up the attempt owing to the dense clouds of smoke. A pet canary bird was safely removed by Mr. Watts to the barber shop. A city official removed the two gas meters in the Watts' apartments before the smoke arrived and Hydro gangs disconnected the electric current to the buildings.

On the second floor of the building, Lydford Lodge, Sons of England. The A.O.F. Woodmen of the World, Moose, and other societies meet in their lodge rooms. The lodge rooms were also badly smoked.

The insurance agents and adjusters in the city were immediately on the scene, and are now settling the damages.

Great credit must be extended to Chief Brown and his men, as they worked strenuously against adverse conditions and prevented a more disastrous conflagration, which at one time assumed the aspect of a much larger blaze, which may have swept out an entire block. The pressure was good, however, and the flames were severally subdued, but not until after thousands of gallons of Quinte water had been poured into the building above.

Friendly assistance was much in evidence when occupants were removing their belongings. Violins, feather beds, canary birds, bureaus and stoves, particularly at what the elixir of life to many thirsty souls was being removed from the drug store. Fortunately, the beverage was however, safely attended to by Sergeant Boyd.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mr. T. H. Fuller and family of Point Anne wish to thank their friends and neighbors for the sympathy extended them in their recent bereavement; loss of a loving wife and mother.

SATURATED MARKET DRIVES RUM SHIPS FROM NEW YORK

Liquor Runners Leave for New England Coast Points

SEEK BETTER PRICES

Competition Became Too Keen for Smaller Vessels in Trade—Craft to be Labelled When Identified

New York, Jan. 31.—A saturated market in the bootlegging trade and a cut-rate war were named today at prohibition headquarters as the principal causes for the withdrawal of the rumrunning fleet operating outside the harbor of New York. Information indicating that the rum fleet had dwindled within the last ten days, and that the liquor laden craft had proceeded to the Massachusetts and Rhode Island coast, was received here at the same time that official reports came from Atlantic City, telling of a glut in the rum market of the Jersey coast resort, and of frequent rejections of federal prohibition agents to go before grand juries.

"Word was received here today," said an official at prohibition headquarters, "to the effect that the greater part of the rum fleet has moved off the New England coast in the vicinity of Boston, Newport, Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard.

"The customs officials and the prohibition forces have been more alert in the last few days. The rum runners can get better prices off the New England coast, and will not be so closely watched. There is one record ship off the Jersey coast we are watching closely, however. I have been told she has 22,000 cases of liquor on board. The arrival of this steamship induced the smaller vessels to seek the harbor, as competition has been quite keen."

Plans to label ships in the rum fleet in the last few days, similar to that established, are being laid by federal prohibition agents, who have discovered in Atlantic City the landing of vast quantities of Scotch and rye of pre-prohibition quality, according to an Associated Press despatch from the Jersey resort.

"The liquor is alleged to have been brought ashore by rum boats which have eluded the dry navy coastguard blockade which has been maintained since a big rum fleet appeared off the coast," says the despatch.

"Evidence gathered by the federal agents, it was stated, will go direct by before federal grand juries and indictments will be sought. Persons indicted will first be given another investigation when they are arrested. It is also planned to libel the rumrunning craft as fast as their identities can be discovered."

Scotch at $65 and $75 a case and rye at from $60 to $90 was reported to be found in abundance at Atlantic City as the result of the presence of the prize fleet of rum laden with liquor from the Bahamas.

Mr. J. A. Anderson said the control of the Association was entirely in the hands of the dairymen.

Mr. Stonehouse—This is our property. The question now is consider it, are we going to organize Hastings County, and what form the organization is to take. He suggested having public meetings arranged.

After some informal discussion Mr. Alex. Moore, of Plainfield, was appointed organizer for South Hastings and it was decided to call meetings at Shannonville, Camilton, Hallowell and in Sidney and other places.

CHINATOWN IN 'FRISCO JOGS ON AS USUAL

San Francisco, Jan. 31. (United Press) —Despite the ban on Chinese immigration into this country, San Francisco's Chinatown continues its placid existence, unperturbed by predictions that it would soon die from lack of newcomers.

And it seems to be partaking of the general prosperity of the country.

The inroads of "Americanization" on the Chinese seem at best to be merely superficial. The "young bloods" can be seen stepping around in the latest Klassy cut clothes," as up-to-date as any college boy. Sometimes a glimpse may be caught of one whirling along at the wheel of some prosperous Chinese merchant's limousine.

But when the day is done they turn to Chinatown.

There are a few up-to- date Chinese women, even a few Chinese "flappers," who being down the wrath of their elders because of their bobbed hair, just like their American sisters.

But in majority, Chinatown is still composed of old-world Orientals. This is partly due to the fact that emigrating in of Chinese still goes on.

The stores of Chinatown still fail to reflect any modern touch. Modernization has succeeded in getting just a foothold in a little corner of the district. Prosperous Oriental merchants have built several pretentious Chinese buildings just where Chinatown borders on the fashionable shopping district of San Francisco, and such stores cater strictly to American trade.
